Cincinnati, Jan. 20.—Evidence of a plot to wreck the five-storey Franklin Building, at Third and Plum streets, which was placed in the hands of a receiver Saturday, was discovered Saturday night.

A warrant was issued for the arrest of C. C. Breuer, the owner of the building, on a charge of arson.

A lighted candle found in the stopper of a can of oil and a fuse leading to two sticks of dynamite would have been sufficient to destroy the building and possibly cause loss of life.

Breuer is a Cincinnati capitalist, and the receivership was ordered in the interest of his two daughters, who had been taken from him by the juvenile court when they could not agree with their stepmother.

Death Toll Among Skaters.

Boston, Jan. 20.—Webster Pond, in the Town of Webster, was searched unsuccessfully Saturday for the bodies of Peter Caplette, aged 22, and Miss Annie Marier, 19 years old, who have been missing since Friday night, and who are believed to have been drowned. They were seen last skating together late in the evning towards a part of the pond where there is open water.

Robert Armstrong, aged 12 years, was drowned yesterday while skating on Crystal Lake, in Newtonville.

Edward Tremaine, aged 13, was drowned in the Cocheco River at Rochester, N. H., by breaking through the ice.

The Pope's Illness.

Rome, Jan. 20.—Dr Petacci, who visited the Pope. again late Saturday evening, declared that if the attack of gout follows a regular course considerable improvement should be noted to-day.

Although the Pope was suffering acutely he expressed a desire to be up, but this was not permitted.

His sisters remained with him the greater part of the day, one of them remarking: "We at least gain when the holy father is ill, as then alone we have him to ourselves again."

School "Question" In Rome.

Rome, Jan. 20.—The Irish Christian Brothers recently opened a large school built on land belonging to the Vatican, and this is crowded with children who have been taken from the public schools. The action of the municipality, coupled with the suppression of the jubilee pilgrimages to Rome, causing a failure of the season here, will, it is believed, result in a considerable reversion of Romans to clericalism.

May be War.

Berlin, Jan. 20.—A despatch to The Lokahanzeiger from Teheran says it is stated that as a result of recent conflicts on the Persian-Turkish frontier the Sultan has ordered the mobilization of the Turkish army and has called out the reserves, with the intention of concentrating strongly on the frontier.

Twin Boys Drown.

Newark, N. J., Jan. 20.—Arthur and Harry Morgan, twins, 15 years old, and Horace Weeks, 13, were drowned at Tenafly Saturday, after breaking through the ice of a small pond.

WAS SHE POISONED?

Thamesville, Ont.—The wife of a prominent citizen of Thamesville was the heroine of a mysterious case which has just been successfully solved. About a year ago, Mrs. J. W. Dulong began to suffer with headaches. There was no apparent cause for them. After trying the ordinary "headache remedies," and failing to get relief, Mrs. Dulong consulted several physicians, who pooh-hooed the idea of anything out of the ordinary and told her she "would be all right."

Vague hints became rumors. Was Mrs. Dulong being poisoned? Yes, she was—and strangest of all, by herself. Not intentionally—nor with drugs—but nevertheless, she was slowly poisoning herself. Headaches are always a sign of blood poisoning. Bowels, skin and kidneys should rid the system of tissue waste. If one of these organs are weak or not acting properly, this waste stays in the system—is absorbed by the blood—and irritates the nerves and makes the headaches.

"I have tried 'Fruit-a-tives' and found them splendid for headaches," writes Mrs. Dulong after her recovery. "I feel so much better since I commenced taking them. I think they are a splendid medicine and" (note this) "I am recommending them to my friends." Everybody, who takes Fruit-a-tives, is grateful for the cures they affect. It is wonderful how quickly "Fruit-a-tives" give relief in all cases stomach, liver, kidney and bowel trouble. If you suffer, get a box today; 50c, 6 boxes for $2.50. At your druggist or sent on receipt of price. Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa Ont.

ENGLAND TEAM WON IN A SPORTING FINISH

The Result of a Second Test Match in Australia

Last week the British mails brought the welcome news that the second test match had commenced on New Year's Day and that England was within twenty runs of the Australians' first innings score, and only three wickets down. On Saturday last a local gentleman received a letter from England with the welcome news that England had won the match in a sporting finish.

When the last man, Barnes, the Lancashire "pro," joined Fielder, England required forty runs to win.

When it is considered that England was without Mr. A. O. Jones, the captain, and Blythe, the celebrated West of England "pro," two of the very best men on the English side, being unable to play on account of illness, the result is very gratifying to all lovers of the grand old British game.

THE STRATHS TEAM FOR WHITBY

The Strathconas will play their third O.H.A. game to-night in Whitby, leaving on the 4.48 C. P. R. train for Myrtle, whence they will drive to Whitby, returning in time to catch the Ottawa special home. The team must win to keep in the running and have sent up a strong team as the following line-up will show:—

Goal—Dercocher.
Point—Myers.
Cover-point—Moore.
Rover—Parnell.
Centre—McWilliams.
Right Wing.—McMillan.

SPORTING NEWS AND VIEWS.....

Those Strathconas not playing in Whitby, will practice to-night at seven o'clock in preparation for the Lindsay game on Friday.

Ackerman's leather workers won out in a strenuous hockey match with the English Canoe Company's seven on Saturday. The game was a hard one from start to finish and was witnessed by a large number of the friends of both teams. The final score score was 5 to 1 in favour of Ackerman's at half time they lead by 3—0. O'Dette scored the only goal for the Canoe builders. Loomis played a strong game making particularly good rushes.

The teams lines up as follows:—

English's		Ackerman's.

The city league games this week, will be of more than usual interest, in view of the fact that the fate of the championship depends a good deal on the results of the contest. The High Lifes and Lakefield clash, and the latter who have not yet been defeated will have on their strongest team. They count on trimming the High Lifes and Norwood, and then putting the Indian sign on the Strathconas in the final game. High Lifes, however, are hitting a rapid pace and will not go down without a bitter struggle. The game should be one of the best of the series, and will, no doubt, attract a big crowd.

Norwood and Bridgenorth will come together the same night, and while the wise ones fancy Norwood, Bridgenorths are showing such a great improvement in every game, that it would cause no surprise to see them give the East Peterborough capital seven a very hard battle for the honours.

Fred Whitcroft's Edmonton team has lost its first game, being defeated on Tuesday night by Strathcona, the score being 7-5 in favour of the team across the river. Whitcroft and Campbell, his centre man, were both missing, owing to injuries received in the Battleford game. Edmonton came near winning out, scoring three goals in the last minute of time, but the revival came too late.

After McArthur came on again, Whitcroft saved a sure goal. He lost his stick near the Strathcona's goal, but that did not count, he overtook Gaban and body checked him, spoiling an easy chance. The officials did not see, but the play was cheered to the echo.—Edmonton Journal.

Pembroke imported Ross, Hooper and Chipchase of the Montreal Wanderers to beat Renfrew in an Ottawa Valley League game on Friday night, but they were not good enough for the job. The Renfrew team had returned from playing a Federal League game for Brockville in time to beat the invaders by 8-6. "Baldy" Spittal of the Renfrew outfit was "pinched" by the town constable for knocking out Wood, the Pembroke centre player. The officer kept him out of the game, and he was let go on bail afterwards. The Pembroke crowd also had the satisfaction of telling the referee, Ed. Phillips of Ottawa, that they thought he was a "robber, but these are the regular accompaniments of Ottawa Valley League games, which seem to be run for the cheap gambles that follow them.

On Saturday afternoon the Wood Butchers and Wanderers of the C. G. E. played a fast and furious tie game of hockey, the final score being one all. The Butchers were held down in fine form and an exciting hour resulted. The teams:

LOCAL OPTION IN OMEMEE

Mr. Harry Dunsford, Refers to Article From St. Luke's Parish Magazine.

RECALLS BOYHOOD DAYS

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Sir,—In reading an article in your issue of Friday last from St. Luke's Parish Magazine on the above subject, it recalled my boyhood days when I (with thousands of others), had the bread taken out of my mouth by the liquor traffic; and as every right-minded person knows, such is the case to-day. Also let me advise the writer of that article to be more consistent in future, and not do the very same thing which they are complaining of other people doing, viz., forcing their views on others, and it certainly is amusing when an outsider looks upon it as a lamentable incident. Surely the inhabitants of Omemee knows what is best for their own and children's welfare. And, as a total abstainer, I rejoice to see or hear of such an hindrance to God's kingdom, such an obstacle to industry, and such a stumbling block to the human race, removed from any locality; also to see that people are realizing the fact that they can do better without such places and the material they sell. Why? Because with its gentle showers of so-called moderation, it carries not only one family, but thousands into the distressing channels of want and poverty, and often with its floods of drunkenness sweeps them into the very sewers of crime an ddegradation. Let me also remind the writer, (if he is not aware of the fact), that the liquor trade is one of a few that is ashamed of its own productions. Show me if you can the proprietor of any drinkshop that is proud of or will even recognize those whom we sometimes see reeling and staggering through our streets or in the police court with disfigured faces, trembling bodies, shaky hands, throbbing temples and racking brain, or that will salute by raising their hats, or greet with a smiling face those fallen women in their rags and shame; or let their little darlings mix up with the half-starved, half-naked and dirty children (often called little brats) of such people, most of which are in such condition through the effects of strong drink. But gentle writer let you and I and all Christian people remember tha they are our own brothers and sisters and it is our duty to rescue them. Thanking you in anticipation of publication, I remain

Gratefully yours,
H. DUNFORD.

SPOKE TO MEN IN THE EVENING

Both Services at St. Andrew's Conducted by Rev. A. Allan, Yesterday

TWO LARGE CONGREGATIONS

Large congregations assembled at St. Andrew's church yesterday morning and evening to hear the Rev. A Allan the Scotch preacher. His Sermons were of a most convincing and impressive character and were calculated to do much lasting good. The music was very inspiring, the large congregations joining with heartiness in the service of praise. The anthems by the choir were well rendered; "The Homeland" Sullivan, in the morning was enjoyed by everyone. Mrs. Davidson also sang "Does Jesus Care." At the evening service Mr. W A Greenslade sang "Arise Young Men, Arise."

Mr. Allan's morning subject was "This is the Victory that overcometh the World even our Faith." He first proved the value and glory of the victorious life, the great desire and longing for a triumphant life, and when compared with other world religions Christianity was the only religion that held triumph and victory before its followers.

Victory over the world did not imply that this beautiful world was evil, but at once referred to all the evil forces that come between the science and Christ—the aggregate of all influences that seek to undermine the soul.

The New Testament echo was found in Matthew's Gospel, 17th chapter—when Christ requested Peter to find in the fishes mouth the coin to pay the taxes "For me and thee." By a very interesting reference to an incident in connection with the Welsh revival Mr. Allan made a most searching appeal to every hearer.

The address to young men in the evening was of a very helpful character and many young men will have cause to look back to last night's service as a time when difficulties intellectual, moral and spiritual were cleared away.

The most notable example cited was of an eminent doctor in London, England, who had for years been an agnostic, and when the power of God came into his life he discovered that Christ was a mighty Saviour and at once cleaned his house of all that had been keeping him down.

The meetings will be continued till Wednesday night. Each afternoon at 2.30, the Bible reading, and the evening service at 7.45.

An opportunity will be given all who desire to give a free will thank-offering to the Evangelist at the services these later days of the mission.

IN THE FOG

BY
Richard Harding Davis.

COPYRIGHT, 1901, BY ROBERT HOWARD RUSSELL.

no shock could strain them further, or my mind was inoculated to horrors, for I did not cry out at what I saw nor retreat from it. Immediately at my feet was the body of a beautiful woman, lying at full length upon the floor, her arms flung out on either side of her, and her white face and shoulders gleaming dully in the unsteady light of the candle. Around her throat was a great chain of diamonds, and the light played upon these and made them flash and blaze in tiny flames. But the woman who wore them was dead, and I was so certain as to how she had died that without an instant's hesitation I dropped on my knees beside her and placed my hand above her heart. My fingers again touched the thin slit of a wound. I had no doubt in my mind but that this was the Russian princess, and when I lowered the candle to her face I was assured that this was so. Her features showed the finest lines of both the Slav and the Jewess; the eyes were black, the hair blue-black and wonderfully heavy, and her skin, even in death, was rich in color. She was a surpassingly beautiful woman.

"I rose and tried to light another candle with the one I held, but I found that my hand was so unsteady that I could not keep the wicks together. It was my intention to again search for this strange dagger which had been used to kill both the English boy and the beautiful princess, but before I could light the second candle I heard footsteps descending the stairs, and the Russian servant appeared in the doorway.

"My face was in darkness, or I am sure that at the sight of it he would have taken alarm, for at that moment I was not sure but that this man himself was the murderer. His own face was plainly visible to me in the light from the hall, and I could see that it wore an expression of dull bewilderment. I stepped quickly toward him and took a firm hold upon his wrist.

"'She is not there,' he said. 'The Princess has gone. They have all gone.'

"'Who have gone!' I demanded. 'Who else has been here?'

"'The two Englishmen,' he said.

"'What two Englishmen!' I demanded. 'What are their names?'

"The man now saw by my manner that some question of great moment hung upon his answer, and he began to protest that he did not know the names of the visitors and that until that evening he had never seen them.

"I guessed that it was my tone which frightened him, so I took my hand off his wrist and spoke less eagerly.

"'How long have they been here?' I asked, 'and when did they go?'

"He pointed behind him toward the drawing-room.

"'One sat there with the Princess,' he said; 'the other came after I had placed the coffee in the drawing-room. The two Englishmen talked together and the Princess returned here to the table. She sat there in that chair, and I brought her cognac and cigarettes. Then I sat outside upon the bench. It was a feast day, and I had been drinking. Pardon, Excellency, but I fell asleep. When I awoke, your Excellency was standing by me, but the Princess and the two Englishmen had gone. That is all I know.'

"I believed that the man was telling me the truth. His fright had passed, and he was now apparently puzzled, but not alarmed.

"'You must remember the names of the Englishmen,' I urged. 'Try to think. When you announced them to the Princess what name did you give?'

"At this question he exclaimed with pleasure, and, beckoning to me, ran hurriedly down the hall and into the drawing-room. In the corner furthest from the screen was the piano, and on it was a silver tray. He picked this up and, smiling with pride at his own intelligence, pointed at two cards that lay upon it. I took them up and read the names engraved upon them."

The American paused abruptly, and glanced at the faces about him. "I read the names," he repeated. He spoke with great reluctance.

"'Continue!' cried the Baronet, sharply.

"I read the names," said the American with evident distaste, "and the family name of each was the same. They were the names of two brothers. One is well known to you. It is that of the African explorer of whom this gentleman was just speaking. I mean the Earl of Chetney. The other was the name of his brother, Lord Arthur Chetney."

The men at the table fell back as though a trapdoor had fallen open at their feet.

"Lord Chetney!" they exclaimed in chorus. They glanced at each other and back to the American with every expression of concern and disbelief.

"It is impossible!" cried the Baronet. "Why, my dear sir, young Chetney only arrived from Africa yesterday. It was so stated in the evening papers."

The jaw of the American set in a resolute square, and he pressed his lips together.

"You are perfectly right, sir," he said, "Lord Chetney did arrive in London yesterday morning, and yesterday night I found his dead body."

The youngest member present was the first to recover. He seemed much less concerned over the identity of the murdered man than at the interruption of the narrative.

"Oh, please let him go on!" he cried. "What happened then? You say you found two visiting cards. How do you know which card was that of the murdered man?"

The American, before he answered, waited until the chorus of exclamations had ceased. Then he continued as though he had not been interrupted.

"The instant I read the names upon the cards," he said, "I ran to the screen and, kneeling beside the dead man, began a search through his pockets. My hand at once fell upon a card-case, and I found on all the cards it contained the title of the Earl of Chetney. His watch and cigarette-case also bore his name. These evidences, and the fact

They expect spring here any time now.

AN EXPLANATION IS ASKED FOR

Regarding Statements Said to Have Been Made by Mr. Frank Moher During Douro Elections

FRANK MOHER'S REPLY

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Will you permit me space in your columns to call the attention of the ratepayers of Douro to statements which were made by Mr. Frank Moher, ex-Reeve of Douro, while speaking at the Douro nomination?

In addressing the electors Mr. Moher charged that Mr. J. E. Belcher, while county engineer, altered the plans and specifications of the abutments of the Evans and Keene Bridges, to permit the contractors to make extra profits of $1,600 other than would have been done under the original plan thereby reflecting on the chairman of the Road and Bridge Committee of the previous year, 1906, his opponent in the campaign, Mr. D. Moloney.

What I want to know, as a ratepayer, is "can the statement be true?" Did Mr. Belcher do so? If the statement be true then Mr. Belcher is unfit to be county engineer. If it be not true then it should not have been made. There is too much carelessness sometimes made by public speakers at public meetings, but in this instance here is a direct charge made by Mr. Moher against the county engineer, and I would like to know for my own information, as well as the information of the ratepayers of Douro, if the statement be true?

Will you be good enough to ask Mr. Belcher to explain his position, so that I, as an interested ratepayer may know the facts? I do not think Mr. Moloney would consent to any such change, and if the engineer took advantage of the position to make a change in the plans without informing Mr. Moloney, then the County Council should deal with the matter.

Yours truly,
RATEPAYER.

NOTE—Since the above communication was handed to the Editor of the Examiner a few days ago, the Examiner has shown it to Mr. Belcher, and Mr. Belcher has handed the Examiner the following letter, which explains itself.—Editor Examiner.

Peterborough, Jany. 20th, 1908.

To the Editor of the Review.

Dear Sir,—I have seen in your paper a letter over the signature of County Ratepayer, in which it is alleged that I stated at a public meeting of the ratepayers of Douro, that Mr. Belcher admitted to me that he had left off wingdams on two bridges known as Keene and Evans bridges, thereby saving the contractor $1,600. You will allow me, sir, to say that I never intended to make such a statement and to my knowledge never did make such a statement. What Mr. Belcher said to me was that by leaving the wingdams off the bridge he saved the county $1,600. I am sorry anything appears in the paper which appears to reflect on the honour of the gentleman whom I have known a long time. I am aware of the fact that the plans and specifications signed by the contractor for the construction of these bridges, are in the possession of the county clerk, and that they have never been changed and that no wingdams are shown or provided for by these plans and specifications.

Regretting that any misunderstanding of my words should have been had, I am, sir,

Your obedient servant,
F. MOHER.

Mr. Moher, ex-Reeve of Douro, was in Peterborough to-day and a reporter of the Examiner asked him as regards the communication and Mr. Moher stated that perhaps too strong a construction was being placed upon the language used by him at the nomination meeting. "You know," he said, "that we farmers do not always just use words exactly to express what we wished to convey. What I wished to say," said Mr. Moher, "was that what Mr. Belcher said when I asked him why there were no wings on the bridges was that he had left them off to save the county. Then, when I asked him how it was that the chairman was disappointed at there being no wingdams on the abutments he admitted that Mr. Moloney had spoken about it, but not until the abutments were almost completed. The matter that I wished to bring before the minds of the people was a comparison between the abutments of this year being all that were anticipated and the case of last year a disappointment so far as the wings were concerned. I trust that Mr. Belcher will see where I stand when I was showing the people how my predecessor did not see the plans before he advertised or else he did not know wingdams when he saw them. I am not complaining. Did I complain of everything used against me it would fill a newspaper," said Mr. Moher took his departure.

The Following Letter Speaks For Itself

Peterborough, Nov. 1st, 1907.

W. G. MORROW, Esq.,
Agent Imperial Life Assurance Co.,
Peterborough.

Dear Sir:—I have received notification of the option available in respect to my ten-year Endowment Policy of $5000 which matured to-day and it affords me pleasure to say that I view with much satisfaction the results of my investment with your Company.

The substantial surplus which the Policy has earned in the comparatively short period of ten years makes the returns which would be made to me, under any of the options now open to my selection, most liberal and attractive.

It is greatly to the credit of the Company that after having granted me an Insurance of $5000 from the issue of the Policy in 1897 to the present time, it can now offer me under the cash-value option a sum so greatly in excess of the total premium that I have paid into it, or under the paid up Insurance option, a paid up life Policy considerable more than double the amount of my original Policy.

Permit me to wish the Company a long continuance of its prosperity

Yours very truly,
J. R. STRATTON.

TRAMPLED UNDER FEET OF CATTLE; NARROWLY ESCAPED DEATH IN SLAUGHTER HOUSE

Unpleasant Experience of James Jackson at H. P. Kennedy's Abattoir Near Locks Bridge—He Emerged Unconscious By Means of Timely Assistance

While preparing to lead a young heifer to the slaughter, James Jackson, an employee of Mr. H. P. Kennedy, yesterday evening almost met death himself under the feet of the frightened beast. When he was carried from his precarious position he was unconscious, and now lies rather seriously injured at his home at the corner of Aylmer and Perry streets.

About 3 o'clock he went to the stable to have the heifer slaughtered. She stood beside another, and on going to her head to tie a rope about her horns, she began kicking violently. Jackson was forced beneath the feet of the two cattle and trampled upon. When he first discovered his dangerous position he called for assistance, and but for this it is probable that he would have been killed.

Timely Assistance

Louis Perry and Henry Naish, who happened to be in the building, heard the call, and Jackson was soon pulled from beneath the feet of the cattle in an unconscious condition.

He was placed in the bottom of a sleigh and taken home as quickly as possible and medical aid summoned. Dr. Eastwood examined the injuries on his body and found that his nose was badly scarred, and also his abdomen by the sharp hoofs of the animals. But these injuries, although they are apparently not very serious are painful, but it is believed he may have suffered internally. He was resting easier this morning.

Unpleasant Experience

This experience was far from being pleasant, and it is certain that if he had been alone in the stable the injuries would have been more serious, and probably fatal.

A. R. Williams Co. Present Their Case To The Council

Request $50,000 to Revive The William Hamilton Establishment

A COMMITTEE WILL ACT

The following proposition was presented to the City Council last night regarding the William Hamilton Manufacturing Company, Limited. It was referred to the Manufacturers Committee for consideration:—

Toronto, Jan. 18th, 1908.

To the Mayor and Council of the City of Peterborough:

Gentlemen,—At a meeting of the Manufacturers Committee of the City Council and the Manufacturers Committee of the Board of Trade, held on December 30th, 1907, I was requested to submit a proposition in writing regarding the re-organization of the William Hamilton Manufacturing Company, Limited.

I accordingly now beg to submit to you a proposition on behalf of the new company to be known as William Hamilton Company, Limited.

The new company would be prepared to take over and operate the works upon the following terms and conditions, namely:—

1. The new company to be furnished by the City of Peterborough with a loan of fifty thousand dollars, (50,000.00) without interest, and to be secured by a first mortgage upon the land and buildings of the Company, not including machinery, fixtures and equipment, to be repayable in five years from the date the money is actually advanced to them, in ten equal annual installments of five thousand dollars each, the first of such annual installments to be paid at the end of one year after expiration of said five year period.

2. This loan would be further secured by the personal conveyance of the company.

3. The new company to have a fixed assessment for all Municipal purposes of $10,000.00 for a period of ten years, save and except that the company will pay its full and regular school taxes.

4. The new company to have proper and suitable connection with the sewerage system for the City of Peterborough for the general purposes of their works.

5. The company to be supplied by the city with a reasonable number of hydrants, at least three, as required by the Fire Underwriters' Association and to be placed, operated and maintained by the City at such points on the property of the company as the Underwriters Association may direct.

6. The new company to have a proper and sufficient conveyance from the City of Peterborough of that portion of Rubidge street lying immediately east of and adjoining its property.

7. The company to have a proper and sufficient conveyance of a strip of land six feet wide on the westerly limit of Reid street and immediately east of the Company's property facing easterly on Reid street.

8. The New Company to have the right to connect their works lying east of Reid street with their works lying west of Reid street by the erection of an overhead travelling crane, which will be operated and maintained so as to interfere with the traffic on Reid street to a less extent than would be occasioned by hauling machinery from one building to the other by means of horses and carts.

The new company would be satisfied on their part to comply with the following conditions, namely:—

1. As a condition of securing the loan, they would agree to employ, after the first year from the date the loan is advanced to them, at least an average number of one hundred and fifty employees, for at least nine months in each year during the currency of the loan, and in the event of the company employing a less average number of employees than one hundred and fifty during at least nine months of any year of the term, then for such year or years, as the case may be, that less than one hundred and fifty employees are employed, the company would be prepared to pay interest upon the balance of the loan due to the city, from time to time, as follows: If a less average number of employees than seventy-five is employed during at least nine months of any year then the company would pay five per cent per annum on the balance of the loan for such year. If a less average number of employees than one hundred is employed during at least nine months of any year, then the company would pay four per cent. per annum on the balance of the loan for such year. If a less number of employees than one hundred and twenty-five is employed during at least nine months of any year, then the company would pay three per cent. per annum on the balance of the loan for such year. If a less number of employees than one hundred and fifty is employed during at least nine months of any year then the company would pay two per cent. per annum on the balance of the loan for such year.

2. The company will expend during the first five years of the existence of said loan, at least the sum of thirty thousand dollars in new buildings, machinery, plant and improvements, and, in the event of the company not doing so they will be prepared to pay interest at the rate of five per centum per annum on the balance of the loan due said city from time to time, until such sum of thirty thousand dollars is expended as aforesaid.

3. A reasonable provision should be added that in the event of the failure to use the plant, being due to strikes or destruction to the buildings, or machinery, by fire or tempest, the time during which the plant shall cease to be used in consequence of such strikes or destruction to the buildings or machinery, not exceeding in either case one year and six months, shall not be counted in the period to entitle the city to charge interest upon the loan.

All of which is respectfully submitted for your consideration.

Yours truly,
A. R. WILLIAMS MACHINERY COMPANY, Limited.

Vice-President.

RUNAWAY ON GEORGE ST. LAST NIGHT

Horse Was Badly Cut About the Legs—Cutter Was Smashed

There was considerable excitement on George street last night about 9 o'clock, when a horse pulling a red cutter dashed down the street at a mad rate and did not stop until it reached the Exhibition grounds. The horse and cutter had been hired by a young man about an hour before the runaway. The horse was left standing on the road at Nassau while the young man went into a house to see a friend. It became frightened at some unknown object and started on its way to the city. The animal was severely cut about the legs and the cutter was badly smashed. The young man, whose name the liveryman would not disclose, will be held liable for damages.

ASSESSMENT REFORM

One of the most important and difficult questions with which municipal corporations have to deal is that of assessment—to make assessments just in respect to both the private individual and the general body of taxpayers. The simplest method, and in theory, what gives promise of most satisfactory results, is the single-tax system, which, broadly stated, is the taxation of land values alone, without reference to the buildings erected thereon. But the difficulty of introducing this system without doing injustice seems to be great, if not insuperable. In new settlements like, say, Alberta or Saskatchewan Provinces, the system might be introduced with less of difficulty. A proposal now before the City Council of Toronto, which represents a somewhat radical departure in assessment, looks like a runner-up. A resolution is submitted, recommending an application for legislation giving to Toronto the power to permit the taxing of simple land values at one rate, and the taxing of buildings and improvements at another rate. This is a step in the direction of a local application of the principles advocated by the single-tax reformers. It is, in our opinion, says the Toronto Star, a step in the right direction of simplifying taxation and applying its burdens without making of them a penalty upon enterprise, industry and thrift. It goes in the direction in which is tending public opinion, as was reflected in the report of the Assessment Commission and crystallized in the present Act.

SATISFACTORY CONDITIONS

It seems to be a good deal more difficult operation to extract sunbeams out of cucumbers than to deduce congratulations from the cessation of existence of a Canadian bank. The country is to be congratulated upon the manner of the extinction of the Sovereign Bank. The way in which the other banks came to the rescue, and protected the interests of depositors so thoroughly, taken in connection with the Ontario Bank trouble, shows that a bank failure from the popular point of view and interest is a practical impossibility. The disaster was averted so quietly and systematically that those most interested were thoroughly protected before they knew they were in danger. The bank closed its doors on Friday night and on Saturday morning the business of the bank was in running order in the various branches of other banks. All the anxiety depositors were subjected to was to know the branch of the strong banks their account had been transferred to. Between two days the whole business so far as they were concerned was arranged. The Canadian banking system is a tower of strength, a sure refuge, something upon which national financial confidence and stability can securely rest. Another cause of congratulation arising out of the trouble of the Sovereign Bank is the creditable manner in which the directors came through the ordeal and the honourable manner in which they discharged their difficult trust. They must have known that for some time the bank was in deep water, but not one of the directors took advantage of this knowledge to unload his large holdings of stock to what would have been the possible detriment of the purchasers. The lesson of the whole matter seems to be that the banking business is being somewhat overdone. The multiplication of banks, leads to intensity of enterprise and energy to secure business and in such a contest the weaker goes to the wall. On the whole, however, the banking situation in Canada is marked by satisfactory conditions.

AFTER WHITNEY

The Toronto News is after Mr. Whitney's scalp. Day after day it makes vicious grabs to get its fingers into his scalp lock. In view of its recent hostility to the political leader it has erstwhile worshipped, defended and patronized, it will perhaps be interesting to submit the record of one day's pin pricks, which the News inserts into the shrinking flesh of Mr Whitney. To wit, the contents of a part of a column of Monday's News:

Anxious Inquirer. — No, Mr. Whitney is not as angry as he seems to be. He eats well and sleeps well. It is only his vocabulary that needs the rest cure. He developed this trouble in Opposition, and it does not seem to yield to treatment. It was thought that he would improve when Mr. Ross was removed to the Senate, but the relief was only temporary. It is now feared that there cannot be a complete cure short of an absolute Whitney Dictatorship.

The Air Line. — Mr. Whitney has now been in office for three years, and he ought to be able to discuss a public question, without taking an air voyage.

Mr Whitney's Responsibility. — If, as Mr. Whitney suggests, the Canadian Electrical Development Company is a failure, the responsibility lies upon the shoulders of the Government.

Always at Half Cock. — Mr. Whitney never seems to know when he is loaded.

Overcome by Language. — In Mr. Whitney we have a kindly and honourable gentleman at the mercy of a ferocious vocabulary.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The injury to the Northwestern wheat crop last year is explained by the fact that the frosts and the presence of Mr. Borden, the leader of the Opposition, were simultaneous. Let the West take courage. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, of the sunny ways, is to visit the West next summer.

There were 198,075 pounds of butter imported into Canada in five months, some of it from Denmark, some of it from Ireland, and some of it from New Zealand. Why shouldn't we hear next of shipping fog to London?

Mr. Jarvis, the president of the Sovereign Bank, expresses the belief that the liquidation of the assets of the suspended bank will result in a substantial surplus, which will be good news to the shareholders.

Toronto News:

The Canadian railways during the year ended June 30th, 1907, killed one out of every 459,104, and injured one out of every 91,299 passengers carried. The total number of passengers killed was 70, and the total number injured was 349. Besides this 249 employees lost their lives, and 1,128 were injured. If there be included those who lost their lives, or were hurt, on level crossings, or on the tracks of the railways, the record of accidents mounts up to 587 killed, and 1,698 injured — a gruesome result of a single year's operations. The slaughter of 35 persons, and injuries to 287 others, are attributed to broken rails, and the need of care in the manufacture of this portion of railway equipment is thereby strongly emphasized. Now, that the heavy demands on the steel rail mills have ceased the makers may find it possible to turn out a higher class article and better calculated to stand the increased strain of present day traffic. The year's accidents cost the railways, $1,961,70, including $642-248 for injuries to persons. Among the remedies urged are a stricter inspection of rails, roadbed and equipment, the adoption of a thorough block system, and an emphatic holding to account of those responsible for accidents.

AN EXPLANATION

The annual address of Mr. B. E. Walker, president of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, is always a valuable contribution to our knowledge of financial and commercial conditions at home and abroad. This year, because of the complexity of the money and industrial situations, Mr. Walker has explained even more fully than before, the why and wherefor of events and the course they have taken throughout the year. The cause of the money stringency is clearly explained, and sound advice is given for the regulation of enterprises in the immediate future, while the history of trade conditions throughout the Dominion during the past year is most interesting and useful. At the annual meeting of shareholders, a bylaw was passed authorizing the directors to increase the capital stock of the bank by five million dollars, and shareholders outside of Toronto were let agog by this statement as telegraphed abroad without the president's explanation that it was not intended to issue the whole or any part of it at the moment. "We merely desire," the president said, "to be prepared, so that in the event of our business making it at any time clear that it would be wise to issue any part of the sum we now ask you to authorize, we shall not be subject to the delay incident to calling a special meeting of the shareholders." — Montreal Witness.

ROBES STOLEN FROM A LIVERY BARN

Two Men Were Seen Prowling Around About 10 O'clock

The livery barn managed by Thos. Foster, on Simcoe street, was entered by robbers last night and two fur robes stolen. The robes were of a very expensive kind and were lying on the seat of a cutter near the main door.

The two men who took after the stable at night, both received calls last night about 11.30 o'clock, and while they were out with their vehicles the robbery must have occurred. The men did not close the doors when they left the barn, and access to the stable was an easy matter.

The liverymen entertain no hopes of finding the stolen robes. They noticed two men prowling about the yard about 10 o'clock, but paid no attention to them.

The other livery men should take a warning from this and keep their doors securely fastened during the night.

Mr. V. Eastwood Asks for Immediate Action re the Bogue Drain

The question of a drain to be opened between Edinburgh and Dublin Streets to carry off the water which must find a course from the higher level was again rehashed at the meeting of the Committee of the Whole Council last night. Spring is slowly approaching and the residents of that neighbourhood are beginning to get anxious about the matter which has been frequently discussed but is still left unsettled and improperly attended to. As a result Mr. Vincent Eastwood appeared with a petition which he presented to the committee requesting immediate action. It was signed by a large number of the citizens who believe they will suffer when the expected flood occurs.

Mr. Eastwood asked that a strip of land between Edinburgh and Dublin streets and parallel to the G. T. R. tracks be expropriated and a water course prepared to meet the danger. Mr. Bogue is the owner of the property through which this strip runs. Mr. Eastwood urged the committee to hasten with the matter for as soon as the spring thaw occurs a flood is inevitable. Mr. W H Moore said that the course asked for was a natural stream and water had always flowed there but had been filled in by Mr. Bogue.

For the benefit of the new members of the council Mr. Eastwood explained fully the circumstances which resulted in the present situation. He said he was prepared to pay for the expropriation if it were done immediately.

On motion of Ald. Bradburn and Elliott the matter was referred to the Board of Works to be reported back to the Committee.

Mayor Rush assured Mr. Eastwood that the matter would be speedily taken up and the Board of Works would visit it to see for themselves the conditions which required the improvement mentioned.

WATER WAGGONS TO BE READY

Board of Works are Getting Ready For Spring—Held Meeting Last Night

The Board of Works Committee of the City Council held a meeting last night before the special session of the council at which a number of important routine matters came up. There were present Ald. Phelan, chairman; the Mayor, Ald. Tovey, Elliott, Butler, Morgan, McIntyre and Bradburn.

A report was read from the Street Commissioner of the machinery and tools owned by the city. He recommended the purchase of a knife for the grader, a watering cart and teeth for the scraper.

On motion of Ald. Morgan and Butler, the chairman was authorized to dispose of the old wagons and purchase a new waggon for the street department and procure a knife for the grader and teeth for the scraper.

Ald. Buller moved, seconded by Ald. Tovey that the chairman inquire into the matter of procuring a new watering wagon.—Carried.

Ald. Elliott moved, seconded by Ald. Tovey, that the chairman be authorized to have the water wagons painted and prepared for work.

A report from Street Commissioner Evans concerning the streets requiring broken stone was laid over.

Ald. Morgan moved, seconded by Ald. Bradburn, that no street be graded with broken stone until the sewer and water main have been laid upon it.—Carried.

Ald. Bradburn moved, seconded by Ald. Tovey, that the city solicitor be asked to advise this Board as to the powers of the Peterborough Light and Power Company to open streets without first coming to the City Council to get permission.—Carried.

Ald. Tovey moved, seconded by Ald. McIntyre, that the chairman, City Engineer and Street Commissioner be authorized to purchase 600 cords of stone, from ratepayers, at a price not to exceed $3 per cord, and to be paid for on the certificate of the City Engineer.

BRIGADIER COLLIER AT BARRACKS

Speaks at Three Meetings—Address on Prison Work in the Afternoon

MONTHLY REPORT GIVEN

The Salvation Army barracks was crowded on Sunday at all three services, when Brigadier Collier, of Toronto, was present, to address the meetings.

In the afternoon the Brigadier delivered an inspiring address on prison work, in Toronto, and mentioned Morgan, who has lately through the efforts of the Salvation Army been released from the hands of the law, and placed on a farm. He has to report once a month to the prison gate at Toronto, and the Army look forward to his becoming a good man.

The Brigadier then delivered the following report for the month of December, 1907:

What Joy to be Freed From Piles

THERE IS SCARCELY A SUFFERER IN THIS BROAD LAND BUT CAN BE CURED BY

The utter misery and despair of the sufferer from a severe case of piles, or hemorrhoids cannot be described in words.

It is not only the intense itching and stinging which in themselves are bad enough, not only the dread of a surgical operation, with its pain, expense and danger, but the whole system seems to be undermined, and as the ailment drags on from day to day, and year to year, one becomes discouraged, despondent, and in despair gives up all hope of cure.

The joy which cured ones experience on being cured from itching, bleeding and protruding piles, is told in the thousands of letters which we have received from time to time.

You need not tell the writers of these letters that there is a case of which Dr. Chase's Ointment will not cure, for they will not believe it. They alone know how they suffered, and also know that Dr. Chase's Ointment cured them. In many cases the cures were almost like miracles, so little ointment was used. In other cases, while relief came quickly, cure was only affected by the persistent use of several boxes of the Ointment.

W. E. Talbot, of Talbot Bros., tobacco merchants, 322 George street, Peterborough, Ont., states: "It is from a desire to help other sufferers that I offer a statement of my experience with Dr. Chase's Ointment as a cure for itching piles. I was for a long time troubled with this unpleasant and torturing disease and though I tried many treatments remained unsured until I came across Dr. Chase's Ointment. It was highly recommended to me, and I find that every word of praise that is given to it is true. I can truthfully say that I am completely cured, and knowing the misery that this ailment produces, I am anxious for others to know of the surprising virtues of Dr. Chase's Ointment."

It matters not how long you have suffered, if you have itching, bleeding or protruding piles Dr. Chase's Ointment will relieve and cure you, and it is the only positive and guaranteed cure for every form of piles; 60 cts. a box at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

DID THE CITY STEAL THE PRISONER?

This is the Accusation Brought by County Authorities Regarding Chas. Burke

While Burke was sitting in his cell in the county jail yesterday morning a wrangle was going on in the police court over some intricacies of the law which occurred between the time he was arrested and delivered to the county police authorities. He was arrested by a county officer and lodged in the city police cells, and, as Mr. Gordon put it this morning, "the city stole Burke from the county." He was to have been tried by the city yesterday morning, but the jailer at the county jail refuses to allow Burke out to answer the charge at the police court, and keeps him a county prisoner.

Mr. Gordon, after explaining this case, asked to have Burke dismissed on the local charge, which is for assaulting P. C. Newhall and resisting arrest at the C.P.R. station.

His Worship was not of that opinion and did not want Burke to go free.

"This man is wanted in Toronto on two charges," said Mr. Cochrane. "One for holding up a railway operator, and another for robbery."

His Worship then decided to give the jailer an order to hold Burke on the Buckhorn charge, and he also wrote on the back of the information that "the prisoner having been in custody of the law on a serious charge when this information was laid, I allow this charge to be in abeyance until other charges against him are disposed of, and I direct that the prisoner be held only on the first charge laid against him, and that the jailor may deliver him to the right authorities to answer such other charges."

ANOTHER REPLY TO THE "REAL ENGLISHMAN"

Mr. T. Dawson Writes in Answer and Criticises the Writer

Editor Examiner.

Dear Sir,—In answer to the letter by a "RealEnglishman" I would very much like to doubt as to his being an Englishman. It sounds more like a youth who has just left his father, perhaps to acquire a quarry like his father's, in Canada, and he is therefore looking ahead. He talks like some schoolboy about settling down like a real true Englishman does. He He means at an hotel. If so, we would all be willing to settle down, or if all our fathers in England were in possession of stone quarries we would stay at home and watch the men there, and not come to Canada to put our spoke where it was not wanted. I also notice this employer of labour does not sign his name, but calls himself a 'True Englishman." Well, there is a lot of them about, but the majority are across between a window shutter and a door mat. If he stays another two years he will cut his top teeth.

IMPORTANT SCIENIFIC DISCOVERY

A Clinical Preparation That Positively Kills the Dandruff Germ

A most important discovery has been made after a year's patient laboratory work aimed in a certain direction—It is Newbro's Herpicide, a preparation that prevents falling hair and speedily and permanently eradicates dandruff. These evils are caused by a germ or parasite that burorws into the scalp, throwing up dandruff, as it seeks to sap the life of the hair at the oort. There's no baldness without falling or thin hair, no thin hair without dandruff, and no dandruff if the germ is destroyed. Newbro's Herpicide is the only preparation that will do the work. "Destroy the cause, you will remove the effect." Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Two sizes—50 cents and $1. THE DEMAND FOR THE DIAMOND CALK HORSESHOE

Erection of Additional Premises to Meet the Urgency of the Public for the New Shoe

As a result of the insistent demand for the Diamond Calk Horseshoe, the company is doing what it can to satisfy the public until arrangements are made for the erection of its factory. The machine shop of Mr. R. E. Wilson on George street, where most of the samples and supplies have been made so far, has been found inadequate to keep up with the demand. A temporary extension to the workshop of about thirty feet is now in course of construction, which, it is thought, will give sufficient additional capicity to manufacture enough for the most urgent requirements.

In this connection it may be stated that encouraging reports come from the city of Rochester, where the Diamond Calk Horseshoe has been on trial for several weeks. Mr. W. T. Remington, chairman of the New York State Hospitals, writes to Mr. H. P. Kennedy in a recent letter as follows:

"The longer we use the shoes with Diamond Calks, the more we are satisfied that it is the most practical and satisfying shoe that we have ever used."

HARTLEY IS URGED TO ACCEPT OFFER

Receives Another Letter From Athletic Club to Enter the Big Walk

THE CONCERT IS AT HAND

David Hartley has received another communication from the Missouri Athletic Club urging him to enter. The race will undoubtedly be a big athletic event and it reflects credit on the Peterborough man's recognised ability as a walker. The letter is as follows:—

D. Hartley, Peterborough, Canada:

Dear Sir,—Your letter received; hope you will enter. This is going to be a big thing, and the winner will get a big chunk of money.

Respectfully yours,
W. D. SCOVILLE.

With such an offer and the honour of being the only Canadian invited to participate in the big event Hartley should be given every encouragement by the people of Peterborough. A splendid opportunity will be presented when the benefit concert is held on Jan. 30th in the market hall. The arrangements are in the hands of a capable committee, among whom is Mr. Rupert Gliddon, which should be sufficient assurance that an excellent concert will be presented. The citizens have surely not forgotten the fame that Davey brought to the city and when the tickets are issued for the concert a large sum should be realized which will give him the opportunity of going to Kansas City and competing for the largest walking stakes that have been offered in recent years.

Part not Held

—In connection with a report in Saturday's issue regarding a snowshoe club At Home on Friday evening there apparently existed some misunderstanding between the Examiner's informant and the reporter who wrote the item. The evening was pleasantly spent but the events on the programme latterly mentioned in the article were not held.

Council Fixes Assessment For Two Manufacturers

Clauses In the City's Private Bill Were Dealt With---Assessments Must Be Approved of by the Legislature ---Lighting of the City Was Discussed, ---Also That Drain

The special meeting of the council last night, to discuss the city's private bill, which will be presented before the Legislature at the next session, resolved itself into a meeting of the Committee of the Whole Council. The most important work done was to fix the assessment of the Auburn Woollen Mills, at $40,000, for ten years, and of the Peter Hamilton Company, at $20,000, for the same number of years. This will, of course, have to be ratified by the Legislature.

Mayor Rush was in the chair, with the following members of the council present: Ald. Phelan, Tovey, Morrow, Bradburn, Buller, Johnston, Turner, Gillespie, Morgan, Elliott, and McIntyre.

There were a number of deputations present who wre received by the council and their appeals listened to.

Auburn Woollen Mills

Mr. Jas. Kendry, was present, representing the Auburn Woollen Mills, and presented a strong argument for fixed assessment. He said that the purpose of his appearance was to impress upon the council the justice of giving the company a fixed assessment. The company had been paying taxes for a great many years but had not received any advantages—no sewerage, no waterworks, in fact no improvements whatever had been received from the city. In Cobourg, a competing factory had received exemption from taxes for a certain number of years, and after that a fixed assessment. All that the Auburn Company asked was to be put on a fixed assessment in order to meet the competition of many similar mills which had fixed assessment. The company had made improvements in their plant, and in spite of opposition from outside had continued to advance and always employed their full number of hands. Mr. Kendry said it was in the interests of the city to give fixed assessment, and encourage the manufacturers. Galt, Hamilton and other cities gave fixed assessment to nearly all their manufacturers. He considered that the older manufacturers should be assisted as well as the new ones which are coming into the city. The present assessment of the property is $49,280, and Mr. Kendry asked for a fixed assessment of $40,000.

Moved by Ald. Morrow, seconded by Ald. Elliott, that the assessment on the Auburn Woollen Mills be fixed for the next ten years at $40,000.—Carried.

Peter Hamilton Company

Mr. Jas. Hamilton appeared on behalf of the Peter Hamilton Company, and also emphasized their reasons for receiving a fixed assessment. Mr. Hamilton said that their company had been operating in the city for over 60 years and had never asked for fixed assessment. They had seen other companies obtain these favours but had never asked for any themselves. Through reduced duties on implements the Deering and McCormack Companies had entered Canada and were making strong efforts to capture the Canadian trade. Mr. Hamilton read a letter showing the advantages that had been extended to the Deering Company by the City of Hamilton. Mr. Hamilton cited instances where implement firms in other cities had been given bonuses and fixed assessments, and were encouraged by the cities where they located.

Mr. Hamilton said he knew the property they occupied was valuable, more so, in fact, than they required, but they had purchased it long ago, and it had increased in value as the town grew. The present assessment is $57,980.

Subsequent Discussion

Ald. Morgan was opposed to any unsystematic method of fixing assessments, and, accordingly moved that a standing committee be appointed to deal with this matter, and said that all manufacturers should be treated alike, with fairness to each and everyone.

Ald Turner said that with these two companies out of the way there would be no further demands.

Ald. Elliott and Ald. Bradburn supported the appeal of the Hamilton Company, saying that they should receive some assistance to enable them to compete with outside manufacturers.

In conclusion Ald. Tovey moved seconded by Ald. Elliott, that the Hamilton Company receive a fixed assessment for ten years at $20,000, the company to employ at least 75 hands for at least ten months in the year.—Carried.

Street Lighting Problem

At the request of the Council, Mr. J. H. Larmonth appeared regarding the lighting of the streets. The Council considered that the Peterborough Light and Power Company was not providing light in a satisfactory manner, and considered that Mr. Larmonth could explain the present conditions.

Mr. Larmonth said he did not know why the streets were not properly lighted, unless it were for the reason that the lamps themselves were not in good condition. Two years ago the company had made a proposal to the city to change the style of lamps, and the Fire, Water and Light Committee reported to the Council favouring the change, but each time the question was referred back to the committee the company was willing to carry out its proposal. Mr. Larmonth said that with the change the lighting would be much improved. Several lamps of different make were tested before the Fire, Water and Light Committee, the members of which had expressed their satisfaction with them. The rate of lighting would be just the same. Mr. Larmonth's reason for advocating the change was that they wished to give the city better service, and they desired to make improvements at the power house. The new light is known as the enclosed arc light and gives a fine, bright light. There is no suspending rod, hence no shadow, is thrown upon the street. Mr. Larmonth said the company was willing to place them where desired and in parts where the trees were thick they could be hung in the centre of the street. There were a few objections to this, but it would be done according to the pleasure of the Council.

Ald. Morgan questioned Mr. Larmonth and stated that the company should carry out its contract and give the city the light which it agreed to do.

Ald. Turner considered that there must have been improvements made since the open arcs were instituted, and the city should keep up with the advances, and if the new lamps were better they should be secured.

Ald. Phelan moved, seconded by Ald. Morrow, that the question be left with the Fire, Water and Light Committee.

Trust Commissioners

In the reading of the application to the Legislature to provide for changing the tenure of office of the City Trust Commissioners from life to a period of about five years, one to retire each year, Mr. W. H. Moore, one of the commissioners, made the gratifying statement that the City Trust Commissioners have ready the money with which to pay all the debentures falling due June next. The commissioners have charge of the sinking funds, and have always seen to it that the city is in a position to discharge its debentures when falling due. They have also charge of all the city's real estate and apply the rents from same to a sinking fund for all general debentures, other than water works and local improvement debentures. It was generally conceded by the council that the city's high standing in the financial world is mainly due to the commissioners careful guardianship of the city's interests, and their wise investments of such money as come within their jurisdiction.

City's Liabilities

In the application to the Legislature for legislation the clause endorsing the Ontario Municipalities' request that a certain clause in the municipalities act be repealed so as to relieve any municipality from a portion of its liabilities for accidents on the highway. Ald. Turner objected to seeking legislation to take away the rights of the people.

The proposed amendment would relieve the municipalities from all responsibility, except in the case of faulty construction or neglect to repair.

Ald. Turner moved, seconded by Ald. Morgan, that this clause in the city's application be struck out.—Lost.

City Debentures

A bylaw authorizing the sale of $40,000 worth of debentures at five per cent. per annum, passed its several readings.

A bylaw authorizing the payment of $25,000 for the addition to the Queen Alexandra school passed its several readings.

The Assessment

Ald. Buller advocated that the city apply for special legislation authorizing a revision of last year's assessment to a basis more equitable than that of 1906.

This scheme was considered to be impracticable and no action was taken although it was considered that care should be taken to avoid a repetition of last year's high assessment.

THE WEATHER.

Much milder conditions are with us, and with every evidence of a continuance of the same for some little time. At noon the thermometer was over 40 degrees. Last night's lowest was 10 degrees. One year ago a week of the most severe weather of the winter began. Two years ago this date, the creeks were all in flood, as if it were the middle of March.

ANNUAL MEETING OF CEMETERY CO.

Officers and Advisory Board Elected—Auditors and Superintendents Reported

WORK AT THE CEMETERY

The annual meeting of the Little Lake Cemetery Company took place yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, when the reading of the reports and election of officers and directors for the ensuing year took place. The president's report was published in yesterday's issue. The meeting was largely attended and the following officers and directors were elected:

President—Mr. W. H. Moore.

Secretary-Treasurer—Mr. E. A. Peck.

Advisory Committee—Messrs. James Stevenson, Chas. Stapleton, T. A. S. Hay, Benjamin Shortly, and W. H. Moore.

Auditors—Messrs. Jas. A. Hall and T. Q. Quartermaine.

Financial Statement

The statement of the finances presented by the auditors was as follows:

Receipts.

Balance from 1906	$ 692 61
Sales of lots and graves	1833 00
General receipts	2159 40
Trust funds	200 00
Interest	435 45
	$5320 46

The expenditures amounted to a total of $4,738.15, leaving a balance in the bank of $582.31.

Superintendent Mr. Frank Wise reported as follows:

To the President, Directors and Shareholders of the Little Lake Cemetery Company:

Gentlemen,—I beg to submit the following report of work performed in your cemetery during the year 1907.

In the spring a small, temporary extension was placed to the greenhouse which was found necessary owing to the increased demand on the part of the lot owners for flowers for the decoration of their graves and lots. I still find that we are overcrowded and in need of twice our present capacity. An addition, if built, will not require to be as expensive as our present building, owing to it not being required for winter use, therefore it will not be necessary to heat it. Two of the florists have given up the filling of urns for the cemetery, the bulk of which has fallen to us to look after, hence the urgent need for extending.

Two cedar hedges and one iron fence have been removed, and in consequence a decided improvement is noticed in the locality from which they were taken.

Owing to the continual washing out of Range Avenue, a permanent cement water table extending from the chapel to the junction with Ravine Avenue, a distance of about 165 feet, has been built upon each side, at the terminals of each water table a cement catch-basin has been built. The drain leading from these basins and extending along the same avenue, owing to being blocked with sand, was taken up, cleaned and replaced.

A four-inch tile drain has been placed at a depth of six feet, and 160 feet in length, in Section K, the draining of this section will be continued as time will allow.

Owing to the light fall of snow last winter, the frost got under the foundation of the front of the receiving vault and it was found necessary to make some slight repairs. These have been done, but it will be advisable in the near future to make the work more permanent or construct a new vault altogether.

During the past year there has been a demand for a permanent cement grave, some of which have been constructed and have proved satisfactory. These graves can be built any time from April 15th to Nov. 15th at a very nominal cost.

Respectfully submitted.

F. WISE,
Superintendent.

The superintendent's financial statement for the year ending December 31st, 1907, was as follows:

Sale of lots	$1720 50
Sale of graves	112 50

DANIEL MAHONEY HAD COMPLAINT

Considers the City Engineer Has Not Allowed Him Full Measurements of His Work

Mr. D. Mahoney does not consider that Engineer Hay has allowed him sufficient measurements in the amount of gravel he has carried from the cut where the dredge is working. The gravel and mud is dropped into boxes on a scow, which is floated down the river south of Hunter street. Mr. Mahoney took the contract of conveying the mud from the scow on to the property which has been filled in by the dredgings. Mr. Mahoney presented his case to the Board of Works last night.

He estimated that he had handled 19,514 cubic yards, while Mr. Hay had measured the work done, allowing him a little less than 14,000 cubic yards. Mr. Mahoney said his figures were obtained from the engineer on the dredge, who had kept account of the work.

Mr. Hay said he had never taken any measurements of the cut in the river, but he had seen the dredge drop but one bucket of gravel into each of the boxes on the scow. There was two week's work that could not estimated as it had slipped under the ice.

Mr. Mahoney suggested getting an engineer to do the work of measuring the dirt he had moved.

It was decided that Mr. Mahoney secure an engineer who would go over the ground with Mr. Hay, and notes be compared, and in this way the question could be settled.

YOUNG MEN'S GUILD OF ST. PAUL'S CHURCH

Rev. Robt. Pogue to Speak on the Business Career of John Wanamaker and Other Phases of His Life

To-night the Young Men's Guild of St. Paul's church will hold its regular weekly meeting in the Guild Room of the church. In addition to an interesting musical programme by members of the Guild and others, Rev. Robt. Pogue will give an address on some phases of the busy life of Hon. John Wanamaker of Philadelphia. Mr. Pogue enjoyed the personal acquaintance of Mr. Wanamaker during the four years of his ministry in Bethany church, which was founded by Mr. Wanamaker, and is, therefore, intimately familiar with various phases of his life. Business men and young men may therefore expect to enjoy a rare treat, as the address promises to be full of valuable instruction and highest advice. Ladies as well as men are cordially invited to be present. Not only those in attendance at St. Paul's Church, but everybody will be made welcome.

Mr. Hall's Report

The chairman of the Board, Mr. Richard Hall, presented the following report:

The Trustees of the Nicholls Hospital Trust,

Gentlemen,—

The secretary-treasurer's report, which is now presented to you, will give all necessary details as to the receipts and expenditures of the hospital for the year 1907.

You are well aware that the increased cost of provisions of all kinds must increase considerably the cost per day for maintenance of patients, but it has been our endeavour to give the best possible food to those entrusted to our care, and we have therefore not spared expense in catering to the needs of the patients.

The interior of the hospital has within a short time been thoroughly painted, giving the various wards a bright, cheery appearance.

The question of house furnishings has been carefully considered, and a liberal supply of linen, etc., has been procured, which is very essential to the comfort of our patients.

The medical staff and nursing staff have been most faithful in their various duties, and the kindly consideration of the medical staff, who give their services gratuitously to the indigent patients, is worthy of the highest commendation.

Miss De La Matter continues to perform her duties as lady superintendent in a very efficient manner—the hospital under her guidance is deservedly popular.

During the year, Miss Helen Coleman, who was a very acceptable head nurse in the hospital for some years, resigned to accept a position in the West—her successor has not yet been appointed, the matter having been left in the hands of the lady superintendent to recommend a successor.

It is with feelings of great gratification that I note in the balance sheet such figures as will lead me to suppose our hospital will be self sustaining in the future through the action of the trustees of the estate of the late Mrs. Nicholls in giving the residue of the estate to the hospital. I feel that the city has just cause to be grateful and to revere her memory.

The good work of the hospital, I trust, will go on with increased success, and ever be a monument to her whom in her lifetime was such a staunch friend, both in spirit and substance, to the institution bearing her name.

The Officers

The election of officers and committees resulted as follows:—

Chairman—Mr. Richard Hall.
Hon. Secretary—Mr. W H Hill.
Secretary-Treasurer — Mr. John Crane.
Finance Committee—Messrs. Hill, Rush, Madill, Green, Bennett.
Property Committee—Messrs. Aldridge, McClelland, Madill, McBain, Rev. Dr. Langfeldt.
Supply Committee—Messrs. McClelland, Madill, Aldridge, Hill, Rev. J G Potter.
Visiting Committee.—
January and July—Messrs. Hill and Rush.
February and August — Messrs. Green and McClelland.
March and September — Rev. Mr. Potter and Mr. Aldridge.
April and October—Messrs R Hall and J J McBain.
May and November—Messrs. W Madill and J W Bennett.
June and December—Messrs. J. Stevenson, Rev. Dr. Langfeldt.

Death of Dr. Bradd

During the meeting the following resolution was passed regarding the death of Dr. Bradd.

Moved by Messrs J J McBain and W. Aldridge, that this Board of Trustees of the Nicholls Hospital desire to place on record our deep regret and sense of loss by the death of the late Dr. F J Bradd, a member for many years of the Medical staff of the Hospital. Dr. Bradd was always most attentive in the discharge of his duties, ready and willing to render service and assistance to those suffering and requiring attention in connection with the Hospital. His cheerful manner, large heartedness and faithfulness in the discharge of his duties endeared him to all who knew him. This Board desires to tender to Mrs. Bradd and family their sincere sympathy in their sad bereavement and the great loss they have sustained of a loving husband and father, and that the Secretary of this Board forward a copy of this resolution to the bereaved family.

One ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion;

Four ounces Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla;

Mix, and take a teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime, drinking plenty of water.

The above prescription has been found invaluable in the treatment of kidney, bladder and urinary troubles, and diseases arising therefrom, such as rheumatism, sciatica, lame back and lumbago, and we feel that the public are entitled to particulars concerning it.

A prominent physician states that the excellent results that have been obtained from the use of the mixture are due to its direct action upon the kidneys, assisting them in their work of filtering all poisonous waste matter and uric acids from the blood and expelling same in the urine, and at the same time restoring the kidneys to a healthy condition.

He further states that anyone suffering from afflictions of this nature will find it to be very beneficial, and suggests that it be given a trial.

BUSINESS MEETING AND BANQUET

Life Underwriters of Central Ontario Held Important Meeting of The Year

MAYOR RUSH IS PRESIDENT

Yesterday was an important day for the Life Underwriters' Association of Central Ontario, and a large number gathered in the city from the various towns in the district. A business meeting was held early in the evening, in the offices of the Toronto Savings and Loan Company.

The election of officers resulted as follows:

President, Mayor Rush.

1st Vice-Pres., Mr. Widdess, Lindsay.

2nd Vice-Pres., G. B. Stevenson.

Sec.-Treas., W. F. Nelson.

A strong executive was also appointed.

The next business was the admission of new members to the Association. Mr. G. K. Martin was received from Peterborough; four men from Beaverton; one from Cobourg; and two from Uxbridge.

Among those present were Mr. McConkey, superintendent of the North American Life, and Hon. President of the Dominion Underwriters' Association; Mr. J. O. McCarthy, Manager of the Great West Life, and President of the Toronto Underwriters' Association; and Mr. J. E. Parks, President of the Bay of Quinte Life Underwriters' Association.

Banquet

At the conclusion of the business the members adjourned to Long's palm parlours where all sat down to an informal banquet. Including the invited guests about thirty gathered around the festive board. Mr. H. P. Lindsay acted as chairman in the unavoidable absence of Mayor Rush.

An enjoyable event of the evening was the toast list, which was honoured as follows:

The King, proposed by the chairman.

Dominion Underwriters' Association, proposed by Rev. Mr. Pogue, and responded to by Mr. McConkey.

Our Guests, proposed by Mr. D. H. Moore, responded to by Mr. J. E. Parks, of the Bay of Quinte district; Mr. S. E. Salls, District Manager of the Canada Life, replied for the president of the Orillia Life Underwriters' Association.

"Life Agents and their Work," proposed by Rev. E. A. Pearson, responded to by J. O. McCarthy.

A letter of regret was read from Mr. R. R. Hall, M. P., stating that his absence was unavoidable, and expressing his sympathies with the Underwriters.

During the evening vocal solos were sung by Mr. Morphet and Mr. Scriber Mr. John Crane acted as accompanist.

The gathering dispersed, after all had sung "The Maple Leaf."

Why Beauty Fades

Real beauty is rare. It belongs to perfect health. Just as soon as the blood gets thin and watery and the nerves become exhausted, beauty fades, wrinkles show themselves, and the glow of health disappears and beauty curves give place to leanness and angles. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the great blood builder and nerve restorative, is woman's greatest blessing from youth to old age. A few weeks' use of this treatment will do wonders for any woman who is pale, thin, weak and nervous.

MANY HORSEMEN HERE FOR RACES

Mild Weather is Ideal for the Peterborough Ice Meet

The mild weather has insured the success of the Peterborough ice races, making the conditions ideal for spectators, while the track is in excellent shape. A big crowd of outside horsemen are in the city for the event, and the races this afternoon were well patronized. There were two events to-day, the 2.35 class and 2.18 class, six entries in the first and five in the second.

If We Could Look at the Heart of a Pale-Faced Person!

Few people ever stop to consider what pallor to the countenance means. In the first place it indicates an absence from the blood of the rich, red, life-giving elements so requisite to health; and in the second place it indicates a weakened heart action. These two things set and re-act. If we could look at the heart of one of these pale-faced people, we would see it flabby, weak and pallid. No wonder they are easily tired, get out of breath quickly, have palpitation, are nervous and downhearted. Their muscles are poor, their stomach disordered, and their lives are seldom free from misery.

Let them take Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills; there is no remedy to equal them for making pale faces rosy, weak hearts and shaky nerves strong, flabby muscles firm, and infusing new hope and ambition into life.

Mr. W. J. Churchill, Lombardy, Ont., writes: "I was troubled for three years with a weak heart and nervousness. I could not sleep and ever so little food would distress me. I also had faint and dizzy spells, and doctored with three doctors but was growing worse. After taking three boxes of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills I feel as well as ever I did. They are the best pills on earth."

Price 50 cents per box, or 3 for $1.25 at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

TWO KING'S COUNSEL IN PETERBOROUGH

Names Included in the List Issued by Attorney-General's Department

A list of the newly-appointed King's Counsel has been issued from the Attorney-General's Department at Toronto, which includes the names of two Peterborough lawyers, as well as a former lawyer of this city. They are Messrs. L. M. Hayes and W. H. Moore, and R. M. Dennistoun, of Winnipeg. Others are Robt. Ruddy, Millbrook; F. D. Moore, Lindsay; E. G. Porter and W. M. Ponton, Belleville; H. A. Ward, Port Hope; F. M. Field, Cobourg, and G. H. Hopkins, Lindsay.

FOWL SENT TO LINDSAY THIS MORNING

Will Be Exhibited in the Poultry Show Held There

The poultry show which opened in Lindsay to-day will have a few prize fowl from Peterborough on exhibition. Messrs. Kelly and Cunningham and Mr. Harry Lush sent a batch of prize birds to Lindsay on the G.T.R. train this morning. The first two gentlemen are in partnership, and being well-known poultry fanciers, it is expected their birds will carry off at least one of the prizes. Mr. Lush has been exhibiting fowl at different fall fairs and poultry shows for some time, and it is hoped he will have his usual good luck. Mr. Lush has some of the finest fowl in Ontario.

CATTLE WERE CROWDED IN A CAR

Pigs, Cows and Sheep Were Jumbled Together

A car of cattle has been received in the city by a local cattle buyer, who found them in a disgraceful condition. There were 32 cattle, 30 pigs, and 15 sheep, all in one car. They were jumbled together, some lying on the floor, and cruelly over-crowded. The door of the car had to be broken off in order to open it, and the wonder is that some of them were not killed.

POST CARD CORRESPONDENCE.

In this column will be published communications upon post cards only. It will remain open for the use of readers, who are invited to contribute suggestions, inquiries or replies. Anything of a scurrilous personal nature will be prohibited.

Editor Post-Card Column.

Dear Sir,—Being present at the police court on Monday morning when the squabble arose over the prisoner, Burke, I take an especial interest in the case. It seems to me that such a wrangle was uncalled for. The county authorities, I have noticed, often seek the assistance of the city police, and should not, in my opinion, collide with them in any way, as the paths of the former may in future be made more difficult.

Yours, etc.,
"HARMONY."

NO CONDEMNATION OF LOCAL OPTION INTENDED

Editor of St. Luke's Parish Magazine Explains His Position

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—In reply to your communication of Monday referring to the editorial in St. Luke's Parish Magazine on a local option incident, signed "H. Dunford," I beg to say, that the gentleman has not understood the real issue. The article said nothing for or against Local Option, it merely stated the deplorable means employed by the parties interested to get a verdict of the people in favour of local option. Let any issue be fought or voted on squarely and honestly, without adopting methods which savour too much of "the ends justify the means."

Yours truly,
Editor St. Luke's Parish Magazine.

LAKEFIELD AFTER HIGH LIFES

Will Make a Big Effort to Trim Local Team To-morrow

The feature game in the City League matches to-morrow night will be the contest between Lakefield and the High Lifes. The Cementville seven are yet undefeated and are putting up a hard fight for the championship. A win for them over the High Lifes to-morrow will mean that they will be right on the heels of the Strathconas in the hunt for the tinware and great interest is being taken in the result. High Lifes will practice to-night and will select a strong team with which they hope to defeat Lakefield to-morrow. The latter will be strengthened for the occasion and will have a big bunch of rooters on hand with them.

Just as fast should be the game between Norwood and Bridgenorth which forms the other half of the programme. Bridgenorth with a new line-up and hard practising will take a lot of beating and they will be found in the game all the way. Norwood played great hockey against the Strathconas last week and those have not seen the East Peterborough capital team perform should not miss the opportunity of seeing them in action to-morrow night.

WHOLESALE TRAPPING OF RATS

Mr. Winch Gets a Few of the Rodents In a Cage

The greatest success on record in Peterborough in the art of catching rats was made to-day by Mr. H. Winch, who showed some friends a small trap with ten or a dozen of the rodents locked up. The little marauders on the hunt for the bait travelled through a narrow tunnel and couldn't get back. The last nine or ten arriving were not overcome with wisdom and followed the straight and narrow path of their leader.

BOYS ARE HOME FROM BROCKVILLE

Are Preparing an Interesting Report to Present to the Chapter

Masters Hugh Burrit and Carl Halpany, the representatives of St. John's Junior Brotherhood of St. Andrew to the Eastern convention at Brockville, returned home last night. The boys are greatly pleased with their trip and are preparing an interesting report for the meeting next Sunday afternoon. While away the boys came in contact with all the leading Brotherhood men in Canada and come back to their Chapter with great ideas for the future maintenance of this great work. Mr. Jos. Bell, the Honourary Director of the Junior Chapter, was responsible for this representation and expects to send representatives to those meeting every year.

IMPORTANT TO LADIES

—It is not often an opportunity occurs at your door to see the latest Parisian and New York styles in hair goods, yet such is the case as Prof. Dorenwend of Toronto, is visiting this city and invites your inspection of these goods at his private apartments reserved at the Hotel.

These hair good styles when properly adjusted, protect and ornament the head, soften and beautify the expression of the face and consequently tone up an aged appearance. Be sure and see them at the Oriental Hotel on January 27th. 1d

LETTERS THAT WILL APPEAR TO-MORROW

Many Had to be Left Over—They Are Interesting, Too

A number of letters have been received at the Examiner office yesterday and to-day, from readers, but owing to the over-crowding of matter that could not well be left over, they are not published, but possibly will appear to-morrow. Those with names signed will be given the preference. Most of them are on the stone breaking problem, including another from the "Real Englishman."

Messrs. DAVIS-THOMPSON COMPANY, Limited, Agents Guardian Assurance Co., Peterborough

Dear Sirs:—

I beg to acknowledge the receipt of cheque for $500.00 in full settlement of my loss by fire to Dwelling House at Garden Hill.

I appreciate the fair and liberal treatment which I have received from the Guardian Assurance Company, as well as from yourselves as Agents. It is a pleasure to do business with Agents who take a personal interest in your Insurance when a loss occurs.

Learn Dressmaking

We teach you everything from the plainest shirtwaist to the most elaborate toilet that can be found in the fashion books. We show you not only the lining but all the outer in coats, skirts, waists, wrappers, sleeves, children's dresses, collars, etc. Why spend months at a dressmaking shop where you do nothing but hem, overcast, sew on hooks and eyes, and then, after you have served months there what do you know about cutting? Absolutely nothing. You will know no more how to cut out a dress at the end of a year than you did the first day you went there. So why spend your time there when we can teach you in less than two weeks. You can come and try for a few days and if the course is not what we have advertised it to be you have the privilege to stop, as there is no pay in advance. You certainly do not lose anything by trying. If you do not wish to be a professional dressmaker the cost is so small that you can well afford to take it up, if only for your own use. We have taught over 7,000 in this way within the past five years.

Charge for the full course is only $10, to be paid when through, including one of the most perfect charts in use, which we will give free. An evening class will also be taught for the benefit of those who cannot come during the day. In this class we will teach shirtwaists, sleeves and sacques. Terms $4.00 Hours from 7 to 9.30. We will teach at Peterborough from

January 30 to February 7

Hours for this class from 8.30 to 6.

For full information we would be pleased to have all those interested call and have the system explained to them at between 10 and 5 o'clock.

Oriental Hotel, Wednesday, Jan. 29

STRATHS DEFEATED ONCE MORE

Lost at Whitby Last Night in the Slush by 9 Goals to 3

"JAKEY" MOORE INJURED

For the third time this season the Strathconas were defeated in an O. H. A. game at Whitby by 9 goals to 3, after a match played in two inches of slush. The going was desperate, and did not suit the Strathconas at all, while the home team ploughed through the snow as if they had been used to it all their lives. The bird cage rink which is even smaller than the old Charlotte street one, also handicapped the losers, who did not seem to adapt themselves to the conditions and get going properly until well on into the second half. These handicaps, coupled with the fact that Jake Moore had his ankle badly hurt in the first few minutes and had to quit the game, thus thoroughly disorganizing the defence.

The game at times was fast, some good hockey being shown, but the small rink resulted in the forwards being nearly always in a jumbled-up condition, which slowed up the play considerably. Nearly every goal was scored from a scrimmage, and in the style of play Whitby's tactics of shooting and following in on the goal proved very effective. They shot well at close quarters, and although Derocher picked off all kinds of shots some were bound to go in.

The Straths were greatly weakened by the loss of Moore, which came when the locals were just beginning to accustom themselves to the rink and the soft ice. He had been playing a great defence game at cover-point, and it was discouraging to see him leave off early in the game. His injury was received while checking back at Blanchard's heels. In this way he fell, twisting his ankle as he did so. Wally Parnell and McWilliams played fast hockey all through and worked hard for a victory, making many well-meant attempts at combination and skating and shooting nicely. McMillan, who was playing his first O.H.A. game, did not get going well until the second half, when he dug in with a vengeance and was always dangerous. Weatherston worked hard at left wing, while Derocher in goal put up his usual brilliant game, every goal scored being a difficult chance.

A. Blanchard, Whitby's rover, was the star of the game, playing grand hockey all through. He stick-handled and skated beautifully, serpentining his way around and through the Peterborough players in a manner that made Derocher look for trouble every time he got the puck. Parquette did good work at centre, and Smith at point was a second goal-keeper, picking off innumerable shots.

The O. H. A. sent out a new referee, one J. H. Moxon of Toronto, whose only qualification for the job seemed to be that he came from Hog Town. He was long on penalties and short on judgment and eyesight, stopping the Straths' forward line every time it got away together, while there was no such thing as skating a man on side.

The teams and summary follow:

STRATHCONAS		WHITBY
	Goal
Derocker		Huntly
	Point
Myers		Smith
	Cover
Moore		Gould
	Rover
Parnell		A Blanchard

10—Whitby, A. Blanchard.
11—Whitby, A. Blanchard.
12—Peterborough, Parnell.

Penalties — Peterborough, McWilliams 3, Weatherston 3, Parnell 2, Myers, McMillan 2. Total, 11. Whitby—Parquette, A. Blanchard 2, Watson 4, Gould. Total, 8.

The game finished with the teams playing five men a side, Watson of Whitby receiving a bad cut and going off a few minutes before time was up.

CURLERS HAVE GONE TO ORILLIA

Compete in the Bonspiel Which is Being Held There

Four rinks of curlers went to Orillia this morning to participate in the bonspeil that is being held in the northern town during the next few days. The skips are Messrs. Waddell, Hicks, Davidson and Lang. Last night Mr. Dave Hall went up, taking with him all the stones, and to make the necessary arrangements.

The rinks are:

Rink I.	Rink II.
Montgomery,	Webb,
Foote,	W. G Read,
D Hall,	W. E Talbot,
Waddell, sk.	Lang, sk
Rink III.	Rink IV.
Lovekin,	R Hall,
J E A Fitzgerald,	Geo Stevenson,
Frost,	W J Thompson,
Hicks, sk.	D Davidson, sk

The draws were made at 1.30 this afternoon, and the games commenced at 2 o'clock. The curlers should have a good time with their friends from other towns that will meet in Orillia. The length of their visit will depend on their success with the "stanes."

A BIG CROWD GOING TO LINDSAY

Will Accompany the Team by Special Train on Friday Night

A big crowd will go to Lindsay on Friday night to see the game between Lindsay and Peterborough in the intermediate O.H.A. series, which promises to be by far the best game seen in the district this year. The locals are going to get back some of their reputation by putting it over Lindsay on their own ice, and the line-up will be entirely different from any that has represented Peterborough. A number of familiar faces will be seen on the seven, and as the outfit has been practising faithfully they are confident of demonstrating to the vainglorious Midgets that all the hockey in the district is not played by the Lindsay team. The Scugog people expect 2,000 at the game, the old rivalry between the two towns bringing out the crowd. A special train has been arranged for on the G.T.R., leaving at 6.45 and returning after the game. Already a large number has signified its intention of accompanying the team. The fare will be $1.05 return. Lindsay has to be beaten, and Peterborough is going to do it. Better come with the crowd on the only hockey excursion of the season and see how the trick is turned. Lindsay people howled at Peterborough two weeks ago; this is the one chance left for revenge.

PLAYED TIE GAME WITH THE BOYS

Knox Church Young Ladies Can Skate and Play Hockey

A spectacular game of hockey was played on the Reid street rink near Knox Church last night between two teams from the church, one composed of young men and the other of young ladies. There was a great crowd around the rink and enthusiasm and excitement ran high. The teams faced each other as follows:

LADIES		MEN

CRESSMAN'S DEFEAT THE GRAFTERS

Several Free-for-alls Marred the Progress of the Game

The hockey match last night between the Grafters' seven and the Cressman bunch resulted in a score of 5-1 in favour of the counter jumpers. The Grafters were not in it from the start, and as soon as they woke up to the fact they went after the man and not the puck. The girls who lined the fence were full of admiration for the bold display the Grafters made, but when the game began the girls gave their dear ones the ha-ha, and "skidooed." The Cressman girls stayed with it to the finish and cheered their heroes on to victory. Titterson, the Cressman goal-keeper, was a star, and filled the goal completely. Bellegham and Buller were very conspicuous and did all in their power to hold up the Grafters' honour. The teams:

Cressman — Titterson, Anderson, Wade, Tisdale, Darling, Jones, Harrison.

Grafters—Stewart, Hopkins, Staunton, Buller, Haskill, Munn, Bellegham.

Referee—P. Donegan.

Goal umpires — Lightfoot and Little.

THE LIFE INSURANCE MEN MEET

Officers Elected for the Canada Life Insurance Agents Association

The Canada Life Insurance Agents' Association held a well attended meeting yesterday in the Canada Life office here. Arrangements were made for the field work for the Midland district for the current year, and general business was talked over. The members of the association attended a meeting of the Life Underwriters' Association in a body. The following officers were elected:

President—S. E. Sails, Peterborough.

Vice-President — W. R. Widdes, Lindsay.

Sec.-Treas.—Capt. W J Robertson, Port Hope.

A strong executive was also elected.

ONLY A Common Cold,

but it becomes a serious matter if neglected. Pneumonia, Bronchitis, Asthma, Catarrh or Consumption is the result. Get rid of it at once by taking Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

Obstinate coughs yield to its grateful soothing action, and in the racking, persistent cough, often present in Consumptive cases, it gives prompt and sure relief. In Asthma and Bronchitis it is a successful remedy, rendering breathing easy and natural, enabling the sufferer to enjoy refreshing sleep and often effecting a permanent cure."

Mrs. C. Townsend, Lockport, N.S., writes: "I feel it my duty to let you know of my experience with Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. I was troubled with a cold and severe cough all the time, and very severe spells of Asthma. The doctors did all they could for me, but could only give me relief for a short time. I happened to see your medicine advertised and purchased three bottles, and it gave me great relief, and I do not cough at all. I do not know how to express my gratitude for what Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup has done for me."

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup 25 cts. per bottle at all dealers. Put up in yellow wrapper, and three pine trees the trade mark. Refuse substitutes. There is only one Norway Pine Syrup and that one is Dr. Wood's.

Andrew Carnegie And His Money Were Discussed

Interesting Annual Meeting of the Public Library—Opinions Differ on Carnegie Library—Directors Appointed

REPORTS WERE PRESENTED

About a score of members were present at the thirty-ninth annual meeting of the Public Library last night, when the feature of the meeting was the discussion on the propriety or impropriety of asking Mr. Andrew Carnegie for a grant for a free library for Peterborough. The speakers were divided on the question and it could not be said that either opinion predominated.

The president, Dr. Burnham, occupied the chair and submitted the following report:

The Board of Management beg to present for the consideration of the members their thirty-ninth annual report of the affairs of the Public Library:

There were not many changes in the library during the year 1907, but there were plenty of rumours of changes about to take place. Mr. Richard Hall, the trustee of the Nicholls' estate, made an offer to the city council of the building situated on Simcoe street, and formerly occupied by Richard Hall & Son as a department store, for use as a Nicholls' Free Library to be fitted up and adapted to the purpose at the expense of the city. For some reason the offer was not accepted and a new one was later made by which the building, a very fine one and centrally situated, but not exactly suitable for library purposes, was deeded to the city with permission either to use for the purpose, or if preferred to sell it, and apply the proceeds for the library.

Another proposition brought before the city council was to apply to Mr. Andrew Carnegie for a sufficient sum to erect a suitable building, and to use the proceeds of the Hall building for endowment purposes. No definite action has as yet reached on the subject. While we greatly appreciate the liberal gift of the trustees of the Nicholls' estate, we find that the rumors have had a tendency to diminish our membership, as many when their tickets expired declined to renew them, as they expected before long to get the books without money and without price.

For a number of years there has been a gradual but steady increase in the number of members, but for the reasons given, there has been, we are sorry to say, a decrease for the last year, and the number of books issued has also been less than usual.

Your Board, however, has not failed to keep up the supply of good and interesting reading matter, both in the library and in the reading rooms.

The large number of 73 magazines and periodicals, besides 15 daily and weekly newspapers have been placed on the tables or files in the reading rooms, and 191 new books added to the library. Among the latter are new and complete sets of the standard authors, Scott, the Bronte Sisters, Victor Hugo and George Meredith.

Owing to the death of Mr. Wm. Pringle and the removal from the city of Mr. D. Walker, the Board has lost two much respected and highly esteemed members since our last annual meeting.

The Secretary-Treasurer's statement of the financial affairs of the library, duly audited, is appended.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

John Corkery, Secretary-Treasurer. George Burnham, President.

The Directors

The following directors were then unanimously elected: Dr. Burnham and Messrs. John Corkery, T. A. S. Hay, J. S. Knapman, Jas. English, W. H. Hill, T. C. Elliott, L. M. Hayes, H. A. Kenney.

The Carnegie Library

An interesting discussion followed the routine business on the Carnegie library question. Mr. T. C. Elliott objected to the carrying out of such an unmanly proposal as to request Andrew Carnegie's assistance. He thought the city should build its own library and that there were enough manly citizens in Peterborough to do so. If they were not able to pay for it the citizens should do without it, he believed.

Mr. Jno. Belcher was of a different mind. There was no immorality that he could see in asking Mr. Carnegie for $30,000. Mr. W. Aldridge said that money was money and considered that Mr. Carnegie's should be accepted as readily as any other.

Rev. Canon Davidson stated his instincts were against the proposal to ask Mr. Carnegie for money. He could not endorse the principle that money is money and did not think that the city would be self-respecting in accepting it. Mr. Carnegie has never made many complimentary remarks about Canada, and although he did not feel very strongly on the question he did not think any outsider should be asked to contribute.

Mr. J. S. Knapman stated that during the past year he had visited the Carnegie libraries in Galt and Brantford, and particularly in the latter place he found the citizens were very proud of it. He thought that if Mr. Carnegie had $30,000 to offer for a library it shoul dbe accepted.

Another Opponent

Mr. J. English was emphatically opposed to a Carnegie library. Considering the grant made by the Nicholls' estate there was no necessity for asking him. He was rather a fatalist in his opinions and believed that bad luck would follow if Carnegie's money was used.

Mr. Hill stated that he is and always was in favour of accepting money from Mr. Carnegie for a library. It would cost the city $30,000 to erect a library. Debentures would have to be issued covering a period of thirty years at 7 or 8 per cent. to pay for this, which, together with 10 per cent. for maintenance would make the cost more than the city could afford.

Other millionaires have given money for such purposes. Cecil Rhodes has given money for the Rhodes scholarships and several similar cases were cited. Other cities in Ontario have asked and received the library and it is being appreciated. We, in Peterborough are no better than citizens of other cities, and there is no reason why we should not accept it.

Mr. Pringle denounced the actions of all millionaires in "their greed for gain." They have prostituted morals and made their fellowmen work the harder. He thought the money of Carnegie could be better used to assist the labouring men who have to earn their bread by the sweat of their brew. He would not object to getting money from Mr. Carnegie to build homes for the poorer people of this city.

Mr. John Nugent, in expressing his views on the matter, stated that Mr. Carnegie was a Scotchman and a British subject and there was just as much principle in accepting money for cottages as there was for reading matter for poorer people who could not afford to pay for it.

After a few more remarks the meeting was adjourned.

The Following Letter Speaks For Itself

Peterborough, Nov. 1st, 1907.

W. G. MORROW, Esq.,
Agent Imperial Life Assurance Co.,
Peterborough.

Dear Sir:—I have received notification of the option available in respect to my ten-year Endowment Policy of $5000 which matured to-day and it affords me pleasure to say that I view with much satisfaction the results of my investment with your Company.

The substantial surplus which the Policy has earned in the comparatively short period of ten years makes the returns which would be made to me, under any of the options now open to my selection, most liberal and attractive.

It is greatly to the credit of the Company that after having granted me an Insurance of $5000 from the issue of the Policy in 1897 to the present time, it can now offer me under the cash-value option a sum so greatly in excess of the total premiums that I have paid into it, or under the paid up Insurance option, a paid up Policy considerable more than double the amount of my original Policy.

Permit me to wish the Company a long continuance of its prosperity

Yours very truly,

J. R. STRATTON.

REASONS WHY THE Y.M.C.A. HAS A DEFICIT OF $1800

Portion Of Money Received Not Result of the Campaign—Unexpected Liabilities Added Since That Time

FALLING OFF IN FUNDS

To the Editor of the Examiner:

In an editorial article in your issue of Monday night you make reference to the financial condition of the Y. M. C. A., as set forth in the annual statement presented on Saturday night. In expressing the opinion that the public is entitled to an explanation you are simply voicing the expressed opinion of every member of the Board of Directors. At the meeting on Friday and also at the meeting of the board previous to that reference was made to the generous treatment that the Y. M. C. A. has always received from the public and also from the press of Peterborough, and it was owing to the general desire that the press and public should be fully taken into our confidence, that the present unsatisfactory financial condition was so fully set forth.

Now, a few words in answer to your request for further explanation. At the time of the campaign in October, it was stated that the sum of $2,300 would be required to cover the outstanding indebtedness and meet running expenses till the end of the year. As you say, it was announced at the closing banquet that that sum had to be realized, either in cash or promises, and naturally people inquire what has become of the money. The following considerations may serve to make matters clear.

1. The directors are not in a position to say whether or not the statement that the $2,300 had been raised was correct, but they know that between the beginning of the campaign and the 31st of December about $1,550 was received by the treasurer from subscriptions and membership fees, a considerable part of which was not a result of the campaign and there was then about $500 still unpaid, some of which cannot be realized on, so that at the most the campaign will net the association not more than about $1,800.

2. A considerable sum has since that time been added to the liabilities, the existence of which was at that time unknown to the directors and evidently overlooked by those who compiled the statement then made public.

3. In the campaign of October a considerable amount of the regular revenue was anticipated. Subscriptions that are always made were asked for in advance and membership collected in advance.

4. The "money stringency" and scarcity of work in the city has affected to some extent the regular revenue during the past three months. There has been a considerable falling off in the income from donations and membership fees.

These and other less important matters serve to give some explanation of the present condition.

Thanking you for your space and for all your past courtesies to the Y. M. C. A., I am

Yours respectfully,
R. E. HARDING,
Past President.

MINIMUM FINE FOR LAKEFIELD MAN WHO GAVE ALE TO A MINOR

Joseph Curtin of Lakefield was fined $10 and costs by Magistrate Edmison this morning for giving liquor to a minor, a young lad named Trude. Mr. O. A. Langley appeared for Curtin and Mr. W. H. Moore represented the Crown.

It will be remembered that the evidence in this case was printed in a previous issue as it was received. The hearing continued through one afternoon and night until nearly 11 o'clock.

This morning Mr. Langley addressed his Worship and intimated on behalf of his client that he would plead guilty.

Mr. Curtin did not consider that he had deliberately broken the law, his counsel said. The boy had been locked out at home, he was told, and came to him, and he let him stay with him during the night. The ale was there and the boy drank it without being in any way forced or coaxed.

Magistrate Edmison said he considered Mr. Curtin had acted wisely in his pleading guilty. His sympathies were not entirely with the boy and his father, as the latter had given him ale regularly until about a year ago. Thus, the boy was not unknown to the taste of liquor.

Mr. Moore for the prosecution said it was not a case for the minimum fine as the defendant in his evidence had tried to bring out that it was Kops' ale, and a non-alcoholic beverage. Had he come forward then and pleaded guilty there might have been some allowance made, but in this case it was done only as a last resource, and Mr. Moore considered it should be a maximum fine.

Magistrate imposed the minimum fine of $10 and costs.

JOHN WANAMAKER PORTRAYED BY REV. ROBT. POGUE

Before the Young Men's Guild of St. Paul's Church and Many Business And Professional Men

Last night the largest attendance at any regular meeting of the Young Men's Guild of St. Paul's church, was present to listen to the address on John Wannamaker by the Rev. Robt. Pogue. Quite noticeable was the presence of many professional and business men, doubtless attracted by the interest taken in the biographical address of the evening as well as by the ability of the speaker.

The chair was taken by the President of the Guild, Mr. VanBlaricom.

After opening prayer by Rev. Mr. Pogue two well rendered solos were given by Miss Moore and Miss Davies to the accompaniment of Mr. Crane.

The chairman then announced that Rev. Mr. Pogue had kindly consented to deliver an address on John Wannamaker, of Philadelphia, from his personal knowledge of him, after a four years' intimate acquaintance with him while associate pastor of Bethany Tabernacle of that city.

Rev. Mr. Pogue remarked that he would not pretend to do anything more than give a rambling talk about his friend, Mr. Wannamaker, because there was so much that could be said about his business life his life, and his religious life, that a whole evening could easily be devoted to any of these. He would therefore confine himself chiefly to a description of some of his personal characteristics and religious activities. Mr. Wannamaker received very little school instruction. Notwithstanding this fact he was an exceptionally well read man. He possessed a very large library, which was unfortunately destroyed by fire some time later. Early in life Mr. Wanamaker formed the habit of saving money, half of which he spent in books.

A Great Organizer

Part of his early work was in organizing Bethany Church and Y. M. C. A. organizations. He took great interest in men's meetings and would invite many young men to go with him to church and other religious meetings. The speaker related the incidents which led to Mr. Wannamaker's conversion. He built many fine edifices, one of which was dedicated to the memory of John Chambers, under whom he was converted.

Mr. Wannamaker began his first Sunday school work in the suburbs of Philadelphia. The first Sunday he and a boy friend, whom he had interested in the work, walked through a blinding snowstorm and commenced a class with a few members. This class was broken up by a band of hoodlums. He returned the next Sunday and held a meeting in a heated room with about twenty members. At this same place grew up the now famous Bethany Sunday school. Much time and labour was spent in subscribing money and material for its construction. A Brotherhood Association was also formed with Mr. Wannamaker as president, which had many good rules laid down and high ideals were set. The organizing of this association showed his great organizing ability, which has effected so many people far and near. Many clubs were formed within this organization, such as reading clubs, literary clubs, visiting clubs, etc., all of which were under the direct supervision of Mr. Wannamaker.

Mr. Wannamaker's Business Insight

One of the secrets of his success was the careful insight into the little affairs of business. He practically knew the names of all the members of his large Sunday school class which numbered upwards of 1,000 members.

Bethany Church, which he founded had an immense auditorium, and after the early morning session of the brotherhood the men would march into the gallery and occupy one section. A similar number of young boys would occupy another section, and a number of girls would have another section. He also had a trained choir of boys. This immense gathering of men he would lead in singing and deliver short addresses.

The Sunday school of Bethany Church was also carried on under his guidance. The most interesting character of the meeting was the opening exercises. The principal feature was its remarkable singing. He usually directed the singing himself, as well as delivered the address and taught the Bible class. In his great departmental stores in New York and Philadelphia he was a great advertiser and did an immense business. The speaker closed his remarks with a fitting eulogy of this great man's worth and usefulness.

Before the meeting was closed, references were made to the chairman regarding his busy life, including a reference to his personal interest in the Young Men's Club, and his professional activities.

OBITUARY

MRS. FRED McCORRY

At 10.30 o'clock this morning at her residence, 83 London street, there passed away in the person of Jessie McCorry one of Peterborough's oldest and most highly esteemed citizens. The deceased lady had been an invalid for five years, suffering from paralysis, which was the cause of her death.

Mrs. McCorry was born in Scotland, 70 years ago, and came to Canada at the age of 20. She moved to Peterborough 15 years ago, and has remained here since. She leaves behind her a husband, four daughters, Marion, of Cobourg Hospital; Mrs. Ed. Hanna, Seattle, Wash.; Mrs. W. Budd, Millbrook, and Mrs. W. Jowett of this city. The sons are Arthur of Havelock; Edward and George of Millbrook and Fred of Peterborough.

The funeral arrangements will be announced later.

ELECTION RETURNS BY EXAMINER BULLETIN

The election in South Huron for the seat in the Commons rendered vacant by the death of Mr. R. H. Gunn (Conservative) takes place to-day. The constituency was carried by Mr. Gunn against Mr. Thomas Fraser, Liberal, in the last general election by a majority of 111. In the election before that Mr. Geo. McEwen, Independent Liberal, beat Mr. John McMillan, the regular Liberal nominee, by 221. The Liberal party is now firmly united, with Mr. M. Y. McLean as the candidate, and it is expected that he will carry the riding to-day by a substantial majority over Mr. Horton, his opponent. The Examiner has arranged for a bulletin as soon as the returns are in.

BLENDING OF THE TWO WHEATS

Importance is Not Realized by Ontario Farmers—Millers Have Done Their Part

WHAT BLENDED FLOUR DOES

Some of our farmers do not seem to realize the importance of the success of Ontario millers in blending Ontario and Manitoba wheat. In a word, it means a growing demand for these blended flours, a steady market for Ontario wheat, better prices to the farmer for his wheat, and lower prices for bran and shorts.

All of these much-wished-for results are due solely to the efforts of our millers. They first proved to their own satisfaction that blended flours were better than flours made of a single variety of wheat. They proved by repeated tests that a blend of Ontario wheat and a little western wheat made better bread than Manitoba "hard patent flour," and also made better pies, cake and pastry than Ontario "pastry flour." This is true because blended flours contain the good qualities of both kinds of wheat.

One of the largest bakeries in Toronto tried a blended flour for making "home-made bread," and in a short time they were working night and day in a vain endeavour to supply the demand. In the Maritime Provinces blended flours have driven the western flours out of the market in some instances.

The millers have done more than their part in proving to the people that blended flours are best. It is doubtful if our farmers realize how much they can help in restoring the price of Ontario wheat to its old figure. What our farmers should do is to stop buying western wheat flours and use only Ontario blended flours. This would create such a demand for Ontario wheat that the price would soon go up, and our farmers, of course, would get all the benefit.

Then, too, this would help our dairymen and stockmen. The prime cause of bran and shorts selling for such ridiculously high prices has been that our local mills were grinding little wheat, and consequently there were none of these feeds for sale at the mills. They had to be brought from Manitoba and Alberta, and by the time the freight was added to the nice profit which the western millers demanded, the price was out of all proportion to what it should be. By buying blended flours and keeping our mills running to their full capacity there will be plenty of bran and shorts to sell at very much less than they cost to-day.

MAYOR RUSH TOO

Some of the newspapers are making considerable comment upon what is considered an unique record of a Mr. McMahon, of Woodstock, in the head of his self-sacrifice in accepting office on the Board of Education, and securing election without soliciting votes. If this is something to be made much of, and it will not be denied that the circumstances are highly creditable, they are, however, matched in Peterborough where Mayor Rush accepted candidature under moral compulsion of a requisition of six hundred or eight hundred ratepayers, on condition that he would not be asked to solicit votes. He accepted the candidature as an act of duty in response to a popular demand, and without soliciting a single vote was elected by the largest majority ever given in a mayoralty contest in Peterborough. Woodstock has not the only rare bird on the perch.

TRIUMPHANT ADMINISTRATION

The management of the postoffice under Liberal auspices is typical of the spirit that has prevailed in all departments. The Tory press would be able, no doubt, to find in its statistics another proof that the people were being taxed higher now than ing, according to Tory logic, that $2,- the postoffice revenue contributed by them amounted to $2,971,653, whereas in 1906 it was $5,933,342, indicating, according to Tory logic, that $2,961,689 more was paid in taxes in the latter year than in the former.

In point of fact, the "taxation" was one-third less. The same amount and weight of correspondence in 1896 as in 1906 would have cost one-third more. Correspondence that cost $30 in 1896 would cost but $20 in this year of grace.

For 33 years, or almost from Confederation, there had been deficits in the postoffice. In the eighteen years of Conservative rule, from 1879 to 1896, there never had been a deficit of less than $423,000, and it had been as high as $911,031. During those eighteen years the deficits in the postoffice totalled over $13,000,000. And every agitation for cheaper postage was answered by pointing to the deficit.

During a large part of the time the United States had a two-cent rate. Torontonians who had friends in the United States were frequently chagrined to recognize that a letter came from San Francisco at a lower rate than from Hamilton or Oshawa.

It is a study to see what happened as soon as the Liberal Government took charge of things. The change of Government took place in July, 1896. The reign of extravagance could not be closed at once. Contracts had to be allowed to run their term. Nevertheless, during that year the deficit was reduced from $781,152 to $586,540. By 1898 it was down to $47,602.

Hon. Mr. Mulock then thought it opportune to take the step that brought about Imperial penny postage, a piece of administrative courage for which he must ever be renowned in the annals of the postoffice. Domestic penny postage followed immediately.

In the meantime the needs of the Yukon and Atlin Lake miners were pressing on the Government, and that altogether abnormal call for postal expenditure arose. Between the lowered rate and the Yukon service the deficit again went up to six figures namely, $398,918. It was $461,662 in 1900, and $416,184 in 1901, but 1902 saw the first surplus in 33 years. It was a modest one—$5,109—but it has grown as follows:

1904	304,781
1905	490,845
1906	1,011,765

In opposition to triumphant administration of this kind we have a lot of charges that are as vague and impalpable as the east wind, and just about as satisfying. A jury would throw them out of court without leaving the box.—Globe.

KEENE AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY MEETS

Officers Elected and Statement of Receipts and Expenditures Received

DATES FOR THE NEXT FAIR

Examiner Special

Keene, January 22. — Following are the minutes of the annual meeting of the Keene Agricultural Society held in the Council Chamber, on Friday, January 17th:

The president Mr. Robert Humphries, occupied the chair.

The minutes of the last meeting, and of the directors' meeting, were read by the secretary, and on the motion of Wm Drummond and W B Stewart, the minutes as read were adopted.

The annual financial statement was next read by the treasurer showing a balance on hand of $254.62, and on motion of Wm Drummond, seconded by W B Stewart, adopted.

The treasurer was instructed to refund $1 to Mr. R A Nelson, entrance fee.

On motion of Peter Drummond and W B Stewart decided to take no action regarding the appointment of expert judges or of delegates to the Fairs Association.

It was moved by William Drummond, seconded by John Lang, that the president and secretary be duly instructed to sign communications from Mr Peck, solicitor regarding the opening of part of the fourth street of the village of Keene, when the necessary correction is made regarding the reservation made by the Agricultural Society.

It was decided to hold the fair on Tuesday and Wednesday, October 6th and 7th.

Moved by Wm Drummond and R A Nelson that the matter of membership of Mr. John C Taylor and his son be left as at present.—Carried.

Moved by J H Scriver and John Lang that W A McIlmoyle be paid his prize money in full on presentation of declaration that the lady who drove his horse is a member of his family.

Messrs Wm Drummond, J Lang and Andrew Shearer were on motion of Peter Drummond and R A Nelson appointed a committee to have necessary repairs made, to lease the grounds for pasture, and to look after the fair grounds.

The following were appointed as officers for 1908:

Pres., Robt Humphries.
Vice-Pres., Peter Drummond.
2nd Vice-Pres., Joshua Smithson.
Sec.-Treas., Andrew Shearer.
Auditors, Jas McNeil and John C Read.
Directors, J H Fife, John Lang, J J Moore, W J Miller, Gilbert Howson, Alex Stewart, Wm Drummond, John Miller, John Throop, John Carr, Robert Weir, R A Nelson, David Edwards.

The treasurer's statement was as follows:

Receipts.

Bal on hand last report	$201 47
Legislative grant	126 00
Municipal grant	75 00
Members subscriptions	47 25
Donations	76 05
Prize money returned treas	62 40
Admission fees	310 84
Rent of stalls, etc	20 00
Entrance fees special attractions	19 50
Miscellaneous receipts	19 15
	$958 26

Expenditures.

Prizes	$362 85
Special attractions	62 00
Previous due from previous years	1 00
Interest	12 50
Payment on Society's property	150 00
Sundry expenses	95 29
	$703 64
Bal on hand	254 62
	$958 26

The Society's assets total $1397.62, and the liabilities $106.75.

The Society has a sufficient balance on hand to pay off the remainder due on their property, and still have a considerable sum of money on hand.

Much of the success of the Society is due to the indefatigable efforts of the secretary, Mr. Andrew Shearer. The Society has paid off all due on their property, bought for $1200, in four years' time, and has been successful in making each fair a little better and bigger than the preceding one. Since buying the property it has been improved considerably by being stumped and stoned, partly fenced anew, the race track put in condition, and the grounds levelled and seeded down.

MEN RETURN FROM THE WOODS

Young's Point News of Interest—Skating Rink Open

Examiner Special:

Young's Point, Jan. 22.—Mr. Thos. Dever, an old resident of the Point, has been very ill for the past month.

Miss Mary McCauley has returned after a visit of two weeks to her home in Trenton.

Rev. Mr. Battersby is breaking in a fine colt these days, and understands his business.

Mr. Jas. Carroll has a pretty colt, which he hitches up occasionally, and will make a good driver.

Some of the boys who were working in the woods returned home this week.

Capt. Scollard, who is dealing for the McDonald Estate, is spending a few days at home.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Brooks, who were conducting the hotel for Mr. Lawless in Lakefield for the past four months, have returned to the Point.

Mr. Jerry Young, of the steamer Stoney Lake, is back north measuring for the Peterborough Lumber Company.

The snow is pretty deep around this neighbourhood, but the roads are very good.

Mr. Michael Pluard, Sr., of Harvey, who had been ailing the past six months, died at his home near Scott's Mills, in Harvey, on Friday night, January 17. The deceased was a respectable resident of the township for a number of years, and was 69 years of age. He leaves a wife and a family of eight to mourn his loss: Mr. Jos. Pluard, Peterborough; Michael, Jr., and Fred, of Harvey, and Harry of Minnesota; and Mrs. Alex Simpson, Harvey; Mrs. James Simpson, Minnesota; Mrs. Rich. Taylor, Parry Sound, and Mrs. John Johnston, Peterborough. The funeral will take place to the Catholic cemetery, Young's Point, on Sunday, the 19th inst.

The boys have a first-class open rink here and quite a number is enjoying the ice daily. The recent snowstorms interfered with the rink, but there are four or five of the boys who work like Trojans and keep the ice in first-class condition.

Miller's Drink Cure is $1 per box. For sale by W. Madill.

FOR DISCUSSION AT BOARD OF TRADE MEETING

Municipal Government by Commission And Public Library are Subjects

A general meeting of the Board of Trade will be held in the City Council Chamber on Tuesday next, 28th of Jan. 1908, at 8 o'clock sharp. The subject will be, "Municipal Government by Commission." A paper on this matter will be read by Mr. W. H. Moore, K.C. The subject of a public library will also be discussed. The general public is cordially invited to this important meeting.

TUMORS CONQUERED

SERIOUS OPERATIONS AVOIDED

Unqualified Success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the Case of Mrs. Fannie D. Fox.

One of the greatest triumphs of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the conquering of woman's dread enemy, Tumor.

The growth of a tumor is so sly that frequently its presence is not suspected until it is far advanced.

So-called "wandering pains" may come from its early stages, or the presence of danger may be made manifest by profuse monthly periods, accompanied by unusual pain, from the abdomen through the groin and thighs.

If you have mysterious pains, if there are indications of inflammation or displacement, secure Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound right away and begin its use.

Mrs. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., will give you her advice if you will write her about yourself. She is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham and for twenty-five years has been advising sick women free of charge.

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I take the liberty to congratulate you on the success I have had with your wonderful medicine. Eighteen months ago my periods stopped. Shortly after I felt so badly that I submitted to a thorough examination by a physician and was told that I had a tumor and would have to undergo an operation.

"Soon after I read one of your advertisements and decided to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. After trying five bottles as directed the tumor is entirely gone. I have been examined by a physician and he says I have no signs of a tumor now. It has also brought my periods around once more, and I am entirely well."—Fannie D. Fox, 7 Chestnut Street Bradford, Pa.

Havelock Council Refund Money On Account of Slim Finances Received—First Meeting of the New Year.

JAMES THOMPSON IS REEVE

Havelock, Jan. 20.—A number of the young men of town entertained their friends to an "at home" in the town hall on Wednesday evening. About fifty were present and a most enjoyable evening was spent by all.

A large number from town attended the funeral of the late Thomas Fraser of Calgary, formerly of town, at Norwood on Thursday afternoon.

Messrs. McLeary and Weldon of Norwood attended the "at home" in the town hall on Wednesday evening.

Mr. Wm. Culligan of Toronto is again acting as operator at the C.P.R. station here. He will in all probability be left here during the winter. Mr. and Mrs. Culligan arrived in town Wednesday and will take up residence here.

A number of changes have been made lately on the C.P.R., two operators having been laid off, Mr. Rath of Central Ontario Junction and Mr. O. Bracken of Havelock station. Mr. Bracken left for his home on Thursday. He will be greatly missed by his many Havelock friends.

On Wednesday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock at the Methodist church, Norwood, by Rev. Mr. Adams, Miss Maggie Mark was joined in wedlock to Mr. Ben Chambers, both being residents of Havelock. The young couple was attended by Miss Moffatt of town, cousin of the bride, and Mr. Robt. Chambers, also of town, brother of the groom.

After the ceremony the bridal party drove to the bride's home, where the guests were awaiting them to bestow congratulations upon the young couple, after which they adjourned to the dining-room where a sumptuous repast was partaken of.

The young couple has resided in town for over two years, during which time they have both made numerous friends who wish them every happiness and prosperity. Many beautiful presents were received. They will reside in town.

The hockey team will journey to Tweed on January 22, where they play their second game of the season. We would wish them success.

Miss Rose Darren of Preneveau and Miss Deby Calwell of Marmora were the guests of the Misses Bryans on Wednesday.

The council met in the council chamber on Monday, January 13, at 11 a.m. The newly-elected reeve, Jas. Thompson, and Councillors Campney, Knox, Wood and Phillips, having taken their declaration of office, took their seats.

Adjourned until Thursday, January 16, at 7.30 p.m.

Council met on January 16 in the council chamber at 7.30 p.m., Present were Councillors Campney, Knox, Wood and Phillips.

Moved by Coun. Campney, seconded by Coun. Wood, that Joe Knox be chairman in the absence of the reeve.

Minutes were read and approved.

Bylaw to appoint municipal officers was carried.

Moved by Coun. Wood, seconded by Coun. Phillips, that J. W. Bryans be clerk and treasurer at a salary of $110 a year.

That W. Patterson and F. McMaster be auditors at a salary of $7.50 each a year.

Moved by Coun. Campney, seconed by Coun. Wood, that Mr. Sherry of Norwood be solicitor.

Moved by Coun. Wood, seconded by Coun. Phillips, that Jas. Scott be assessor at a salary of $50.

Moved by Coun. Campney, seconed by Coun. Wood, that Jas. Brill be constable at a salary of $35 a month.

Moved by Coun. Campney, seconed by Coun. Wood, that Dr. Crawford be M. H. O., and that S. S. Joyce be a member of the Board of Health for three years.

Moved by Coun. Campney, seconed by Coun. Knox, that the following accounts be paid:

Jas. Brill, constable, salary to Jan 17.....	$35.00
R. Phillips, returning officer	6.00
H T Andrews, returning officer	7.50
John Richard, snow plowing, 1907.....	2.00
Electric lights for Dec....	63.53
Jas. Thompson, con. cap...	2.00
Jas. Brill, three meals for prisoners.....	.75

Moved by Coun. Campney, seconed by Coun. Wood, that the clerk be included in the Ottawa deputation.—Carried.

The clerk was ordered to have the solicitor amend the old transient trader bylaw or draw up a new one.

Moved by Coun. Wood, seconded by Phillips, that a special meeting of the council be held Friday, January 24, at 7.30 p.m.,—Carried,

Moved by Coun. Knox, seconded by Coun. Phillips, that Lancaster and Dineen get a rebate of $5 for rent of the town hall for "Perils of a Great City."—Carried.

Moved by Coun. Campney, seconded by Coun. Knox, that a rebate of $10 be given Mr. Inhis for rent of hall for ball to clear expenses for baseball team.—Carried.

Moved by Messrs. Holderoft and Harrington, that this Board ask the Council to appoint a truant officer. —Carried.

Are You Bankrupt In Nerve Force

THERE IS A RICH FRIEND TO RESCUE YOU—LEARN MORE ABOUT

If you spend three dollars a day and earn two you are sure to come to bankruptcy, unless, perchance, some rich friend comes to your assistance.

And yet this is just what thousands of us are doing in regard to our health. By worry, overwork, anxiety or the disobedience of the laws of nature, the energy and vigour of the body is wasted more rapidly than it is built up, and the result is the bankruptcy of the health and the decay of the body.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food may be likened to the rich friend, for it supplies in condensed and easily assimilated form the very ingredients from which nature constructs nervous energy and builds up the human system.

Mrs. F. Turner, 336 Aylmer street, Peterborough, Ont., and whose husband is employed at the Hamilton foundry, states: "For some months past I found myself growing nervous and gradually becoming a victim of sleeplessness, and subject to frequent attacks of nervous headache. About six weeks ago I began the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and cannot speak too highly of this medicine. I can sleep well now, the headaches have entirely disappeared, and I believe that my system generally has been improved greatly by the use of this treatment."

Sleeplessness, headaches, indigestion, loss of appetite, worn-out feelings, spells of weakness and despondency are some of the symptoms of exhaustion which point to the approach of nervous prostration, locomotor ataxia and paralysis.

No one would think of neglecting such ailments if they realized their condition, but they do not, so gradual and insidious is their approach.

If you are persistently subject to these symptoms you are in danger. Your blood must be enriched. Your nerves must be invigorated. Your system must be built up. And there is no means whereby this can be so certainly accomplished as by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food; 50 cents a box at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.—2

Pleads Justification.

Toronto, Jan. 22.—Rev. J. A. Macdonald, editor of The Globe, in the Assizes yesterday, pleaded justification in the publication of the articles which Dr. Beattie Nesbitt complains are criminally libelous.

At the request of Dr. Nesbitt's counsel, Justice Britton ordered that the plea of justification which is a series of alleged incidents, be not published until Dr. Nesbitt can accompany it with his reply.

Arrested on a Grave Charge.

Winnipeg, Jan. 22.—Edward Finigan, superintendent of the Winnipeg Boys' Club, was arrested yesterday morning on the complaint of Thomas Peterson, uncle of Alfred Johnston, a 12-year-old boy, charging a very grave offence. Finigan is widely known in this city in connection with juvenile charitable work, and his arrest has created a sensation.

SCHOOL DOORS CLOSED.

Vancouver Board Declines to Admit Chinese Children as Pupils.

Ottawa, Jan. 22.—A complaint has been made to the comptroller of Chinese Benevolent Society of Vancouver in regard to the refusal of the public school board of that city to allow twenty young Chinese boys to attend the public school at that city.

The lads are between five and twelve years of age, and came to Canada between May and August of last year, paying the head tax of $500 each. Provided they attend a public school for twelve consecutive months the head tax is returned, according to law, but the refusal of the school board has complicated matters, and the lads have had to be sent to a private school.

The Chinese Benevolent Society wants to know whether the time spent at a private school, pending the decision of the courts as to whether the lads may attend the public school, will count in the statutory time within which the remission of the head tax may be earned.

HOW TO MAKE THE BEST REMEDY

Fine Recipe For Rheumatism and Kidney Trouble Gives Prompt Relief

FIX THIS FOR YOURSELF

A large health publication tells its readers of a number of simple and safe prescriptions that can be made at home. The following, however, for the cure of rheumatism and kidney and bladder troubles, receives the greatest praise, viz., Fluid Extract dandelion, one-half ounce, Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. These simple, harmless ingredients can be obtained at any good prescription pharmacy at little cost and are mixed by shaking well in a bottle.

The dose for adults is a teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime, drinking a full tumblerful of water after each dose. It is further stated that this prescription is a positive remedy for kidney trouble and lame back, weak bladder and urinary difficulties, especially of the elderly people, and one of the best things to be used in rheumatic afflictions, relieving the aches and pains and reducing swellings in a short time.

A well known local druggist states that this mixture acts directly upon the eliminative tissues of the kidneys; cleanses these sponge-like organs and gives them power to shift and strain the poisonous waste matter and uric acid from the blood which is the cause of rheumatism.

Cut this out and hand to some sufferer, which would certainly be an act of humanity.

BOMBS IN NEW YORK.

Notorious Black Hand Organization Seeking to Extort Money.

New York, Jan. 22.—The explosion of three bombs yesterday attested to the activity of the so-called Black Hand gangs which extort money from the Italians in this city.

One bomb was exploded evidently by mistake in front of the home garden settlement at 116th street and First avenue. It blew in the doors and windows and smashed every window in several tenement blocks across the street, but injured no one.

Another bomb was exploded in the hallway of a tenement in East 13th street, the owner of which had received letters demanding $5,000. The building was damaged, but the tenants were uninjured.

A milk wagon ran over a third bomb which was lying in East 149th street. It exploded and partially demolished the wagon. The driver was unhurt.

FORGER IS SENTENCED.

Bank Operator, Who Says He Is Well Connected, Gets Seven Years.

Hamilton, Jan. 22.—Judge Spidar yesterday morning sentenced H. T. Wesson, who was arrested here recently in the Merchants' Bank while in the act of cashing a forged check for $450 on the Dineen Co. of Toronto, to seven years in Kingston Penitentiary. The prisoner pleaded guilty to seven separate charges of forgery, three of which had the uttering of forged checks tacked on them.

Wesson said he had wealthy and respected relatives in Jackson City, Tenn. Last September he went to Toronto, and took over the publication of The White Lyre. Wesson swore that another man, whom he named, superintended the issuing of the forged checks and received half the profits. He took the sentence coolly.

Refuses to Develop Mines.

Amoy, China, Jan. 22.—There has been organized a Chinese company to open the iron and coal mines in the vicinity of Awtow, 56 miles northwest of Tsuantsin. The capital of the company is $2,000,000. The development is in charge of English engineers.

CONCEIT BUT ABILITY IS LACKING

Writer Takes Strong Objection to What A Fellow Countryman Wrote

To the Editor of the Examiner

Dear Sir—I hope you will afford me a small place in your valuable paper to answer a letter which someone wrote there on the 19th, calling himself a "Real Englishman". He says he came to this country two years ago. And he says the excellent opportunities he has had during that time exceed his wildest fancy. He says he is disgusted at the way his fellowcountrymen talk about hard times. He says also he can't see what the stone breakers have to complain of, seeing they are getting 3-6 a yard for breaking them. His father, so he says, owned a large stone quarry in the old country and could get lots of men to break them at 1s a yard. Now Mr. Englishman, what part of England do you come from? I guess you come from the South West or else Devonshire, I come from the North. And before coming to this country six years ago, I also owned a stone quarry and I could not get men to break my stones at 3s per yard. And you also say that in White or Devon board is 14-7 per week, the same as here. Now the average wage per week there for the labouring men is 2 and 3-quarter dollars or 11 shillings, and Mr. Editor this man comes here to Peterborough and tries to make us believe that out of 11 shillings a week they pay 14 shillings and seven pence a week for board. Why the thing is absurd. Surely the man can't know what he is talking about to write such rubbish.

The wages where I came from are $7.5 per week and board there is only $2.50. I do not doubt but that my fellow countryman has had some good chances during the short tiome he has been here. I have no fault to find with it at all in the way I have been treated during the last six years. I think it a fine country and intend to spend a few more years in it, and then retire. But I have not got patience with my fellow countryman who only came out here two years ago.

Coming here to Peterborough and talking such rubbish as he does, Mr. Editor, when he says that there are splendid chances for everyone to get work in Peterborough, this time of the year. You know as well as me, Mr. Editor, that there is no chance whatever of getting work here this time of the year, and he says that hundreds who are out of work here now could get work if they wanted it. Is there any sense to his letter? I think it is one of the silliest I have ever read, and am ashamed to call the writer a fellow countryman of mine.

The only thing I can put it down to is this, he must have had one of the wild fancies which he speaks of when he wrote that letter.

Mr. Editor don't you think that the Englishman ought to have waited till he had been in the country a little longer, before writing such nonsense. I am out of work myself but it is my own fault, I could have had work all winter if I had liked, but I thought I would take a holiday this winter, being very well able to afford it. And there is no doubt but what the fellow countrymen of mine that are out of work this winter will have lots of it next winter ,when they get to know the country a little bit better, They will not be howling around the streets like that mad brained Englishman says they are doing this winter I know this much, it would go hard with that Englishman if some of his countrymen knew who he was and where to meet him. He would go howling up the streets of Peterborough for once in his life anyway. I guess he would never again try his hand at letter writing in the Examiner. He would have a harder time than he did when in the old country breaking stones at a shilling a yard for his father. Now Mr. Englishman please do not try your hand at letter writing any more for the eyes of your countrymen are upon you, and they know you are no good at writing or else you never would have shown up your countrymen in the way you did when you had that wild fancy. Never let your conceit run away with you again for you have no gift as a composer.

I remain,

A "Love Feast" At Joint Meeting In The Fire Hall

Ald. Johnson, At Home to the Mayor, Fire, Water and Light Committee and Firemen—Was A Harmonious Event

MANY IMPROMPTU SPEECHES

A feeling of harmony characterized the social evening in the upper room, of the new fire hall last evening, when His Worship the Mayor, the Fire, Water and Light Committee, and the members of the Fire Brigade met together 'round the festive board. The occasion was one that will be long remembered by those in attendance, as it marked, in a degree, the beginning of a closer relationship among the above-mentioned parties.

The supper was a surprise that Ald. W. J. Johnston had prepared for the guests and many compliments were paid to the chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, for his kindness. The rapidity with which the oysters and other delicacies disappeared, bore ample testimony to the appetites of the company, and to the excellent quality of the fare provided by the caterer, Mr. Hooper.

A general good feeling pervaded the whole gathering, which dispersed shortly after ten o'clock with the assurance that similar functions would be held in the future.

At the conclusion of the supper, a number of impromptu speeches were made, the proceedings being of an informal character. His Worship the Mayor, occupied the seat at the head of the table, and Ald. Johnston, the opposite seat of honour, with Chief Rutherford on his right.

Chief Rutherford opened the speech making with a brief address, referring to the happy nature of the gathering, which, he hoped, was only a forerunner of the pleasant times to come. It was a pleasure to him to command the Fire Brigade and to be associated with the men. He had been a fireman for forty years, and he did not think that any body of men in Canada deserved more praise than those which represented Peterborough. He was glad to see that the committee had visited the fire hall, and proposed a toast to the members, which was heartily drunk.

Tribute to the Firemen

Ald. Johnston followed with a brief address. He said he was pleased to see the Fire, Water and Light Committee members meeting and mingling with the Fire Brigade—a social event which h believed had not been held any too often. His feelings were none but the best towards every member of the Fire Brigade.

In the past it was the desire of the council to equip the fire hall as well as possible, but it was not until recent years that anything of consequence had been done. Without taking any credit for the work he felt that he had done his duty in hammering away until the new fire hall was erected. He paid a glowing tribute to the firemen of Peterborough who, he said, according to the work they had performed, were among the best in the province.

The chairman also mentioned that some city employess had to work for both the Fire, Water and Light and Board of Works Committees, but he advised all to live as nearly as possible to the rules and regulations laid down. He hoped that this would be the banner year in Peterborough, and that all would work in harmony for the best interests of the city.

His Worship Mayor Rush was next called upon. He was pleased to be present at such a pleasant event, which had been much of a surprise to him. He also spoke highly of the manner in which the firemen had worked in saving the buildings around the skating rink at the recent fire there, mentioning this as an example of their good work, and closed by also hoping this year would be the banner year in Peterborough.

Ald. McIntyre was certain that every member of the fire brigade was a jolly good fellow, and he was greatly pleased to be present at such an harmonious gathering.

Ald. Butler said he was just as much a fireman as a member of the committee and he was pleased to be present and to see that the firehall was so well equipped.

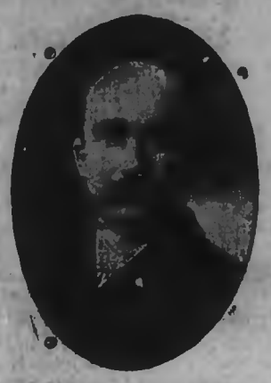
Ald. Turner stated that he was a new member in the Council, but that in accepting the nomination he was anxious to offer his services to the city of Peterborough. He would always strive to do his duty in the best interests of the city, and although he was a new member of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, he would endeavour to do his best in that office during the year.

The Firemen Speak

Mr. John Gibbs, assistant fire chief, stated that he also was a new man in the position he held, but, as the previous speaker, he would do his best to be an efficient officer.

Mr. Wm. Adamson, the treasurer, was next called upon, and briefly addressed the company in a humourous manner.

Mr. "Kit" Rutherford, one of the oldest members of the brigade, stated that the brigade at the present time was never in a better position to do its duty. It was 28 years ago that he became a member, and the lack of proper equipment had always been a drawback. He believed that Ald. Johnston should have the thanks of the firemen for the work he had done since becoming chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, and he thought that if the brigade worked more with the Fire, Water and Light Committee things would be more harmonious than they have been in the past.



ALD. W. J. JOHNSTON
Chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee Who Entertained Last Night

Past Chief Metheral thanked Ald. Johnston for his kindness in providing such an excellent spread, and thought that good results would follow such a meeting showing the good feeling existing. He considered that the brigade should have more salary for the work it was doing, and also that the firemen should have a uniform, and hinted to the Fire, Water and Light Committee to have the matter discussed.

Mr. W. Pakenham, the foreman of the fireball, asked if the Fire, Water and Light Committee approved of the drivers of the teams being out on the street working for the Board of Works. The reason the fire at the rink did not spread was because the men were in the hall and "Johnny on the spot" when the alarm was sounded. He thought the Board of Works should be separate from the firehall and that two teams should be left in the stable ready for a fire at any time.

Mr. Pakenham was assured that the Board of Works would take up the question in conjunction with the Fire, Water and Light Committee, and that the matter would be fully discussed.

Ald. Johnston informed him that it was the desire of the committee to always keep at least two teams in the hall, and that this would be accomplished in the near future.

The pleasant evening was brought to a close by cheers for the King, the Mayor, the Fire, Water and Light Committee, and the firemen, when it was amply demonstrated that the lungs of the latter, who predominated, were in a most healthy condition.

CHARACTERIZED AS AN EFFUSION

The Letter in Yesterday's Issue by Mr. Dawson—The Shutter and Boor Nat Problem

To the Editor of Examiner

Dear Sir—The remarkable effusion of Mr. T Dawson in your last nights issue causes me to arise and remark anent that unkindly article of our destiny.

Personally, I object most strenously to be his shutter, doormat, or combination thereof, and am quite sure my fellowcountrymen are not aspiring to that honour.

From the history of the past few hundred years, I am lead to believe that the Englishmen has usually manipulated the shutter of authority among nations, and meanwhile many people have anxiously awaited until the appointed time, to have the opportunity of wiping their feet on his doormat; awaited patiently his pleasure or taking (quite frequently too) most unpleasant consequences if they didn't.

Possibly I may be wrong, and the Englishman is a weak and lowly servitor and footstool for the rest of the world. I am open to correction on this point.

The gross ignorance and limited mental horizon of Mr. Anson's remarks, as laid bare, to his wholesale and uncomplimentary remarks concerning my nationality, are something to wonder at; especially as in this city so large a proporation of the citizens are descendants of the shutter-cum-doormat-head.

If the glowing word-painting of irresponsible emigrations and steamship agents have continued to amuse many of our new citizens to have troubles of their own, I do not see why that should cause them to be anathematized and insulted by a self appointed armchair critic, whose only object appears to be making sarcastic remarks without reason or logic.

I am dear sir, yours truly,

ANNUAL MEETING OF SUNDAY SCHOOL

Reports of Officers Read—Election of Officers for the Next Year—Committees Appointed

MR. ARMSTRONG HONOURED

The annual Sunday School meeting of the George street Methodist church was held last night in the guild room. There was a large number of officers and teachers present and a very enjoyable evening was spent. During the evening Mr. S. R. Armstrong was presented with a handsome library cabinet by the officers of the Sunday school. The address was read by Miss Mann, and Mr. Armstrong made a suitable reply.

Mr. Armstrong, when called upon for his report, said he had no formal one to make. He was more than satisfied with the large increase in the Sunday school and was satisfied that the school was never before in such a flourishing condition.

Mr. J. J. Hartley, the superintendent of the Grace church Sunday school, said the attendance of both teachers and scholars was excellent.

Secretary's Report

The secretary's report was presented by Mr. A. E. Dixon and showed a total attendance of 787 scholars. The report of the attendance of the teachers, officers, visitors and officers' home department and orchestra showed a total membership of 84, making a grand total of 871 members. The average attendance was: Boys, 155; girls, 205; officers and teachers, 40; total, 400, being an increase over last year of 38. The number of verses recited by the boys was 2,969, and by the girls, 12,015; total, 14,984, being an average per Sunday of 288.

The trustees formed a room for the library and secretary in the lobby at the northwest corner of the schoolroom, which will be more convenient and give more space in which to work.

The trustees of the Nicholls Estate made a grant to the school of $300 for library purposes, and a new lease for the books has been ordered and some more new books will also be required for the library in the near future.

The number entitled to prizes for regular attendance is much larger than ever before, and the average attendance has also increased, and it will not be long till more seating accommodation will have to be provided to provide for the increased attendance.

Treasurer's Report

This report was read by Mr. E. Mann, and the Sunday school appears to be in a good conditon financially. The receipts for 1907 were $647.1; and the expenditures $374.48. This shows a substantial balance of $299.69. The library account showed a balance of $162.61. The Grace church Sunday school treasurer's report was also read, showing a balance of $2.03, and the library account $125.97.

Library Report

This was presented by Mr. F. H. Dobbin. The library was in good condition and contained many select volumes. An addition of 300 books was made this year. The senior library has now 650 books, and the junior library 300.

After the reports had been read the election of officers for both the Sunday schools took place, with the following results:

Superintendent — S. R. Armstrong.
Asst. Supts.—J S Knapman and Dr. Middleton.
Supt. Home Department — T W Robinson.
Supt. Primary Dept. — Mrs. E D Lewis.
Supt. Cradle Roll—Mrs. B Shortly.
Supt. Little Beginners—Mrs. J S Knapman.
Secretary—A E Dixon.
Asst. Sec.—R B Pearson,
Mus. Director—E Mann.
Orchestra Leader—W B McCann.
Pianist—Miss Chasty.
Librarians—Messrs. F H Dobbin, T E Pratt, Harry Cressman, Fred Cressman, Max Dobbin, W J Routley.

Grace Church

Supt.—J J Hartley.
Sec.—W Hartley.
Treas. and Lib.—N Allison.
Asst. Lib.—F. Brown.

Following the election to officers the following grants were made:—To the Sunday School Association, $10; Sunday School Aid and Extension Fund, $5; Educational Fund, $5, and 15 per cent. of Sunday school collections to the Missionary Fund. It was also agreed to buy 100 new hymn books for the Sunday school. Two committees were appointed, one to look after the Sunday school anniversary and another for the picnic.

After the reports the following excellent programme was rendered:

Selection—Orchestra.
Hymn.
Selection—Orchestra.
Young Men's Quintette — Messrs. F. Miles, A. Gray, Carl Pickard, H. Mallory.
Duet—The Misses Gray.
Song—H. Mallory.
Song—Rev. E A Pearson.

Refreshments were then served and the evening was brought to a close with the singing of the Doxology.

STILL ANOTHER REPLY TO ENGLISHMAN

Mr. T. E. Hall Says There is Not Even A Comparison

Editor Examiner.

Dear Sir,—Will you please allow me space in your valuable paper for the following:—I was greatly surprised to read in Saturday's issue of the Examiner the letter from a Real Englishman. By his account the stone-breakers are in a good way of making a fortune. They must be lazy if they cannot earn more than $3.50 in eight days at the big rate of pay per cord the Real Englishman states they are getting. As the Real Englishman understands all about stone-breaking, perhaps he would oblige the men by showing them how to do it and earn the big money he talks about. I went over to the stone pile Thursday and saw the poor unfortunate men. It made me disgusted to see them doing convict labour. What with the cold and the biting wind, it was more than worth the money to be there without working—no shelter of any description. A convict is not exposed to the sneering public like they are. If Real Englishman has been in Canada two years he ought to know by now that with the weather conditions there is no comparison between England and Canada as regards outdoor labour. Like the Real Englishman, I have no sympathy with the grumbler (without cause), but I fail to see, and he does not say, in what way the kind treatment is being served out. It surprised me that a man with such a position as Real Englishman evidently had in England should come out to Canada, but I have found out that those with high positions in England generally come out under the Distress Committee's care. As an Englishman I ask him to try and lift the English up, not run them down. There are bad and lazy people in all nations, as he will find out when he travels more. There is a lot more of worthy citizens of Canada to be found in Peterborough, besides.

Yours truly,
THOMAS E. HALL.

WILL SPEAK HERE ON SUNDAY

Salvation Army Will Meet Commissioner Coombs at the Station

The coming of Commissioner Coombs is creating considerable interest among the members of the Salvation Army. The popular leader will be met at the station by the Salvation Army band and corps, and a parade will take place from the station to the army hall. One of the staff officers will deliver an address on Saturday night, but the Commissioner will not speak until Sunday. He will address the army in the barracks at 11 o'clock and in the afternoon and evening he will speak at the opera house. Mr. R. R. Hall, M.P., will occupy the chair, and among those invited to occupy seats on the platform will be his Worship, Mayor Rush and Hon. J. R. Stratton.

HAND AND ARM ENDANGERED

ZAM-BUK ARRESTS BLOOD POISON

Neglect a cut or a scratch and it may turn to blood poisoning. Mr. Joseph Lalibertie of 34 Artillerie street, Quebec, might have lost his hand and arm but for the timely use of Zam-Buk. He says: "I cut one of my fingers on a rusty piece of tin and had no idea it would become so serious, but in two days blood poison had set in and my fingers became terribly discolourd and my hand and arm swollen. I was alarmed and began using the ointment after another, but none relieved me. I was about to consult a doctor when a friend advised me to try Zam-Buk. This I did. Zam-Buk began by drawing out the inflammation, and in one week the wound was nicely healed. Since then I have had no healing balm in the house but Zam-Buk. I feel so grateful for my speedy cure that I unhesitatingly give my testimonial to the merits of Zam-Buk."

Zam-Buk cures Cuts, Burns, Chapped Hands, Chafings, Cold Sores, Itch, Chilblains, Eczema, Running Sores, Sore Throat, Bad Chest, Ringworm, Piles (blind or bleeding), Bad Legs, Inflamed Patches, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica, Abscesses and all diseased, injured and irritated conditions of the skin. Of all druggists and stores 50c, or post paid upon receipt of price, from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto. 50c a box: 6 boxes for $2.50.

MONTHLY MEETING OF L.O.L. NO. 80

Reports Presented From The Various District Meetings

The regular bi-monthly meeting of L. O. L. Diamond Lodge, No. 80, was held on Monday night. After the slate had been cleared of the business Rev. A. H. Brace reported the visit of the deputation to the Lakefield District meeting, and followed with an address. Bro. Barclay reported the Peterborough District at Nassau, and Bro. Jones of Alberta, also addressed the brethren. A special Finance Committee was appointed to assist the treasurer and to wind up the year in good shape.

THE INSTALLATION OF OFFICERS

Of Court Langton C. O. F.—A Pleasant Afterime

At the regular meeting of Court Langton, No. 344, C.O.F., held Monday evening, January 20, the newly-elected officers were duly installed by District Deputy Brother Walter Hooper, who was ably assisted by Brother Copeland acting as High Marshall, and who was until recently Organizer for the High Court. The officers were installed were:

P.C.R.—D Kerneghan.
C.R.—Noble Graham.
Vice C.R.—G Worboy.
Cor. Sec.—Wm. Stevens.
Fin. Sec.—James Kemp.
Treas.—R N Jones.
Chap.—Wm. Bufton.
Sen. Woodward—Albert Finney.
Jun. Woodward—G. Logan.
Sen. Beadle—H Shuter.
Jun. Beadle—B Johnson.
Phys.—Dr. McClelland.
Finance Com. — Bros. Jordan, Meharry and Wm. Anderson.

After the installation which closed at 10 o'clock, those present retired to the dining hall of Messrs. Coleman Bros., where all did justice to the good things placed before them. Bro. R. E. Layfield, who acted as chairman, then disposed of an excellent programme, in which were a number of toasts which were heartily responded to by the following: Bros. Copeland, W Hooper, R N Jones, Noble Graham, Wm. Stevens. Bros. Wm. Vass and Albert Finney both spoke on behalf of the ladies, and during the evening there was a musical programme given by Bro. Hunter and Messrs. Coleman, which produced very hearty applause. At 12 o'clock the singing of "Auld Lang Syne" and "God Save the King" brought to a close one of the best events in the history of the Court.

Mr. G. O. Hayward Perfectly Satisfied and States Reasons

As "Real Englishman" He Defends the Statements Made Previously and Maintains That Prices are Better Here

STONES AND THE BREAKING

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I think if I was Mr. Ford I would rather take the stone-breaking job than risk straining my eyesight looking for work.

Am not looking for work at present although I have not earned much since the middle of December.

I saved a little money last summer, when work was plentiful. I earned more in eight months than I could in England in sixteen. So you see I can have a good time four months, and then have four months surplus every year.

And I know for sure that food does not cost as much here as it does in England.

If Mr. Ford's boarding house in Canada feed him the same as his English boarding house used to, and charged him $2.50, it would pay them better than feeding him Canadian style for $3.50. In Bristol I used to get my dinner at an eating house and paid 6d. for a dinner of vegetables and meat, pie and one plate; no sweets, no drink. If I wanted more I got a plate of pudding, 1d., cup of tea, 1d. So my dinner would cost 10 cents.

I have bought good three-course dinners served daintily, in Peterborough, 15 cents each. Bristol is considered one of the cheapest cities in England. I lived sometime in Manchester and prices there were about the same.

Mr. Ford says he could get good cheese in England at 10 and 12 cents per pound—10 and 12 makes 22.

Twenty-two cents per pound certainly is about right. Quotation from "The Grocer" of December, 1907, stilton cheese eleven pence to one shilling; green cheese, eight pence to nine pence. You cannot buy best cheese for six pence per pound.

I have heard of cheese in England called "skim dick." Is this the sort he means? It is hard. You can tell the people that eat it by the choking look in their eyes.

He asks if eggs are not dearer here than there—decidedly not. I have a quotation of market prices for Dec. 1907: Eggs, two shillings and five pence halfpenny per dozen. Now, did Mr. Ford know the difference between butter and margarine before he came to Canada? But, perhaps, I had better give him the whole quotation:

Western Gazette, Dec. 29th, 1907, Wareham Market and Poultry Sale.

Dec. 19th, 1907, Messrs. Cottee & Watt held their poultry sale this day. There were large supplies. Eggs made 2s 5 1-2d per doz, 59c.; butter made 1s 4 1-2d per lb., 33c.; rabbits made 1s 6d per pair, 36c.; honey made 6 1-2d per lb., 13c.; turkeys made 1s 3d per lb., 30c.; geese made 9s 3d each, $2.22; ducks made 7s 2d per pair, $1.72; chickens made 7s 6d per pair, $1.80; potatoes made 5s 6d per cwt., $1.32.

I hardly need say for Mr. Ford's benefit "Wareham" is a market town in Dorset.

Tell Mr. Ford my father was never lucky enough to get a job under government, and if Mr. Ford knew the first thing about Portland stone he would not expect them to use it for mending roads—it's soft freestone.

My father's quarry is an outcrop of Dorset marble and cornbrash. Ask Mr. Ford if he knows any harder stone to break and I know a man to break fifty yards of this stone in eleven days, working ten and one-half hours each day and so earned fifty shillings in 115 1-2 hours, about five pence halfpenny per hour. I never heard of stone breakers being paid by the hour, as a rule it is piece work.

I do hope the shipping agents did not drag Mr. Ford away from a comfortable little home in Berkshire, selling everything he had and bring him and feed him all the way to Canada for about one cent per mile, and then put him down without caring whe e he went. It would be too bad, Mr. Editor, it seems to a lot of these poor people must be suffering from the "get rich quick fever," and I think if they sell all they have and buy a ticket for Canada, "some of them borrow the money and forget to send it back. Their fortunes are made.

I have found conditions in Canada as good as the descriptions given in the Allen Line handbook.

Hoping we shall all learn the lesson to be learned, as pointed out in last night's issue, and that you will give these facts room in your valuable columns, I beg to remain

Yours truly

ANNUAL BANQUET WAS CONSIDERED

At Meeting of Bricklayers and Masons Held Last Night

The members of the local branch of the Bricklayers' and Masons' Union held a meeting last night in their hall to discuss several questions, which have arisen of late. Chief among them was the annual banquet which is to be held during the early part of February. The arrangements are in the hands of a capable committee and the date of the affair will be announced later.

The members have not yet began to consider the prospects of the approaching summer, but there is a feeling that building operations will be about up to the average. The season is yet too far ahead to form a correct opinion of what will be doing, but the men are apparently not worrying.

There should be a good attendance at the annual banquet, the exact date of which has not yet been announced.

Stronger Efforts To Beautify City During Coming Summer

Horticultural Society Hold Annual Meeting And Decide to Make Their Duties More Comprehensive---Col. H. C. Rogers Elected President---Society is Strong Financially and Doing Good

The annual meeting of the Horticultural Society, held in the Council Chamber, plainly brought out the fact that this body is going to be more active and energetic than ever this year. Their duties and the proper scope for their suggestions was provided for by the formation of a new special committee, to be known as the Local Improvement Committee. Mr. Dumble, prompted by his usual civic thoughtfulness and unfailing interest in the beauty and thereby the best interests of Peterborough, recommended the committee. Its purpose will be to suggest to the city fathers improvements which the society considers will add to the general appearance of the city.

While the meeting might have been more largely attended there was no dearth of enthusiasm. Those present were: Messrs. T. A. S. Hay, Frank Wise, Benj. Cooney, S. Jordan, W. Stocker, Thos. Tucker, Jas. English, D. W. Dumble and Col. Rogers and Dr. Burnham.

Mr. Dumble, president of the past year, acted as chairman. The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted.

Election of Officers

The election of officers for the new year was the next business, resulting thus:

President—Col. H. C. Rogers.
1st Vice-President—T. A. S. Hay.
2nd Vice-President—D. W. Dumble.
Secretary-Treasurer — Harry L. Beal.

Board of Directors — Hon. J. R. Stratton, president; Messrs. James English, Dr. Burnham, F. Wise, Peter Campbell, S. Jordan, Walter Stocker, W. H. Moore, B. Cooney, H. Nesbitt, T. A. S. Hay, Jas. Stevenson, Adam Hall, Thos. Tucker.

Park Committee—Messrs. Walter Stocker, H. Nesbitt, F. Wise, S. Jordan and Dr. Burnham.

Committee to wait on the County Council—Col. Rogers, Mr. Beal and Mr. Dumble.

Auditors—Messrs. T. A. S. Hay and Arthur Stevenson.

Accounts Received

The following accounts were read and adopted:

The above demonstrates that the society is flourishing, thanks to the care given by the officers.

President's Report

Mr. Dumble then read his address bearing on the work of 1907, as follows:

Gentlemen, — The past year has been one of the Society's best years. The membership has crept up to 153. We have given to each member a year's subscription to the Canadian Horticulturist, and we distributed amongst them 350 roots of perennial phlox, 1,000 No. 1 Hyacinths, and 2,000 Daffodils.

We think this method of conducting the Society has produced better and more satisfactory results than the old method of holding horticultural shows, which were poorly attended, and which involved much labour and pecuniary loss.

We find it easier to keep up our membership when we are able to give each member much more for his dollar than he could procure for his dollar, and, besides, we secure a wide distribution of bulbs and plants which beautify the town and, at the same time, cultivate the taste for flowers.

Our system of giving prizes to those who have made their premises neat and tasty, and a pleasure and benefit to themselves and others, has worked most happy results, and people are beginning to realize that there is hardly a spot, be it ever so rough, that cannot with a little labour and a few plants, be made a joy, instead of a sore spot. About $35 was expended last year in prizes for best results in grounds and lawns.

We recommend a larger expenditure this year, but submit that the prizes be limited to those people who offer their places for competition during the month of August.

During the coming season, much will be required to be done to the Central Park, to make the foreground of the new Armoury and the Collegiate Institute worthy of such fine buildings. The soil is so shallow that in order to secure a good sward, much earth must be drawn on, and this Society should ask the council to permit large quantities of street scrapings to be drawn there.

With our fine new Schools, and our pretty parks, natural attractions and splendid shops, Peterborough has become a show place, and an attraction for many excursions. We cannot afford to let our pretty little Victoria and Central Parks get shabby, for, treated simply as an investment, it will pay us to keep them up to their highest capabilities. We will ask you to provide so as to obtain this year the highest results, especially in the Central Park.

In conclusion, we cannot but refer to the untimely death of Mr. Pringle, a member of this Board, whom we held in the highest esteem for his fine qualities as a man, and for the great interest he took in everything that tended to please and improve his fellow citizens, and who was a most useful member of this Society.

Discussions

Mr. Dumble introduced the question of the Victoria Park, particularly referring to the eastern section. He considered that the county should share the burden of keeping it in a respectable condition. The county owned this property. The court house was a credit to the county and to the city and deserved a beautiful frontage. Mr. Dumble said he could not understand how the county could honestly and fairly neglect its part of this work. He thought the society should wait on the County Council and impress upon them their duty in this respect and urge upon them to take an active interest in beautifying their own property and maintaining it in that condition. The lease includes the whole lot between the court house and Water street. The society decided to send a delegation to the initial meeting of the County Council.

Mr. Dumble also spoke on the advisability of the formation of a Public Improvement Committee as a part of the society. He referred to the large number of cities where this idea has been successfully adopted, and asserted that Peterborough especially needed one. He thought the American plan could be modified and a committee for a purpose similar to that which has been established in Toronto be formed. The latter is not much more than suggestive, but the council has carried out many of its schemes which might otherwise have continued unattended.

In conclusion, Mr. Dumble moved that Col. Rogers, Mr. Hay and himself be a committee of the society, with power to add to their number, to be known as the Local Improvement Society. This was unanimously adopted.

Mr. Hay mentioned the results that had been attained in Keene by a similar society and said that Mr. Dumble's remarks were very timely and he was greatly pleased with the idea.

The Central Park was the subject of a general discussion, but no further business was transacted.

BURKE WAS REMANDED AGAIN

Will Appear Next Thursday Before Magistrate Edmison

The usual police court crowd transferred their allegiance this morning to the court house, where Burke appeared before Magistrate Edmison. The charge against Burke is of a theft of $25 from Purser's store, Buckhorn, on Nov. 5th. Mr. G. N. Gordon, on behalf of the prisoner, elected to be tried summarily.

Magistrate Edmison said that the most important question to decide was one of identity, that is to prove that Burke is the man who committed the theft.

On Mr. Wood's request the case was enlarged until Thursday next, at 10 o'clock, when the Crown expects to be ready to proceed with the case.

MISSION BAND SPENT A PLEASANT EVENING

At Home of Miss Florence Cameron—A Delightful Musical Programme

A pleasant evening was spent last night at the home of Miss Florence Cameron, when the members of the Fraser Mission Band of St. Paul's church were entertained. During the evening a delightful musical programme was presented, a photo-guessing contest was successfully held and refreshments were served. Miss K. Drummond captured the prize in the guessing contest.

Vocal solos were given by Miss Lilian Moore and Miss Helen Davies, both of which were very much enjoyed. The other contributions to the splendid programme were a piano duet by Misses Gladys Crapo and Kathleen Burnett, piano solos by Misses Hollis Meldrum and Lottie Davidson, and a violin solo by Miss Eva Irwin.

Cold Settles in Kidneys Pe-ru-na Restores Health

Catarrh of the Kidneys An Insidious Disease.

Many People Have It in Slight Form and Do Not Know It.

Mr. Isaac Rosenzveig, 9 Dumarais street, Montreal, Can., writes:

"About three years ago, I suffered with a bad cold. It settled in the bladder and kidneys, causing serious trouble.

"I tried several advertised remedies, but it was Peruna which finally cured me, and I had taken only a few bottles.

"I feel that it saved me, and it certainly restored me to such perfect health as I had not known in years.

"I have good reason to give your remedy my highest endorsement. It cleaned out the system, leaving me well and strong and feeling better than I have in years."

CATARRH of the kidneys is a very much neglected disease.

It is not until the disease has a firm hold upon the kidneys that the patient begins to realize that there is some derangement of these organs.

The slight backaches, the feelings of lassitude, and other warning symptoms of kidney disease are overlooked.

They are not serious enough to detain the patient from his regular work.

INTERNAL CATARRH REACHES THE KIDNEYS.

Even when he discovers that the kidneys are affected, he does not recognize the difficulty as being caused by catarrh.

Catarrh is sometimes so very gradual in its approach and its earlier symptoms cause such slight discomfort that it is not noticed.

However, when it is once firmly seated in the kidneys it becomes a difficult disease to exterminate.

Indeed, catarrh of the kidneys is more serious than catarrh affecting some of the other organs of the body.

In the kidneys it is liable to terminate in Bright's Disease or diabetes, both of which are recognized as very serious ailments, if not fatal.

The thing to be done, when catarrh of the kidneys is discovered, is to take some internal, systemic catarrh remedy, one that reaches the very source of the catarrh and removes the cause of the difficulty.

Such a remedy has been found in Peruna. It reaches catarrh, no matter where it may be located in the body—whether in the more exposed membranes of the nose and throat, or whether in the remotest part of the kidneys.

PE-RU-NA AN INTERNAL CATARRH REMEDY.

That Peruna is at once the safest and most reliable remedy for catarrh of the kidneys is proven by the many testimonials written by those who have experienced its benefits.

The testimonials given here are only specimens of the many testimonials on our records, pertaining to the relief afforded by Peruna in severe cases of kidney trouble.

Kidney Disease of Long Standing.

Mr. Samuel A. Paxton, 1118 Troost Ave., Kansas City, Mo., member I. O. O. F., and National Annuity Association, writes: "I am a well man today, thanks to Peruna. I was troubled with catarrh and kidney disease of long standing when I first began using Peruna."

Here's the Cure for Sick Kidneys

TEST THEM FREE

Perhaps you are skeptical about GIN PILLS. So was Mr. Brown. He had tried so many things for his kidneys, without getting any better, that he had just about made up his mind that he couldn't get well.

When he first read about GIN PILLS he laughed. The second time, he thought. The third time, he said "he would write for a sample just to see if there was any chance of getting well."

He was pretty nearly tickled to death over that box of GIN PILLS. They did him so much good that he would have paid $1 a box for the second, if necessary. The dizziness, headaches and backaches stopped. Those shooting pains in hips and legs died away. Urine lost its high color. He slept through the night without being disturbed by bladder trouble. His appetite began to pick up and he felt better than he had been for years.

34 John St., Hamilton, Ont.

Being a sufferer from my Kidneys and Dizziness in the Head, and could get nothing to help me, I saw in the papers what good Gin Pills were doing. I got a sample box, and they did me so much good, I bought three boxes and am taking them. They have worked wonders for me. I am recommend them to any similar sufferer. GEO. A. BROWN.

Don't be prejudiced. Give Gin Pills a fair trial and they will cure you just as they cured Mr. Brown. Mention this paper and we will send you a free sample. The Bole Drug Co., Winnipeg, Man.

HON. RUDOLPHE LEMIEUX WINS OUT

Canadian Minister Secures Stop of Japanese Emigration.

LETTER OF BARON HAYASHI

All Contract Labor Prohibited From Entering Canada—British Ambassador Co-operated in Negotiations—Japanese Students and Tourists Will Not Be Restricted—Has Faith In Jap Government.

Ottawa, Jan. 22.—Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, Postmaster-General and Minister of Labor, announced in the House yesterday morning the result of his mission to Tokio to confer with the Japanese Government with regard to the immigration of laborers from that country to Canada. He read a letter from Baron Hayashi, Japanese Foreign Minister, giving assurance of the Mikado's Government that Japan will prohibit the emigration of contract laborers (artisans included) to Canada, but students, merchants and tourists will be permitted to come in.

"In this letter," observed Mr. Lemieux, "the Minister of Foreign Affairs gives Canada the official assurance that the Imperial Government have decided to take efficient means to restrict emigration from Japan. It will be asked at once, 'What are these efficient means and where is the guarantee of that restriction?' My answer is that during the course of our conference on a series of most stringent regulations accompanied by instructions addressed to the local governors and to the consuls in Canada were adopted. I can assure the House that the British ambassador and myself are satisfied that these regulations are sufficient for our purpose, and that they will be honestly enforced by the Foreign Office at Tokio.

Contract Laborers Excluded.

"There is, however, one feature of these regulations which I am authorized to make public. As a result of the negotiations all emigration of contract laborers (artisans included) is now prohibited, unless they come at the request of the Dominion Government. This means that hereafter such companies as the Nippon Supply Co. of Vancouver will be unable to cooperate with the emigration companies of Japan in sending labor under contract to this country. Of course, bonafide students, merchants and tourists from Japan will, as before, continue to enjoy the freedom of entrance into the Dominion.

Stops Hawaiian Emigration.

"As regards emigration from the Hawaiian Islands, the question is settled. The Japanese Government have control over immigration coming from Honolulu to Canada. Our Alien Labor Act provides against the importation of contract labor from the United States; Hawaii is an American possession, and, therefore, our act applies. If its provisions are not found sufficient to meet all requirements they can be amended accordingly.

"It may not be necessary to amend our Alien Labor Act, in view of a recent order-in-council prohibiting immigrants from landing or coming into Canada unless they come from the country of their birth or citizenship by a continuous journey and on through tickets, purchased before leaving the country of their birth or citizenship. This regulation applies to the Atlantic and Pacific ports, and applies indiscriminately to all countries. It will exclude the Hindoos.

Avenues Closed or Guarded.

"With the avenue from Japan carefully guarded," said Mr. Lemieux, "and the avenue from Hawaii completely closed, I can announce to the country that we have eliminated from this issue any features that could give rise to apprehension of any future trouble in regard to Oriental immigration.

"The emigration companies that are responsible for the influx into British Columbia," continued Mr. Lemieux, "had been practically suppressed by the new regulation requiring an increased deposit with the Government. Many of the essential details of the arrangement," he said, "was for reasons of state, prevented from being unfolded.

But Two Alternatives.

"After all, there were but two alternatives—Canada must accept this arrangement or abrogate the treaty. The latter course would involve the delay of giving six months' notice, besides, it would mean to Canada the loss of important commercial advantages with a market of 50,000,000 people. To impose a poll-tax of $500 on Japanese was contrary to Canada's policy towards Japan, and would rightly be resented by that country, which had risen to a high level of civilization and had become a great world power, besides involving a serious breach in a treaty of alliance between the Mother Country and Japan.

"The dignified assurance given by Count Hayashi on behalf of his Government," said the Minister, "is a solemn engagement which Canada is bound to accept in good faith. The fact that it is given of her own free will will make it the more binding on Japan."

Was a Delicate Task.

Mr. Lemieux reminded the House that his was a delicate task, and the issue was not of a party but a national issue. An ill word that might elicit commendation on this side of the ocean would have perhaps a contrary effect in Japan, where public opinion is as sensitive as in Canada. Nothing should be said, therefore, to unduly embarrass a friendly Government.

The Night Session.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier last night accepted an amendment of R. L. Borden's to the motion to go into supply, admitting the right of representatives of the people to demand the production of original documents.

Mr. Borden said it was the practice in England for Parliament to refuse supply until the fullest information asked for was given. He quoted authorities on Parliamentary procedure to show that the Government could not properly refuse to produce documents, with a few exceptions, such as secret papers of state.

Sir Wilfrid said it was laid down in the rules that when papers are moved for the mover must give reasons that the House may judge of the expedience of granting the motion. If Mr. Ames had given his reasons the request would have been granted.

Mr. Foster quoted from Mr. Ames' speech, where in that hon. member said that as to nine pages of the documents of 457 pages, he would like to clear up doubts, to have the privilege of seeing the originals. Yet the reply of the Government was, "make your charge and swear to it and we will take it into consideration whether we will let you have the original document or not."

Mr. Ames, not having access to the originals, could not say the copies differed from them. "You won't give him access to the originals. You would force him to get them by lying."

Mr. Oliver, in support of his contention that the original documents were liable to be lost if brought down to the House, said that two years ago documents produced on the order of Mr. Foster had never been returned to the Department.

Mr. Foster facetiously replied that he certainly had not stolen them.

Duncan Ross, Dr. Chisholm, W. B. Northrup, Edmund Bristol and A. C. Boyce also spoke.

When the ayes and nays were counted, Government members vocally negatived the proposition, but Sir Wilfrid asked the Speaker to declare the ayes had it and a division was not taken.

STOCK WAS CHOSEN.

Will Oppose Hon. Nelson Monteith In Coming Provincial Election.

Tavistock, Jan. 22.—At a largely-attended Liberal convention held here yesterday, for the purpose of bringing out a candidate for South Perth in the Provincial Legislature, Valentine Stock, ex-M. P. P., of Tavistock, was the unanimous choice.

Mr. Stock at first refused to accept, but, after being pressed hard by his friends, reluctantly accepted.

Speeches were delivered by Mr. McIntyre, M.P. for South Perth; Thomas Ballantyne, ex-Speaker of the Legislature, and the candidate.

Is She Wife or Widow?

Windsor, Ont., Jan. 22.—Last October an unknown man was killed by a train in a Detroit suburb. While lying in a morgue in that city the body was identified by Mrs. Lawrence McMullen of Windsor as that of her husband. McMullen's parents, however, denied that it was that of their son. Mrs. McMullen is now in a quandary. She had not seen her husband for several months prior to his alleged death, and wishes to begin divorce proceedings for desertion. If the body was her husband's she is a widow and no further procedure is necessary.

It is said here that a man called at the Detroit undertakers two days after Mrs. McMullen's visit and asserted that he was Lawrence McMullen.

Estate 100 Years in Trust.

Freeport, Ill., Jan. 22.—The will of Daniel C. Stover, manufacturer of windmills, who died last Friday, leaving an estate of $1,000,000, was filed last evening. It provides that the estate be held in trust during the lives of Mrs. Stover's two children, Porter S. Stover of Freeport and Mrs. May Winger of Ravenswood, and during the lives of their children; and until 21 hours after the death of the last survivor of these children, a period which approximates 100 years.

Porter Stover and Mrs. Winger are to receive $2,500 annually. Three trustees are to receive two per cent. of the personal estate and $1,200 annually.

EVELYN'S ORDEAL NOW OVER

Evelyn Nesbitt Thaw at the End of Long Legal Gruelling.

CASE TO END NEXT WEEK

Letters Put by Defence Strengthen the Insanity Plea—Prosecutor and Witness Engage In Wordy Encounters—Jerome Modified His Tones and Prepares For the Finish—Defence Ends This Week.

New York, Jan. 22.—District Attorney Jerome's long and severe cross-examination of Mrs. Evelyn Thaw at the trial of her husband came to an end late yesterday.

The attorneys for the defence then succeeded in placing in evidence a letter written by the defendant in the fall of 1903, which completely corroborated the claim that the girl, who was to become his wife, did tell him the story of her relations with Stanford White, much as she has related it upon the stand at this and the former trial.

This letter was one of a dozen which were read to the jury as tending to corroborate young Mrs. Thaw's testimony and as further tending to show the effects her story had on the defendant's mind. Most of these letters were read to the jury in the former trial, and were considered as one of the strongest bits of evidence in the hands of the defence. Mr. Jerome objected to their introduction in the record, but was overruled by Justice Dowling after Thaw himself had made a waiver of the confidential relation of counsel and client, when Frederick W. Longfellow, his former attorney, appeared on the stand to identify the letters.

Mr. Jerome was much quieter in his handling of young Mrs. Thaw on the stand yesterday and his voice lacked the high, hard pitch which filled the court room the day before. The cross-examination resolved itself for a time into a verbal battle between prosecutor and witness, and there were several lively tilts which ended only when Justice Dowling took a hand.

The defence hopes to close its case by Friday night. A week later Thaw's fate should be in the hands of the jury.

RILED THEM.

Kingston Council Want Retraction of Teacher's Criticism.

Kingston, Jan. 22.—Members of the City Council are hot over remarks made by Principal W. G. Ellis of the Collegiate Institute in an address on "Honest Clean Citizenship." He is reported to have said men got into council to manage thousands of dollars who could not manage a $500 grocery.

The poor men in council prevented good men going into the arena. Men were also put on the school board to manage thousands of children who could not run their own families.

A resolution was solemnly passed in council calling on the council's representatives on the board of education to demand an explanation and public retraction.

Winnipeg Union Terminal.

Montreal, Jan. 22.—Messrs. William Mackenzie and D. D. Mann of the Canadian Northern, and Charles M. Hays, and E. W. Morse of the Grand Trunk Pacific were in conference all day yesterday over the union terminals at Winnipeg. The report was made late last evening that the details had been about arranged, and that operations would be started in the spring upon the terminals, which are said to be the most extensive and complete on the continent.

The Canadian Northern magnates returned to Toronto last evening.

Sank Greek Steamer.

Flushing, Netherlands, Jan. 22.—The Red Star liner Finland, from New York to Antwerp, ran down and sank the Greek steamer Epirus Monday in a dense fog off Ternuseen. All on board the Epirus were saved. The Finland apparently was not damaged and proceeded, arriving at Antwerp yesterday afternoon.

Lost Arm in Fodder Chopper.

Cornwall, Jan. 22.—A young man named William Garlough lost his right arm near the elbow yesterday while operating a fodder chopper at W. Weeds' farm. Garlough was scalded in the Toronto Paper Co.'s mill a couple of years ago. He was taken to the Cornwall General Hospital.

"Murder" the Verdict.

Toronto, Jan. 22.—"Wilful murder by some person or persons unknown" was the verdict returned by the coroner's jury at the City Hall last night. The inquest was held on the body of a male infant found Jan. 10 by civic employes while cleaning a culvert at Queen street and O'Hara avenue.

Scores the Press.

Toronto, Jan. 22.—The presentiment of the grand jury in the court of general sessions, which was made to Judge Winchester yesterday, went after the newspapers for publishing advertisements of "wild cat" mining companies, and recommended special legislation to keep undesirable immigrants out of the country.

$1,000 Fire in Toronto.

Toronto, Jan. 22.—Fire of unknown origin broke out in the rear of the basement of the building occupied by the Dominion School Supply Co., 20 Temperance street, at 9.30 o'clock last night. The building was damaged to the extent of $1,000. This is fully covered by insurance. C. W. Bengough is the owner.

Western University Agreement.

London, Jan. 22.—The final revision of the agreement between the city and Western University will be made to-night. The city, in return for representation on the senate, has voted the university one-fifth of a mill on the city's taxation.

THE POLICE HAVE TO USE SABRES

Wild Battle at Berlin Between Officers and Unemployed.

2,000 MEN DRIVEN DOWN

Citizens Scattered to the Side Streets—Socialists Entrenched Themselves and Hurled Missles at the Police—Sudden Detonation Precipitated a Fierce Fight—Many Arrests Made—Some Injured.

Berlin, Jan. 22—There was a serious collision late yesterday between the police of this city and a number of unemployed, who, earlier in the day, had attended one of the mass meetings organized and addressed by the Socialists. The police used their sabres when the crowd hurled missiles at them, and before order was restored many men were wounded.

The demonstrants, when they encountered the police, were marching down the Schiffbauerdamm, near the Lustgarten. The authorities tried to disperse them. The men at once took up a position around several piles of tiles before a new theatre building, and began hurling the tiles at the police. The policemen were at once reinforced by a mounted detachment, which charged the crowd with drawn sabres. The men scattered and fled, but not before many had been injured.

At the height of the encounter there was heard a detonation, which undoubtedly was some sort of a firecracker set off by a boy. The police, however, came to the conclusion that a revolver had been fired, and on foot they drove the manifestants, numbering 2,000, mostly young men and boys, into the mounted squad, and the latter made most vicious use of their weapons.

A number of men were arrested, and the remainder scattered to the side streets in the vicinity.

NOT THE SCAPEGOAT.

Former Manager of Sovereign Bank Promises Spectacular Disclosures.

Montreal, Jan. 22.—When Mr. Stewart was told that the blame of the Sovereign Bank trouble was being placed upon his shoulders, he intimated that the lid was on, in so far as he was concerned, for the present, but later—well, Dominion Day fireworks would perhaps not be a circumstance. He suggested that whenever anything unexpected and nasty happened a scapegoat was the first thing looked for after the smoke cleared away. In this instance, however, the scapegoat had no desire to bring himself into any unnecessary prominence by flaring up with vituperations, attacks and personal insults against the person who had sought to drive home the blow which had been aimed to knock him out completely and for all time.

Suicide in Toronto.

Toronto, Jan. 22.—John Beagman, 45 years, committed suicide by taking two ounces of carbolic acid at 9.30 o'clock last night. He was found by Detective N. Guthrie on a doorstep at Princess and Front streets in a dying condition. He was taken to St. Michael's Hospital in the police ambulance, but died before reaching the hospital.

Beagman was employed in the poultry department of M. P. Mallon's meat store at the market. He lived with his sister at 4 Ontario place. He had been drinking for several days.

Says He Saw Lost Steamer.

Seattle, Jan. 22.—A deserting sailor from the Norwegian steamship Tyrea, Bellingham to Australia, reports that the Tyrea sighted the missing British ship Hartfield Wednesday last, 40 miles inside the straits, east of Cape Flattery. She was on her beam ends, and her forward ensign inverted as a distress signal. She seemed uncontrollable. Seven hours after she was sighted the wind changed to northeast and the vessel was blown out to sea.

Favors the Canteen.

Washington, Jan. 22.—Major-Gen. Bell, chief of staff, after an exhaustive investigation, reports in favor of re-establishing the army canteen.

He also reports a complete plan for the reorganization of the army so as to enable the President to be able to mobolize 65,000 men without denuding every military station and absolutely breaking up the United States peace system of organization and administration.

Points to Murder?

Chatham, Jan. 21.—A new feature has developed in the Bloomfield mystery, in the discovery that there are no blood stains in the room of the shanty in which the unknown dead man was found one week ago yesterday. The theory now advanced is that the man must have been murdered and afterwards dragged or carried into the room in which he was found.

Log Driver Drowned.

Arnprior, Jan. 22.—While a gang of men were employed in clearing the Madamaska log slide of ice, Thomas Lane fell into the water, was carried into the eddy below and not seen again.

Dory Upset; Two Drown.

Digby, N. S., Jan. 22.—Frank Titus, aged 31, and son, Blake, 20 years, were drowned yesterday afternoon by the overturning of a dory off Point Brier Island. The dory capsized in a heavy sea.

DOCTORS AND DRUGS FAILED HER

ECZEMA TORTURED HER.

When She Tried "Fruit-a-tives" and They Cured Her.

Skin disease is always due to impure blood. It is the duty of the skin, bowels and kidneys to rid the system of tissue waste. When there is anything wrong with the kidneys or bowels, the skin tries to do extra work and breaks down under the strain. Sometimes the skin is attacked by germs, which, because of its weakened condition, it is unable to resist. Ointments and lotions, and dusting powders, and medicated soaps are useless in Eczema, because they treat only the outside skin. "Fruit-a-tives" cure, because they go to the root of the trouble, they purify the blood. They act on the liver—regulate the kidneys and bowels—soothe and stimulate the skin—and so purify and enrich the blood that disease germs are thrown off—the itching, bleeding surfaces healed—and the whole system is built up and strengthened.

"I had dreadful Eczema on my face, arms and head. I was advised to take 'Fruit-a-tives' to purify the blood and I am very thankful that I took this medicine. When I had taken two boxes, the rash was entirely gone, the pain in the back left, and my complexion is clearer than it has been for years. Before I used this medicine, I had used many kinds of salves and took quantities of medicines, but these did me no good. But 'Fruit-a-tives' at once did me good—and they entirely took away the fearful rash." Mrs. P. Mailhiot, 34 Union Street, Ottawa, 50c. At druggists.

Gypsy Girl Won Feature Event In Yesterday's Races

Good Little Mare Took the 2.18 Purse After Following Harry Direct for the First Two Heats —City Queen Had No Difficulty in the 2.35 Class

A GOOD CROWD ON HAND

That grand old campaigner, Gipsy Girl, came to the rescue, at the first day's ice racing under the auspices of the Peterborough Turf Club yesterday afternoon, at the driving park by winning the 2.18 class after Harry Direct had annexed two heats, when it looked as if the race was over in three straight breezes. Lou Bennett's City Queen had cleaned up the 2.35 class in a tame race, and the programme would have been over before four o'clock, if it had not been for Gipsy Girl, who won the third heat, was second to Maud Wilks in the fourth, and romped home a winner in the fifth and sixth, with Harry Direct, the leader in the early heats badly tired.

The weather conditions were anything but favourable for the meet but in spite of the rain, a large crowd was on hand and thoroughly enjoyed the sport. The track was in bad shape as a result of the thaw getting worse as the afternoon progressed, while a strong breeze blew down the stretch, interfering with the time considerably. The racing was good despite these handicaps, the 2.18 class furnishing, especially, fine sport, and the crowd remained until the end. Little time was lost in scoring up, Starter Martin Connors getting them away in good style, and there was no complaint from the drivers.

City Queen had no difficulty in winning the 2.35 class. The Port Hope mare teamed in clever fashion by Ben Dunford of Peterborough, was out in front all the way, winning easily. There were five other starters. Jim K., owned by Ketcheson, of Belleville; Tobe, owned by MacFarlane, of Sarnia; Honest Billy, the property of Gilks of Barrie; Lulu Chimes, owned by George Lipsett, of Peterborough; and Godfrey's Pride, owned by M. Welch, Hastings. The only contenders with City Queen were Jim K., and Honest Billy, who had a hard battle for second, Honest Billy finally taking the money.

City Queen went off in the van in the first heat and was never headed. Honest Billy took second, after a good race, with Jim K and Tobe Lulu Chimes, and Godfrey's Pride in the race in the order named, the latter hopelessly out of the hunt.

The second heat was almost a repetition of the first, with the exception that Honest Billy and Jim K. changed places. City Queen was in the fore all the mile, winning without trouble, while Jim K. beat out Honest Billy. The other three finished as before.

There was nothing to it but City Queen in the third heat, the Port Hope mare scattering slush over her field just as she had done in the other two heats. Honest Billy beat out Jim K. for the place money. The heat was a procession, all the way.

The summary follows:

1	City Queen, L. Bennett, Port Hope	1	1
2	Honest Billy, Gilks, Barrie	2	3
3	Jim K., Ketcheson, Belleville	3	2
4	Tobe, MacFarlane, Sarnia	4	4
5	Lulu Chimes, Geo Lipsett, Peterborough	5	5
6	Godfrey's Pride, M Welch, Hastings	6	6

Time, 2.28 1-4, 2.32 1-4, 2.34.

2.18 Class

The great little mare, Gipsy Girl, the winner of many a hard fought battle on the ice and turf, brought home the bacon in the 2.18 class, although it took six heats to decide the result. Harry Direct hung up the first two heats handily, and looked a winner all over, but the Peterborough horse tired, and Gipsy Girl, in a whipping finish beat him out by a length in the third. Maud Wilks added to the excitement by going out in front in the fourth, and staying there, but the Toronto mare came back strong in the next two and got the big share of the purse. Gipsy Girl was the most consistent performer, never developing below second place. It was fine racing and the crowd forgot its discomfort in the excitement.

Queen's Baron owned by Dr. Johnston, Peterborough, made things lively for the fast ones, in the first heat, by leading the bunch for three-fourths of the distance; Gipsy Girl was second, and Harry Direct third, at the beginning of the fourth quarter, but the latter opened up a big bunch of speed, and showed out in front of both, Gipsy Girl beating Queen's Baron for the place. Maud Wilks trailed all the heat.

The second was Harry Direct on the hop, the Peterborough horse being in front the whole distance with Gipsy Girl second. The only real race was for third place, Maud Wilks turning the trick after following behind Queen's Baron until the stretch was reached when a driving finish won for her.

There was a change in the third heat, Harry Direct as usual, was out in front at the start, and when the stretch was reached was over a length to the good. Gipsy Girl, however, let out several links in the stretch, and won out, in an exciting finish leading Harry Direct home by a length.

Maud Wilks, selling at 3 to 1 in the books, sprang a surprise by spiking the next heat. The game mare from Deseronto, was never headed going out at once and holding the van all through. Gipsy Girl had no trouble in disposing of Harry Direct.

The little gray mare then showed her class by breezing home a winner in the next two heats, accomplishing the trick without difficulty. The only opposition came from Maud Wilks, who beat Harry Direct for the place in both heats.

The summary:

1	Gipsy Girl, J McDowell, Toronto	2	2	1	1	1
2	Harry Direct, J Cottingham, Peterborough	1	1	2	3	3
3	Maud Wilks, T Stewart, Deseronto	4	3	3	1	2
4	Queen's Baron, Dr Johnston, Peterborough	3	4	4	4	dr

The Tongolas basketball team of the Central Y. M. C. A., Toronto, will be in Peterborough on Saturday, Feb. 1st, to play the local Y. M. C. A. team. The Tongolas are a fast bunch of players so that the game will be one of the best ever witnessed in Peterborough. The Peterborough Y. M. C. A. will place its fastest five on the floor.

The class last night was again well attended and the boys are getting into excellent shape.

WEAK MEN AND WOMEN

The Most Perfect Restorative Known and Invigorating Tonic Vitalizer —Greatest Health-Renewer

Nature's greatest cure for weak, pale men and women is Ferrozone. It is invaluable for run-down, overworked, delicate people, and will restore them to robust health more quickly, at smaller expense, than any other tonic you can select.

We quote the following cases to show what Ferrozone has done for others. In your case it will act just as efficiently:—

FOR BUSINESS MEN

The Experience of a Well-Known Lawyer Proves Ferrozone an Ideal Tonic.

Mr. N. W. Burke, a well known lawyer in Meriden, says:—"When I first took Ferrozone I was in a nervous run-down condition, almost sick enough to give up work. I lacked strength, and felt as if I could not get down to work. Ferrozone at once gave me a good appetite, and drove away the nervous, apprehensive feelings that formerly made my life miserable. As I continued the use of Ferrozone I grew stronger, and am glad to say it has brought me back to perfect health. I know that Ferrozone is an excellent tonic for business men and people inclined to a sedentary life. I can recommend it to such."

FOR NERVOUS WOMEN

Nothing Compares With the Nerve-Strengthening Power of Ferrozone.

Mrs. E. D. Emmerson, of Centreville, says:—"I am glad to think that there is at least one honest remedy for nervous people. No one can imagine what I suffered with my nerves, and I sometimes wonder at the number of useless prescriptions and medicines I took. But Ferrozone acted differently from all the rest. It built up my system, and gradually the irritability left my nerves, and I got well. Ferrozone cured me by removing the cause of my trouble, and by giving me enough additional strength to overthrow the attack of nervousness. I can recommend Ferrozone strongly."

THOUSANDS ANNUALLY CURED BY FERROZONE

If you want to get well and keep well, by all means use Ferrozone. If you suffer from insomnia, nervousness, debility, loss of appetite, poor digestion, or any other symptom of disordered blood, nothing will tone up and vitalize your system like Ferrozone. Price 50c per box, or six boxes for $2.50. Sold by all druggists, or sent safely by mail to any address if price is forwarded to N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U.S.A., or Kingston, Ont.

TO-NIGHT'S GAMES IN CITY LEAGUE

Big Crowd's Will Accompany Outside Teams To-night

It is said the supporters of the Lakefield team are willing to back their favourites against the High Lifes in the City League game to-night. The northerners are confident of a victory and will bring down a big crowd of rooters who will make things interesting. The High Lifes are saying nothing, but have been doing great work in practice, the pace they set last night showing them to be dangerous factors in the championship race. Local opinion favours High Lifes for the victory, but Cementville doesn't think so, and hope with its strengthened team to put High Lifes out of the running. The ice will be in good shape and the match promises to be brimful of excitement from start to finish.

A Bridgenorth man in the city today says the Norwood seven will have their work cut out for them to defeat the team from the pines to-night. There will be several changes in the Bridgenorth line-up and a great improvement will be seen when they take the ice to-night. Norwood will have about the same team as went down before the Strathconas last week, and look for a win. Many supporters will accompany them to the city on the 4.48 train this afternoon.

The Norwood-Bridgenorth contest will be pulled off first and will be followed by the game between Lakefield and High Lifes. The playing of the three outside teams should attract a big crowd. Geo. Lynch will handle the bell in both games, which is a guarantee of clean, fast hockey.

AN INTERESTED READER WRITES ON CRICKET GAME

In Connection With What He Considers An Error in Report of Test Match

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Would you allow me to point out a slight mistake in your account of the English test match in Australia. In the first instance it was Fielder of Kent County that joined Barnes, the old Lancashire county cricketer, at the wicket. Also that Blythe is a Kent County professional, not the West of England pro as quoted. Your paragraph appeared on Monday, the 20th inst. Would be very pleased if you would correct same. I remain an interested reader of your paper.

QUAKER OATS TEAM WON AGAIN

Railroaded the C.P.R. Seven in a Good Game Last Night

The Quaker Oats team kept the famous smile intact by defeating the C. P. R. team in a lively game of hockey last night at the Brock street rink by 7-1. The railroad men made it interesting in the early stages, but blew up in the second period when the breakfast food seven won as they pleased, only the splendid goal keeping of Thornton saving them from a big beating. The half time score was 1-1, the Quakers hanging up six in the last half. Sturdee and Rightmeyer were the stars for the winners, while Thornton and Turnbull were the best for the C. P. R. Len Giroux refereed satisfactorily and the teams were as follows:

QUAKER OATS		C. P. R.
Callaghan	Goal	Thornton
Searight	Point	Davidson
Healip	Cover	Hamilton
Sturdee	"Van Horne" Rover	Turnbull
Pratt	Centre	Caroy
Rightmeyer	Right Wing	McGregor

Two hockey matches took place on Monday night at the rink. The first contest between Bridgenorth and Lakefield proved an easy win for the home team, Lakefield winning by the score of 17-7. The match between the Bankers and Firemen proved a very exciting one, the Bankers after several hair-raising plays eventually winning by a score of 9-5.

Several of our citizens have been working hard making a toboggan slide out in Smith near the House of Refuge, and there are now quite a number enjoying the fruits of their labours.

A BIG EXCURSION TO LINDSAY

Peterboro' Will Have The Strongest Team of The Season

The team that will represent Peterborough in the game at Lindsay on Friday night will be a big surprise to the hockey lovers of the city and will be far the strongest of the season, marking the return to the game of some of the old favourites. The feeling in Peterborough is that Lindsay can't be allowed to go through the district without a defeat and that the only way in which Peterborough can get back some of its lost laurels is by a brilliant victory on Lindsay's ice. The Midgets are confident that it can't be done, but those who have heard the Peterborough lineup and have seen the last few practices are wearing a satisfied smile when they think of what is coming to Lindsay on Friday. With a special train leaving Peterborough at 6.45 o'clock and returning after the game, there is no reason why there should not be a big crowd with the team on Friday. The fare will be $1.05, and tickets will be good returning on the special or upon any regular train on Saturday. Come along with the crowd and get your money's worth of hockey and excitement. It will be the only hockey excursion of the season.

SPORTING NEWS AND VIEWS.....

The Canadian Canoe Company's seven accepts the challenge of the English Canoe Company to a game of hockey, the latter to make arrangements for the ice.

The Peterborough young ladies' hockey club wish to challenge the Knox church young ladies club to a game of hockey. The Knox church young ladies are requested to communicate with the Examiner office if they desire to accept the challenge and arrange the game.

Bottle Dashed From Lips.

Stratford, Jan. 22.—An unknown young woman boarder at the Cabinet Hotel attempted suicide yesterday by swallowing a quantity of carbolic acid. She was caught with a bottle at her lips and the poison dashed from her grasp. With the use of antidotes she was partially restored and will likely recover. Mental aberration is assigned as the cause.

Tramps Make a Haul.

Lancaster, Jan. 22.—Yesterday morning about 3 o'clock, two tramps, who had been all Monday evening loitering about town and begging for help to get to Toronto, found entrance to the G. T. R. ticket office here and annexed the contents of the till to the extent of about $30.

Conductor's Death.

Port Huron, Mich., Jan. 22.—J. B. Jones, former Grand Trunk conductor of this city, who has been acting division superintendent for the Canadian Pacific Railroad, died suddenly of heart failure while on a train coming to Port Huron. He had been sick in Calgary for some time.

Record Sale of Tobacco.

Lexington, Ky., Jan. 22.—A half million pounds of light tobacco was sold on the loose tobacco market yesterday, breaking all records for loose tobacco sales in the world. The prices were exceptionally good.

No Call For Artisans.

London, Jan. 22.—(C.A.P.)—W. R. Trotter addressed fraternal greeting on behalf of Canada to the Labor Congress at Hull. He emphasized the entire absence of demand for skilled artisans in the Dominion and pointed out that emigration agencies who were carrying on a propaganda were unauthorized by the Dominion Government. In every city in Canada there were unemployed. The Salvation Army ought to come into the open as emigration touts. Mr. Trotter believed the solution of the unemployed question in Great Britain was not to be found in emigration.

Prison For Forming Trust.

Columbus, O., Jan. 22.—The Supreme Court yesterday passed upon the case of the three ice dealers of Toledo, R. C. Lemon, R. O. Beard and J. A. Miller, who were sent to the workhouse as punishment for forming an ice trust.

The Supreme Court interferes with the sentences only so far as to hold that they should have been sentenced to jail instead of the workhouse, and they are ordered to be re-sentenced.

They were given a year's sentence by Judge Kincade of the lower court and a fine of $5,000.

Victoria, B. C., Jan. 22.—Replying to the accusation of J. A. Macdonald, leader of the Opposition, stating that the Government was responsible for Lieutenant-Governor Dunsmuir withholding his assent to the Natal Act passed unanimously last session. Premier McBride said yesterday in the House that, in withholding his assent, his honor had acted as the official of the Dominion Government, and that the case was not one in which the local Government could be held responsible.

Eczema, Salt Rheum.

Eczema or Salt Rheum, as it is often called, is one of the most agonizing of skin diseases. It manifests itself in little round blisters, which contain an extremely irritating fluid. These break and subsequently a crust or scale is formed.

The intense burning, itching and smarting, especially at night or when the part is exposed to any strong heat, are almost unbearable.

The pre-eminent success which Burdock Blood Bitters has met with in permanently curing a disease of such severity is due to its wonderful blood cleansing and purifying properties.

No other remedy has done, or can do, so much for those who are almost driven to distraction with the terrible torture, as our thousands of signed testimonials can testify to.

Mrs. Jas. R. Keady, Linton, N.B., writes: "I was so troubled with Salt Rheum for eight years, that I could not work my hands were so sore. By using Burdock Blood Bitters my hands were eventually cured."

Mrs. Ira C. Beckner, Eden, Ont., writes: "I was troubled with Eczema for a long time. It came out on my face and between my shoulders. A friend told me about Burdock Blood Bitters. I took two bottles and it helped me so much I cannot recommend it too highly."

MISSION NEARING A CONCLUSION

Farewell Meeting at St. Andrew's To-night—Addresses Have All Been Impressive and Inspiring in Character

TO CONTINUE ON THE TOUR

In the face of weather conditions a very large congregation greeted the Rev. Mr. Allen last night in the St. Andrew's church. The song service was exceedingly bright. Mr. Mulligan's solo "The Cross of Calvary" was most appropriate to the address of the evening and was greatly appreciated by all present.

Mr. Allan's address was based upon Luke XXII, 31, 32, "Simon Simon, behold satan hath desired to have you that he might sift you as wheat, but I have prayed for thee that thy faith fail not."

Mr. Allan dealt with Peter's mistake, Peter's fall and Peter's restoration. Peter was very ready to promise what he would do for his Lord, but he had not taken into account the hostile forces that were playing all around him He was possessed of a sort of hypnotic deception, a self deliverance. Christ saw in Peter is misconception of his own weakness, and a miscalculation of the tempting forces about him.

These hostile forces Christ sums up in the person of satan. Mr. Allan was convinced that every failure was due to an under-estimating the forces of the enemy. This was the great blunder in the South African war. The word devil in the Greek was diabolus and referred to a wily, tricky, deceiving character, and it was therefore necessary to watch the tricks of the evil one, if we would escape total defeat.

Three things caused his fall. 1 His fear of the taunts of a servant lassie. 2 His own pride and impulsiveness, 3 His ignorance of the contending force and his yielding to his moral stupor.

Three things saved and restored him 1 The look of Jesus in the Judgment Hall A look of disappointment. 2 The retirement to Gethsemane where during that night Christ had agonized for them. 3 The prayer of Jesus.

Mr. Allan appealed to his hearers that they too should always live in the strength of that three fold victory gaining force, the look, the blood and the prayer of Jesus.

Mr. Allan closes his mission to-night There will be a song service at 7.45 and everybody is invited to hear the evangelist's farewell words. The meetings have all been of a most uplifting and instructive character, and have been attended by a large number of the most intelligent Christain people in Peterborough. Mr. Allan's addresses and afternoon Bible studies have all been of a very high order and his visit will result in the deepening of spiritual life, a deep reverence for the means of peace, a greater love for the Scriptures, and a more intense zeal for the carrying out of the policy and purpose of the founder and inspirer of the Christain Church.

The thank offering for the Rev. Mr. Allan will be given at to-night's service.

DECLARES DIVIDEND OF SIX PER CENT

A Successful Year for Mann Lumber and Cheese Box Factory

The first annual meeting of the shareholders of the Mann Lumber and Cheese Box Company was held yesterday afternoon when the business of the past year was shown to have been excellent. The planing mill department was kept continually in operation throughout the year, showing a turnover of $32,987.96. The cheese box department has also done a good business, the output being 44,000 boxes, showing a profit of $4,582.30.

The operations in the timber limits were also successful, the report on this showing that 1,500 telephone poles were cut from one of the properties.

The directors declared a dividend yesterday on the general stock of six per cent. per annum, payable on or before April 1.

The following officers were elected:

Pres.—E H Mann.
Vice-Pres.—G A Gillespie.
Sec.-Treas.—Alfred Simpson.
Directors — A E Dixon, Wm. Eyres, Robt. Ritchie, W H Down, R H Nesbitt, Geo. E Johnston, and the officers.

TOWN SINKING INTO THE EARTH

Town Subsiding Owing to Copper Mines Over Which It is Built

Minas De Riotinto, Spain, Jan. 22. — This town is threatened with complete destruction owing to the subsidence of the ground. Large gaps are visible in the principal streets, and four hundred houses have been hastily evacuated. The sinking of the ground is believed to be due to the caving in of a portion of the copper mines. Minas de Riotinto is famous for its copper mines, which are among the most productive in the world, yielding annually about 30,000 tons of metal. Upwards of ten thousands persons are employed in the mines.

SMITH FARMERS AND THEIR RATS

Leave One House Only to Bother The Next Neighbor—Army of Them

A gentleman living in Smith was telling of a neighbour whose barns and cellar are being overrun with rats. A farmer living nearby was bothered a great deal with the rodents and bought some of the staple chaser and killer and copiously strewed it around his yard and barns. The result was that in a day or two there were none to be seen about the place.

However, his neighbour suffered, for he awoke one morning to find the tracks leading from the next farm, and he considered there were about 100 in the swarm. They entered the cellar through a long tile drain which ran into the orchard. The man immediately set to work to get rid of the rats and the first day he killed 16. He says they are the biggest he ever saw and are like so many coons. The drug store for his after he gets tired of the novelty of hunting them, when he will do as his neighbour did and try to exterminate or chase them to some other house.

The Following Letter Speaks For Itself
Peterborough, Nov. 1st, 1907,
W. G. MORROW, Esq.
Agent Imperial Life Assurance Co.,
Peterborough.
Dear Sir:—I have received notification of the options available in respect to my ten-year Endowment Policy of $5000 which matured to-day and it affords me pleasure to say that I view with much satisfaction the results of my investment with your Company.
The substantial surplus which the Policy has earned in the comparatively short period of ten years makes the returns which would be made to me, under any of the options now open to my selection, most liberal and attractive.
It is greatly to the credit of the Company that after having granted me an Insurance of $5000 from the issue of the Policy in 1897 to the present time, it can now offer me under the cash-value option a sum so greatly in excess of the total premium that I have paid into it, or under the paid up Insurance option, a paid up life Policy considerable more than double the amount of my original Policy.
Permit me to wish the Company a long continuance of its prosperity
Yours very truly,
J. R. STRATTON.

TWENTY EIGHT THOUSAND DOLLAR FIRE LEAVES TWO LAKEFIELD MILLS A BLACK MASS OF CHARRED RUINS

Cornish's Grist Mill and Reeve Moore's Flour Mill Swept By the Flames---More Than 30 Men Left Without Work To-day---Second Disastrous Fire in Recent Times

THE TOTAL INSURANCE AMOUNTED TO ABOUT $17,000

Defective Chimney Said To Have Been Cause---Splendid Work of Lakefield Brigade---Reflection on Clouds Was Seen in Peterborough---Local Brigade Ready

Shortly after 6 o'clock last evening a bright sky to the north told of a fire raging in the village of Lakefield, which, before it was conquered by the Lakefield firemen, had consumed a grist mill and a planing mill and left them both a mass of black ruin. The losers in the big fire which was one of the most destructive that has visited that village in recent years, are Messrs. C. W. Cornish and F. J. Moore, the latter being the reeve of Lakefield.

The former was the proprietor of the grist mill which was located on the east side of the canal and to the south of the bridge. It was there that the fire started, so far as can be determined, and by reason of a defective chimney. The total loss is estimated at about $ 28,000, Mr. Moore being the heaviest loser. The mill and machinery valued at $10,000 was completely destroyed, and he had only $3,500 insurance. Mr. Cornish's loss is estimated at $18,000, with $13,500 insurance.

Progress of the Fire

The first indication that a fire was in progress in the grist mill was when the flames were seen shooting out from the building about 6 o'clock. Soon the fire brigade arrived on the scene and a steady stream of water was forced into the building by the engine. At a critical time the engine went wrong, and it was not long before the whole structure was enveloped in a mass of flames.

The reflection on the clouds could be seen at a long distance, and before any definite news arrived in Peterborough the citizens here could tell that Lakefield was in the grasp of a destructive fire.

Hundreds of people are reported to have witnessed the sight — picturesque, though destructive it was. Scores of people dropped into Lakefield from the countryside and the northern village was seldom more populous than it was last night.

Despite the crippled condition of the fire engine, the firemen worked like Trojans to delay the progress of the flames. Their efforts, however, were unavailing in preventing Moore's planing mill from being destroyed. It is situated only about seventy feet from the grist mill and soon met the same fate as the flour mill. Mr. Moore lost several valuable machines, including one worth about $2,000. Half a hundred men attempted to carry it from the burning building, but before their efforts were awarded in its safety the flames had crept to it and left it valueless this morning.

Private Losses

Several farmers had grain stored away in the grist mill, and thus is a total loss to them. The greatest loser in this respect was Mordecai Blewett, who is moving from Nroth Smith to the Stewart Settlement in Otonabee. He had about 600 bushels of grain stored away, and of course this was all destroyed. Other farmers suffered likewise.

The Cornish mill is the one formerly owned by Mr. U. B. McAllister of Peterborough, and which had long been known as the old McAllister mill.

When the firemen discovered that it would be useless to attempt to save the two mills, they turned their attention to other buildings in danger. The residence of Mr. John Baladen was one of these, and a steady stream of water was kept pouring upon it. It was only by this means that it was protected, as a strong wind wafted the aspiring flames rapidly in its direction. The Lakefield Cement Company and the Cavendish Lumber Company loaned their private water hose, and with several streams playing upon the buildings in danger the progress of the fire was materially checked.

Youth in Danger

Happily no lives were lost, but Mr. Leggott, son of the proprietor of the Lakefield electric light plant, which is located a short distance from the planing mill, was in danger. In spite of the streams of water turned on to this building, the boards became warped and charred. Young Leggott became so hot that the water had to be turned on him.

The residence belonging to Mr. S. Charlton, as well as the Cavendish Lumber Company's office were also in peril, but here again the creditable work of the firemen stemmed the flames. Before 8 o'clock arrived, the blaze was gotten under way although a smouldering fire burned all night.

Contrary to reports received in the city the bridge was not in danger. It is built of iron with the exception of the floor and it was covered with snow. It was also feared that the lumber piles of the Cavendish Lumber Company might again be invaded but the distance intervening was too great for the flames to leap.

It might also be mentioned that the grist mill was substantially built, the elevator was erected to withstand great pressure and was constructed with planks 2x6 inches, piled on top of each other.

Local Brigade Wanted

About 7 o'clock the Peterborough fire alarm rang and the local brigade made ready for a trip north. A flat car was prepared but in a short time the report came that the blaze had been conquered and assistance from here was not needed.

This is the second occasion Lakefield has been visited by a big fire inside of a year. Last August flames played havoc with the lumber piles of the Cavendish Lumber Company, causing a loss of about $60,000.

More than 30 men will be thrown out of employment on account of the disaster.

It was later learned that the contents of the grist mill of the Lakefield Milling Company was insured in the Waterloo Mutual, Hand-in-Hand, Economical, Phoenix of London, Anglo-American, Montreal, Canada, and Atlas.

The planing mill machinery and stock were insured as follows: $500 in the Gore Mutual and Loyalon Mutual. Both buildings were owned by the Dickson Company of Peterborough.

Rosedale Section of Trent Canal Let To Toronto Firm

Randolph McDonald Construction Co. Secure Contract for Section Between Cameron and Balsam Lakes, Victoria County

IT IS A SHORT SECTION

It has been announced that the contract for the Rosedale section of the Trent Canal, has been let to the Randolph MacDonald Construction Company, Limited, of Toronto.

It will be remembered that the Trenton Section was awarded about the middle of November to Mr. Louis P. Nott, of Montreal, an English firm, the contract price being $670,000.

Superintending Engineer Grant, who has given out the announcement of the latest contract, was not in a position to state the price.

Rosedale Section

The Rosedale section lies between Cameron Lake and Balsam Lake, and west of Fenelon Falls. A new lock, a new dam, and a short neck of land between the two lakes, belong to this portion. The work to be done will be on the same dimensions as on the Rice Lake section. The locks will be 8 feet 4 inches deep on the sills and 9 feet in the canal. The lock chamber will be 75 feet between the quoins, and 20 feet in width.

Besides the Trenton section, the contract for which was awarded to the English firm, there is also section No. 3, in the portion of the canal south of Peterborough. The work on this latter section is being rapidly constructed by the contractors, Messrs. Brown and Aylmer. This part is in the Campbellford district.

Thus the whole route of this great inland waterway is being disposed of. The newly-let section is in Victoria county, and is not a lengthy stretch. Farther north, however, in the last link to Lake Simcoe there is a rather long portion. The Government continues to progress with the work, and is standing by its decision to carry it to as early a completion as possible.

FINE PROBLEM FOR CANADIANS

(Woodstock Sentinel-Review)

One of the problems facing Canadians in the present is the safeguarding of their forests, fish and game. The problem is a pretty wide one and involves so many considerations that time and thought will have to be given it; courage and ability brought to bear upon it and administrative skill displayed before it can even approach solution. The benefits to be conferred upon the people by such a policy are indirect, and though they are both vast and far reaching yet by reason of this indirectness they are often ignored.

In reality the problem touches everyone and touches them nearly. If our forests are to be destroyed like some of olden time, arid barren wastes will surely result; rivers will become streams and fish life be destroyed; and big game will vanish as its cover goes. To lose our chances of venison, or even of fishing may not appeal to the great mass of the people with half the force these perils ought to do; but to denude our forests means more than these calamities; it means an alteration of the climate for the worse and if carried to extremes it will certainly render large tracts of country uninhabitable while allowing the rest to undergo serious deterioration.

Such possibilities—and they are even more than possibilities, they are becoming positive dangerous—ought to arouse the people. Our leaders and legislators are gradually awakening to the necessity for a strong and decided policy on these matters, and organized public opinion is likely ere long to influence legislation in the right direction.

There is still prejudice and misunderstanding as to the meaning and reason of protection. Some people imagine that it is similar to establishing a monopoly. A greater mistake has never been made. Protection is in the interests of the whole people, and it is also in the interests of those who, though making a temporary profit from present slaughter, are destroying their future. If we could assure efficient protection to-morrow everyone would gain immediately and although this gain would be indirect it would be none the less real.

It is good to know that steps have been taken, and are still being taken, to advance the cause of protection. There is much still to learn as to the best way in which the work can be carried out with the greatest efficiency. We have, however, learnt enough to know that our apparently inexhaustible resources in timber, fish and game cannot stand ruthless destruction without a speedy end. Not merely have we the experiences of others of our guidance, but actual depletions in Canada, likewise act as warnings to stop us in the policy of living in the present without regard to the future.

We have not merely to press forward along the path indicated, but also to defend what we have now. The people of this district are more directly concerned in fish and interested in a cheap and abundant fish supply. For this reason the net fishing along the bays of Lake Ontario, the natural spawning ground of the fish, should only be carried on in moderation and under strict regulations, and latterly the Government have been enforcing these regulations to an extent discomforting to the net fishermen. Accordingly they have asked for relaxations, and if these are granted by the Fisheries Department the whole work will require to be done over again.

Up to quite recently the fallacy has prevailed that the interests of the net fisherman — or rather their supposed interests, for their real interests are not involved in the depletion of the supply—must be supreme. Now it is held, and rightly held, that the whole people have something to say on the matter. The fish do not belong entirely to those who may happen to live along the shores of the lake, but to the whole people, and all the people have a right to their share. The Fisheries Department, in considering this latest request of the net fishermen, should bear these considerations in mind and if they do not do so the people must call them to sharp account. In that way only can we hope to maintain our natural assets and even improve upon them.

Enough has been written to show the necessity for constant vigilance, and more than sufficient to justify the existence and work of the Ontario Fish and Game Protective Association. The winter campaign of this Association throughout the Province, including a meeting at Woodstock on the evening of Tuesday, January 28th, is likely to arouse anew the public interest in these important matters. The whole subject is one deserving of the best attention that can be given to it and this opportunity of gaining further information on a matter so closely concerned with the future of our country is one that should not be missed. The problem raised is one in the solution of which the assistance of every Canadian will be welcomed.

IMPORTANT TO LADIES

—It is not often an opportunity occurs at your door to see the latest Parisian and New York styles in hair goods, yet such is the case as Prof. Dorenwend of Toronto, is visiting this city and invites your inspection of these goods at his private apartments reserved at the Hotel.
These hair good styles when properly adjusted, protect and ornament the head, soften and beautify the expression of the face and consequently tone up an aged appearance. Be sure and see them at the Oriental Hotel on January 27th. 1d

THE WRITING OF PROPER NAMES

More Care Should be Taken by Contributors to the Press

The attention of regular correspondents, as well as casual writers to the press, is directed to the fact that all proper names—especially of persons and places—should be very distinctly written. Many writers apparently labour under the delusion that because a certain name is quite familiar to the writer it must necessarily also be well known to the printer. Bad penmanship can generally be deciphered, and the sense of illegible words supplied by the context. Not so with names of persons and places. The printer is often termed "the intelligent compositor," and he deserves the title, but it is only in rare instances that he is a mind reader.

LOCAL BOYS ARE IN TROUBLE

Collected Money in Lakefield Presumably For Grocer Hockey Team

Two Peterborough boys of about 14 years of age have evolved a new scheme of frenzied finance, which a trial has shown to be eminently satisfactory, but which is liable to get them into serious trouble. County Constable Cochrane has received a letter from Mr. A. W. McKenzie of the Grove School, Lakefield, in which that gentleman complains that the two youths visited Lakefield on Tuesday of last week, and stating that they were soliciting funds for the Grove School hockey team, collected between $15 and $20 from the merchants and citizens of Lakefield. Their appeal met with a ready response as the people of Lakefield, believing they were conferring a kindness upon the pupils, contributed freely. The two boys returned to Peterborough with the money, and now the contributors have learned they were "stung."

HE WANTS TO BORROW THE BIG TELESCOPE

Letter From Another Mr. Ford on The Stone Breaking Question

To the Editor of the Examiner

Dear Sir—Do you think I could borrow that large and powerful telescope which our friend must own for a day or two for I am sure it would pay meme, as I have been looking for work a long time now, and it seems a hopeless case to me.

"Go on the stone pile, lots of work," some good man says. I know there is lots of work there, but that won't keep me from starving. A man might just as well die starving as die working, for next to nothing.

I was up and took a look at some of my unfortunate countrymen through reading an article in one of the local papers which said the stones were chipped. Well they were certainly chipped. But there was no room for anyone to find fault at all, and should like to see that gentleman who made the remark about being only chipped, up on the stone pile and see if he could show them how to manage it more skillfully. I doubt if he could manipulate the hammer leaving alone the stones, besides having to put up with all kinds of weather. Before closing, I consider it no gentlemanly act to make fun at the expense of another man's misfortunate, as I have heard now please remember it is not the clothes that makes a gentleman.

I remain yours truly,

WILLIAM C. FORD

WON HIS CASE.

Doctors Said He Must Die, But He Rallied Under South American Kidney Cure, and Diabetes Was Absolutely Cured.

A prominent legal light in a Canadian Western town treated and dieted for years for what the doctors diagnosed an incurable case of diabetes. He became so bad that he had to quit his practice, other complications setting in, and his sufferings were most intense. Almost as a last resort he tried South American Kidney Cure, and, to his own surprise, immediately began to improve. This is over a year ago. He continued taking this greatest of all kidney specifics, and today he is a well man. (20)

A NEW CURE FOR RUPTURE

New Scientific Appliance Always a Perfect fit-Adjustable to any Size Person-Easy, Comfortable Never Slips, No Obnoxious Springs or Pads-Costs Less Than Many Common Trusses-Made For men, Women or Children

I Send it on Approval-you Wear it-if you are not Satisfied, I Refund Your Money

I have invented a rupture appliance that I can safely say, by 20 years' experience in the rupture business, is the only one that will absolutely hold the rupture and never slip and yet is cool, comfortable, conforms to every movement of the body without chafing or hurting and costs less than many ordinary trusses. I have put the price so low that any person, rich or poor, can buy, and I absolutely guarantee it. I make it to your order, send it to you, you wear it, and if it doesn't satisfy you send it back to me and I will refund your money. That is the fairest proposition ever made by a rupture specialist. The banks or any responsible person in Marshall will tell you that it is the way I do business—always absolutely on the square.

John Britton, Cured of Rupture, by C. E. Brooks

"C. E. Brooks Esq., Dear Sir:—I have been ruptured six years and have always had trouble with it till I got your appliance. It is very easy to wear fits neat and snug, and it is not in the way at any time, day or night. In fact at times I did not know I had it on. It just adapted itself to the shape of my body and clung to the spot no matter what position I was in. It would be a veritable God-send to the unfortunate who suffer from rupture, if all could procure the Brooks Rupture Appliance and wear it. They certainly would never regret it. My rupture is all healed up and nothing ever did it but your appliance. Jas. Britton."
If you have tried most everything else, come to me. Where others fail is where I have my greatest success. Write me to-day and I will send you my book on Rupture and its cure, showing my appliance and giving you prices and names of people who have tried it and been cured. It is instant relief when others fail. Remember I use no salves, no harness, no lies. Just a straight business deal at a reasonable price.

The New York Stock Market

(Furnished by J. R. Heintz & Co.)

New York, Jan 23 — Reductions in the London and Paris bank rates led to a much stronger tone throughout the London market to-day, and influenced higher prices at the opening here. There was very heavy selling at the advanced level however, especially in Smelters and bearish operations were also conducted in that section causing a quick drop of 3 1-2 points. The whole market weakened and about the only support for a time was through short covering while later on banking interests seemed to be helping the market. This caused some of the traders to turn around and later in the day marked strength was exhibited.
Business was quite dull, however, on the advance, and when the professionals attempted to bid up stocks they ran into heavy offerings.
In the last hour stocks averaged just about what they were last night and business was almost stagnant. London turned around and sold a good many more shares than it bought at the opening, and still feels very doubtful about this market. The market will likely continue very irregular for a time and we consider the general market a purchase on the drives and the taking of profits should be in order on the bulges. Sentiment in general appears to be bearish and for this reason a short covering movement is to be expected as this interest has been built up in the last day or two.

PETERBORO' BIRDS IN LINDSAY

They Capture Many Prizes at the Poultry Show—Mr. Lush's Success

Several of the prizes in the Lindsay Poultry show have come to Peterborough again this year. Messrs. Joseph Kelly and Harry Lush were there yesterday and captured a good share of them. The latter secured no less than 40 prizes altogether, including 15 firsts, 16 seconds and 9 thirds.

Among the other poultry fanciers from here were Messrs. J. Cunningham, Geo. Paxman, R. Robinson, R. Wescott and several others. They state that the show was an extire success The leading classes were well represented and the birds on the whole were excellent. The sales were somewhat slow and evidently the poultrymen are well supplied.

The attendance was larger than anticipated, the market hall being well filled all day yesterday, and more especially in the evening. Among the visitors the wearers of the red ribbon, who are in Lindsay attending the Epworth League convention, were conspicuous.

All the Black Minorca prizes came to Peterborough, indicating that the local poultry fanciers keep the finest of birds.

A Black Orpington cock bird, owned by Mr. Harry Lush, and wearing the Guelph champion red ribbon was conspicuous among the exhibits and of course easily captured first premium.

The Poisons Must Be Removed

FROM THE SYSTEM—BOTH KIDNEYS AND BOWELS ARE RESTORED TO ACTION BY

There three ways, and three only, by which the system can be rid of poisonous waste matter, the bowels, the kidneys and the skin.

The bowels are named first, because on them falls the greater part of this work, and so long as they do do their duty there is seldom trouble with the kidneys, or skin, as excretory organs.

When the bowels fail, however, and become sluggish and constipated, there is work thrown on the kidneys which they have no business to do, and which they cannot do for any length of time without becoming deranged.

Now, there is only one medical treatment which recognizes this condition of affairs, and that is Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. This is, so far as we know, the only kidney medicine that regulates the bowels, as well as the kidneys, and thereby removes the cause of trouble, and cures the most complicated cases.

You can scarcely find a case of kidney disease that did not begin with liver and bowel troubles and which could not therefore have been prevented by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Mr. Jas. H. Harvey, baker, 641 George street, Peterborough, Ont., states:—"I was troubled very much with constipation and pains in the back. At times the pains were very sharp, like a stab with a knife, and caused me great suffering.

"I heard of many being cured by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and decided to try them. I am pleased to say that they soon helped me, and I used them right along until cured. I never have pains in my back now and only take a pill in order to keep my bowels regular."

Thousands of people are ready to testify to the superiority of Dr. Chase's Kidney Liver Pills, as a cure for kidney troubles. The reason of their efficiency is found in their action on the Liver and Bowels, as well as the Kidneys.

ROBINSON CRUSOES FOR 8 MONTHS

Castaways on Disappointment Island Two Hundred Miles South of New Zealand Arrive Home

ABOUT THEIR RUDE BARKS

Victoria, B. C., Jan., 23.—The steamer Miowera arrived yesterday from Australia bringing details regarding the finding of the castaways from the wrecked barkentine Dundonald, who for eight months struggled to exist on Dis-appointment island, 200 miles south of New Zealand. The Dundonald, with a crew of 27, was smashed on the rocks off the island on March 7th last. Twelve were drowned and the fifteen survivors reached Auckland Island, in a rudely fashioned boat, where they were found eight months afterwards by the New Zealand steamer Hinemoa. The castaways lived on raw mollyhawks and seals and built a fire and kept it going for seven months until May. Canvas from the ship was used for covering. Cold weather came then with snow and hail and with their hands only they dug holes in the ground above which huts were built of sods and sticks. At first they cooked food on the fire, but later built a mud oven and cooked food on a spit.

They knew a government food depot was placed on Auckland island, five miles away, and finally decided to build a boat. In July a strange looking boat was fashioned of crooked sticks and canvas and clothing and blankets saved from the ship. A small bone saved from a bird, with a hole perfced in it was used as a needle and some wire from the ship was used. The boat was started July 31st, but failing to fine the depot, the men came back August 9th. They used four of six of their store of matches.

A second boat was built in September and a third in October, but these were smashed. They then sent the first boat ahead and after walking through brush and scrub for fifteen miles, the food depot was found. There was a good boat there and making sails from their clothing the boat's crew went back to Disappointment Island and brought the others to Auckland island. The Hinemoa, passing with a scientific party, saw their signals and a month after they reached Auckland rescued them.

POOR MAN'S CHURCH IN CHICAGO

Soup, Biscuits and Probably Beds to be Features of New Plan

Chicago, Jan. 23.—A model "poor man's church," with plenty of soup, biscuits, religion, and possibly beds, is to be a branch of the great revival now in progress in 207 Chicago Protestant churches, under the auspices of the laymen's evangelical movement.

The plans for the new church were announced yesterday by Dr. W. C. Dixon, pastor of the Moody church. They comprise the establishment of an "open door" church in the lodging house district for the purpose of "reaching" the great army of the unemployed.

THE POLICE OFFICERS ARE ACCUSED

German Socialists Create a Scene in the Reichstag.

DERIDE PRINCE VON BUELOW

Leaders Claim That Disturbances Are Got Up by Detectives—Chancellor Utters Grave Warning—Is Greeted With Scornful Laughter — Socialists Accused of Cowardice —Vile Epithets Exchanged.

Berlin, Jan. 23.—Herr Fischer, Socialist, in the course of a speech in the Reichstag, accused the police of infamously utilizing the services of detectives, who mixed with the demonstrators and led in the cries and singing, thus creating cause for the intervention of their uniformed comrades.

Herr Kreth, Conservative, aroused an uproarious tumult among the Socialist benches when he asserted that the leaders of that party were most prominent by their absence from the streets during the demonstrations, which they had misled others into undertaking, even advising the participants to take their wives and children with them, as protection against the police. When Herr Kreth finished this statement loud cries were heard of "vagabond," "slanderer," "liar," "scoundrel" and "hypocrite."

During the tumult Herr Bebel, the Socialist leader, advanced to the tribune and shrieked at Herr Kreth: "You miserable rascal," while Herr Stadthagen, Social-Democrat, called him a "vulgar vagabond" and "police spy."

Amid cries of "get down from the tribune," Herr Kreth concluded his remarks by saying:

"I propose an encounter with Herr Stadhagen, at which the police shall not be present."

Prince Von Buelow opened the Reichstag proceedings, subsequently uttering in the severest terms a warning against further manifestations, which he declared, did not affect the Goverament in the slightest degree. He threatened, amid ironical cheering from the Socialists, that the leaders and organizers of all demonstrations would be dealt with severely.

The chancellor trembled with indignation when he referred to the terrorism which, he declared, had been introduced into the capital. He stigmatized the street demonstrations as dangerous to the country, and he looked directly at the Socialist members when he announced that the organizers would be held responsible. He was compelled to pause for several minutes because of the outbreak of a round of derisive laughter from the Socialist benches.

A National Stocktaking.

London, Jan. 23.—The British Board of Trade has just inaugurated a new national stocktaking in the shape of a census of the country's productive power, from a steamship line to a loaf of bread. Everything will be included except agriculture.

The new census will be based on returns furnished by employers throughout the country respecting their output for last year.

Its object is to enable the country to know exactly and scientifically how it stands.

Socialism the Object.

Hull, Eng., Jan. 23.—The delegation to the conference of the labor party, who are now holding a session here, and who on Tuesday voted down the resolution binding the party to Socialism, yesterday passed a motion declaring Socialism to be the definite objective of the party. Delegates representing over half a million members of the party, favored this resolution, which was passed amid a scene of the greatest enthusiasm.

Chicago, Jan. 23.—Policemen in Chicago are to be retired in the order of the hardness of their arteries. The arteries of a man of 50 may be harder than those of another of 65. It depends on the way he has lived.

Injured by Fall at Kingston.

Kingston, Jan. 23.—Late yesterday afternoon Edward Leech, in the employ of Hendry, a manufacturers' agent, fell from the second storey to the floor of the warehouse and was seriously injured.

Farmer Fatally Injured.

Brockville, Jan. 23.—Riding a horse across a plowed field on his farm, a farmer named Shaw of Newboro was seriously injured internally by the animal falling upon him. It stumbled and carried Shaw under it in such a manner that he could not release himself. He was found in an unconscious condition and will hardly recover.

Expect Meningitis Cures.

Newport, R. I., Jan. 23.—It was reported in Newport yesterday that the new serum discovered by Dr. Flexner of the Rockefeller Institute, for use in spinal meningitis cases has been used with success in the two latest cases of the disease among the naval apprentices at the training station here.

KILLED IN CROWDED CAFE.

Woman Shoots Frank Brady Then Commits Suicide.

New York, Jan. 23.—Frank Brady, the well-known advertising man, was shot five times and instantly killed in the restaurant of Macy's department store by a well-dressed woman yesterday afternoon. She drew a second revolver, put three bullets in her own head and was then taken to the New York Hospital.

She was identified at the hospital as May Roberts Clarke.

When the tragedy occurred the restaurant, which is one of the largest in the city, was crowded with women shoppers and a few men. The shooting caused the wildest excitement, women running shrieking in terror from the place.

It was shortly after noon when Brady entered the restaurant alone and went to a table. He had ordered his luncheon and was waiting for it to be served when the woman entered. She was about 35 years old, very attractive and stylishly dressed in a purple street gown, with a big picture hat. She had a fur muff and a boa.

She went to a table alone, and it was not until after she was seated that she caught sight of Brady, whose back was toward her. She immediately arose and walked up behind him. When within a few paces she drew a revolver from her muff and fired five shots into the man's back. He fell dead without uttering a cry.

Dropping the smoking revolver she drew another fully loaded from her leather handbag and fired three shots at herself, dying in a few minutes. All three inflicted desperate wounds and she fell unconscious to the floor. Half an hour elapsed before the management of the place restored order. No motive for the tragedy is apparent at present.

Herpicide is Used to Cure Dandruff

E. H. Lyon, New York, N.Y., says: "I am very fond of Herpicide and enjoy using it. It is refreshing."

Dr. J. H. Rusk, Toledo, O., writes: "Newbro's Herpicide has given better satisfaction than anything I have ever used."

Mrs. Borkey of Chandron, Neb., says of Herpicide: "It cleaned my head of dandruff and stopped my hair from falling out. It is the best remedy for dandruff I ever used, and I have used a great many."

R. S. Coleman, Ann Arbor, Mich., says: "I have used two bottles of Herpicide, and derived benefit therefrom."

Twenty Arrests Made.

Boyle, County Roscommon, Ireland, Jan. 23.—A force of 200 constabulary visited the Coevagh district yesterday and took into custody 20 men who are charged with unlawful assembly and riot, and with having interfered with the mails.

The landlords of the Keogh and Knox estates, in this district, have refused to sell lands to their tenants, and the latter consequently organized a "no rent" combination against the landowners. The latter then sent out processes for rent to their tenants, and it was the mails bearing these documents that were interfered with by the men gathered in yesterday.

Stole $3,000 Silver Nugget.

Cobalt, Ont., Jan. 23.—Between the hours of 10 and 1 o'clock Tuesday night, when the watchman at the King Edward mine was some distance from the ore house, it was broken into by thieves and a nugget worth $3,000 was stolen. Indications are that the thieves know their grounds. They were tracked for some distance by footprints in the snow, but have not as yet been captured.

Jap Spies.

Portland, Ore., Jan. 23.—A special from Fort Stevens, Ore., says that two Japanese found loitering near the west battery of Fort Stevens were arrested Tuesday. This place is rarely visited, except by special permission from the district artillery commander.

SIX HUNDRED MILES BY DOG TRAIN

Mrs. Ray Brought Three Children To Winnipeg From York Factory

A REMARKABLE JOURNEY

Winnipeg, Jan. 23. — (Special.) — Mrs. G. R. Ray of York Factory, Hudson Bay, arrived in the city this morning after having made the journey from the far north by dog sleigh. Mrs. Ray was accompanied by three children, the object of the trip being to have the children placed in the Public School of the city. The long overland journey was made without incident. The weather was warm and pleasant for the first two weeks, but during the last few days there were occasions when the travellers suffered severely from the cold.

Mr. Ray accompanied Mrs. Ray and the children for the first seven days out from the factory, and at the expiration of that time he returned to the fort. Mrs. Ray, with several servants, continued the trip southward, and in twelve days from the time of parting with her husband reached Norway House. Ten days were spent at Norway House in order that sufficient rest might be obtained, and the journey to the city was then resumed. The dogs used on the trip were the best procurable in the north, and the journey was made as quickly as possible under the circumstances. Six dog teams were used for the first seven days and four during the balance o the trip. A tent with a camp stove was carried by the party, so that Mrs. Ray and the children were not compelled to pass the night in the open. The dogs and the half-breed servants were left at Gimli to make the return trip to the north, Mrs. Ray and children coming into the city by train from that point. They are at present the guests of A. B. Wooldridge, of Bexley court, the brother of Mrs. Ray

BROTHER AND SISTER ENGAGED

Just Before the Time Set For The Nuptial They Discover Relationship

Englewood, S. Dak., Jan. 22.—(Special.)—Albert Jackson and Miss Minnie Burton discovered just before the day set for their marriage that they were brother and sister, and they went to Northe in Minnesota to make a search for those mother who they have not been since they were little children.

Jackson is a miner, and has been in the Black Hills for several years. Miss Burton came to the Hills six or seven months ago as a book agent. The young women sold the young miner some books. Jackson fell in love with her, contrived to see her frequently, and a few weeks ago asked her to marry him. She consented, and they set a day for the nuptials.

It came to light the day before the marriage was to be celebrated that the young woman's real name was not Burton, but Worthington, and the real name of her lover was not Jackson, but Worthington. Each had been given away when a child; he had taken the name of the man who had adopted him and she that of the man who had adopted her. They had been separated and neither had known the name the other had taken.

Mock Parliament Opened Ceremoniously Last Night

Questions Ably Dealt With by The Various Members—Many Warm Discussions

A LARGE ATTENDANCE

The first session of the Y. M. C. A. Mock Parliament was opened with all due ceremony at last night's meeting of the club, the following members composing the cabinet:

Premier, Sir Wilfrid Shiner.

Minister of Finance, Hon. N. Greenhalgh.

Minister of Railways and Canals, Hon. B. A. Lillie.

Minister of Labour, Hon. W. MacLaren.

Minister of Militia and Defence, Hon. Sir W. Shiner.

Minister of the Interior, Hon. P. Smedmor.

Minister of Customs, Hon. C. E. Coleman.

Minister of Public Works, Hon. B. A. Lillie.

Postmaster General, Hon. G. Martin.

Mr. J. E. Hodgson, critic of the society, was the Speaker, Mr. F. W. Simpson, Clerk of Session, and Mr. P. Carter, Sergeant-at-arms.

After the House had been formally opened the following questions were asked by the Opposition under the leadership of Mr. N. A. Howard-Moore.

To the Minister of Public Works — "Give estimate cost, actual cost, and cost of repairs of the Lift Lock, at Peterborough, Ont."

To the Minister of Public Works — "Why did the Government give the contract to a foreign firm, instead of a Canadian one on the southern section of the Trent Valley Canal?"

To the Minister of Militia — "When will the Government provide respectable clothing for our militia forces?"

To the Minister of Finance — "The Government is asked to show the expense and give the returns of the expenditure in beautifying the city of Ottawa."

To the Minister of Customs—"What precautions have been taken to prevent the influx of criminal classes from foreign countries into Canada?"

To the Prime Minister — "What agreement has been made between the mother country and this Government for the maintenance of the forts and garrisons at Halifax and Esquimalt?"

To the Minister of Labour—"When will the Transcontinental Railway be completed, and why was a preference shown in engaging American engineers, instead of Canadian?"

To the Postmaster General—"What benefit does the Government expect to derive from the fiasco visit to Japan of her Minister?"

The member of the Opposition dealt with these questions in a very forcible manner in addressing them to the Government speakers, and were loudly applauded by their supporters. The Cabinet succeeded however in explaining them—more or less successfully—to the Opposition benches. Some heated discussions arose between the two parties, and it was some time before som eof the speakers could get a hearing, and the House had to be called to order on thee Speaker on several occasions.

The Budget statement for the year 1908 was then read by the Minister of Finance. The first bill, viz., the Telephone Bill, which the Government intend to introduce, was then given its first reading. The House then went into a Committee of Supply and considered the Budget of proposed expenditures for the year 1908 in detail, Mr. Cox being chairman of the committee.

There were a great many questions for consideration and each was dealt with in detail, some of which were much opposed by the leader of the opposition and his colleagues.

The parliament adjourned at a late hour and will meet again on Wednesday, February 5th, when the Government will place the Telephone Bill before the house and give it its second and third reading. It is hoped that there will be a large attendance when this important measure is being discussed. The Bill will be published before the next meeting in the local papers.

LEAVING FOR THE OLD COUNTRY

Several Are Returning To The Mother Land To-day

A party of five left Petrborough this morning, per the C. P. R., on their way home to England. They will sail to-morrow morning from St. John, N. B., on the Allan liner Ohralean, which has been chartered by the C. P. R. The party consisted of Chris. Hill, J. H. Scales, J. Williams and T. Boylis, who are bound for London; and J. P. Powell, who is going to Liverpool.

The next sailings from St. John, N.B., for the Mother Land will be the Allan Liner, Grampian on Jan. — and the C. P. R. Steamship Lake Erie, on February 1st. Information may be secured as to the sailings from W. McIlroy, the C. P. R. agent.

KILTIES WANT TO COME HERE

Would Like to be Present at The S.O.E. Demonstration

The demonstration which the Sons of England intend to hold on July 1st next, is already beginning to attract attention in outside places. Mr. W. MacIlroy, C. P. R. agent, has received a letter from the famous Kilties Band of Galt, in which that organization expresses a wish to be present for the demonstration.

The Kilties are well known throughout Ontario for their musical ability, and have a most effective band, forty-four strong, clad in kilts. Their presence here would greatly add to the success of the Dominion Day celebration. Mr. McIlroy has turned the letter over to the local lodge of the Sons of England.

OBITUARY.

MRS. FRED McCORRY

The funeral of Mrs. Fred. McCorry takes place to-morrow morning at 11 o'clock from the family residence to the G.T.R. station, from where the body will be conveyed to Millbrook. On the arrival of the train there the remains will be taken to the Millbrook cemetery for burial in the family plot.

LUMRER TRADE WILL BE GOOD

More Men Might be Required For The Shanties

The lumbermen of Peterborough and outside districts are looking forward to a great business this spring. It was the opinion at the beginning of the winter that the lumber business of 1908 would be small, but such is not the case. The lumber companies are receiving many inquiries from large contracting concerns for quotations, and this is considered a very healthy sign of prosperity. The lumber companies, in the face of this coming demand for lumber, will in all probability increase their cut, and therefore more men will be wanted in the woods.

An Examiner representative called at one of the lumber offices this morning and was informed that since the new year business had assumed an altogether different tone. Many citizens of Peterborough have contracted for large quantities of lumber, and it is the popular opinion that building will be much more extensive this year than it was last.

MARATHON LODGE HOLD INSTALLATION

Mr. E. A. Powers of Montreal, and Messrs. Walker, Cameron and Hambley of Port Hope, were also present.

After the installation a banquet was held during which the different officers and visitors made a short speech.

VERY PLEASANT TIME SPENT

At Home of Mrs. Geo. Curtis by W. A. of St. Luke's Church

The entertainment and social evening held by the Sunnyside Branch of the W. A. in connection with St. Luke's church was a great success. Mr. and Mrs. George Curtis had very kindly placed their spacious home at the disposal of the W. A., of which Mrs. Curtis is President. Though the weather was rainy and stormy, the house was crowded. Rev. Dr. Langfeldt acted as chairman.

The following programme was given:—

Vocal solo—Miss Ruth Dawson.
Recitation—Miss Bessie Powell.
Recitation—Bruce Hamilton.
Instrumental duet—The Misses Girvin.
Recitation—Mr. J John.
Dialogue—Messrs. Howard Curtis and Howard Quinn.
Vocal solo—Mr. Bruce Quinn.
Recitation—Miss Alma Curtis.
Instrumental solo — Miss Clara Adams.
Reading—Mr. Sargeant.
Vocal Solo—Miss Ruth Dawson.
Recitation—Miss Eunice Curtis.
Recitation—Mr. J. John.

The numbers were heartily received and encored.

After thanking the audience for their hearty response to the invitation to attend this annual event, and expressing hearty thanks to those who had helped in the programme, the chairman invited all to partake of refreshments and spent a social hour.

Fancy Dress Carnival at Street Railway Rink postponed until Tuesday, January 28th.

FIRE ON WATER STREET THIS MORNING

Fire Brigade Were Soon on the Spot But it Was Only a Chimney

About 11.30 o'clock this morning a fire broke out in the chimney of No. 372 1-2 Water street. The building is occupied by two families, and Mr. W. Blackwell's architect, office. An alarm was sent in to the fire hall, and the hose wagon and the hook and ladder wagon were soon on the scene. A large crowd gathered but the fire was quenched before the firemen arrived.

Thanks are due also to many others, who during the year sent money, clothing, eatables, and to the editor for sending the Daily Examiner; a friend for 2 bags of flour every month.

The little ones offer special thanks to Mrs C Rutherford and Miss Nevin for the sleighride, dinner and many gifts which they received at the home of that good lady on Jan. 6th. It was a rare treat for them all to get out together. Their happiness was indeed complete.

That God may bless in a special manner the above list of benefactors and may this year be one of great happiness to each and all, is the wish of the inmates of the House of Providence.

There's Danger in Every Cold

Once you come to realize the danger of neglecting coughs and colds, you will not run the risk of neglecting your cough and depending on any cough medicine" the druggist may choose to hand you out, and will insist on getting a medicine with a reputation, such as Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. Croup, bronchitis, asthma and coughs and colds are promptly and thoroughly cured by this treatment.

ANOTHER SUCCESSFUL AT HOME

Held Last Night in the T.A.S. Rooms By Literary Section

The "at home" which was conducted last night in the T.A.S. rooms under the auspices of the literary branch of the society was without doubt the most successful ever held. The arrangements were complete and were carried out in a manner which reverts great credit on those who planned the affair. The progressive euchre prizes were won by Miss Annie Fagan and Mr. Karl Brady. The attendance last night was nearly 200, the largest number that has ever attended the socials given by the society.

Supper was served by a number of the ladies, Mr. Coleman being the caterer. The society has every reason to be proud of the pleasant time provided for the guests.

Messrs. J. Trombley and Wm. Dennis deserve credit for their careful supervision of the arrangements made for the luncheon. The ladies were also untiring in their efforts, and the success of the evening was in no small measure due to them.

NEW TELEPHONE CONNECTION

The private telephone system extending from Fenelon Falls to Burnt River and Bury's Green has been connected with the Bell Telephone Company's lines at Fenelon Falls. It is worth noting that these points can now be reached by long distance telephone.

THE BIRTHDAY WAS NOT FORGOTTEN

Returning From The Camp Lumberman Forges Cheque

Interesting Evidence in the Hamilton, Healey Bros. Case Showing Steps Leading to The Forgery— How it Was Discovered

JUDGMENT IS RESERVED

Frank Hamilton, Frank Healey and Charles Healey, the three young men who figured in the forgery of a cheque, appeared before Magistrate Edmison this morning. The cheque was the property of Hamilton and was drawn for $1.40 on the Lakefield Lumber Company for whom he had worked. He changed the figures to $50.40. It was cashed by Charles Armstrong, of Havelock. Hamilton had pleaded guilty before to-day's trial which was for the hearing of th Healey brothers.

His Worship reserved judgment until Saturday morning at 11 o'clock. Mr. R E Wood appeared for the Crown and Mr. G N Gordon for the Healey boys.

The Evidence

Mr. Chas. Armstrong was first sworn. He is the proprietor of the Armstrong House, Havelock. On December 30 he cashed a cheque for Frank Hamilton, whom he recognized in court. There were two boys with him. Witness said Charles Healey was one of them. The Healey boys said they wanted two cheques cashed, and Hamilton said he also wanted one cashed. The amount of the Healey boys' cheques were $1.62 each. Mr. Armstrong said they were drawn on the Lakefield Lumber Company, Lillicrap and Tate.

When Hamilton presented his cheque witness noticed it was not filled in properly, and told him so. Hamilton said the foreman had made a mistake and went back to the woods to have it corrected. One of the Healey boys said the note was all right, but witness did not know which one had spoken. Hamilton's cheque called for $50.40, but as witness could not secure their pay cheque in Havelock, Hamilton offered to pay $1 for obliging them. Witness said that he gave Hamilton $49.40 and the Healey boys the amounts of their cheques.

Hamilton said they had missed the train to Peterborough and would have to hire a livery rig, and drive, otherwise they would not have asked to have the cheques cashed.

Check Looked Over

Witness said the Healey boys' cheques looked all right, but Hamilton's was unusual, and witness called Hamilton's attention to it, but he said it was good and one of the Healey boys spoke up and said it was all right. Witness did not know which one. The Healey boys heard Hamilton reading the note. Witness told Hamilton that if there was anything wrong he would suffer for it.

Mr. Armstrong said Hamilton got the money, and he handed over the Healey boys their money.

Forgery Discovered

Mr. Armstrong said that about election time he was in Lakefield and went to the Lumber Company's office and presented the cheques.

Mr. Tate, the next witness, told how Mr. Armstrong had the cheques cashed. The latter had assured him that he believed the cheques to be good. Mr. Lillicrap had learned from Mr. Dwyer, the foreman at the camp, that the cheque for Hamilton amounted to $1.40. Mr. Lillicrap telephoned to Mr. Armstrong telling him of the forgery, and he had refunded $49.40. Mr. Tate was certain that Hamilton's cheque was a forgery.

Hamilton's Evidence

Frank Hamilton, one of the three young men, was called. He had previously pleaded guilty of changing the amount of his cheque. Witness said that with the Healey boys he had been in the Stony Lake camp only two days. Two of them were "sacked" and the third left with the other two. On the road to Havelock Hamilton introduced the subject which caused all the trouble. He suggested that they change the amount of their cheques. The first time it was said only in a joke. Frank Healey stoutly refused but Charley said it would be all right only they would likely be found out.

Nearer Havelock Hamilton again spoke about changing his cheque, and when they arrived at McNicholl's Hotel he changed it in the back yard. Frank Healey was present, but nothing was said about his cheque. Witness tried to cash the cheque at Dineen's Hotel then at a boot and shoe store without success. However, Mr. Armstrong received it with those of the Healey boys. Witness said that both the boys told Mr. Armstrong that Hamilton's cheque was all right. Witness acknowledged to Mr. Gordon that he had lied to Mr. Armstrong. He knew at the time that he was committing a serious offence.

Witness said that in Mr. Edmeson's office he denied being guilty, but said it was another fellow named Frank Hamilton whose real name was Jones. Witness did not speak in the hearing of Magistrate Edmison, but to Mr. A. Moore in an adjoining room. He afterwards told Mr. Cochrane and Mr. Moore the whole story.

Discussion

Mr. Wood said that this concluded the evidence of the prosecution. He pointed out that the two boys had complete cognizance of the change of the note. They had told Mr. Armstrong it was good and thereby abetted Hamilton.

Mr. Gordon for the defense called Charles Healey. His most important evidence was that on the way to Havelock Hamilton had said not a word about changing the writing on the cheque. Also that witness and his brother were together in McNicholl's while Hamilton was out. Witness denied having seen the cheque and having said to Mr. Armstrong that it was all right. Witness said he was prepared to contradict Mr. Armstrong's and Hamilton's statements. Witness said he could neither read nor write and would only know his own name if he had written it himself.

His worship after the conclusion of the evidence deferred judgment until Saturday morning at 11 o'clock. Hamilton will be sentenced next Tuesday.

HIS MIND AFFECTED BY WOUNDS

Charles Porteous Said to be Mentally Effected by His Experience

A DOCTOR ATTENDING HIM

A lady from Cavanville was in Peterborough yesterday afternoon and reported that Charles Porteous is in a very weak condition as a result of the injuries he received. His mind has become feeble and the people generally believe he is losing his memory and reason, and is practically verging into insanity.

He is residing at his brother's home and Dr. Turner of Millbrook is attending him. The Cavanville farmers consider that Porteous was not in fit condition to go to Toronto as he did. They say that one of the neighbours where Porteous' assailant spent a night should have gone to see Chambers, as he would have recognized the man at first sight.

General sympathy is expressed for Porteous, and his recovery is anxiously looked forward to. There is a great deal of dissatisfaction in the neighbourhood, the lady says, over the apparent laxness of the authorities in not taking up the case in a more professional manner and at least making an effort to capture Porteous' assailant.

MR. BLAKE TO LECTURE IN CITY

Will Appear in Short Time Before The Astronomical Society

The Peterborough section of the Royal Astronomical Society will in a short time be given an opportunity to hear a lecture from Mr. S. L. Blake, O.L.S., C.E., of the Toronto Observatory, who will be heard at the next meeting of the society the date of which has not yet been definitely settled. Mr. Blake is a well known student of astronomy with a comprehensive grasp of his subject and the local members of the society who are awaiting his coming with interest will no doubt find his remarks entertaining and instructive.

THE PRICE OF CHEESE COMPARED

Information Given By Another Real Englishman on Food-stuffs

Editor Examiner.

Dear Sir,—In reply to a Real Englishman's letter in last evening's paper I would like to assert that some of his assertions are incorrect. First, he says cheese is 22c and quotes as an example Stilton cheese at that price. This cheese in England is considered a luxury and not bought by the general working class. This cheese is sold in Canada at 60c lb., while Canadian and American cheese can be purchased at 6 1-2d and 7d (13 or 14c) lb. in England. Second, the quotations from Western Gazette of December 29 is an unfair comparison as at that time the markets are at their highest price. Eggs at 59c doz. would be new-laid, while Canadian and French eggs could be bought at 10 and 12d (24c) doz. Eggs at the present time are being sold at 60c in Toronto. Butter sold at 33c would be fresh or farmhouse butter. Other butter could be bought for 24 and 28c. Third, poultry in England is not considered within a workingman's means, and in addition, at the time of year referred to it is always at its highest. It is not every workingman's lot to be able to purchase those luxuries, and if a Real Englishman was born with a silver spoon in his mouth it is a pity (for him) he did not stay in England. He also ignores the fact that margarine cannot be sold in England as butter, as this is against the law, and margarine can be bought for 8c lb.

Now sir, according to his own statement last night a Real Englishman contradicts his statement of Saturday night. Re stone-breaking, he says in England a man earned 5 1-2d (11c) an hour. This is better than they were able to do here, as it took a man 48 hours to break a cord of stone, for which he received $3.50. This works out at 7 1-4c an hour, as compared with 11c in England. And the nature of the stone here made it impossible for them to earn more. If this is doubted, let him try for himself, and remember that a lazy man would not take on the job at any price.

While admitting the possibility of some people forgetting to pay back money they have borrowed, I do not think it any worse than having one's passage paid out here, as they were not wanted in England, and as some have been glad to do to be rid of undesirable relations.

Personally, I am perfectly satisfied with Canada and the opportunities here, but at the same time I like to see matters shown in their true state and a man stand up for his own country and countryman, whatever his nationality may be.

I am, sir, your, a lover of truth and my fellow countrymen.

A Another Real Englishman,
G. MOORS,

Peterborough, Jan. 22.

Don't Take Milk at Night!

Milk in any form taken at night is apt to cause digestive disturbance. Your night's rest is not refreshing. To appease hunger, or merely for company's sake. "BOVRIL" in the form of a bouillon, or sandwiched between thin bread and butter, is excellent.

After this light supper you will sleep well and awake refreshed.

Fell and Sprained His Ankle While Going Home

While going home on Tuesday evening, Mr. Samuel Baker, the popular Water street barber, fell and severely sprained his ankle. Mr. Baker was able to walk home, but has been confined to his bed ever since. The foot is twisted, and the leg is swollen from the knee down. It is hoped his ankle will soon be better, and that he may be able to resume his duties in a short time.

HOME-MADE MEDICINE

Said to Relieve Kidney Trouble and Rheumatism

One ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion;
One ounce Compound Salatone;
Four ounces Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla;

Mixed and taken in teaspoonful doses after meals and at bedtime, is stated by a prominent physician to give most excellent results in kidney or urinary afflictions, and also in rheumatism and sciatica. The mixture opens the clogged pores of the kidneys, thus assisting them in their work of filtering all waste and poisonous matter from the blood, and expels these in the urine. To allow this poisonous matter to remain means that it will settle in the muscular tissues or joints, and cause the untold misery known as rheumatism.

The mixture is composed of harmless vegetable ingredients which can be purchased at any good drug store, and mixed at home.

Anyone suffering from any of these afflictions will no doubt be pleased to learn of so simple and highly recommended remedy.

THE FISHING INDUSTRY DISCUSSED

Select Committee of House Proposed to Encourage It.

TO AMEND ELECTION LAW

Bills Introduced to Deal With the Carrying of Deadly Weapons, and Assaults on Women — Proposed Death Penalty — Corporations and Campaign Funds — Limit the Expenses of Candidates.

Ottawa, Jan. 23.—The introduction of a bill by Mr. Alcorn (Con., Prince Edward Island) to provide more effective means to prevent electoral corruption, and the discussion of a resolution of Mr. Sinclair (Lib., Guysboro, N. S.), declaring that "in the opinion of the House it is advisable to appoint a standing committee on fisheries," occupied nearly the whole of the afternoon in the Commons yesterday. The fisheries resolution was favored by both sides without an exception, but 6 o'clock was called with the question still in the air. To-day the House will take up the insurance bill and the estimates of the Public Works Department.

E. N. Lewis (Con., Huron) introduced a bill to amend the provisions of the criminal code respecting offensive weapons. The bill adds "razors" to the list of concealed weapons, the carrying of which is illegal. It also increases the penalty for carrying offensive weapons with intent, and prohibits exposure for sale of revolvers in pawn shops and second-hand stores, as well as making provision against the carrying of stilettoes. Mr. Lewis urged special attention to his bill as a necessity. It was read a first time. Another bill introduced by Mr. Lewis provided for increasing penalties for offences against women. The bill was read a first time. One of the provisions is the imposition of the death penalty for rape on a girl under 14 years of age.

Campaign Contribution.

The most important section of Mr. Alcorn's bill deals with campaign contributions by the corporations. It is provided that no corporation shall, by itself or by any officer or agency, be in any way concerned with the accumulation or distribution of campaign funds, or with the contribution or expenditure thereof. This will shut out railways, Government contractors or any corporations from being concerned in elections by way of funds. The penalty on a corporation is $5,000 and on every officer or shareholder who consents to a violation of this section forfeits $1,000 and is liable to imprisonment. To prevent corporations from contributing to private persons who would afterwards be indemnified by a corporation, a penalty of $1,000 and one year's imprisonment is imposed. Government officials and Government contractors are absolutely prohibited from being concerned with election funds, either as contributors or custodians or distributors, under penalty of imprisonment or fine. Government officials and persons not ordinarily resident in Canada are absolutely prohibited from acting in any capacity in elections.

Mr. Alcorn explained that although for two years the Government had promised to bring in a bill to deal with this subject, nothing had come of it, so it was incumbent upon a private member to take up the matter. The member for Prince Edward, in explaining his bill, showed that it made more reasonable provision as to legal personal expenses of candidates. It provides not only against hiring of rigs, and furnishing free railway or steamboat for the conveyance of voters to the polls, but imposes a penalty of $100 on the owner of the means of transportation so used. Writs are to be issued to sheriffs or registrars in Ontario and officers of equivalent rank in other provinces, and the appointment of outside deputy returning officers is also provided against.

But One Polling Day.

The bill makes provision for such publicity being given of the poll to the Dominion and provincial oaths as will do away with the difficulty so often experienced at present in having the deputy put the bribery oath to the voter. Instructions and forms of oath, and all orders-in-council passed in relation to them, must be published in The Canada Gazette. An important feature of the bill is that it does away with the present system of holding the elections in five distant constituencies at a date later than the general elections. There would be the one polling day for the whole Dominion.

In regard to the printing of ballots, it is provided the printer shall make affidavit as to the number he prints and distributes, this affidavit to form part of the return to the desk of the crown in chancery. To prevent a recurrence of the Lott-Shibley trick ballot box fraud, the deputy returning officer is to examine the box to see that it contains no device to strictly receive or secure ballots.

A clause is introduced to allow a witness to state for whom he wishes to vote. A penalty is provided for a person, other than the D. R. O., handing a ballot to a voter, also in the case of a person importing bogus ballot boxes.

It had frequently been said that corporations owned the Government, and Mr. Alcorn had introduced a clause to prevent the contributions of corporations to the campaign funds.

"What about the corporations who own the Opposition?" asked Mr. Talbot of Bellechasse. "My hon. friend will, no doubt, introduce a bill with regard to that," said Mr. Alcorn.

Check Public Works Bribes.

The offer of the expenditure of money on public works in a constituency during an election campaign is declared to be a violation of the law and those guilty of the offence will be liable to a fine. In case of a member being returned for two or more electoral districts the elected candidate shall within 30 days declare for which constituency he elects to sit.

Mr. Bergeron called attention to the absence from the act of a clause to show the qualifications of voters. There was a form applying to Saskatchewan and Alberta, which contained these qualifications and in the Franchise Act there was such a clause, but the deputy returning officer in some cases relied wholly upon the forms supplied.

Fishing Industry.

Mr. Sinclair, in moving for a standing committee on fisheries, spoke of the importance of fishing industry to Canada, and claimed that we had a practical monopoly of lobser industry of the world, our output realizing about $3,500,000 a year. As to the whole output of fish there was realized last year over $26,000,000, there being a considerable increase in the value of the business.

W. F. Maclean (South York) asked if there had not been administration of the quantity of fish taken, and Mr. Sinclair said this was the case, but the value had increased.

In Nova Scotia 25,000 were employed in the fishing industry, while the number in all Canada was 67,646, and with the lobster industry, 88,421. There were 1,423 vessels employing 8,458 sailors in the deep sea fisheries, while the capital invested was nearly $20,000,000. The average earnings of fishermen in United States was $519, and in Canada $388. "From the fishermen we must draw for our future Canadian navy," said Mr. Sinclair, and it was important that we must hold our grip on the sea. He showed that the Scotch fishing board had done much to encourage the industry in that country. The equipment of the Scotch industry was valued at $527 per man, while that of the Canadian industry was but $191 per man.

The efforts of present administration to stimulate industry had produced good results. For instance, the assistance given to cold storage, the propagation of lobsters, the improvement of transportation facilities and subsidies given to coasting steamers employed to collect fresh fish had been appreciated by the fishermen.

Mr. Sinclair also suggested that the proposed committee include matters pertaining to marine.

R. L. Borden spoke of the need of encouragement to the fishing industry in Nova Scotia. He said the appointment of fishery officers was not satisfactory. Representation had come to him from the south shore of Nova Scotia that the administration of these officers was largely on political lines, the law being strictly enforced in respect to Conservative fishermen, while Liberals were not so harshly dealt with. Mr. Borden also dealt with fisheries of Pacific coast and inland fisheries. With respect to the latter it had been shown that large areas had been handed over to men specially engaged in the industry for a mere nominal sum. He asked for a declaration of the Government's policy with regard to this. The leader of the Opposition regarded the question of the conservation of the timber areas of the country as linked with preservation of the water supply, and he asked that the motion be amended to include forests and mines. With that exception he was heartily in accord with the resolution.

Mr. Roche (Lib., Halifax) followed, commending the suggestion, while Dr. Daniel (Con., St. John, N. B.) discussed the political aspect of the question. The Marine Board of Trade had taken the position that the fisheries should be put under the control of a non-political board, claiming that industry at present was not free from political influences.

Need Experts on the Spot.

Mr. Kennedy (Lib., B. C.) asserted that the return from the fisheries of the Pacific province was greater than that from all the other provinces combined. The difficulty, in his opinion, was that they were too far removed from the seat of Government, and there ought to be experts on the spot to deal with questions arising out of the industry.

Mr Lefurgey (Con., P. E. I.) declared that there was considerable complaint of administration of fisheries, and he favored a select committee to bring the needs of the fishermen to the attention of the Government.

THAW TRIAL NEARING ITS CLOSE

Defence Alienists In Thaw Case Called to Witness Stand.

WAS CRAZY IN CHILDHOOD

Thaw Used to Be Overcome With Paroxysms of Anger In Schooldays Says His Teacher—Prisoner's Will In Evidence—Made Many Complaints About Stanford White to the Vigilance Society.

New York, N.Y., Jan. 23.—The end of the second Thaw trial is fast approaching. This fact was indicated late yesterday when Dr. Chas. G. Wagner, the first of the alienists to be called by the defence, took the stand for his preliminary examination. Anthony Comstock, vice-president of the Society for the Suppression of Vice, had been heard as a witness earlier in the day, and Mrs. Wm. Thaw, mother of the defendant, had completed her testimony. The kindergarten teacher, who had charge of Harry Thaw as a lad of six, also testified, and the day marked a long stride toward the conclusion of the celebrated case.

Mr. Comstock's testimony, while new, had been discounted by the known fact of Thaw's appeal to him to assist in closing up the houses where Stanford White was alleged to have maintained eloborate furnished apartments and where young girls were said to have been mistreated. A dozen letters Thaw wrote to Comstock regarding the matter and giving a detailed description of the Twenty-fourth street house were admitted in evidence and read to the jury. District Attorney Jerome seemed as well pleased as the defence with the letters, and later in the day read into the record himself most of Comstock's replies to Thaw. The witness indicated in his testimony that nothing had ever come of the complaints, legal evidence being lacking.

Mrs. Wm. Thaw, still unable to walk unassisted, because of her recent illness, was not long upon the stand. She told of Thaw's early life, of influences before his birth and of the mental unsoundness of two of her brothers. There was no cross-examination, Mr. Jerome contenting himself by reading to the jury the affidavit made by the elder Mrs. Thaw last year when the question of her son's sanity was pending a lunacy commission. In that affidavit she declared that in the direct line of descent there had been no insanity in Harry Thaw's family for four generations. As to the collateral cases, Mrs. Thaw said there were but two, and they were easily accounted for. In her statement to the commission, Mrs. Thaw also resented the insinuations she said she had been compelled to suffer because of the newspaper reports of insanity in the family, and declared there were no family secrets to hide and no skeleton to be bared.

Mr. Littleton may continue with expert testimony to-day, or he may offer as witnesses the doctor's from Rome, Paris and London, who are to tell briefly of attending Thaw in those cities. Another doctor is expected to tell of an outbreak on a train, and that will end all save the expert testimony. Yesterday the codicil to Thaw's will was placed in evidence, but the will itself was temporarily ruled out because of the insufficiency of evidence showing its custody since 1905. Mr. Littleton said he would supply this to-day or Friday.

Mrs. Belle Morehouse Lawrence, the teacher, was called to the stand. It was as Miss Morehouse that she taught Harry Thaw in her kindergarten school at Pittsburg. Mrs. Lawrence now is a resident of California.

"Harry was a delicate child," she said, "with a large head. He was always brooding; he would stand with his mouth wide open and his eyes were blank and peculiar. When he came to me he was 5 years and 11 months old, but his speech was unintelligible. After three weeks, I found he had a language of his own. I had to give him private lessons."

"Did you note all these things at the time—his peculiar appearance, etc?" asked Mr. Littleton.

"Yes, I put it all down in my diary."

"Harry often would be overcome by periods of excitement or paroxysms of temper and when he had nearly reached convulsions it would be necessary to carry him bodily from the room and place cold cloths on his head to cool his blood. These outbreaks occurred twice a day at times. The days when there was no trouble were rare. After the applications of water his face would be more calm and languid."

"Were his outbreaks directed against anybody—against any other child?"

"No, but he sometimes would try to beat against the wall with a chair."

"Did his actions impress you as rational or irrational?"

"Irrational."

"Did you report to his mother the result of your observations?"

"Yes, I told her I was afraid something would happen to his brain from being overstimulated, and that he lacked stamina."

Mr. Jerome, on cross-examination, said: "Did you ever call in a physician for Thaw?"

"No."

"You only gave him cold water for his tantrums?"

"Yes."

"Did you ever try spanking him?"

"No."

"That's all."

New Brunswick Election.

Fredericton, Jan. 23.—After a long meeting of the Provincial Government last night, Premier Robinson announced that it had been decided to hold an election before another session of the Legislature. The date has not been definitely settled, but it will be early in March. The announcement came as a great surprise, for it was thought the Government would hold a short session and repeal its famous Highway Act and some other law which met with so much disfavor throughout the Province.

DRANK WOOD ALCOHOL.

Awful Tragedy Follows Stealing of Bottle From Doctor.

Glenewen, Sask., Jan. 23.—Through an error on their own part Monday, three men from this community met death and a fourth is very ill. In mistake they all drank from a jug of wood alcohol. The poison had got into their systems before medical aid arrived and despite the doctors' every effort, three of them succumbed to its effects. The victims are Dave Cooney, who died last evening; his brother Frank died yesterday morning, both farmers living one mile from town. Harry Cooney, nephew of the above men, a laborer in town, died Monday night and was buried to-day. The fourth man, James Guan, farmer just out of town, is very ill but seems to be recovering.

BUSH FIRES ARE RAGING.

Extreme Heat In Australia Makes Many Thousands Ill.

Melbourne, Australia, Jan. 23.—The heat wave that has been centering over Victoria for some time past, is ended, but it has left disastrous effects in its trail.

Vast bush fires are raging in many parts, destroying hundreds of homesteads and threatening many townships. The sufferings of horses and cattle have been terrible and the settlers have lost heavily in live stock.

More than 100 deaths from sunstroke have been reported and thousands of persons are seriously ill from the effect of the heat.

Canadian Mariners Benefit.

Halifax, N. S., Jan. 23.—Fifty thousand tons of shipping will likely be transferred from the Norwegian to the British flag as one result of the Canadian Government refusing to permit foreign ships to ply in the coastal trade of the Dominion.

This is regarded as the only solution of the dilemma in which the Steel and Coal companies of Cape Breton, which have about 25 of these ships in their charter, are placed.

The ships are all of the most up-to-date type of cargo carriers, many of them being able to take over 7,000 tons on a displacement of 2,500 tons, and their total carrying capacity would be in the vicinity of 125,000 tons. To procure an equal number of similar British ships is an undertaking which the different companies interested do not relish.

Hughes Is Willing.

Albany, Jan. 23.—Governor Hughes has put himself squarely on record as willing to accept the Republican nomination for the Presidency in a letter to James S. Lehmaier, chairman of the Republican Club committee appointed to work for Hughes' delegates.

The governor declares frankly his recognition of "the great honor which the nomination would confer," as well as "the obligations of service which it would impose." "The matter is one for the party to decide," says the governor, "and whatever its decision I shall be content."

Cure That Cough!

YOU CAN DO IT BY USING

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

The Most Perfect Throat and Lung Healer in the World.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup gives prompt relief from that choked up, stuffed up feeling which is so distressing, it loosens the phlegm, checks the raging and useless cough, and heals and soothes the irritated breathing organs. It is a pleasant preparation to take and is therefore specially adapted to the coughs and colds of children and those who dislike nauseous mixtures.

This is no vain boast, but a fact that can be backed by unimpeachable testimony. One 25 cent bottle, indeed, a trial dose, will prove its merits.

Mr. Frank K. Pardie, Brandon, Man., writes: "I have used your Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup for some years and have always found it a sure remedy for all colds, coughs, sore throat, hoarseness, etc. I cannot too highly recommend it to anyone suffering from any effect of cold."

Lakefield Made It Close For High Lifes Last Night

Local Team Just Beat Out Northerners by a Score of 8-7 In a Hard, Fast Game of Hockey---Norwood Had an Easy Time With Bridgenorth Trimming The "Mud Hens" 13-6---Two Good Exhibitions Delighted The Crowd

As doped out by the wise ones, Norwood and the High Lifes were the victors in last night's City League games, which were played on fairly fast ice before a large crowd. As usual, two good games of hockey were on the bill-of-fare and the fans thoroughly enjoyed the evening's sport, especially the battle between Lakefield and the High Lifes, in which the latter just beat out the Cementville team by a score of 8-7, while Norwood was all over Bridgenorth winning by 13 goals to 6.

The Norwood-Bridgenorth fixture was played first and was a lively melee, although Norwood's superiority was so apparent in the second half that the contest developed into a question of how large the score would be. Midway Norwood led by 4 goals to 1. Although Bridgenorth showed the best form of the season, they failed to give any proof of being in Norwood's class. The East Peterborough's forward line swept down the ice with such speed and handled the puck so cleverly when close in on the nets that Bridgenorth had no chance. The losers' defence, with the exception of Belleghem in the nets, was weak, and the forward line did nothing to assist, falling completely to check back when Norwood was on the attack. Such a policy made things easy for Norwood. Generally, Doherty and Kempt carried the puck, with Pearce and Scott of assistance some times, and the lightning manner in which they broke away and lobbed the rubber could not fail to score goals against a weak defence and an ineffective forward line.

The Bridgenorth line was painfully slow when they got the puck and were generally smothered by the Norwood forwards before they reached the defence. At times, however, the Norwood line failed to cover back, and when this happened Bridgenorth became dangerous, although their weird shooting lost them all chance of winning. Norwood played by long odds the best hockey, although their defence was not of the same calibre as the advance guard.

There was little lag in the play, both teams working heroically until time was called, and the rapid scoring made things interesting for the crowd, the majority of which rooted vigourously for Bridgenorth.

Kempt and Doherty were by far the two best men on the ice, and when they got going Bridgenorth was powerless to stop them, particularly as they were not checked closely. Doherty did the most work of the pair, his great skating and stickhandling allowing him to get away for some grand rushes. Kempt was always there for a pass, and the two worked splendidly together when in close, one easily drawing but Bridgenorth defence for a pass across the ice to the other. Towards the close they eased up a little, and when they had a chance to score on several occasions shot into the corners. Scott did good work at right wing and Pearce along the other boards shone now and then, although he did not play a consistantly good game. Huyeke was the best of the defence men.

For Bridgenorth, Jopling worked like a Trojan all night, and though he was outskated by Kempt and Doherty, he did a whole lot of useful work, staying at it all the time. J. Cullen and Herb. Belleghem were in the calcium light in spots. E. Belleghem in goal got himself in the way of a large number of heaves in his direction, aiding materially in keeping the score down.

Referee Geo. Lynch had the game well in hand all the way and his decisions went unquestioned.

The teams were:

	NORWOOD
	J. Doherty
	Huycke
	Cummings
	Doherty
Scott	Kempt	Pearce
Conway	Jopling	J. Cullen
	H. Belleghem
	Mann
	B. Cullen
	E. Belleghem
	BRIDGENORTH

The following summary tells in concise form the story of the game:

1—Norwood, Kempt, 3. mins.
2—Norwood, Kempt, 4 mins.
3—Norwood Kempt, 6 mins.
4—Bridgenorth, Mann, 4 mins.
5—Norwood, Doherty, 1 min.
Half-time.
6—Norwood, Pearce, 3 mins.
7—Norwood, Doherty, 2 mins.
8—Bridgenorth, Jopling, 1 min.
9—Norwood, Doherty, 1 min.
10—Bridgenorth, Belleghem, 1 min.
11—Norwood, Kempt, 3 mins.
12—Norwood, Scott, 1 min.
13—Bridgenorth, Belleghem, 2 mins.
14—Norwood, Pearce, 1 min.
15—Norwood, Kempt, 2 mins.
16—Bridgenorth, J. Cullen, 9 mins
17—Norwood, Doherty, 2 mins.
18—Bridgenorth, Cullen, 1 min.
19—Norwood, Doherty, 30 secs.

Penalties — Conway 2, Scott 2, Cummings 2.

Second Game Close

Lakefield made it close, just as close as it was possible for them to do and still lose, in their game with the High Lifes, which formed the second part of the programme. The local team won by 8-7 and earned the victory, although they could not afford to relax any until the final whistle was sounded. Lakefield scored the first two goals, but High Lifes came back with five in a row while Cementville rapped one in just before half-time, leaving the tally at the turn, High Lifes 5, Lakefield 3. Lakefield crept up a notch closer by scoring one after half-time, but High Lifes let out a few links and counted three times, giving them a lead of four. The visitors from the north were not yet beaten, and when time was called they were but one goal behind, ramming in the last just a half a minute before the whistle. It was a fast, hard, exciting battle, thoroughly pleasing the crowd, which rooted vigourously for their respective favourites. Both teams dug in from the start, first two and then the other forward division sweeping down the ice in a manner which kept the pace always red hot.

High Lifes' defence was better and that about won for them. On the forward line there was little to choose, save that High Lifes took better advantage of their scoring opportunities and shot harder and more accurately, while they carried the puck in closer for their shots. Lakefield displayed their old-time weakness near the nets. On the play they should have scored more, but their play, effective enough in mid-ice, becomes demoralized when the defence is reached, and opportunities to score are thrown away. In Sabatino they have at last secured a man who knows when and how to camp out in front of the nets from a pass, and they should use him more. Last night several goals were scored on passes to him in centre, but the play was not tried often enough. Quinn generally carried the puck, preferring to chance a shot from outside Ford, or else to carry it in himself.

High Lifes played a consistently fast and steady game all the way. Their defence was very effective from Thornton right out to the forward line. Ferguson and Ford handled the Lakefield advances cleverly, while Thornton took care of most of the shots that came his way. Ford was pressed into service at the last moment and did yeoman work considering it was his first time on skates. Ferguson put up a grand game, breaking up rushes magnificently, while his counter rushes always resulted in a dangerous attack on the Lakefield citadel. Rose was the pick of the forward line, working untiringly. He carried the puck for many pretty rushes, and when he lost it he never let up checking back and bothering Quinn in a way that marred a good deal of the effectiveness of the playing of the Lakefield star. R. Quinn gave him good support, shooting nicely.

Leo Quinn was about the whole team for Lakefield, being responsible for most of the goals. His speed and stickhandling were of material assistance, and with another forward of about the same calibre Lakefield would be hard to beat. Tony Sabatino was the best of the others, taking the few passes to centre cleverly and working hard all the time. Murdoff played a good game at cover.

Referee Lynch made a satisfactory arbitrator and the teams were as follows:

	HIGH LIFES
	Thornton
	Ford
	Ferguson
	Rose
Folley	R Quinn	Pentland
L Crawford	T Sabatino	Moran
	L Quinn
	Murdoff
	M Sabatino
	C Crawford
	LAKEFIELD

Folley had to retire at half-time with an injured collarbone, and Lakefield dropped L Crawford, his check.

Summary—
1—Lakefield, T Sabatino, 2 mins.
2—Lakefield, L Quinn, 8 mins.
3—High Lifes, R Quinn, 30 secs.
4—High Lifes, Rose, 5 mins.

Had Palpitation of The Heart

EVER SINCE SHE WAS NINE YEARS OLD,

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS EFFECTED A COMPLETE CURE.

If you find your health failing, your food apparently doing you no good, your heart beating irregularly—now slow, now fast—skipping a beat now and then, palpitations or throbbings on the slightest excitement or exertion, pain in the region of the heart, face pale, dizzy and faint spells, these all point to heart weakness, to nerve derangement, to a state of health consequent upon these, which, if not corrected and cured by Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, will surely end in utter prostration and hopeless invalidism.

From the depths many have been raised by this remarkable remedy, as its power is beyond all question most marvellous; but, why wait until you have gone so far? Taking these pills now will turn you from the perilous path of sickness and put you on the highway to health.

Miss Mary Wilson, Toronto, Ont., writes: "It is with the greatest of pleasure that I recommend Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. Ever since I was nine years of age I have been afflicted with palpitation of the heart, pain in my side and nervousness. As I grew older it kept increasing. After having tried numerous doctors medicines, but to no avail, I was induced to try your pills, and after using several boxes I began to improve, so kept on taking them for some time until now I can truthfully say I am in perfect health."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50 cts. per box or three for $1.25, at all dealers or The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

GREAT EXCITMENT OVER GAME WITH LINDSAY

The team that will represent Peterborough in Lindsay to-morrow night will be the strongest of the season, and the way they worked out last night delighted the many fans present, who seemed confident something was going to happen to Lindsay. The Scugog idea is to swim the district without a defeat, and the supporters of the Midgets are certain they will defeat Peterborough, and the biggest crowd that ever saw a hockey match in Lindsay is expected to be on hand. The old rivalry that has always existed between the two places has been stirred into new life by the defeat of Peterborough here two weeks ago, and the contest should be one of the most exciting ever seen in the historic hockey district. Indications point to a big following from Peterborough accompanying the team tomorrow, the cheap and convenient trip by special train making it possible for many to attend who could not otherwise get away. The train will leave the G.T.R. station at 6.45 o'clock, and will leave Lindsay on the return trip at 11 o'clock. The fare will be $1.05, the tickets being good going and returning only by the special train. Tickets are on sale at the G.T.R. up-town ticket office, the Oriental, the Examiner office, and Sanderson's. There is only a limited number and those who intend going should see about getting their tickets at once. It is the only hockey excursion of the season and should attract a big crowd who will want to see Lindsay trimmed.

ROUGH RIDERS LOST AT KEENE

Were Defeated in a Hard Game by 6 to 5 Last Night

The Rough Riders went down to Keene last night to give the Trent Valley team of that village a practice game, and the local youngsters came pretty close to annexing the big end of the score, being beaten out by 6-5 in a rattling good game of hockey. The resistance put up by the Rough Riders was a surprise to the homesters, who had their fast Trent Valley League men on, being far heavier and more experienced than their opponents, who, however, stuck to their tasks in a manner that made things interesting, until the finish. The small rink, and bad light were handicaps too, and several of the Keene goals were scored on lifts, which Giroux lost sight of in the twilight. J. R. McIntyre of Keene, refereed satisfactorily, and the teams were as follows—

Rough Riders.	Goal.	Keene.
L Giroux	Point.	Dean
Kelly	Cover.	Gladman
Cahill	Forwards.	Quinn
C Giroux		Dixon
Porter		ewt Nor'
Waram		Weir
Hayes		McCarthy

The half time score was 4—0 in favour of Keene. The game was finished with the teams playing six men a side, Porter receiving a bad cut over the head in the first half, necessitating his retiring.

PLANET WON THE FREE FOR ALL

Toronto Horse Romped Home an Easy Winner in a Field of Three Yesterday

TRACK IN BAD SHAPE

The bad condition of the track, spoiled the second day's racing of the Peterborough turf club yesterday afternoon, and only one race, the free-for-all, was run off, the 2.22 class failing to fill. It was very disappointing to the crowd, which was larger than on the previous day, but the Turf Club was not to blame, inasmuch as the owners of the horses refused to start them. Only three contested the free-for-all, and Planet, an added starter, which was to have paced in the .22 class, won without much opposition.

The track was in very bad shape, being covered with a thin coating of shell ice, which broke through at at every step, the horses' feet going into the mud beneath. One look at the track was enough for the drivers. Doris B, owned by Jenkins of Belleville, and Orillia Belle, owned by Geo. Powell of Orillia, were both entered for the free-for-all, but the owners of the two mares were not inclined to take any chances. The four drivers of the horses entered were lined up in front of the stand, and starter Martin Connors, asked their intentions. George Powell asked if the race could be trotted to-day, but the officers of the turf club held a consultation, and announced that the match would have to take place then, or not at all, whereupon the crowd showed its approval by cheering. Powell and Jenkins both refused to allow their mares to trot, and it looked as if the race were off, when Planet was entered as an added starter and the free-for-all was at last gotten under way.

There was little to the race but Planet, Harry D., trotting without hobbles, showed a great turn of speed, but broke repeatedly, losing him all chance of a victory, although his fast work when he was on the ground enabled him to take second money from William C.

Harry D. made it close in the first heat, when, after several bad breaks he closed in on Planet on the stretch. It looked like an exciting finish, but the Parry Sound horse stepped into a hole and lost his chance. The other two heats were repetitions of the first, although Harry D. never got as close again.

The summary:

Planet, J McDowell, Toronto.....1 1 1
Harry D., F Montgomery, Parry Sound..... 2 2 2
William C., J McDowell, Toronto.3 3 3
Time, 2.58, 2.46, 2.45.

ICE CUTTING ON LITTLE LAKE

The Weather Interferes With The Operations There

The work of cutting the ice on the Little Lake is now in full swing, but the weather is not doing much to assist the men. The ice is not more than one foot thick, but it is hoped by the firms that are cutting that a cold spell will make things more promising. In London while they were cutting there a few days ago a heavy fall of snow overweighed the ice and spoiled the work.

BYE ELECTIONS BOTH GO LIBERAL

Majority in South Huron of 134—The Government Policy Endorsed

Bye-elections were held yesterday in South Huron and Stanstead, Que., because of the death of Messrs. S. B. Gunn and Henry Lovell, the sitting members. Mr. Gunn was a Conservative who, in 1904, captured a seat that was traditionally Liberal, by a majority of 111. Yesterday South Huron went back to the Liberal column by a majority of 134, the new member being Mr. M. Y. McLean, editor of the Seaforth Expositor, and a veteran Liberal campaigner. In Stanstead, the late member's son, carried the seat for the Liberal party by an ample majority.

There have been forty-four bye-elections for the Commons since the general elections of November, 1904. Thirty-four have been won by Liberals, one by a Labour-Liberal, and nine by Conservatives. The Conservatives number one less in the House than they did after the general elections. In Ontario the Liberals have won North Bruce and South Huron and lost London. In New Brunswick they have won St. John city and county, and in Nova Scotia they have lost Colchester. The outlook for a Borden Ministry is distinctly poor.

NO MORE LETTERS AFTER SATURDAY

On The Stone Breaking Question—The Columns Closed Then

Today's issue contains two more letters which originated out of the stone-breaking problem by the letter of "A Real Englishman," which appeared in Saturday night's Examiner. There are five more at this office awaiting publication, but some of these are not signed and cannot be inserted. None will appear to-morrow, but the Examiner's columns will be open on Saturday to a limited extent for letters on this subject, after which no more will be published.

GIFT OF A LIBRARY TO BELLEVILLE

Given by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Corby To That City

The handsome new public library and grounds presented to Belleville by Mr. and Mrs. Corby at a cost of $65,000 were handed over to that city on Monday night by the donors to Mayor McFee and the City Council in the presence of a large crowd of prominent citizens and public officials. Mr. Corby, in making the presentation, told of the pleasure Mrs. Corby and he took in making the gift, which he hoped the citizens would appreciate. The building is a substantial limestone structure, three stories high, having been built for the Merchants Bank. Renovations and improvements were made by Architect F H Herbert, Toronto, who was present at the presentation.

Mr. J Williams, as president of the Library Board, Sir Mackenzie Bowell, ex-Mayor Johnson and other notable citizens who were present gave short addresses, thanking Mr. Corby for his magnificent gift, which will be a great benefit to the city.

WEDDING BELLS

DARLING-KING

A very pretty wedding took place on Wednesday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. W. R. King, Rubidge street, when her eldest daughter, Jane McClelland King, was united in marriage to Mr. John Herbert Darling of Smith township. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Robt. Pogue. The bride was attired in a robe of cream silk crepe de chene over mauve silk and was of a charming appearance. Miss Violet McClelland, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. She was dressed in cream silk crepe de chene. Mr. Will Darling was best man. The bride was given away by her brother under an arch of evergreens. She carried a bouquet of carnations.

The groom's gift to the bride was a gold watch and chain and to the bridesmaid a gold bracelet.

The bride's travelling suit was of invisible plaid lady's cloth and brown hat to match.

Mr. and Mrs. Darling left on the 4.45 C.P.R. train for western points and on their return will reside in Smith.

Bridgenorth hockey team as was prophesied have picked up the gauntlet thrown down by the Quakers and will play the latter as soon as their City League games are over.

SUCCESSFUL SOCIAL IN WARSAW

The Rifle Association's Ball Largely Attended

The Warsaw Rifle Association entertained their friends at their annual ball on Tuesday night. The event is one of special importance, and on this occasion over 110 consent. The floor was in an excellent condition and the dances were arranged in a delightful way.

A Peterborough orchestra composed of Messrs. Nicholls, Howarth and Wood, provided excellent music. Mr. Archie Moore, as Master of Ceremonies, won general praise and fresh laurels.

The ladies provided luncheon, adding to the enjoyment of the affair.

Young Ladies of The Bell Telephone Co. Have an Outing at Springville

The young ladies of the Bell Telephone Company drove to Springville last night and were pleasantly entertained by Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Marsh at the manse. A most enjoyable and instructive evening was spent, the visitors being shown the various astronomical instruments owned by Dr. Marsh, who explained the manner in which they were used and gave the young ladies a chance to view the stars through his splendid telescope. Afterwards a pleasant social time was spent in music and songs, delightful refreshments being served. The outing was in every way a great success.

Peterborough, Nov. 1st, 1907.

W. G. MORROW, Esq.
Agent Imperial Life Assurance Co.,
Peterborough.

Dear Sir:—I have received notification of the option available in respect to my ten-year Endowment Policy of $3000 which matured to-day and it affords me pleasure to say that I view with much satisfaction the results of my investment with your Company.

The substantial surplus which the Policy has earned in the comparatively short period of ten years makes the returns which would be made to me, under any of the options now open to my selection, most liberal and attractive.

It is greatly to the credit of the Company that after having granted me an Insurance of $3000 from the issue of the Policy in 1897 to the present time, it can now offer me under the cash-value option a sum so greatly in excess of the total premium that I have paid into it, or under the paid up Insurance option, a paid up life Policy considerable more than double the amount of my original Policy.

Permit me to wish the Company a long continuance of its prosperity

Yours very truly,

J. R. STRATTON.

Poultry Association Is Proposed For Peterborough

An Endeavour to Organize One Here—The Benefits of it—Many Are Interested

THE TIME TO ACT IS NOW

The poultrymen of Peterborough purpose forming a Poultry Association here and a movement is now on foot to bring matters to such a conclusion. A Poultry Association is something needed in Peterborough and the poultrymen are endeavouring to get as many fanciers and breeders interested in the proposal as possible. A number of them including Messrs. H. Lush, R. Robinson, J. Kelly, J Cuningham, R. Wescott, F. Dunnit, J. Eastwood, C. King, E. Dutton, Geo. Paxman and several others were at the Lindsay poultry show this week and state that the affair was a good success. Hundreds of people were attracted there and just because Lindsay has a Poultry Association which appears to be aggressive.

Now is the proper time, the poultrymen say, that such an organization should be formed in order that eggs may be ordered for spring settings so that by this time in 1909 the stock of birds may be of a superior quality.

The Government assists any such organization properly formed, to the extent of about $50 which will aid materially towards the progress of the work. The benefits too, are numerous. There would in a short time be a better class of poultry raised in Peterborough, more people would become interested in this work and those who are interested would become more so.

It would also be an excellent thing for the city to hold poultry shows here at regular intervals similar to those held in other cities and towns many of which are smaller than Peterborough. The raising of poultry is a legitimate and educative business, not labourious but an interesting pastime which is profitable.

There seems to be no reason why there should not be a Poultry Association in this city and now is the time to consider the matter. Any interested in the proposal are requested to confer with Mr. Geo. Paxman, 222 London street, in an attempt to have the proposition carried into action.

Grain Areas and Crop Reports In This County

Interesting Figures From The Live Stock and Crop Reports—Amount of Grain Produced

SOME LIVE STOCK FIGURES

The Ontario Department of Agriculture, in the recent issue bearing on the crops and live stock of Ontario, gives some interesting information for farmers in Peterborough county. Referring to Peterborough it says:—

Reports differ as to the extra sale of live stock owing to the fear that supplies of feed would be short. The general opinion, however, is that with economy nearly all farmers will be able to carry their stock through the winter. Young pigs are being sold at low prices. A limited quantity of hay and grain is being sold.

Asphodel—Most farmers, by strict economy in feeding, will have enough to winter their stock. Quite a few cattle were sacrificed owing to a sort of panic among the farmers, owing to the scarcity of feed, some two-year-olds being sold for less than $10 each. There is very little hay for sale. Most of the fall wheat will be sold, and some peas; but most of the other grains will be fed. Young pigs are being sacrificed.

Otonabee—The majority of our farmers have an abundance of hay and straw, coarse grain and roots for their stock, and the minority with care will get through, except for feed for hogs. No supplies are being purchased by farmers. There is very little selling off of stock on account of the scarcity of fodder. There is the usual selling of young beef stock, and a limited quantity of hay, oats, barley and peas.

For comparison, the reports from Victoria county on the west are given below:

All kinds of fodder are so short in supply that it will take the greatest care to carry live stock through the winter. Some are selling off their poorest animals in order to carry over the remainder; but in very few cases will there be much stall feeding done. Dairy cattle have dried up early owing to poor pastures. Hay is scarce at $18 a ton.

Bexley—Farmers have not sufficient feed for wintering their live stock. They are selling off a large proportion of their stock at very low prices. They are not buying feed, as there is hardly any to be bought at any price. Hay is $18 a ton, and there is very little to be had even at that price.

Ops—By being careful farmers will have enough feed, but not cattle is being bought for stall feeding as was the case last year. Farmers are not selling off their stock any more than usual. Some are selling hay at $18 a ton.

Verulam—There is a decided shortage of rough feed, and grain is high in price, so there is not likely to be much winter feeding. Dairy cows are not likely to fare as well as usual; pastures are bare and cows are drying up earlier than usual. Some are selling a part of their stock in order to winter the remainder. Prices of cattle are from 25 to 40 per cent. lower than a year ago.

Grain Areas

Last year in Peterborough county 9,819 acres of land was sown in fall wheat, producing 210,946 bushels, or an average of 22.4 bushels per acre; 2,444 acres of spring wheat with 43,748 bushels, or an average of 17.9 bushels; 12,148 acres of barley with 332, 855 bushels, or an average of 27.4 bushels; 62,471 acres of oats with 1,899,118 bushels, or an average of 30.4 bushels; 12,988 acres of peas with 281,840 bushels, or an average of 21.7 bushels; 1,377 acres of rye with 22,568 bushels, or an average of 16.4 bushels; 3,161 acres of potatoes with 398,286 bushels, or an average of 126 bushels.

In this county the estimated number of horses was 12,139; of cattle, 52,900; sheep and lambs, 16,867; swine, 31,529, and poultry, 224,499.

AN OYSTER SUPPER AT ST. JOHN'S

Girl's Guild Provided Excellent Programme—Weather Stopped Many

The concert and oyster supper given by the Girls' Guild of St. John's church in the schoolhouse last night was attended by a large audience in spite of the inclemency of the weather. The excellent programme was splendidly rendered by the contributors and was greatly appreciated by the audience. The violin selection by Miss Julia Choate of the Peterborough Conservatory of Music received great applause and she was forced to respond to the encore.

His Worship Mayor Rush occupied the chair and the following programme was rendered:

Piano Duet—Misses English.
Vocal Solo—Miss Pearl Morgan.
Vocal Solo—Mr. G. Chandler.
Fencing Exercise—Masters Gilbert and Layfield.
Piano Duet—Misses Gladman.
Violin Solo—Miss Choate.
Allegro Bulliant—"Ten Halee Cantilene"—Bohn.
Comic Sketch—Mr. Greenhalgh.
Vocal Duet—Masters Cranfield.
Miss G. Tuft accompanied Miss Choate.

After the programme a dainty oyster supper was served in the basement. The Girls' Guild of St. John's church deserves great praise for the splendid entertainment, and in all probability had the weather been mild the schoolhouse would have been crowded.

CASHIER WALKED IN HIS SLEEP

Gave Robbers Combination To Safe While Asleep

Jackson, Miss., Jan. 24.—A strange confession was made to A. H. Thomasson, cashier of the National Bank of Hattiesburg, by Jas. Harper and W. T. Smith, bank robbers, brought back from Seattle, where they were caught after a long chase.

Harper says the bank cashier walked in his sleep. He and Smith watched the bank for several nights, according to their confession, and frequently saw Thomasson enter with the aid of his door key. They never dreamed that he was not in full possession of his senses until they saw him under an electric light with his eyes closed. Then the robbers say they conceived a plan to enter the bank with Thomasson and to gag him if he came out of his trance. They declare that Thomasson gave them the combination to the safe which they looted, and that they left, leaving Thomasson asleep in the bank.

HEROIC YOUTH SAVES YOUNG LADY

Hung to the Ice Until Both Escaped—Accident Near Tweed

Tweed, Jan. 23. — (Special.) — Reginald Wilson, the fourteen year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick S. Wilson of Glenora, is the hero of a very brilliant rescue from what might have been a double drowning. Young Wilson and Miss Dorothy Wilcocks, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Wilcocks, were skating together on Saturday afternoon on the bay near Glenora. The ice gave way and plunged them into the icy waters. The boy grabbed his young companion and pluckily kept a firm hold while he endeavoured to pull himself upon the ice. But the ice was thin and rotten, giving suddenly away with each effort. Continued calls for help were in vain, as they were some distance from the shore, and the evening shadows were falling. Young Wilson, however, kept up a determined fight, and his strong athletic powers, coupled with his excellent swimming abilities, and being unencumbered with any heavy coat, enabled him to keep Miss Wilcocks and himself above the water, until a firm piece of ice was reached, when the two succeeded in getting out of the water and reaching land.

GRAND TRUNK SHOPS CLOSED

Three Hundred Workmen To Be Off For Ten Days

Toronto, Jan. 24.—(Special.)—Three hundred men employed at the Grand Trunk shops here will be laid off tonight for about ten days. The shops will be practically closed down till February 3rd. Only enough men will be kept on hand to do necessary important work. No reason is given for the order, which came from Montreal.

B.A.C. TEAM ROUNDING INTO SHAPE

Go To Toronto Next Monday to Play Their Brethren There

The B.A.C. hockey team of Peterborough will journey to Toronto next Monday evening to cross sticks with the aggregation holding the same title in the Queen City. The manager of the Toronto team is M. J. Hutchinson, formerly of Peterborough, while Norman Jolliffe, Sam Moore, Dr. Bagshaw and others will be on the line-up.

The local B.A.C. held a practice yesterday afternoon to get in shape for the trip and expect to turn the tables on their hockey friends who played at the Brock street rink on New Year's Day.

WOULD RATHER DIE

Than be Obliged to Take Cod Liver Oil Three Times a Day

This significant remark from a patient weakened by disease expresses the feeling of almost every one in this condition when greasy, old-fashioned cod liver oil or emulsions are suggested. The stomach rebels.

We want to say to every person in Peterborough that in order to obtain the medicinal, body-building and curative elements from the cods livers it is no longer necessary to take old-fashioned cod liver oil or emulsions.

Our delicious cod liver preparation, Vinol, is made by a scientific extractive and concentrating process from fresh cods livers combining with peptonate of iron all the medicinal, body-building and curative elements of cod liver oil, but no oil.

As a body builder and strength creator for old people, delicate children, weak, run-down persons, after sickness and for chronic coughs, colds, bronchitis and all throat and lung troubles, Vinol is unexcelled. Try it on our guarantee to return your money if it fails to give satisfaction. MacDermid & Jury, Peterborough, also The Market Drug Store.

JANUARY ISSUE OF THE ECHOES

Articles Cleverly Written by Students of The Collegiate Institute

The January issue of the Collegiate Echoes has been received, and is of the same high standard that the students have attained in previous numbers. Friends of the pupils, anxious to assist them in the splendid work they are doing, should not fail to secure the latest copy, not merely to give their financial assistance, but because the Echoes possess a real literary merit.

Among the contributions from the pupils is one written by Miss Gladys Crane, of Formil., on the "Poetry of Tennyson," in which the writer displays a thorough knowledge of his works, and a sincere appreciation of his sentiments.

A noticeable feature of this edition is the editorial column which deals with several current topics in a thoughtful and intelligent manner.

From The Fire Alarm Box—A Preventative Suggested

It is suggested that an improvement can be made in the matter of the fire alarm boxes on the street corners, so that the key to the box will always be in readiness. At the present time Mr. Pakenham, the foreman of the fire hall, finds that the small boy, with his traditional mischievousness, breaks the glass, and steals the key—not thinking of the loss that might be incurred on his account.

The suggestion is that a glass box be placed on the alarm box itself, and the key inserted in the lock, so that it could not be taken away.

IN THE FOG

Richard Harding Davis.

of his bronzed skin, and that his cheekbones were worn with fever, convinced me that the dead man was the African explorer, and the boy who had fled past me in the night was Arthur, his younger brother.

"I was so intent upon my search that I had forgotten the servant, and I was still on my knees when I heard a cry behind me. I turned, and saw the man gazing down at the body in abject horror.

"Before I could rise, he gave another cry of terror, and, flinging himself into the hall, raced toward the door to the street. I leaped after him, shouting to him to halt, but before I could reach the hall he had torn open the door, and I saw him spring out into the yellow fog. I cleared the steps in a jump and ran down the garden walk just as the gate clicked in front of me. I had it open on the instant, and, following the sound of the man's footsteps, I raced after him across the open street. He, also, could hear me, and he instantly stopped running, and there was absolute silence. He was so near that I almost fancied I could hear him panting, and I held my own breath to listen. But I could distinguish nothing but the dripping of the mist about us, and from far off the music of the Hungarian band, which I had heard when I first lost myself.

"All I could see was the square of light from the door I had left open behind me, and a lump in the hall beyond it flickering in the draught. But even as I watched it, the flame of the lamp was blown violently to and fro, and the door, caught in the same current of air, closed slowly. I knew if it shut I could not again enter the house, and I rushed madly toward it. I believe I even shouted out, as though it were something human which I could compel to obey me, and then I caught my foot against the curb and smashed into the sidewalk. When I rose to my feet I was dizzy and half stunned, and though I thought then that I was moving toward the door, I know now that I probably turned directly from it; for, as I groped about in the night, calling frantically for the police, my fingers touched nothing but the dripping fog, and the iron railings for which I sought seemed to have melted away. For many minutes I beat the mist with my arms like one at blind man's buff, turning sharply in circles, cursing aloud at my stupidity and crying continually for help. At last a voice answered me from the fog, and I found myself held in the circle of a policeman's lantern.

"IT IS MOST IMPORTANT THAT I PROCEED TO THE HOUSE."

"That is the end of my adventure. What I have to tell you now is what I learned from the police.

"At the station-house to which the man guided me I related what you have just heard. I told them that the house they must at once find was set back from the street within a radius of two hundred yards from the Knightsbridge Barracks, that within fifty yards of it some one was giving a dance to the music of a Hungarian band, and that the railings before it were as high as a man's waist and filed to a point. With that to work upon, twenty men were at once ordered out into the fog to search for the house, and Inspector Lyle himself was dispatched to the home of Lord Edam, Chetney's father, with a warrant for Lord Arthur's arrest. I was thanked and dismissed on my own recognizance.

"This morning Inspector Lyle called on me, and from him I learned the police theory of the scene I have just described.

"Apparently I had wandered very far in the fog, for up to noon to-day the house had not been found, nor had they been able to arrest Lord Arthur. He did not return to his father's house last night, and there is no trace of him; but from what the police knew of the past lives of the people I found in that lost house, they have evolved a theory, and their theory is that the murders were committed by Lord Arthur.

"The infatuation of his elder brother, Lord Chetney, for a Russian princess, so Inspector Lyle tells me, is well known to every one. About two years ago the Princess Zichy, as she calls herself, and he were constantly together, and Chetney informed his friends that they were about to be married. The woman was notorious in two continents, and when Lord Edam heard of his son's infatuation he appealed to the police for her record.

"It is through his having applied to them that they know so much concerning her and her relations with the Chetneys. From the police Lord Edam learned that Madame Zichy had once been a spy in the employ of the Russian Third Section, but that lately she had been repudiated by her own government and was living by her wits, by black mail, and by her beauty. Lord Edam laid this record before his son, but Chetney either knew it already or the woman persuaded him not to believe in it, and the father and son parted in great anger. Two days later the marquis altered his will, leaving all of his money to the younger brother, Arthur.

"The title and some of the landed property he could not keep from Chetney, but he swore if his son saw the woman again that the will should stand as it was, and he would be left without a penny.

"This was about eighteen months ago, when apparently Chetney tired of the Princess, and suddenly went off to shoot and explore in Central Africa. No word came from him, except that twice he was reported as having died of fever in the jungle, and finally two traders reached the coast who said they had seen his body. This was accepted by all as conclusive, and young Arthur was recognized as the heir to the Edam millions. On the strength of this supposition he at once began to borrow enormous sums from the money lenders. This is of great importance, as the police believe it was these debts which drove him to the murder of his brother. Yesterday, as you know, Lord Chetney suddenly returned from the grave, and it was the fact that for two years he had been considered as dead which lent such importance to his return and which gave rise to those columns of detail concerning him which appeared in all the afternoon papers. But, obviously, during his absence he had not tired of the Princess Zichy, for we know that a few hours after he reached London he sought her out. His brother, who had also learned of his reappearance through the papers, probably suspected which would be the house he would first visit, and followed him there, arriving, so the Russian servant tells us, while the two were at coffee in the drawing-room. The Princess, then, we also learn from the servant, withdrew to the dining-room, leaving the brothers together. What happened one can only guess.

"Lord Arthur knew now that when it was discovered he was no longer the heir, the money-lenders would come down upon him. The police believe that he at once sought out his brother to beg for money to cover the post obits, but that, considering the sum he needed was several hundreds of thousands of pounds, Chetney refused to give it him. No one knew that Arthur had gone to seek out his brother. They were alone. It is possible, then, that in a passion of disappointment, and crazed with the disgrace which he saw before him, young Arthur made himself the heir beyond further question. The death of his brother would have availed nothing if the woman remained alive. It is then possible that he crossed the hall, and with the same weapon which made him Lord Edam's heir destroyed the solitary witness to the murder. The only other person who could have seen it was sleeping in a drunken stupor, to which fact undoubtedly he owed his life. And yet," concluded the Naval Attache, leaning forward and marking each word with his finger, "Lord Arthur blundered fatally. In his haste he left the door of the house open, so giving access to the first passer-by, and he forgot that when he entered it he had handed his card to the servant. That piece of paper may yet send him to the gallows. In the mean time he has disappeared completely, and somewhere, in one of the millions of streets of this great capital, in a locked and empty house, lies the body of his brother, and of the woman his brother loved, undiscovered, unburied, and with their murder unavenged."

In the discussion which followed the conclusion of the story of the Naval Attache the gentleman with the pearl took no part. Instead, he arose, and, beckoning a servant to a far corner of the room, whispered earnestly to him until a sudden movement on the part of Sir Andrew caused him to return hurriedly to the table.

"There are several points in Mr. Sears's story I want explained," he cried. "Be seated, Sir Andrew," he begged. "Let us have the opinion of an expert. I do not care what the police think, I want to know what you think."

But Sir Henry rose reluctantly from his chair.

"I should like nothing better than to discuss this," he said. "But it is most important that I proceed to the House. I should have been there some time ago." He turned toward the servant and directed him to call a hansom.

The gentleman with the pearl stud looked appealingly at the Naval Attache. "There are surely many details that you have not told us," he urged. "Some you have forgotten."

The Baronet interrupted quickly.

"I trust not," he said, "for I could not possibly stop to hear them."

"The story is finished," declared the Naval Attache; "until Lord Arthur is arrested or the bodies are found there is nothing more to tell of either Chetney or the Princess Zichy."

"Of Lord Chetney perhaps not," interrupted the sporting-looking gentleman with the black tie, "but there'll always be something to tell of the Princess Zichy. I know enough stories about her to fill a book. She was a most remarkable woman." The speaker dropped the end of his cigar into his coffee cup and, taking his case from his pocket, selected a fresh one. As he did so he laughed and held up the case that the others might see it. It was an ordinary cigar-case of well-worn pig-skin, with a silver clasp.

"The only time I ever met her," he said, "she tried to rob me of this."

The Baronet regarded him closely.

"She tried to rob you?" he repeated.

"Tried to rob me of this," continued the gentleman in the black tie, "and of the Czarina's diamonds." His tone was one of mingled admiration and injury.

"The Czarina's diamonds!" exclaimed the Baronet. He glanced quickly and suspiciously at the speaker, and then at the others about the table. But their faces gave evidence of no other emotion than that of ordinary interest.

"Yes, the Czarina's diamonds," repeated the man with the black tie. "It was a necklace of diamonds. I was told to take them to the Russian Ambassador in Paris who was to deliver them at Moscow. I am a Queen's Messenger," he added.

"Oh, I see," exclaimed Sir Andrew in a tone of relief. "And you say that this same Princess Zichy, one of the victims of this double murder, endeavored to rob you of—of—that cigar-case."

"And the Czarina's diamonds," answered the Queen's Messenger imperturbably. "It's not much of a story, but it gives you an idea of the woman's character. The robbery took place between Paris and Marseilles."

The Baronet interrupted him with an abrupt movement. "No, no," he cried, shaking his head in protest. "Do not tempt me. I

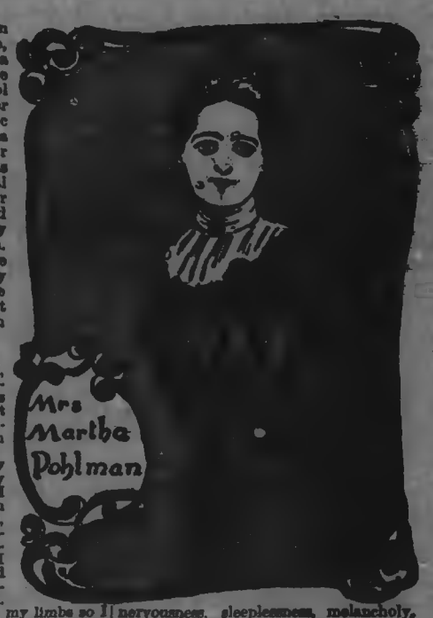
A TRAINED NURSE

After Years of Experience, Advises Women in Regard to Their Health.



Mrs. Martha Pohlman of 55 Chester Avenue, Newark, N. J., who is a graduate Nurse from the Blockley Training School at Philadelphia, and for six years Chief Clinic Nurse at the Philadelphia Hospital, writes the letter printed below. She has the advantage of personal experience, besides her professional education and what she has to say may be absolutely relied upon.

Many other women are afflicted as she was. They can regain health in the same way. It is prudent to heed such advice from such a source.

Mrs. Pohlman writes:

"I am firmly persuaded, after eight years of experience with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, that it is the safest and best medicine for any suffering woman to use.

"Immediately after my marriage I found that my health began to fail me. I became weak and pale, with severe bearing-down pains, fearful backaches and frequent dizzy spells. The doctors prescribed for me, yet I did not improve. I would bloat after eating and frequently become nauseated. I had pains down through my limbs so I could hardly walk. It was as bad a case of female trouble as I have ever known. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, however, cured me within four months. Since that time I have had occasion to recommend it to a number of patients suffering from all forms of female difficulties, and I find that while it is considered unprofessional to recommend a patent medicine, I can honestly recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, for I have found that it cures female ills, where all other medicine fails. It is a grand medicine for sick women."

Money cannot buy such testimony as this—merit alone can produce such results, and the ablest specialists now agree that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the most universally successful remedy for all female diseases known to medicine.

When women are troubled with irregular, suppressed or painful periods, weakness, displacement or ulceration of the female organs, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation, backache, bloating (or flatulence), general debility, indigestion, and nervous prostration, or are beset with such symptoms as dizziness, faintness, lassitude, excitability, irritability, nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, "all-gone" and "want-to-be-left-alone" feelings, blues and hopelessness, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles.

No other female medicine in the world has received such widespread and unqualified endorsement.

The needless suffering of women from diseases peculiar to their sex is terrible to see. The money which they pay to doctors who do not help them is an enormous waste. The pain is cured and the money is saved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

It is well for women who are ill to write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., The present Mrs. Pinkham is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, her assistant for many years before her decease, and for twenty-five years since her advice has been freely given to sick women. In her great experience, which covers many years, she has probably had to deal with dozens of cases just like yours. Her advice is strictly confidential.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Succeeds where Others Fail.

ally cannot listen. I must be at the House in ten minutes."

"I am sorry," said the Queen's Messenger. He turned to those ated about him. "I wonder if the other gentlemen"— he inquired ntatively. There was a chorus of polite murmurs, and the Queen's ssenger, bowing his head in acknowledgment, took a preparatory from his glass. At the same moment the servant to whom the man th the black pearl had spoken, slipped a piece of paper into his hand. glanced at it, frowned, and threw it under the table.

The servant bowed to the Baronet.

"Your hansom is waiting, Sir Andrew," he said.

"The necklace was worth twenty thousand pounds," began the ueen's Messenger. "It was a present from the Queen of England celebrate"— The Baronet gave an exclamation of angry annoyce.

"Upon my word, this is most provoking," he interrupted. "I ally ought not to stay. But I certainly mean to hear this." He rned irritably to the servant. "Tell the hansom to wait," he comanded, and, with an air of a boy who is playing truant, slipped iltily into his chair.

The gentleman with the black pearl smiled blandly, and rapped on the table.

"Order, gentlemen," he said. "Order for the story of the Queen's ssenger and the Czarina's diamonds."

CHAPTER II.

THE necklace was a present from the Queen of England to the Czarina of Russia," began the Queen's Messenger. "It was to celebrate the occasion of the Czar's coronation. Our Foreign Office knew that the Russian Ambassador in Paris was to proceed to Moscow for that ceremony, and I was directed to go to Paris and turn over the necklace him. But when I reached Paris I found he had not expected me r a week later and was taking a few days' vacation at Nice. His ople asked me to leave the necklace with them at the Embassy, but had been charged to get a receipt for it from the Ambassador himlf, so I started at once for Nice. The fact that Monte Carlo is not o thousand miles from Nice may have had something to do with aking me carry out my instructions so carefully.

"Now, how the Princess Zichy came to find out about the necklace don't know, but I can guess. As you have just heard, she was at ne time a spy in the service of the Russian government. And after ey dismissed her she kept up her acquaintance with many of the ussian agents in London. It is probable that through one of them e learned that the necklace was to be sent to Moscow, and which ne of the Queen's Messengers had been detailed to take it there. till, I doubt if even that knowledge would have helped her if she had ot also known something which I supposed no one else in the world new but myself and one other man. And, curiously enough, the ther man was a Queen's Messenger too, and a friend of mine. You ust know that up to the time of this robbery I had always concealed y dispatches in a manner peculiarly my own. I got the idea from hat play called 'A Scrap of Paper.' In it a man wants to hide a certain compromising document. He knows that all his rooms will be ecretly searched for it, so he puts it in a torn envelope and sticks it p where any one can see it on his mantel shelf. The result is that he woman who is ransacking the house to find it looks in all the unlikely places, but passes over the scrap of paper that is just under her ose. Sometimes the papers and packages they give us to carry about Europe are of very great value, and sometimes they are special makes f cigarettes, and orders to court dressmakers. Sometimes we know hat we are carrying and sometimes we do not. If it is a large sum f money or a treaty, they generally tell us. But, as a rule, we have o knowledge of what the package contains; so, to be on the safe side, e naturally take just as great care of it as though we knew it held he terms of an ultimatum or the crown jewels. As a rule, my conreres carry the official packages in a despatch-box, which is just as bvious as a lady's jewel bag in the hands of her maid. Every one nows they are carrying something of value. They put a premium on dishonesty. Well, after I saw the 'Scrap of Paper' play, I determined o put the government valuables in the most unlikely place that any ne would look for them. So I used to hide the documents they gave e inside my riding-boots, and small articles, such as money or jewels, carried in an old cigar-case. After I took to using my case for that urpose I bought a new one, exactly like it, for my cigars. But to void mistakes, I had my initials placed on both sides of the new one, nd the moment I touched the case, even in the dark, I could tell hich it was by the raised initials.

"No one knew of this except the Queen's Messenger of whom I oke. We once left Paris together on the Orient Express. I was oing to Constantinople and he was to stop off at Vienna. On the ourney I told him of my peculiar way of hiding things and showed im my cigar-case. If I recollect rightly, on that trip it held the rand cross of St. Michael and St. George, which the Queen was sendng to our Ambassador. The Messenger was very much entertained t my scheme, and some months later when he met the Princess he told er about it as an amusing story. Of course, he had no idea she was Russian spy. He didn't know anything at all about her, except that he was a very attractive woman. It was indiscreet, but he could not ossibly have guessed that she could ever make any use of what he old her.

"Later, after the robbery, I remembered that I had informed this oung chap of my secret hiding-place, and when I saw him again I uestioned him about it. He was greatly distressed, and said he had ever seen the importance of the secret. He remembered he had told everal people of it, and among others the Princess Zichy. In that ay I found out that it was she who had robbed me, and I know that rom the moment I left London she was following me and that she new then that the diamonds were concealed in my cigar-case.

"My train for Nice left Paris at ten in the morning. When I ravel at night I generally tell the chef de gare that I am a Queen's Messenger, and he gives me a compartment to myself, but in the daytime I take whatever offers. On this morning I had found an empty compartment, and I had tipped the guard to keep every one else out, ot from any fear of losing the diamonds, but because I wanted to moke. He had locked the door, and as the last bell had rung I supposed I was to travel alone, so I began to arrange my traps and make myself comfortable. The diamonds in the cigar-case were in the inside pocket of my waistcoat, and as they made a bulky package, I took them out, intending to put them in my hand bag. It is a small satchel like a bookmaker's, or those hand bags that couriers carry. I wear it slung from a strap across my shoulder, and, no matter whether I am sitting or walking, it never leaves me.

"I took the cigar-case which held the necklace from my inside pocket and the case which held the cigars out of the satchel, and while I was searching through it for a box of matches I laid the two cases beside me on the seat.

"At that moment the train started, but at the same instant there was a rattle at the lock of the compartment, and a couple of porters lifted and shoved a woman through the door, and hurled her rugs and umbrellas in after her.

"Instinctively I reached for the diamonds. I shoved them quickly into the satchel and, pushing them far down to the bottom of the bag, snapped the spring lock. Then I put the cigars in the pocket of my coat, but with the thought that now that I had a woman as a travelling companion I would probably not be allowed to enjoy them.

"One of her pieces of luggage had fallen at my feet, and a roll of rugs had landed at my side. I thought if I hid the fact that the lady was not welcome, and at once endeavored to be civil, she might permit me to smoke. So I picked her hand bag off the floor and asked her where I might place it.

"As I spoke I looked at her for the first time, and saw that she was a most remarkably handsome woman.

"She smiled charmingly and begged me not to disturb myself. Then she arranged her own things about her, and, opening her dressing-bag, took out a gold cigarette case.

"'Do you object to smoke?' she asked.

"I laughed and assured her I had been in great terror lest she might object to it herself.

"'If you like cigarettes,' she said, 'will you try some of these? They are rolled especially for my husband in Russia, and they are supposed to be very good.'

"I thanked her, and took one from her case, and I found it so much better than my own that I continued to smoke her cigarettes throughout the rest of the journey. I must say that we got on very well. I judged from the coronet on her cigarette-case, and from her manner, which was quite as well bred as that of any woman I ever met, that she was some one of importance, and though she seemed almost too good looking to be respectable, I determined that she was some grande dame who was so assured of her position that she could afford to be unconventional. At first she read her novel, and then she made some comment on the scenery, and finally we began to discuss the current politics of the Continent. She talked of all the cities in Europe, and seemed to know every one worth knowing. But she volunteered nothing about herself except that she frequently made use of the expression, 'When my husband was stationed at Vienna,' or 'When my husband was promoted to Rome.' Once she said to me, 'I have often seen you at Monte Carlo. I saw you when you won the pigeon championship.' I told her that I was not a pigeon shot, and she gave a little start of surprise. 'Oh, I beg your pardon,' she said; 'I thought you were Morton Hamilton, the English champion.' As a matter of fact, I do look like Hamilton, but I know now that her object was to make me think that she had no idea as to who I really was. She needn't have acted at all, for I certainly had no suspicions of her, and was only too pleased to have so charming a companion.

"The one thing that should have made me suspicious was the fact that at every station she made some trivial excuse to get me out of the compartment. She pretended that her maid was traveling back of us in one of the second-class carriages, and kept saying she could not imagine why the woman did not come to look after her, and if the maid did not turn up at the next stop, would I be so very kind as to get out and bring her whatever it was she pretended she wanted.

"I had taken my dressing-case from the rack to get out a novel, and had left it on the seat opposite to mine, and at the end of the compartment farthest from her. And once when I came back from buying her a cup of chocolate, or from some other fool errand, I found her standing at my end of the compartment with both hands on the dressing-bag. She looked at me without so much as winking an eye, and shoved the case carefully into a corner. 'Your bag slipped off on the floor,' she said. 'If you've got any bottles in it, you had better look and see that they're not broken.'

"And I give you my word, I was such an ass that I did open the case and looked all through it. She must have thought I was a Juggins. I get hot all over whenever I remember it. But in spite of my dulness, and her cleverness, she couldn't gain anything by sending me away, because what she wanted was in the hand bag and every time she sent me away the hand bag went with me.

"YOUR BAG SLIPPED OFF ON THE FLOOR," SHE SAID.

"After the incident of the dressing-case her manner changed. Either in my absence she had had time to look through it, or, when I was examining it for broken bottles, she had seen everything it held.

The EDISON PHONOGRAPH

ONE of the greatest things Mr. Edison has done is to produce in his Phonograph an entertainer which is as much at home in the cottage as in the palace, which is just as good at rendering the latest popular song or a lively waltz as it is in giving grand opera. It is the popular entertainer in every sense of the word, and its price, either cash down or on the weekly payment plan, brings it within reach of all.

Hear it at your nearest dealer's or write to us today for illustrated booklet about it.

February Records Out Tomorrow

THE way to get pleasure out of an Edison Phonograph is to keep on buying it. The Phonograph is new every time you put a new Record in it. New Records are issued every month. All the great popular hits, vocal and instrumental, and a certain amount of classical music that never grows old, are issued every month in Edison Gold Moulded Records. Here is the list for February. Read it over, check off what you like, and as soon as you can get to his store ask your dealer to let you hear them.

HAUNTS OF THE INDIAN

RED MEN ARE HAPPY ALTHOUGH A PASSING PEOPLE.

Still Live the Primitive Life of Their Ancestors—Lake Nepigon a Stronghold — Are the Jolliest People Imaginable—But Their Prosperity Has Faded—Ranks Are Thinned by Consumption.

We who are confined by towering buildings and mathematically designed streets have little conception of those great expanses fresh from the hands of nature where rivers break and twist like silver threads; where lakes are as dull and sombre as a November day, and where the grim hills rise upward like giant sentinels keeping watch—forever—without sleeping. Yet there are such places and in them dwell a passing people. On Lake Nepigon the Indians are living almost after the manner of their ancestors. The Indian stands sadly by his wigwam watching the approach of civilization, which must crowd him out of existence, and wipe him off the slate of present history.

One day as the Indians stood upon the shore they saw a column of smoke rising, apparently, from the bosom of the lake, and approaching with extraordinary speed. It seemed to issue from an object shaped like a canoe, but many times larger. As it swept in toward the shore sparks flew from a pipe, then a cloud of steam, and a hoarse roar astonished the watchers.

"A devil-boat!" cried the squaws, shrieking and hiding their heads under their shawls. Such was the reception accorded the first steamer on Lake Nepigon.

In the midst of the most beautiful country that Heaven ever gave to man—are the Indians happy and prosperous?

Happy? Yes. History has presented an incorrect idea of Indian temperament by representing it as stoical, silent and morose. They are the jolliest people imaginable, laughing continually over jests which white men cannot discover; agreeing with everyone because it is easy to agree, and the Indians are wise. But they are not prosperous.

"No fish—no breakfast" is their rule of living. They entirely fail to comprehend the necessity of providing for rainy days. During the summer they fish, smoke and talk; when the snow flies they begin to think of wood-cutting; when the supply of dried fish becomes low they take down their snow-shoes in preparation for the hunt.

The birch tree is their friend, supplying them with bark for canoes and tepees. The making of canoes is an interesting but intricate process, and expert canoe-makers are scarce. A skillful workman can finish a canoe in a week, provided he works steadily, the latter being a highly improbable feat, and one which, if performed, would excite the derision of his tribesmen. On one occasion twenty or thirty Indians were employed by a trading company to cut wood for a steamer, and one had the misfortune to cut a slight gash in his foot.

Immediately the rest stopped work and the whole party escorted the patient to the nearest doctor — forty miles away — and even after the recovery of the injured man not one of the party could be persuaded to resume operations. Acting on the proverb about the result of all work and no play on Jack, they are careful to provide against dullness by working one day and resting two. Prosperity is fatal. A certain Indian on Lake Nepigon assisted several prospectors to locate an iron mine, and for his services were presented with $300. He determined to sow the seeds of an aristocratic society, and to that end purchased a set of oak chairs, a highly ornamented table and a silver tea set. As he was living in a hut at the time, the new furniture was slightly out of harmony with its surroundings. The strain of society life became intolerable, and gradually the grand chairs and table found their way into the fire and their owner returned to the good old customs of his ancestors, who squatted upon the floor and drank their tea out of a pail.

Little reliance can be placed on their promises. Ask an Indian to appear on a certain date to begin a definite task and he will reply, "I guess so," or "maybe," and the chances that he will appear are slight, unless the inducements offered are extraordinary. In summer they live in birch-bark tepees, a style of dwelling which they prefer because they are circular and the Indian does not like to be cornered. In building a tepee four poles are tied at the top, and the bottoms spread into the four points of a square, around which other poles are placed in a circular fashion, the entire structure forming a cone. Over this birch-bark quilts are sewn firmly, overlapping in order to shed the rain. The smoke escapes through a hole in the top. Around the floor cedar twigs are thrown, and on them the Indians crouch or lounge, disdaining chairs or other conveniences invented by the absurd white man.

The squaws are adept with the sail-needle, and consequently net-making is a favorite occupation in the summer, although the machine made nets furnished by the traders cost no more than the material used. Years ago the Hudson Bay Co. estimated the value of a gun by standing it upright and piling furs to the top of the barrel. Long-headed Scotch factors increased the length of the gun until the Indians had difficulty in steering their tremendous weapons among the trees. Practices like this, perpetuated for years, in the absence of competition, have inspired the Indian with a profound regard for the white man's ingenuity, and a corresponding unwillingness to be the victim of it.

The Indians have treaty rights with the Dominion Government, by which they receive annually the magnificent sum of $4 and a blanket to keep them a loyal and contented market for the trading companies. Treaty day is the event of the year, and represents to the reserve what Toronto fair does to the Province of Ontario.

Attempts are being made to Christianize the Indians, but the white man's religion is as irksome as his clothes, and fits as poorly. The outward symbols appeal to Indian superstition, but the inner meaning is a sealed book, which they cannot investigate.

They have been well named "children of the forest." In their outlook on life, their want of foresight, their instability of purpose, they prove that they are only grown up children acting on impluses and moved by trifles. Romance has cast a glamor over the Indians by creating an unreal type—which it has termed "the noble savage." This mythical being is supposed to be the living embodiment and result of the doctrine of the simple life. Admirers of this theory should go to Lake Nepigon or farther north among the pagan Indians, and they will speedily discover that the noble savage is a gigantic fraud. When they see him roasting his fish whole on a stick before a fire, wearing the same clothes indefinitely, eating his half-raw food with his fingers, and living in a freezing, ill-ventilated, vile-smelling hut, they will thank Heaven that the white race has adopted the complex life of civilization rather than the simple barbarities of savagedom.

Consumption is doing its deadly work, annualling thinning out their rapidly diminishing ranks, and casting its deadly pallor on the cheeks of the living.

We can never understand this strange people, but as we see the last remnants of a mighty dying race struggling against destiny, the spectacle must move even the most casual observer to profound pity. The iron law of nature by which nation succeeds nation, the fittest surviving, continues to operate, and soon the borders of civilization will have advanced to the northern climatic limits, and the places which have known the red man so long shall know him no more.

Itching Eczema's Cause and Cure

THIS DREADFULLY TORTURING AND OBSTINATE DISEASE IS ENTIRELY OVERCOME BY

Eczema is common to rich and poor, old and young, and is neither contagious nor an indication of uncleanness, as some suppose.

Teething, improper food, indigestion vaccination, poisoning by clothing or from ivy, etc., are named among the causes.

There is inflammation, redness, heat, swelling, discharge, formation of crust and all the time annoying, troublesome itching and burning, which often becomes so torturing as to be almost unendurable.

This ever present itching is what makes eczema so dreaded, and it is this feature to which Dr. Chase's Ointment gives relief from almost the first application.

Dr. Chase's Ointment is not only delightfully soothing, but is a wonder as a means of healing the skin. It is not long before the raw, itching sores are thoroughly cleansed, the itching subdued and the process of healing begun. Persistent treatment will then bring about a thorough cure.

This great ointment is always beneficial to the skin, making it soft, smooth and velvety, and, besides being the most effective treatment known for the cure of eczema, is useful in every home in a score of ways.

Mr. Hiram Frey, Norwood, Ont., states: "I was troubled for ten years with eczema on one leg. The itching was terrible, and when scratched the blood would come. The doctors could not cure me. Fortunately I heard of Dr. Chase's Ointment and its persistent use has completely cured me. There is now no trace of the disease left.

"My little daughter two years old has also been cured of eczema by Dr. Chase's Ointment. Her face was a mass of sores and we had to bandage her hands to keep her from scratching it. To-day her face is clear of even the scars which the ugly sores made, and she is thoroughly cured. I am glad of an opportunity to let people know what a blessing Dr. Chase's Ointment has proved itself to us."

Mothers use Dr. Chase's Ointment for the chafing and skin troubles of their babies in preference to mustard, talcum powders, dusting powders; 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

NATURE'S MYSTERIES.

And the Little That Man Really Knows About Them.

I seized the opportunity some little while ago on finding myself sitting next to a great physicist of asking him a series of fumbling questions on the subject of modern theories of matter. For an hour I stumbled like a child, supported by a strong hand, in a dim and unfamiliar world, among the mysterious essences of things. I should like to try to reproduce it here, but I have no doubt I should reproduce it all wrong. Still, it was deeply inspiring to look out into chaos, to hear the rush and motion of atoms moving in vast vortices, to learn that inside the hardest and most impenetrable of substances there was probably a feverish intensity of inner motion. I do not know that I acquired any precise knowledge, but I drank deep drafts of wonder and awe.

The great man, with his amused and weary smile, was infinitely gentle and left me, I will say, far more conscious of the beauty and the holiness of knowledge. I said something to him about the sense of power that such knowledge must give. "Ah," he said, "much of what I have told you is not proved; it is only suspected. We are very much in the dark about these things yet. Probably if a physicist of a hundred years hence could overhear me he would be amazed to think that a sensible man could make such puerile statements. Power—no, it is not that! It rather makes one realize one's feebleness in being so uncertain about things that are absolutely certain and precise in themselves, if we could but see the truth. It is much more like the apostle who said: 'Lord, I believe. Help thou my unbelief.' The thing one wonders at is the courage of the men who dare to think they know."—Putnam's.

POWER OF WEALTH.

Money, Says a Physician, Is Able to Purchase Even Life.

The aged millionaire sighed.

"I'd give all my money," he said, "if I could buy twenty-five more years of life."

"But your money has already bought you that," said the physician coldly.

"What rot are you talking now?" the millionaire asked peevishly.

"No rot at all, for it is a fact, a dreadful fact," said the physician, "that the rich live, on the average, twenty-five years longer than the poor. Born rich, you are assured of a quarter century more life than would be your allotment were you born poor. Wealth buys you all that. And yet they say that there is nothing in money. Why, man, money buys life."

"How do you mean?" said the millionaire. "This sounds rather like nonsense to me."

"Oh, wealth protects one from so many ills. Rich babies nearly always live, but poor ones die of a hundred complaints induced by poverty. Poor babies die off shockingly. And so with boys and girls, with men and women—if they are rich. They live healthily and therefore long, while if they are poor they live unhealthily, and disease, accident, contagion, privation—all sorts of preventable things—carry them off.

"Yes, money buys life, and reliable statistics show that if two children are born today, one rich and the other poor, the rich one will outlive the other by the tidy margin of twenty-five years."

The Origin of "Parson."

"Parson" is from the Latin "persona," a person, and the parson is the persona ecclesiae, or representative, of the church. The forms parson and person bear the same relation to each other as clark and clerk. From being pronounced parson the word has come to be so written. Blackstone in his "Commentaries" says:

"He is called 'parson' (persona) because by his person the church, which is an invisible body, is represented, and he is himself a body corporate in order to protect and defend the rights of the church which he represents."

"To parse a sentence" is to resolve it into its grammatical parts, and the verb is declared to have arisen from the interrogation "Pars?"—that is, "Quae pars orationis?" (What part of speech?) used by schoolmasters.

Too Broad a Mint.

"You've got a fellow in there that won't wait on me again, not much," said an irate customer, as he emerged from the dining room and slapped his money down on the pay desk. "I'm not stingy," continued the customer, "and don't mind giving tips, but when a waiter hangs round till a fellow has nearly finished eating and whistles 'Do not forget me,' I think it is about time something was done."—London Mail.

All He Said.

Officer—How is this, Murphy? Sergeant complains that you called him names. "Private Murphy—Plase, sur, I never called him ony names at all. All I said was, "Sergeant," says I, "some of us ought to be in a managerie."—London Tit-Bits.

SILVER PLATE FOUND.

Thieves' Booty Picked Up at Niagara Falls.

Detectives are working on a peculiar mystery at Niagara Falls, and so far without result. Recently William King, employed by the Ontario Power Co., when passing down Murray street ravine under the Michigan Central bridge saw an object protruding from the melting snow beside the roadway, and uncovered two magnificent silver trays. One is nearly three feet long and two feet wide, and weighs fifteen pounds. The other is a foot in diameter. Both bear English hall marks, and are evidently solid silver of the finest quality. They are splendidly ornamented and mounted. The large one has been used, but the smaller one is new. The large one had been forcibly folded up, and is much damaged. Mr. King turned the silver over to the police, and Detective MacNamara, searching near the spot, discovered two smaller trays beside the railway track. They are of American manufacture and poorer quality. One is round and the other oblong, and both bear the initials N. B. L. engraved in the centre. On the back of one is scratched the private mark "M. Mc." and on the other "P. 564." There is absolutely no clue as to where the silver came from, or how long it lay undiscovered, except that there was snow for only ten days before. The police are sure the silver was thieves' plunder, and that the big tray was doubled up so it could be put in a bag or under a coat. Probably the thieves were carrying the stuff through on a train, and, being anxious to be rid of it, threw it into the ravine from the bridge, not knowing there was a road below, and thinking they could recover it later. The stuff is believed to be worth more than $900. Descriptions have been sent out to all police departments.

FRESH INSPIRATION.

Napoleon and His Attitude Toward the Common Soldier.

Napoleon understood human nature. He recognized the great truth, "As a man thinketh in his heart so is he," and knew how to apply it not only to himself and his own ambitious projects, but to other men as well. Moreover, he knew precisely the right moment to apply it to quicken the spark of divine energy which smolders in every man, although the ashes of fatigue and failure may cover its light temporarily.

A French soldier carried a dispatch to Napoleon. Just as he delivered it into the hands of the emperor his spent horse dropped dead. Napoleon wrote an answer to the dispatch, then, dismounting from his own horse, he handed the bridle to the soldier.

"Take this horse and ride back, comrade," he said.

"Nay, sire," stammered the soldier, gazing at the blooded horse and its trappings. "It is too magnificent and grand for me, a common soldier."

"Take it!" commanded Napoleon. "There is nothing too grand and magnificent for a soldier of France."

The soldier mounted and rode away on his perilous business, ready and willing, and Napoleon's words, repeated through the ranks and columns of his army, gave to his tired troops fresh inspiration and energy. "Nothing too grand and magnificent for a soldier of France!" they said, and the thought that they were worthy of the best inspired them to the mighty deeds which followed.

WIFELY ORDERS.

Two Men Obeyed Them, but the Third Man Balked.

"Three men sat rather late at the club one night," said the man who is responsible for the story. "As they were separating they discussed a little nervously the receptions that awaited them at their wives' hands and agreed that he who didn't do what his wife told him on getting home should have to treat the others to a turkey dinner. The first man after reaching his house stumbled about the dark bedroom till he kicked the cat. The cat squalled, and the man's wife, raising her head from the pillow, moaned, 'Well, go on; kill the poor cat and have done with it.' The man frowned and muttered to himself, 'It is a case of kill the cat or pay for the dinner.' So he killed the cat.

"The second man on his arrival could not find any matches. As he looked for some in the drawing room he bumped against the piano, and his wife complained. 'Why don't you break the piano, careless?' Determined not to lose his bet, the man got a hatchet, and the sound of crashing blows soon filled the house.

"The third man, getting home, stumbled on the way upstairs. His wife screamed angrily, 'Go on, fall downstairs and break your neck, do!' 'Not me,' said the third man after a moment's thought. 'I'll pay for the turkey dinner.'"

A Merchant's Memory.

Among the characteristics which made for the success of Mr. A. T. Stewart, the great New York merchant, says Richard Lathers in his "Reminiscences," was an extraordinary memory for the details of his vast business.

One day as Mr. and Mrs. Lathers were leaving the store Mr. Stewart accosted them at the door.

"I hope, Mrs. Lathers, you have found what you want," he said.

"No, Mr. Stewart," she replied. "I want a very plain brussels carpet for a small library, a light color with a small blue figure. You have a great variety, but nothing just like that."

"I am quite sure we have that exact description," he said, and, turning to a clerk, added: "Go to the third floor and get out from the last invoice of carpets No. 2200. I think the style and pattern will just suit Mrs. Lathers."

To the amazement of the shopper it proved to be the very thing she was looking for.

A Keen Observer.

"Who was that fool you bowed to?"

"My husband."

"Oh, I—er—I—humbly apologize. I"—

"Never mind. I'm not angry. But what a keen observer you are!"—London Scraps.

FELL DOWN STAIRS WITH A CHILD

The following testimonial proves once again the superiority of "Nature's Healing Balm," Zam-Buk. Mrs. L. Spalding of 505 St., Stratford, Ont., says: "Some time back I met with a peculiar accident while descending the stairs with a child in my arms. I slipped, falling heavily on my arm and elbow, receiving a flesh wound. My arm was inflamed, swollen and very painful. I used different preparations, but the wound kept discharging and refused to heal. About this time a brother suggested using Zam-Buk. I acted upon his advice. Zam-Buk thoroughly cleaned the wound, stopped all discharging and soothed the pain and in four weeks the wound was entirely healed. I have had perfect use of both elbow and arm ever since and owe this good luck to the wonderful healing balm Zam-Buk and would advise others to use nothing else." Zam-Buk cures burns, scalds, eczema, festering wounds, all skin diseases—of all druggists and stores—box or post-paid from the Zam-Buk Co., Toronto. The homesteader is required to perform the conditions connected therewith under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year during the term of three years.

(2) If the father (or mother, if father is deceased) of any person who is eligible to make a homestead entry resides upon a farm in the vicinity of the land entered for, the requirements as to residence may be satisfied by such person residing with the father or mother.

(3) If the settler has his permanent residence upon farming land owned by him in the vicinity of his homestead the requirements as to residence may be satisfied by residence upon the said land.

Application for patent should be made at the end of three years, before the Local Agent, Sub-Agent or the Homestead Inspector.

Before making application for patent the settler must give six months' notice in writing to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of his intention to do so.

IN LITTLE SPRINGS CANYON

By Addison Howard Gibson.

Copyrighted, 1907, by M. M. Cunningham.

As the pony picked its way up the wild, rock bordered canyon Ivy Norris took in great breaths of the ozone of the Arizona foothills.

"This is living!" she cried, throwing out her arms. "The folks back home would not know me. These three months spent in this wonderful climate have made me strong and young again. And this weather! Back in New Hampshire they are having snow, while out here it is golden sunshine all day long. My heart is full of the day—Thanksgiving! When I write back home that I spent my Thanksgiving out in the foothills all alone the folks won't believe me. They'll simply say I'm learning western ways fast—to manufacture some big ones to boom the country."

The last of August Ivy Norris, pale, thin and thirty, had arrived from the east to teach the Lone Mesa school. The cowboys on Mr. Tower's ranch, where she boarded and lodged, treated the coming of the cultivated little woman as a great joke. Her short skirts, the boots and the handsome little revolver and cartridge belt furnished them material for comment for weeks. Even Wardie Hughes, the foreman, was amused at her first attempts to mount and ride Pilot, the gentlest pony on the ranch, but he equally enjoyed the pluck with which she persisted in learning to ride and the use of the little revolver that looked so comically dangerous in her small white hand.

On this Thanksgiving morning the handsome foreman had reined in his cow pony behind a thicket of mesquite trees and was watching faithful old Pilot carefully bear his fair rider up the trail of Little Springs canyon. All at once he became aware of the fact that a few months had wrought a great transformation in the schoolteacher of Lone Mesa. The thin form had rounded out into graceful curves, the pale face had become plump and rosy, and her awkwardness in the saddle had given place to an easy manner that could no longer be ascribed to a novice.

"She's like a girl of twenty," he soliloquized. "By Jove, she's the neatest edition of her species that ever struck these foothills. I wonder if she knows where she is going. She's a good ten miles from the ranch house now and still going on. Well, she's a pretty interesting stray, and I'm going to see that she doesn't get entirely lost."

HE WATCHED IVY NORRIS COME ON UP THE RUGGED TRAIL.

With this thought Wardie Hughes entered another trail, then cautiously made a detour, coming back to the canyon just above Little Springs. Still concealed back of some manzanita bushes, he watched Ivy Norris come on up the rugged trail. She was singing a stanza of an old school song that he remembered, and the notes floated up to him on the warm November air sweet and clear as an angel's song. Suddenly she ceased, and she glanced quickly up the slope. Then, catching up her revolver, she sent a shot whizzing off into the chaparral. A tawny form dropped out of sight down the ravine.

"Ah," exclaimed the foreman admiringly, "she made Mr. Coyote hit the dirt as well as a soldier could have done it."

Guiding the pony to the springs, Ivy dismounted. While Pilot drank in long, satisfying quaffs from one of the little springs the young woman looked about her, noting the steep granite walls that surrounded her, the deep asure of the sky and the golden glow of the sunshine enveloping everything like a loving mother keeping a winter's chill at bay. Then she saw Wardie Hughes approaching from an opposite direction.

"May I join you, Miss Norris?" he asked.

"Certainly, Mr. Hughes," she answered. "It is noon, isn't it?" giving an odd little squint at the sun as if she were already enough of a plainswoman to estimate the time by its elevation.

"It is about 12:30," said Hughes, with the old timer's accuracy.

"Then it is time for my lunch, and I'm as hungry as that wretched coyote I shot at. It is Thanksgiving day, Mr. Hughes. I have beef sandwiches, olives, cheese, crackers and some fig wafers in my saddlebags. With New England hospitality I ask you to help me eat them."

"While it is not the custom of us cattlemen to take a lunch at noon," he returned, looking into the bright eyes of the little woman before him, "I am glad to break the custom on this occasion by accepting your invitation."

Under a live oak they spread the paper napkins which Ivy had brought and arranged the lunch upon them. Hughes soon caught the happy spirit of his companion, and, throwing his mask of conscious restraint aside, he talked and laughed with her with the pleasure of a boy.

"The spring must furnish us tea," she said, handing Hughes her pretty silver folding cup. He quickly filled it from the spring near by. Then he passed the cup to her. "I did not think of having company," she said apologetically, touching the rim daintily with her pretty lips. "I wish I had another."

"I'm glad you haven't," protested Hughes heartily. "I like this one best," taking the cup from her hands and drinking.

For a minute Ivy made no reply. Then she looked at the man sitting opposite her as if in doubt of his meaning. The next instant she smiled frankly and said:

"Well, I think I do too."

The half serious simplicity of her speech amused Hughes, and, throwing back his head, he laughed in real enjoyment.

"I'm sure we'll get on all right," he said, still laughing.

Hughes declared there never was such a lunch. The greatest Thanksgiving feast in the land was nothing compared with this. The cold, pure water which they sipped in such good comradeship from the one cup he was sure outrivaled the nectar of all the gods.

All too soon it was finished, and they sat back under the live oak silent, but happy. Suddenly Ivy realized it was midafternoon and she had twelve miles to ride back to the ranch. Tomorrow there would be school and the old routine of duties. Today held sunshine, laughter, joy; the next would be filled with the daily grind and hard tasks. Watching her from under the wide rim of his hat, Wardie Hughes saw the weary expression begin to settle over Ivy Norris' face, and he understood.

Left an orphan after finishing school, his loneliness had driven him west. Here temperate habits and sterling principles had won him success. Now a woman, loving the freedom of his hills as he loved it, had entered his life. Suddenly he beheld a vision—a vision of liberty for both. Immediately he felt an intuition that the loneliness of both was at an end. The new life of sunshine, the sunshine of a wonderful love, was glowing for them. He yearned to tell her, to lift the shadows from the patient face, but the moment of realization was too blissful for speech.

"Come," he said at last, springing up to meet the new life and claim it for them. Gently he took her hand and lifted her to her feet. Then, looking into her beautiful eyes, he said eagerly, "Little woman, I want you to let me make every day of your life a Thanksgiving like today."

A soft flush stole into her face, but she did not leave the strong arms which held her.

PIMPLES
ALTHOUGH, NOT A DANGEROUS DISEASE, ARE A VERY TROUBLESOME AND UNSIGHTLY AFFLICTION . . .
They are caused by either poverty or impurity of the blood and require the prompt use of a good blood medicine such as Burdock Blood Bitters, for their eradication, which it speedily accomplishes, at the same time strengthening the entire system. Pimples also often arise from dyspepsia and constipation, and in these cases Burdock Blood Bitters has the double effect of removing the pimples together with their cause.
Mr. D. P. Sammon, Osceola, Ont., writes: "I was troubled with pimples all over my face and hands. I paid out money to doctors but they could do me no good. A friend convinced me to try Burdock Blood Bitters, and after using two bottles the pimples vanished, and I have not been troubled with them since."
Burdock Blood Bitters may be procured at all Druggists and Dealers.

Proper Treatment For Burns.

In case of burns death may be due, first, to asphyxia; second, to shock, and, third, to septicaemia.

The medical man seldom gets to the case in time to treat the first condition, the second is essentially a general condition, while the whole success in preventing the third depends upon the immediate local treatment. It is therefore the last condition which must be considered here. Among the public it is a generally accepted idea that the thing to do in the case of a burn is to dust flour over it or to cover it with oil, and, indeed, even in some comparatively late text books on surgery a mixture known as "Carron oil" is advocated.

The use of such applications cannot be too strongly deprecated, and, indeed, if the lay mind could be taught that the best thing to put on a burn before the doctor is called in a hot compress, which should contain some boracic acid if there is any in the house, it is probable that the majority of deaths due to septicaemia after burns would be prevented.

For the whole aim and object of the local treatment is to prevent sepsis. Flour and olive oil may be soothing and may allay the pain, but there is no antiseptic property in them; rather they are excellent culture media for bacteria.—London Hospital.

Why He Remembered.

The Lawyer (cross examining)—Now, what did you say your first name was?

The Witness (cautiously)—Waal, I was baptized John Henry.

The Lawyer—You were, were you? How do you know you were?

The Witness—Waal, I was there, you know.

The Lawyer—Huh! How do you know you were?

The Witness—Why, I couldn't have been baptised otherwise. And, besides, I think I can remember it quite well.

The Lawyer—Ho, you do, do you?

The Witness—Waal—er—yes.

The Lawyer (deeply sarcastic)—Kindly explain to the court and jury, my friend with the phenomenal memory, how an infant in arms came to remember that ceremony so well, will you?

The Witness—Waal—er—you see, I wasn't baptized until I was eighteen years old.

Inevitable.

"So Nelson is dead. What killed him?"

"You know he had one foot in the grave?"

"Yes."

"Well, some one pulled his leg."—Harper's Weekly.

We are accustomed to see men deride what they do not understand and snarl at the good and beautiful because it lies beyond their sympathy.—Goethe.

Consider the Birds of the Air.

An eminent ornithologist calls attention to the fact that a crane can travel through the air a thousand miles a day without flapping its wings, but by merely keeping them stretched and adjusted to the prevailing breezes. A hawk can stay in the air for days and weeks, moving with its wings motionless. It is the same with the gulls and numerous other winged creatures. In studying the science of aerostatics consider the birds of the air.

For Winter Use.

A lady farmer planted a garden. She was very proud of her prospective peas, but when her husband asked if they were ripe she said, "Oh, they haven't come up yet!"

"Haven't come up yet! Why, the season's nearly over!"

"Yes," she said, "but I planted canned peas. I think they come up a little late."

Applies Also to English.

The mixed marriage question has never aroused such interest in Montreal as since the recent edict of Archbishop Bruchesi prohibiting them went into effect, and society circles are filled with gossip as to the outcome of a number of engagements that have been announced between Protestants and Catholics.

Just before the new law was announced it was fairly well-known that it was going to go into effect, and some marriages that had been arranged for this winter were quickly performed although it was only after very hot arguments that the archbishop consented to give his permission.

One particularly interesting one is where quite a close relative of the late Primate of all Canada is to be married to a young Irish Catholic. The marriage took place just before the publication of the edict, and was performed by a Catholic priest in the presbytery of one of the largest parishes. The young man went himself to see the archbishop, and it was not until hours had been spent in a hot discussion that permission was finally secured. When the new rule was put into force it was thought that it was intended principally for French-Canadians and that it would not be so very difficult for English-speaking Catholics who go into society a great deal with Protestants to secure a dispensation. This, however, has proved to be quite a misapprehension, as the archbishop has made it quite clear that it is one rule for all, and that there must be some very special reasons to have him make any departure from orders.

Railway Tickets of Gold.

All the principal railway companies in England issue railway tickets, made entirely of gold, which entitle the holder to travel free by any class of car and train on any line and by any system in the British isles. They are the size of a florin, but oval in shape and engraved with the particular railway company's coat of arms, with the holder's name beneath, and are intended to be worn on watch chains. These tickets cannot be bought, but are presented by the directors to persons who have earned the railway company's gratitude.

Had Tried Electricity.

A benevolent gentleman attempted to converse with the motherly old lady who sat next to him in the railway carriage. He discovered that she was very deaf, and the conversation was established by shouting.

"You are very deaf, aren't you, madam?" ultimately bellowed he of the benevolence.

"I am so," was the reply, "and haven't been able to do a thing for it."

"Have you ever tried electricity?" shouted the kind hearted man.

"Yes," she said, nodding vigorously, "I was struck by lightning last summer."—London Graphic.

How She Felt.

Stella—So you kissed the young parson in the dark hall, thinking it was your brother? You must have felt awfully cheap when you discovered your mistake. Mabel—Cheap! Why, I felt like a Friday remnant at a Monday bargain sale.

Foreign.

Doctor (after careful examination)—Some foreign substance is lodged in your eye. Dennis—Oi knowed it! That's what Oi git fr wurrukin' wid them Frenchmen!

THE STOCK GAMBLE.

How Shares Change Hands on the New York Stock Exchange.

Last year there were 43,399,710 shares of Reading stock sold on the floor of the New York Stock Exchange, with a total par value of $2,150,000,000.

Now, the whole issued capital stock of the Reading Railroad company is only $140,000,000. Of this at least $60,000,000 is held by the Baltimore and Ohio company, and at least $30,000,000 is continuously held by investors.

This leaves only $50,000,000 of Reading stock available for market operations, so that the whole floating supply of this one stock must have changed hands forty-three times in 1906.

Last year there were 36,751,600 shares of Union Pacific stock, with a face value of $3,675,160,000, dealt in on the floor of the stock exchange.

The average of the whole issued stock of the company in 1906 was about $175,000,000, of which not less than $43,750,000 was held by permanent investors, leaving only $131,000,000 available for speculative purposes.

According to these figures, every available share of Union Pacific stock changed hands on the floor of the New York Stock Exchange twenty-eight times.

Take Southern Pacific stock, of which 11,833,230 shares, with a face value of $1,183,323,000, were sold in the exchange in the same year.

The whole capital stock of the Southern Pacific company is $197,849,258. Of this $90,000,000 is held by the Union Pacific company. Estimating the shares held by permanent investors at $30,000,000, there would be left for speculation only $77,849,258.

So that it is reasonably certain that every share of Southern Pacific stock in the market changed hands at least fifteen times in the year.—James Creelman in Pearson's.

Emperor Who Must Die Standing.

The emperor of Austria during his illness has insisted on transacting state business as usual. As soon as he left the nursery he began a course of training to fit himself for the high position he was to fill. At sixteen he was an accomplished linguist and a scientific expert of no mean degree. He could ride and hunt with the tireless energy of a hardy sportsman, and his studies in literature and jurisprudence were conducted under the most celebrated scholars of continental Europe. That such a course of training did not react upon his health is doubtless due to his remarkable memory, which even now is said to enable him to recall the face of the humblest of his subjects, no matter how long the lapse of time. It is a tradition of the Austrian royal house that no emperor must die lying down. He must stand up to receive the last dread messenger.—London Tit-Bits.

Is a Mummy a Corpse?

There is now lying in the Paris morgue a mummy that is the cause of a dispute between the police, who insist that it is an unidentified corpse, and the owner, who is quite sure that it is a piece of furniture. The dispute is the sequel to a fire in a flat. The firemen found the mummy amid the ruins of a cupboard. It was placed in a sack and conveyed to the morgue "for identification." The owner of the flat has done everything possible to get it back, but the police reply to all representations with the question: "Is a mummy a corpse? Yes or no." "Yes," says the owner, "but"— "There is no but," declare the police. "A mummy is a corpse, and this is the place for corpses."

Panama's Public Lands.

Public lands in the republic of Panama are sold on the gold basis at 50 cents per hectare (two and a half acres) for lands to be used as homesteads, consisting of fifty acres or less; a dollar per hectare for lands to be acquired by corporations for public utility purposes, 50 cents per hectare for plots of land less than a hundred hectares to be used for agricultural or industrial purposes, 55 cents per hectare for plots of over 100 and less than 200 hectares, the price increasing at the rate of 5 cents per hectare for each additional hundred hectares or fraction thereof. The maximum amount of land granted to any one individual cannot exceed twenty hectares, or fifty acres.

The Shah's Diamond Coat.

An English jeweler once expressed his willingness to pay £4,000,000 for the shah of Persia. This was not because he considered him particularly precious personally, but because he was wearing a black frock coat studded with diamonds, with diamond epaulets and a scimitar with a diamond crusted scabbard. The diamond costume is used only on the most important occasions. On lesser occasions he has a pearl costume and for everyday wear a costume that presumably permits him to be more comfortable.—Argonaut.

Sliding Mountain in France.

There is another sliding mountain in France. It stands, or stood, in the Mende region, between the communes of Meyrueis and De Florac, and it seems to move bodily and steadily from its base, with accompaniment of awe inspiring detonations. One peculiar feature of this landslide is that it causes the whole country around to be almost insufferably affected by very offensive smells.—London Globe.

"What are your views on currency?" asked the busy citizen.

"Mostly sad and reminiscent," answered the man who had been to the mint.

RAILWAYS CLEAR OFF THE SNOW

Not Very Much Difficulty Experienced So Far

The winter thus far has not caused the railway companies much alarm although there have been several stormy spells. Yesterday and this morning most of the trains were somewhat overdue, but no real difficulty was experienced. The C.P.R. plough went over this division early this morning and although the cuts were snowed in no stops had to be made. The G.T.R. trains all had flangers at the rear.

COMMISSIONERS WERE RE-APPOINTED

In East Peterborough—Now on Their Fourth Year

The directors of the East Peterborough Agricultural Society are evidently satisfied with their officers of last year. They held their annual meeting on Tuesday afternoon in Norwood when the following officers were re-elected:—

1st Vice-President—Hugh Neilson.
2nd. Vice-President—E. Hawthorne.
Secretary—J. E. Roxburgh.
Directors—J. A. Semmith, James Andrews, B. C. Parker, A. Knox, John Kelly and John F. Elliott.
Hon. Directors—Chas. O'Reilly, John Breckenridge, Geo. Elliott and J. B. Pearce.

GIFT IN AID OF PIANO FUND

Presented by Mayor Rush to The Fire Brigade

His Worship Mayor Rush has made a contribution of twenty-five dollars towards the piano fund of the new fire hall, promoted no doubt, by the talent displayed among the firemen on the occasion of the social evening spent there on Tuesday evening. The fire brigade extend their thanks to Mr. Rush for his kindness. His communication is as follows:—

It gives me great pleasure to enclose to you my cheque, $25.00 towards your Piano Fund. I was delighted and surprised to know that you have such musical talent in your midst, and I assure you I appreciated your hospitality and the good-will you extended to me last night, not forgetting the good chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee.

Gentlemen, you are doing and you have done, splendid work and I have not the slightest doubt but that you will continue so to do. Peterborough may well be proud of its Fire Brigade and I wish you one and all every happiness and prosperity.

Yours very truly,
H. RUSH.

Peterborough, Jan. 22, 1908.

The brigade wish to thank His Worship the Mayor for his handsome gift towards the Piano Fund and can assure him that his kind words of praise for the good work done is a greater satisfaction to us and we hope we will continue to merit his Worship's good opinion and that of the public. "Ever Ready" is our motto.

On behalf of the brigade,
T. RUTHERFORD,
Chief.

ALD. TURNER ENTERTAINS HIS CLASS

Miss K. Calvett Presented With Byron's Poems—Officers Elected

The Bible class of St. Luke's church was hospitably entertained last night at the home of their teacher, Ald. J. J. Turner, Water street. The class was largely represented, and the evening was spent in games and amusements, after which refreshments were served in the dining room. During the evening Miss Calcutt, the organist, was presented by Ald. Turner with a copy of Byron's Poems, handsomely bound. Mr. Turner gave a short address, and Miss Calcutt made a suitable reply.

The election of officers then took place with the following result:

Hon. Pres., Dr. Langfeldt.
President, Ald. Turner.
Vice-President, Mr. Samuel Whittaker.
Sec.-Treasurer, Miss E. Mitchell.
Rec.-Secretary, Miss E. Scott.
Organist, Miss K. Calcutt.
Asst. Organists, Misses F. Butcher and C. English.

COMMITTEES APPOINTED FOR YEAR

In Connection With The George Street Methodist Church

The trustees and the Quarterly Board of the George street Methodist church, held a meeting on Wednesday evening, when the committees for the year were appointed. Rev. E. A. Pearson occupied the chair, and opened the proceedings. The matter of enlarging the Sunday school was taken up, and discussed, but no definite action was decided upon.

WEDDING BELLS

JONES-BROWN

A happy event took place on Wednesday, Jan. 23rd, when Anna Unorma, daughter of Mr. Joseph Brown, of Douro, formerly of Cavan, was united in marriage to Mr. Elmer Jones, of Mariposa. The ceremony was performed by Rev. R. McCulloch, of Omemee at 2 o'clock, in the presence of the immediate friends of the contracting parties. The bride looked handsome in a gown of cream crepe de chene trimmed with ribbon and lace and carried a bouquet of white carnations. Miss Bertha Sargent cousin of the bride, was the ring bearer and carried the ring in a white lillie. The wedding supper followed the ceremony. The presents were numerous and costly, showing the high esteem in which the bride is held. The groom's gift to the bride was a gold watch. The happy couple left on the 5.33 train amid showers of rice and good wishes of their many friends.

FELLOWSHIP TEAS ARE A SUCCESS

The Local Brotherhood Of St. Andrew's Commented On

The following item has been taken from the January issue of the St. Andrew's Cross, the official organ of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew:—

A splendid work is being carried on under the auspices of St. John's Chapter of the Brotherhood at Peterborough, Ont. On Sunday evenings before service strangers are entertained at tea. During the past two years many hundreds of men have been so entertained. By this means a splendid opportunity is afforded the Brotherhood men of coming into touch especially with new arrivals whom they wish to reach. It is often very difficult to persuade strangers to come at once to the services of the church because they fear the strangeness and formality. Of a gathering purely social, offering unusual means of acquaintanceship, they have no such fear and therefore invitations to such are gladly welcomed and widely accepted. After the ground is thus once broke it is not difficult to extend invitations to church, many of which are also gladly accepted. Brotherhood should ever be on the alert to use every opportunity to reach men and bring them nearer. St. John's men seem, judged by results, to have found a good one.

Health and Vitality for old People

A old age creeps on vitality is lowered, the heart beats more slowly, the blood becomes thin and watery, and the power is resistance is lessened. It is thee old people above all others who require the new life and energy, which comes with the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. Thousands of old people depend on this treatment, because it calms and quiets the nerves, gradually and certainly enriches the blood, builds up the system and instills new life and vigour into their shrivelled arteries.

LOCAL FIRE BRIGADE

Some Information in The Canadian Courier On The Formal Opening---Peterboro's Industries

The latest issue of the Canadian Courier contains a portrait of Chief Rutherford of the local fire brigade, a picture of the firehall and members of the brigade taken on the occasion of the formal opening on New Year's Day, accompanied by the following article on the brigade, as well as some interesting particulars regarding Peterborough as an industrial centre:—

The opening of a new firehall is not often made a social event, but in Peterborough, Ont.—the Electric City—a few days ago, a new hall was thrown open to the citizens by Chief Rutherford and his firemen, who from morning till night entertained a stream of visitors. The hall was lavishly decorated for the occasion the chief and his brigade in new, gold-braided caps and new uniforms. Refreshments were served in a buffet at the head of the stairway—cake, wine and cigars being freely dispensed. Exhibitions of harness drill were given. In the evening an "at-home" was held, with a dance in the large hall upstairs.

Output per Capita

Never before in Canada, perhaps, have the citizens of a town taken such keen personal interest in the home of the fire brigade—which in Peterborough, a solid, progressive city of business houses and modern factories and splendid homes, means so much to the inhabitants. Fortunately no fire occurred during the opening of the hall.

What a good modern firehall means to Peterborough may be inferred from the fact that in 1905 the total value of the city's industrial products was $11,566,805, which means an output of $733 worth for every man woman and child in the place. This splendid industrial showing is largely augmented by the huge output of the Canadian General Electric Company. The total number of hands employed in the 31 factories of the city is 3,255; total population, 16,000. The public buildings of Peterborough are a credit to the city and county.

INDIANS TO APPEAR IN COURT

They Were Fighting in Chemong a Week Ago

Alex. Nott and Wesley Irons, two Chemong Indians, had a fight on Saturday, January 18th, in front of the village post office. The result was that the constable, John Jacobs, laid an information with Magistrate Edmison. They will appear in the county police court on Tuesday, Jan. 28th, at 3 o'clock.

SOME LOCAL OFFICERS AT KINGSTON

Many There From Outside Points—Are Grasping The Work

The two Peterborough artillery officers, Lieuts. R. Leary and McDonough, have arrived safely in Kingston and are undergoing a two weeks course in artillery drill. There are several other officers from many points throughout this district, who are also taking this course and the local men are making themselves at home. They are readily grasping the work, and beyond a doubt both officers will pass the final examinations.

The only fault the officers have to find is in the outside work on the parade ground. There they always get the benefit of a strong cold wind which blows off the lake. The lectures are given by experienced regular officers in the cosy lecture room at the barracks. The officers in training have been assigned very comfortable quarters and are enjoying their stay.

THE WEATHER.

The temperature was down to a lower point last night than it has been before this season. This morning at 7 o'clock the thermometer was at 14 degrees below zero; no lower was reached during the night. At noon, the mercury stood at zero. A year ago to-day was the coldest day of last winter, when the thermometer marked 19 degrees below zero. The forecast now is for milder weather.

There Were None in Lindsay To Satisfy Mr. Freeman's Taste—He is Still a Free Man

RESULT OF ADVERTISEMENT

Twenty Applications Hurriedly Arrive With Photographs—He Now Searches in Haliburton

Lindsay, Jan. 24. — (Special.) — Evidently husbands are just as scarce in leap year as in any other year, it one is to go by the results of Wm. Freeman's advertisement for a wife in the Bobcaygeon Independent.

Before many days had elapsed Mr. Freeman had received twenty charming, feminine epistles offering the writers' hearts and hands to the would-be groom. Each letter was accompanied by the best picture the photographers art could produce, and needless to say, the display of feminine beauty and youth was so entrancing that had it been any other person he would have wanted to marry the whole lot and move his harem out to Utah with the Mormons.

However, level-headed Mr. Freeman set about the next best thing, and resolved that he would see them all and marry the one he thought most suitable for a life partner. He came into the Simpson House the other day and asked the proprietor if he knew the address of a certain town lady who had written him. "No," said Mr. Simpson, "I'm afraid I do not, but say, how would you like to see two very fine, eligible, young ladies who are upstairs in the parlour now?"

Mr. Freeman went up and interviewed two well-known, young Lindsay ladies, but found they didn't quite come up to his ideal, and so decided to carry his suit no further.

Any in Peterborough

In the meantime Mr. Simpson found the address he was looking for and Mr. Freeman went to interview the lady, who, he found, was too old, being 39. He is sixty, but still hale and hearty. Having finished all his business in connection with the affair here. Mr. F. took the train to Haliburton, where another would-be bride awaited him. If he fails again, there, he goes to Peterborough, where several anxious ones reside. Surely he will be able to find his ideal among such a large assembly of the fair sex.

His friends are all looking anxiously to the day when a mistress will be installed to bless his lonely threshold. They will all be there to greet him and wish him prosperity and good luck.

AWFUL RESULTS FROM PLAYING BARBER

Children Pour Ammonia On Their Heads

Pittsburg, Jan. 24.—Taking their cue from a barber who cut their hair for the first time last week, Thomas and George Dallier of Wilmerding, aged 5 and 3 years respectively, played barber with disastrous results.

George, in the chair, with the necessary trappings, asked for a "tonic" when the mock job was completed. Securing a bottle of ammonia, the amateur barber freely rubbed the stuff into the young customer's scalp. A physician says the sight of one of the child's eyes is probably destroyed. His head and face are all raw.

Children's Aid Annual

—The annual meeting of the Children's Aid Society of Peterborough will be held on this evening, the 24th inst., at 8 o'clock, in the City Council Chambers. An address will be delivered by J. J. Kelso, Esq., Superintendent of Neglected and Dependent Children of Ontario.

LOCAL OPTION AND PUBLIC WHO TRAVEL IN ASPHODEL

Last Friday at a meeting of representative temperance electors of the township of Asphodel, held in Norwood, it was decided that Messrs. Oakman, Brethen, Brown, Harrison, Warner and Comstock should be a committee to proceed at once to arrange for the entertainment of the travelling public in Westwood. A meeting is to be held in the same place to-morrow afternoon, January 25, at 2 o'clock, to receive the report of the committee and to complete all necessary arrangements. The temperance workers of the township are cordially requested to be present.

SPLENDID CONCERT AT THE CHEMONG INDIAN VILLAGE

The 41st annual tea and concert, in connection with the Methodist church on the Chemong Indian reserve was held last night, and notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather, proved to be very successful. Had not the stormy weather prevailed throughout the day there is no doubt that there would have been present many people from a distance. However, the people of the reserve turned out in full force and listened to a splendid programme. From 5 to 7 o'clock tea was served in the lower portion of the village hall, and the concert commenced at 7.30 o'clock in the hall above.

The chair was occupied by Mr. E. S. Clarry of Peterborough, who referred to the honour he felt in having the opportunity of presiding at the 41st annual tea and concert of the Chemong Indian Church. He referred to the many changes that must have taken place during the past 41 years, and predicted great changes by the time another 41 years shall have rolled by. He congratulated the band upon its prosperous condition and upon the excellent class of entertainment it is capable of putting on.

Rev. Mr. Marks, the pastor of the church, gave a very able address on "Man." He traced the traditions of the various races of the universe and paid a glowing tribute to the Indian for his honesty, and his ability to cope successfully with any other race in the lines of financial and industrial pursuits.

The choir rendered a number of selections that were heartily enjoyed, while Mr. Dan Whetung was very entertaining in his vocal selections. Several dialogues were well put on and equally well received.

Master James Harrington brought forth great applause with his Irish recitation. Mr. Milne Hamilton of Peterborough favoured the audience with several of Drummond's selections and was repeatedly encored. The four young ladies who sang a selection entitled "Holly Girls" showed marked ability.

Miss Whetung acted as accompanist very acceptably.

Owing to the very stormy state of the weather which prevented many from a distance being present, the entertainment will be repeated Thursday evening of next week.

NEW DANCES WERE ITHE FAVOURITES

Tried Out At The Brass Worker's Dance

The Brass Workers' dance last night in the Conservatory Music Hall was one of the most pleasurable ever conducted under the same auspices. There was a large attendance and the evening was devoted entirely to dancing. The five-step and minuet were danced and at once became favourites. The opera house orchestra provided the music. Messrs. Conway and Mosher left nothing to be desired in providing an enjoyable evening's dance.

YOUTHS GOT MONEY

Went to Lakefield and Port Hope And Collected For Hockey Team —Have to Return The Money

MR. EDMISON ADVISES THEM

The two boys who obtained money from Lakefield and Peterborough people for a hockey team and then spent it on a little jollification were brought before Magistrate Edmison yesterday afternoon in his office. The boys acknowledged the obtaining of nearly $10 and told all the circumstances connected with their operations. The boys names were Doherty and McCabe.

One of the boys suggested getting up a team, and to finance it and they decided to ask merchants and business men for subscriptions. They made a good start in the city and then with the treasury reporting favourably they took a jaunt to Lakefield where they falsely represented the Grove School and touched the pockets of a few of the northerners.

Returning to Peterborough they decided to try the purse strings of Port Hope people. They had a pleasant trip, put up at one of the best hotels, but the Port Hope trip was fruitless and the boys returned to Peterborough and to trouble.

Magistrate Edmison gave the boys a severe lecturing pointing out the gravity of their crime when they had not realized when they were committing it. The boys were deeply impressed with their guilt and promised not to repeat their offence.

Relatives of the boys promised to make good the money they received and spent and when it is collected Mr. Cochrane will return it to those who gave the boys donations.

HEALED BY VISIT TO THE SHRINE

Miss Daisy Grenet, a Hopeless Invalid, Cured at Lourdes

THE CASE WAS GIVEN UP

New York, Jan. 24—Having suffered for nine years from paralysis, which four of the most experienced surgeons in Paris pronounces incurable, Miss Daisy Grenet, 19 years old, a daughter of Edward Grenet, formerly of this city but for the last 20 years prominent in the artistic world in Paris, is reported to have been completely cured during a visit to the famous shrine at Lourdes.

Details of the case have reached this city in a letter written by the father of Miss Grenet to his brother, Augustus J. Grenet, 342 West One Hundred and Twenty-second Street.

That paragraph in Mr. Grenet's letter which has brought much happiness to the relatives and friends of Mr. Grenet in New York, reads as follows—

"Daisy was cured at Lourdes, to the astonishment of all the physicians and of the crowd that were present. She arrived almost dead, but the next day she was at the table d'hote with every one. The clergy called it a miracle, and the physicians cannot explain the marvelous cure. She owes it to her sincere faith. As for me, I am truly happy to see her in perfect health again."

In a letter written to an aunt of the young woman who lives in New York one of her relatives in Paris says Miss Grenet's visit to Lourdes followed a more than usually severe attack of pain, during which the young woman constantly uttered the word "Lourdes"

Four surgeons who had been in attendance upon her and who had declared her ailment, which had rendered her limbs useless, was incurable, were asked whether the journey to the Lourdes might be undertaken with safety. One of them gave it as his opinion that the shock of the journey would be likely to prove fatal. This decision was communicated to Miss Grenet. Her answer to it was—

"I must go."

Her father deciding to be governed by the wishes of his daughter, made the necessary arrangements and accompanied by two of the medical men, the trip to Lourdes was made. Miss Grenet was taken to her hotel upon a stretcher.

The cure referred to in the father's letter was effected during her first visit to the shrine and water. She returned to Paris a few days afterward so that on December 22nd, the date on which her father wrote to his brother in this city, he said she was in good health.

Miss Grenet had been an invalid since her tenth birthday. Her father sent her to a convent just outside Paris, and there she was educated. She always has been deeply religious, although her relatives say she had not talked about Lourdes nor had any one spoken about Lourdes to her for more than a week before she declared she would go there to be cured.

She said she had been told in her sleep that if she would go to the famous shrine she would regain her health and strength.

Her relatives who live in New York say she was in a pitiable condition and that every medical man who was called to attend her refused to hold out the slightest hope of her recovery.

DEATH OF WILLIAM WRIGHTON; FOR HALF A CENTURY WAS IN BUSINESS IN PETERBOROUGH

Passed Away Very Unexpectedly During The Night—In Good Health Yesterday

A WELL KNOWN CITIZEN

Was Oldest Business Man in The City—Never Left The Block Between Brock and Hunter Streets

Peterborough lost one of its oldest, most widely known and highly respected citizens in the death of Mr. W. Hall Wrighton, the prominent George street merchant, who passed away suddenly at his home, 45 McDonel street, last night. The intelligence of his sudden demise has been a great shock to the whole city, and has cast a shadow of gloom throughout the entire community. Only a few of his nearest friends knew that he was in poor health, but it was thought that he would improve as the spring came on.

The deceased gentleman had been in poor health for some time, but there was nothing which would cause alarm. He had a few friends in last night to spend the evening with him and retired about 10 o'clock. This morning when he was called for breakfast he did not answer and when his wife went back to the bedroom she received a great shock to find her husband had passed away.

Few citizens of this city had so many friends as the deceased and his sad demise was the topic of conversation in market circles this morning where he was a prominent figure and well known by every farmer. During his 40 years of business life he came into contact with the larger portion of the population and his kindly nature attracted many friends. His demise will be learned with deep sorrow and regret by all who knew him and the sympathies of the citizens go to his bereaved wife and family.

Mr. Wrighton was 71 years of age and was born in East City. He lived in Peterborough all his life and has been in business for 40 years. He was educated in the public school and upon graduation branched out into business life and was always successful and honest in his dealings. He was one of the first members of the Peterborough Fire Brigade, and for several years was a prominent member of the School Board, being chairman the greater part of the time. He had always taken an active part in political and municipal affairs and was a Conservative in politics. He was a member of only one lodge, the Otonabee, I.O.F., and was a prominent member of the George Street Methodist Church. His father was Clerk of the Peace and Deputy Clerk of the county.

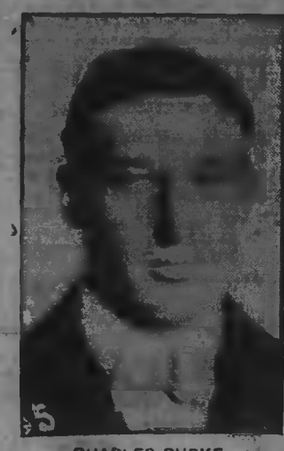
During his life he figured in several great cricket matches and was considered one of the greatest cricketers in the country. He also won renown for his great swimming ability and had indulged in the latter up to a few years ago.

The deceased leaves behind him his wife, Kathleen M. Hunter, and two daughters, Mrs. R. Ross of Pembroke, and Mrs. Brooks of Detroit. His sisters are Mrs. R. W. Grubbe of McDonel street, city, and Miss M. Wrighton of Toronto.

The late Mr. Wrighton had been in business in this city nearly half a century, and by his honesty, integrity and fairness in his dealings gained a reputation which remained unsullied and unTarnished to the end. His name was spoken of with respect and esteem by the older citizens who were better acquainted with him, and was known among the younger generation as one of Peterborough's pioneer business men.

Mr. Wrighton's first business was done with the late firm of Nicholls & Hall, general merchants, where he was employed as clerk several years. With the experience he had acquired he entered into business for himself. For many years he had occupied the store just north of the Examiner office, but previously had occupied different quarters, but in the same block. Besides being actively engaged in the grocery business, Mr. Wrighton bought extensively furs, grain, cheese, butter and eggs. He shipped these articles to various houses in Montreal, London, Glasgow and Liverpool. Until four years ago he owned a granary at the C.P.R. station. In his shipping business he was always successful financially and in every other particular. He had many friends in the markets where he dealt, a sufficient proof of the character of his straightforward business methods.

AN ALLEGED CRIMINAL WHOSE RECORD IS SAID TO BE NOT OF BEST



CHARLES BURKE

The Man Whose Name is Connected With the Buckhorn Robbery

MR. SPOTTON, NEW PRINCIPAL OF THE BUSINESS COLLEGE

The Peterborough Business College which was so successfully carried on by the late Mr. William Pringle, has been purchased by Mr. Geo. Spotton, of Wingham, Ont., who is recognized in Western Ontario as one of the finest exponents of commercial training. Mr. Spotton is the principal of business colleges in Wingham, Clinton, Walkerton, Orangeville and Goderich, and his schools are noted for the large numbers of successful book-keepers, stenographers and telegraphers, they have turned out. The Peterborough college will be carried on along the same lines, and with the excellent reputation that the school bears, owing to the business success of the late principal there should be no difficulty in establishing the same standard as exists in the other institution under Mr. Spotton's control.

The sale of the plant and good will was made through Mr. G. M. Boyer, solicitor for the late Mr. Pringle, and the price paid by Mr. Spotton was $2000. The transaction is considered eminently satisfactory, not only because of the price received, but because the school passes into the hands of such a capable principal as Mr. Spotton, who took charge yesterday.

Mr. Spotton, when seen by the Examiner to-day said that there would be no change made in the teaching staff of the college. The teachers who were engaged by Mr. Pringle, will remain at their posts. Mr. J. A. McKone, who for the past three years, has been in charge of Mr. Spotton's school at Orangeville, will be in charge as chief commercial master. Mr. Spotton himself will spend a good deal of time in the city for the first few months, at least, although he has not decided to reside here permanently.

There will be some improvements made in the college, the principal change being the installing of a telegraphing room which will be a new branch of business college work here, although in the other colleges under Mr. Spotton's direction it has been carried on very successfully. The class rooms will be altered to allow of more accommodation and there will be other changes that will add to the effectiveness of the school.

A POCKETBOOK CONTAINING SOME COIN WENT OVERBOARD

A young woman while walking to her home in East City last night accidentally lost her purse in the Otonabee river. The string broke that held it to her belt, and unfortunately it broke while she was on the bridge. The purse contained three dollars, and of course, the woman didn't want so much of her coin to be distributed among the fishes.

This morning her father secured a lengthy pole, which had to be spliced to reach the bottom of the river, and fastened a tin scoop to the bottom. Although the money bag could be easily seen from its mulberry colour, it would not hitch to the tin scoop, and a new arrangement had to be secured. Whether or not the money was raised is not known, but if it is not it is most probable that some person will have a good fish story to tell next year about finding the coin and the red pocketbook in the interior of the biggest fish in the Otonabee.

TALK ON CANADIAN WRITERS

Miss Isabella Crawford Poems Mentioned by Katherine Hale—Also Those Of Miss Merrill

CANADIAN LITERATEURS

Toronto, Jan. 24—(Special.) — A moderate sized audience braved the storm last night in order to hear Miss Amelia B. Warnock ("Katherine Hale") lecture on "Canadian Literature" in the Greek Theatre, and were well rewarded for their efforts. The lecture is Miss Warnock's contribution in a campaign for a more intimate knowledge of and appreciation for the work of the growing school of Canadian litterateurs. In the interests of Canadian literature and art it is to be hoped that Miss Warnock will be given many opportunities of repeating her lecture before Canadian audiences.

The lecturer deplored that so few Canadian women are acquainted with the literature Canada has thus far produced, especially among those who have made the instruction of the young their life work. Commencing with the works of the early French-Canadian writers, she traced the development to the present day, and referred among others to the works of Robert Christie of Nova Scotia, Major John Richardson, Wm. Courtenay, Alexander McLachlan, John Reid, and Mair among the early school of Canadian writers, and among the recent writers Isabella Crawford of Peterborough, whose poems were published posthumously two years ago; Dr. Drummond, Ethelwyn Wetherald, Archibald Lampman, Chas. G. D. Roberts, Bliss Carman, "the pagan among our poets," and William Wilfred Campbell. Among the women poets mentioned were Pauline Johnson, Jean Blewett, Mrs. Sheard, Marjorie Pickthall, Helen Merrill, Isabel Ecclestone McKay, and Miss Ostenso, and among the novelists Ralph Connor, Gilbert Parker, Harvey J. O'Higgins, Agnes Laut, Norman Duncan and W. A. Fraser.

Of Sir Gilbert, Miss Warnock said that "In the Seats of Mighty" the author showed all the craft and delicacy of the artist, but that since then he had "travelled extensively, entered Parliament and been made a Knight, all of which seems to have had a bad effect upon his work. His books have been getting worse and worse, and to-day he is no longer an artist."

SEVERE STORM WORKS HAVOC IN NEW YORK

One Man Blindly Walked off Ferry—Several Buried in The Snow—Terrific Storm

Examiner Special:

New York, Jan. 24.—New York today experienced one of the worst blizzards in years. Traffic was tied up during the rush hours by a heavy snowfall of five inches. One man was frozen to death and another was blinded by the snow, and walked off a ferry slip and was drowned. Many were picked up more dead than alive in the streets, and had to be removed to the hospitals. Jas. Smith, once a prosperous engineer, was found frozen to death beneath a drift several feet deep. Severe storms raged along the whole Atlantic coast. A large fishing fleet was reported at Atlantic City to be in distress early to-day.

THE BYE-ELECTIONS

South Huron is a good old Liberal riding, which during many years when the Liberals were in Opposition sent to Ottawa John McMillan of the Doric tongue. He carried the riding in 1887, and in 1891, and in 1896, but by 1900 he had acquired, as one sometimes does who holds the stage too long, a rival in his own camp. Mr. McMillan secured the Liberal nomination, but his opponent, Mr. McEwan, not satisfied with that, stood for election as an independent, got the whole Conservative vote in addition to that of his personal following, and was elected. In 1903, when the redistribution of seats was made, a change in the make-up of the riding considerably reduced the Liberal ascendancy, and then in 1904 Mr. McEwan failed to secure the party nomination, and threw his support to the Conservative candidate, Mr. Gunn, who was elected. Also, the Conservatives had succeeded in electing to the Ontario Legislature Mr. Eibler, a hard-working, zealous party man. This was the position when the bye-election resulting from the death of Mr. Gunn, the Conservative member, came on. The voting took place yesterday, and the result shows that in face of an aggressive Opposition the old fighting spirit of the Liberals of the riding has been aroused to good purpose. Old quarrels were put aside. A strong candidate was chosen. Hon. Mr. Graham personally spent much time in the riding, and no doubt his personal charm had much to do with producing the result. At all events, the Liberal candidate, Mr. McLean, won by a good majority; and South Huron goes back into the Liberal column, where it belongs. There are a good many Ontario counties in which this example may be followed.

In Stanstead the victory was even more signal. The candidates were well matched, the advantage in experience of political campaigning being, if anything, with the Conservative. His friends were bent upon winning the riding, partly because Mr. Pope and his friends were desperately anxious to regain for him the prestige he once had in the townships; partly because they were all eager to do something which might put in doubt the effectiveness of Hon. Mr. Fisher's political leadership in the district; and partly because Mr. Ames and Mr. Foster eagerly awaited a sign that their digging and delving into the public accounts had produced some impression upon the electorate. In all counts there is disappointment. Mr. Ames has probably learned that magic lantern slides do not take the place of old-fashioned personal aggressiveness. Mr. Pope and Mr. Foster are probably conscious that the land syndicate's dealings with the Union Trust Company and the mystery of the seven-tenths discounts a lot of brave talk about overcharges in departmental purchases. And those who had once more arranged for the downfall of Mr. Fisher have learned once more that when it comes to a hard political battle there are few more effective fighters in the public life of Canada. The lesson of the election in Stanstead is that the Liberals still hold the Townships and are not easily to be driven out of possession, and that there is little hope of the Conservatives making any real gain so long as they put up with the domination of Mr. Pope of the seven-tenths.—Montreal Herald.

THE WHITNEY GOVERNMENT CRITICISED

Hon. A. G. McKay, speaking at the Liberal nomination proceedings in East Middlesex, made some severe and effective criticism of the Whitney Government, and its promises, as reflected in their record.

Mr. McKay said the Whitney Government had been before the people during the past three years. Its record should be examined, and its promises analysed. Before obtaining power, one of the great promises made by Mr. Whitney was that if given the Government benches, and thus in possession of the archives and documents of the province, he would show the Liberal Government to be the most corrupt in the history of the country. Mr. Whitney has now been in possession of all the documents of the Government for three years, and has he made good his promises? Has he shown one single instance of corruption, any mismanagement or misappropriation of funds? Not one. Mr. Whitney has shown nothing that would make any Liberal drop his head in shame. That was one promise that Mr. Whitney had utterly failed to fulfill. The record of the Opposition in the House was just as good as the splendid record of the party during its long reign of power.

The succession duties act was criticised by Mr. Whitney when in Opposition and was declared by that gentleman to be of no value whatever, and unjust, and that he would repeal it when he got into the Government benches. If Mr. Whitney's criticism then was honestly right, why did he not remove that act when in power. Instead of cutting it off, he had added to the act, thus testifying to the rightness of the principle set down by the Liberal party. Imitation was the sincerest form of flattery. From this act alone, last year, the sum of $1,027,000 had been received out of a total revenue of $7,000,000. The act to tax corporations had also been opposed by Mr. Whitney when in Opposition, and when in power he refused to change the act. From that source half a million in revenue was derived. If these two acts, against which Mr. Whitney railed when in Opposition, were removed the province would have lost over a million dollars, and instead of having a surplus of $300,000, a deficit of over $7,000,000 would have resulted. Mr. Whitney was testifying thus to the efficiency of the legislation adopted by the Liberal Government.

The administration of the Department of Education was given a scathing criticism by Hon. Mr. MacKay. Mr. Whitney had placed not only a minister like Dr. Pyne, a totally incapable man, at the head, but had taken inexperienced men and placed them in charge. The result was a great bungling of that department. There was a decided tendency towards centralization in the policy of the minister of that department, which struck at the roots of responsible government. Power was taken from the trustees, men who were most in touch with the conditions of their own municipality, and placed in the hands of those who know nothing of local conditions. It was perfectly proper to attempt to give the teaching staff permanency, but the regulations of the department operated against that materially. The common school, beyond which 95 per cent. of the boys and girls never go, should be in the hands of men who know what is required, not in the hands of those who know nothing of the conditions. The doing away of the model school, which was the poor man's friend, and through which many a man in public position and influence owes his start, was bad legislation, and would not operate for the people's good. It was the intention of the department to do away with examinations, especially in the essential subjects such as writing, arithmetic and such, leaving unessential subjects, such as chemistry and the like to examinations. The passing of the scholar was entirely in the hands of the teacher. As a teacher of many years' experience, he thought that the handling of the elementary subjects should be more thorough and more accurate than it is at present. The tendency to-day was not to make the training of the scholar more thorough and accurate, but less so. This bad legislation was largely due to the inexperience of the Minister of Education and the men under him.

The Government's attitude towards the University of Toronto was described as inexcusably bad. The action of Mr. Whitney in turning into that department over half a million dollars, and then not allowing the people of Ontario to see how and where it was spent, was neither fair nor right. Reporters were kept out of the meetings of the board of governors, and there was absolutely nothing known of the expenditure of that sum of money. The people demanded of every department what money it was spending, and it should know how the money was being spent with reference to Toronto University.

HERE ARE SOME RAILWAY DON'TS

Epigrams for railway men were delivered with fluency and triteness by Superintendent W. R. W. Griffin, at a smoker held at the street car barns on State street last evening.

"Treat the public in a gentlemanly way, and you will get into very little trouble," said the superintendent.

"Do it, and don't be called apirate. Be considerate and polite and the company will have fewer damage suits."

"Don't forget the immense value of obedience; it should be implicit.

"Use the watch; you may be excused for being behind time; you can not be for getting ahead of it.

"A man ahead of his time is reckless and dangerous. Any fool can run his car fast, but only the good man makes his points on time.

"If you get up in the morning feeling in bad temper lay off for the day. The man at the other end may also feel in bad humour, and there's sure to be trouble.

"Pull the cord too quickly when a passenger is boarding the car too slowly, and everyone in the car becomes indignant and gives the company the blame.

"Don't run ahead of your schedule when the traffic is light to have a smoke or get a rest. Someone is sure to catch you.

"Schedules are worked out for the safety of the public.

"Whenever anything happens, keep cool." — Rochester Post.

Why Beauty Fades

Real beauty is rare. It belongs to perfect health. Just as soon as the blood gets thin and watery and the nerves become exhausted, beauty fades, wrinkles show themselves, and the glow of health disappears and beauty curves give place to leanness and angles. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the great blood builder and nerve restorative, is woman's greatest blessing from youth to old age. A few weeks' use of this treatment will do wonders for any woman who is pale, thin, weak and nervous.

EXAMINATION OF THAW IN THE TOMBS

Dr. Wagner Repeats Conversation After the Tragedy.

TO LIMIT EXPERT WITNESSES

Each Side to Call Three Only—Harry Thaw Had Been White's Guest—First Met Evelyn Nesbitt Outside a Theatre — A "Pure-Looking Girl"—But Found She Belonged to Stanford White.

New York, Jan. 24.—When an adjournment of the Thaw trial was taken yesterday, in order to enable the attorneys for the defence to prepare their long hypothetical question covering all the evidence in the case, there seemed no longer any doubt that next week will bring the second hearing to a close. Justice Dowling has decided to limit each side to three expert witnesses, and two of the defence's were heard yesterday, as to the facts of the mental and physical examinations they made of Harry Thaw in the Tombs prison following his arrest for the killing of Stanford White.

No experts for the state have yet appeared in the court room, and Mr. Jerome has not indicated the manner in which he will combat the testimony of the alienists in the employ of the defence. All of the doctors who served Mr. Jerome at the first hearing are under subpoena by the defence, not as paid experts, but as possible witnesses in sur-rebuttal of any action the district attorney may take in rebutting the insanity pleas that has been built.

As Mr. Jerome turned the tables upon Mrs. William Thaw by reading to the jury the affidavits she made a year ago to the lunacy commission which was testing her son's condition of mind, so the defence may show a seeming reversal by having the state's alienists admit upon the stand that they made affidavits a year ago in which they expressed the opinion that Harry Thaw was suffering from paranoia, and had been a victim of that mental malady for many years.

Justice Dowling held a conference with all of the attorneys interested in the case before announcing his decision to limit the amount of expert testimony to be placed before the jury. Last year the defence offered six experts to answer the hypothetical question, but these were overwhelmed, numerically at least, by the battery of nine brought forward by the district attorney. The effect of Justice Dowling's decision will be materially to shorten the case. The defence should conclude its evidence to-day, unless Mr. Jerome extends his cross-examinations beyond the limit of his present intention.

Dr. Charles C. Wagner of Binghamton, N.Y., and Dr. Britton Evans of Morris Plains, N.J., both superintendents of state institutions for the insane, were on the stand yesterday. In detailing their conversations with Thaw in the Tombs they brought out more clearly two points which were glossed over last year. The first of these was to the effect that Thaw had told them that in 1900 or 1901 he had been a guest of Stanford White at a dinner party in the Madison Square Garden tower. He had left early and had been accused of breaking up the party. Thaw declared, and the young woman who sat next him declared the food was bad.

Thaw also told the physicians of the first time he saw Evelyn Nesbitt. It was in 1901 in front of a theatre.

"A pure looking girl," he described her. When he asked who she was he was told the name was Nesbitt and that "she belongs to Stanford White." Thaw managed afterward to meet the girl at an after-theatre supper in company with several other chorus people.

The European witnesses who are yet to be heard for the defence will arrive this morning on the steamer Adriatic, which is expected to dock at 9 p. m. The court session begins at 10 o'clock and every effort will be made to have them there at that time, as Mr. Littleton is anxious their evidence shall be in before he puts his hypothetical question. Besides Drs. Wagner and Evans, the question will be answered for the defence by Dr. Smith Ely Joliffe of Columbia University, who also appeared at the last trial.

Earthquake Causes Panic.

Reggio di Calabria, Jan. 24.—A strong earthquake shook this province yesterday. Up to the present time no report of loss of life has been received. The shocks were particularly severe at the Villages of Bianco, Brancaleone, Bruzzano and Ferruzzano.

Screaming and terrified the people rushed from their houses to the open fields, or took refuge in the nearby subterranean grottoes.

A repetition of the shock is feared at any moment, and the people are calling on the saints for protection.

Hope to Unseat Aldermen.

St. Catharines, Jan. 24.—It is stated that steps are to be taken to unseat Alds. McBride and Laughlin, elected to represent St. Patrick's Ward. The grounds given so far are trivial, and it is said several aldermen, who were not given sufficient prominence on the principal committees, and a defeated candidate, are at the bottom of the movement.

HELD FOR MURDER.

Men Arrested In Sicily For Crime of Years Ago.

Messina, Sicily, Jan. 24.—The holding-up at Portage, Pa., several years ago of Patrick Campbell, paymaster, by a band of Italians, when a driver, Charles May, was killed and Campbell was wounded, found an echo here Wednesday night in the arrest of three men, who are declared to have been accomplices in the crime. The men's names are Carmelo Caralli, Rosario Desrasio and Giuseppe Felormo. Search for these men had been going on for many months.

Wednesday night all three gathered together in a house near here. The police then came down on them, and the house was surrounded by carbineers. After all precautions had been taken, six policemen forced they way into the room where the men were. There was a desperate fight, but the men were outnumbered and were quickly forced to surrender.

COURT REFUSED INJUNCTION.

Salvation Army Has No Exclusive Right to the Name.

New York, Jan. 24.—The right of the Salvation Army of the United States, of which Gen. William Booth is the head, to the exclusive use of that or any similar name, was denied yesterday by Justice Newburger in the Supreme Court. Justice Newburger's decision was on an application made by the Salvation Army of the United States for an injunction to restrain the American Salvation Army, headed by James W. Duffin, from using that name.

Counsel for the applicant, in arguing for the injunction, declared that the application was made on the ground that the Duffin organization had brought discredit on the Salvation Army of the United States.

Count Sent to Jail.

Potsdam, Jan. 24.—The military court of honor ordered by Emperor William to try Gen. Count Von Hohenau, formerly an adjutant to the Emperor, and commander of the guard corps, and Major Count Johannes Lynar completed its hearing yesterday. Count Lynar was found guilty of abusing his authority on six counts, four of which related to insults to subordinates, and on five other counts charging moral lapses, and was sentenced to fifteen months in jail. Count Hohenau was acquitted.

Hohenau a short time ago was obliged to resign his position in the army because he was accused of being one of the so-called "court camarilla" exposed by Herr Harden, editor of The Zukunft. The names of both Gen. Von Hohenau and Major Lynar were brought constantly into the testimony during the recent Harden-Von Molkte trial.

Capt. Brown Suicides.

Montreal, Jan. 24.—H. Gordon Brown, prominent in military, business and social affairs, committed suicide at 11 o'clock yesterday morning at the Military Institute, No. 7 Beaver Hall square. Capt. Brown was an officer in the Victoria Rifles, and was connected in business with the insurance firm of E. A. Whitehead & Co. For some time Capt. Brown has been suffering intensely from la grippe, and it is thought that this overturned his mind. He came into the club, which he often frequented, and before the attendants could interfere blew out his brains with a revolver. He was 27 years of age, and was a brother of Fitzjames Brown, a well-known insurance agent in this city.

Played With Dynamite.

Galt, Jan. 24.—A four-year-old member of the family of John McKenzie, moulder, discovered what the youngster termed "a nice toy." It was in the shape of a cylindrical stick, and on examination was found to be dynamite.

There was over a foot of the stick, and the child was about to hammer it on the kitchen stove when the mother interposed and prevented an explosion.

An expert who disclosed the nature of the "toy" said there was enough of the explosive to destroy a brick block. The child said he was given the plaything by some boys passing by the house.

No Word of Missing Boat.

Hook of Holland, Jan. 24.—No news has yet been received of the missing boat from the steamer Amsterdam, one of several that put off from that vessel after the collision Tuesday night with the steamer Arminster. It is believed that this boat has been carried south by the currents and that she will make a landing somewhere on the coast. The heavy fog which still continues has interfered with the search for the missing boat, but all the vessels anchored in the Fairway have been visited and not one had heard of her. The boat carries 28 persons, of whom 21 are passengers. She is said to be well provisioned.

300 Flee From Fire.

New York, N. Y., Jan. 24.—A two-storey brick factory building in Rodney street, Brooklyn, occupied by the International Cork Co., and the Brooklyn Bottle Stopper Co., was burned yesterday. The explosion of a boiler started the fire and 300 employes escaped from the building.

Six women who returned to the building to get their belongings, were brought out just in time to save their lives.

NATAL ACT SCORED IN COMMONS

Japanese Immigration Again Discussed in the House.

ROAST FOR GOV. DUNSMUIR

Mr. Ross Describes His Position—Attacks Mr. Bowser—Agitation Fraught With Gravest Danger, Says Mr. Macpherson—The Question Has Been Made a Political Football—Senate Talks Reform.

Ottawa, Jan. 24.—The Oriental immigration question and the action of Lieutenant-Governor Dunsmuir in refusing to assent to the exclusion bill known as Natal Act, passed by the McBride Government, were discussed in the House yesterday.

Duncan Ross (Yale-Cariboo) on a motion to go into supply, reviewed circumstances connected with the friction between the Lieutenant-Governor and his advisers. He proceeded to say that the agreement between the C. P. R. and Mr. Gotch for the importation of Japanese laborers was drawn up by W. J. Bowser, a member of the McBride Government. Mr. Bowser being solicitor of Gotch's immigration company. Mr. Ross claimed that Bowser had used the agreement in one of the provincial elections to the detriment of the Liberal party.

Mr. Ross said there was a serious defect in the McBride Government exclusion bill, not discovered by the Opposition leader, and the bill would have failed of its purpose to keep out the Orientals. He proceeded to give to the House the substance of communications between Secretary of States Scott and Lieutenant-Governor Dunsmuir. The Secretary of State had telegraphed to the Lieutenant-Governor asking if he intended to refuse his assent and the reply was "yes."

These being included in the papers the Premier promised Mr. Smith of Nanaimo they would be brought down to-day. Houghton Lennox was moved to ask Ross where he got the papers.

"They were supplied to him in advance," suggested Mr. Lennox.

The Premier denied the allegation. The information of Mr. Ross was made public by the Provincial Government.

Mr. Ross assented. He went on to say that Lieutenant-Governor Dunsmuir was absolutely stupid in political matters, and if he had honest advisers instead of tricky politicians he would not have got into difficulty. He believed the settlement made by Mr. Lemieux was a good one, and that reintroduction of the Natal Act into the British Columbia Legislature was intended to keep alive the sad feeling existing in the Pacific province.

Dr. Sproule questioned the right of Mr. Ross, under the rules, to bring up the question at this time. This was not a question of urgent public importance and could not properly be discussed at this time. He could not understand that Mr. Ross' speech had any point whatever, as the argument he presented showed his grievance was directed against the Provincial Government.

Mr. MacPherson said the Government of British Columbia was preparing to arouse an agitation which was fraught with greatest danger to British Columbia. Only members from the province knew how great the danger was. Everybody in British Columbia, the Government included, knew that the Natal Act, which was designed to exclude Orientals, could not be enforced. It had been before disallowed by Federal authorities. But all parties, Liberal and Tory and Labor and Socialist, all alike, had made the question a political football. Premier McBride was, in doing so now, showing that his party were agitators not legislators, traitors not patriots.

After alluding to the allegation that Premier McBride had informed the Secretary of State in Ottawa that the Lieutenant-Governor would veto the Natal Act, Mr. MacPherson declared that if Premier McBride had insisted on dissolution in support of the act he would have swept the province. He said in conclusion that it was the duty of the Liberals in the Provincial Legislature to vote against the re-enactment of the Natal Act, now before that House.

This ended the discussion.

Senate Talks of Reform.

Ottawa, Jan. 24.—Senate reform was discussed in the Red Chamber yesterday, when a valuable contribution to the debate was made by Hon. G. W. Ross. Senator McMullen moved that in view of the agitation regarding the service rendered by the Senate as a part of the legislative system, and in view of criticism in Parliament and press respecting appointments, it is desirable that a question of methods of appointments and term for which appointments are made should be considered and the system recast. He said that he believed that the intention of the founders of Confederation was that the best men of the country, regardless of political affiliation, should be appointed to the Senate.

Unfortunately that intention had not been carried out, and appointments to the Senate had been made only from the followers of the party in power.

THE FORESTERS GAIN A POINT

Fraternal Clauses Are Withdrawn From Insurance Bill.

NEW BILL FOR SOCIETIES

Will Be Dealt With In Separate Measure—Most Business-Like, Says Mr. Foster to Finance Minister—Right of Members of Parliament to Inspect Original Papers—House Sits Until Morning.

Ottawa, Jan. 24.—It was stated by Mr. Fielding in the House of Commons yesterday that owing to representations made by the Independent Order of Foresters, the Government had decided to withdraw clauses in the insurance bill relating to assessment and fraternal societies, and to deal with this class of insurance in a second bill, if found necessary. Mr. Fielding said the Foresters would hold supreme court a year earlier than usual to take steps to put the organization on a more permanent basis, and he believed other fraternal societies would confer with the Government along similar lines.

In moving the second reading of the insurance bill, Mr. Fielding said it was his intention to adhere to the original suggestion to pass the second reading pro forma, and send it to the committee on bank and commerce, where the views of parties interested would be learned. With respect to the assessment or fraternal insurance feature, Mr. Fielding said representations had been made to the Government by a large and influential deputation of the largest of fraternal societies, the Independent Order of Foresters, and no doubt their views were also shared by other assessment and fraternal societies. Leaders of that society had frankly acknowledged the necessity for reorganization to strengthen its position and make it a permanent institution, and a meeting of the supreme order had been called to meet in June next, a year earlier than usual, to take into consideration measures of reorganization. The representations of the I. O. F. seemed to Mr. Fielding so fair and reasonable that he had pleasure in meeting its suggestions, and he proposed to strike out of the bill all clauses dealing with assessment and fraternal insurance, and deal with this class of insurance in a separate bill.

Hon. G. E. Foster Approves.

Mr. Foster said the action of the Finance Minister was the most business-like course to get at the best results. It was understood, of course, that the second reading was only pro forma.

"Surely," replied Mr. Fielding.

Dr. Sproule feared that the only means of getting a true expression of the opinion of the country was by means of press reports and the press might slight the matter in committee. It would be better to have the House debate the principles of the bill on the second reading.

Mr. Fielding said he had entered into a lengthy explanation of the bill when it was introduced in the House.

Mr. Borden said it was desirable that the bill should be sent to committee, but when it was returned to the House it should not be taken that the questions involved had been determined. It should be considered as having gone to the committee simply to afford the companies an opportunity to express their views.

Mr. Fielding entirely agreed.

The refusal of the Government to bring down the original documents asked for by Mr. Ames of Montreal several days ago, in face of the affirmation of the principle that members of Parliament have the right of access to such documents, a determined fight was put up last night by the Opposition to force the Premier and his supporters from their position.

All evening the Opposition talked, only Mr. Fielding combatting the right of Mr. Ames to the papers, and at midnight Mr. Northrup moved the following amendment:

"That subject to such considerations of public policy as can be validly urged in any case, members of Parliament have the right to have access to all the reports of the Government and all the achives."

Armand Lavergne (Independent Liberal, Montmagny), in a reasonable argument, supported the contention of the Opposition. He failed to understand why Mr. Ames should not be allowed access to the documents. Last year he moved for copies which he secured; these were not sufficient, and he had given reasons for asking for the originals, which the Premier himself had admitted were sufficient. Why then, were the originals not brought down.

At 12.25 E. M. Macdonald moved the adjournment of the debate, but Mr. Borden went on. It was a remarkable doctrine laid down by Mr. Fielding that the minority had no right in this House.

"Except what the majority may grant," remarked Mr. Fielding.

Watertank Emptied.

Galt, Jan. 24.—The big water tank at the C. P. R emptied itself completely last night. The tank contained 40,000 gallons.

A broken seat valve, controlling the flow, was responsible for the occurrence. The 7.18 train pulled up and took water. In withdrawing the feed, the valve broke and the contents of the tank poured out. There was no possibility of repairing the break until the contents were exhausted.

Part of the local team went over to Norwood on Friday night to play the schedule game in the Trent Valley League, and were defeated by 12 to 1. The game might better have been forfeited than have the team go on the ice incomplete. The absent members started out but turned back on account of the storm.—Hastings Star.

Norwood Trent Valley League team, a bunch of juniors, smothered Hastings in their first Trent Valley League game. Their combination was too much for Hastings, and hence secured a rather easy victory. None of the seniors took part in this game. Hence Norwood has two good teams this year, which is something new to most of the towns of its size. Hendren, Morrow, Kempt and Curry played a great combination game, while the work of the defence, Edwards, John Rogers and Joe Doherty, was done well, and time and again came in for the hearty applause of the crowd. Hastings was minus a couple of its regular players and hence was handicapped to a degree. Their places were filled by two other Hastings men. Rice was their best man. The score at half-time stood 4-1, and at full time 13-1. Russell Pearce gave perfect satisfaction as referee.—Norwood Register.

Edmonton have won another game in the Inter-provincial Hockey League, defeating Strathcona by 7 goals to 0, in a snappy game of hockey last Friday. Fred Whitcroft was back in the game again and was a host of strength to his team. Boulton of Winnipeg, has joined Edmonton, and is playing a great game at left wing. The Bulletin says: "The defence work of Edmonton was infinitely superior to Strathcona. Banford and Crowley repeatedly made effective rushes."

Cressman's counter hoppers put another notch in their sticks last night, when they defeated the Peterborough Canoe Company's team by 6 to 6. The teams lined up as follows:

Referee, Jones.

Cressman's unbeaten seven added fresh laurels to their fame by defeating a combination team from the Peterborough and English canoe factories. Cressman's had all the better of the play throughout defeating the canoe makers by 6 goals to 0. Tisdale and Darling were the stars for the winners, while Richardson played well for the canoe companies. The game was a good exhibition and there was great excitement. Cressman's are still open for challenges, and the other teams do not seem to be a bit backward in handing them out, so that some lively games may be expected.

THE BAND WILL BE THERE

Lindsay Preparing to Receive Peterboro' Bunch in Good Style

The Peterborough Strathconas and backers are coming up in force for to-morrew night's game with Lindsay. They have secured a special train which will leave the city at 6.45, returning after the game. The Strathconas, so a traveller reports, have greatly strengthened the weak spots in their line up and are confident of their ability to turn Lindsay down. The game will be a ding-dong fight from start to finish and victory will rest with the team having the greatest staying powers.

The Lindsay team will be selected from the following players by the management committee: Messrs Newton Koyl, Sullivan, Cotey, Randell, Stoddard, Lane, Taylor and Killen. The game will be called at 8.15 sharp. The Sylvester band will be in attendance and will render some of their choicest selections. — Lindsay Post.

COBOURG HERE NEXT MONDAY

Last O.H.A. Game is Scheduled For The Beginning of Next Week

One of the best hockey games of the season will be seen here on Monday next, when the fast Cobourg seven will be here to meet the Strathconas in an O. H. A. game. Cobourg defeated the local team last week by 5—1 on soft ice, but the locals are confident of trimming them, and will have their strongest line up on. There are to be no more defeats for the Strathconas this season, and they are bound to get revenge on Cobourg for the defeat of last week, in winning a decisive victory. Next week will see the finish of hockey in Peterborough, for the season, with the exception of the city league games the week following so that there should be big crowds at the O. H. A. games with Cobourg and Whitby next week. It will be the last opportunity to see fast hockey and the games should be well patronized.

THE FACTORY LEAGUE IS RESURRECTED

Last Year's Teams Are Playing Unscheduled Games

With the factory league running along smoothly, taking up the spare hours at the rink, there are bound to be more good games before the season is over. Ackerman's leather workers are out with a strong team and are likely to make as good a showing as they did last year. There is no recognized schedule of games, but there is keen rivalry just the same, and the teams have no difficulty in getting together.

The contests are inclined to be slashy, but that is due to the rivalry which exists. The Peterborough Canoe Company team will meet Ackerman's to-morrow, evening between 5 and 6. Other games are being arranged and will be pulled off in the near future.

HOW NORWOOD SCRIBE SAW THE HOCKEY GAME

He Says the Examiner is One-Sided in It's Account — Norwood Played Against O.H.A. Team, He Says

The Norwood "City Hockey League" team played their opening game on Wednesday evening at the Brock street Rink in Peterborough. The game was called at 8.30, and Norwood instead of playing against a City League team were faced against the best team in Peterborough, namely the Strathcona O.H.A. team. Many were the protests against this, but our boys made no complaints but got ready for the game of their lives. Such it proved to be. It was a ding dong contest for the first nine minutes, when Norwood secured the first goal. Seeing they were out-played at hockey, the Strathconas, used rough house tactics and secured four straight on Norwood. Referee Lynch then took a hand in the fray and the game again started on smoother principles.

The second half was one of the best exhibitions of hockey ever seen in Peterborough. Both goal-tenders were kept busy, and Hycke for Norwood, played as he never played before. Charlie Pearce stopped shot after shot, and certainly played his position well. Nicol at point played his usual steady game and broke up rush after rush of the opposing forwards. Scott, a new addition to the senior team, played a great game, his checking being a feature. R. Pearce played a steady game and with Kempt was responsible for nearly all the goals. Kempt and Doherty each went through the entire Strathcona team and scored. In the last half R. Pearce played a great game, dug-fielding and stick handling the opposing players.

The Examiner has the following to say of the Norwood boys, "Norwood team ostensibly team that required a lot of beating, but the fast pace set by the Straths was too much for them. They never let up but their rushes were smothered up by the fast checking back of the Strathcona line. In this the Examiner is astray, as there were none on the Peterborough team could skate as fast as some of our boys. However, as their reporter was one of the officers of the Straths he could only be expected to see one side of the game.

We are sure Norwood were pleased with the result of the game. To hold a team playing intermediate O. H. A. hockey down to the score of 9 to 5 on their opponents ice certainly shows up well for our boys. We have in Norwood team this year that have accomplished a feat no other team have ever done. We should help our team along financially and see them through. Let us patronize their games now when we know we are getting our money's worth. Keene play here Saturday night, 25th, and the boys should be greeted with a large crowd.—Norwood Register.

SILK HATS WON BY WADDELL'S RINK

Curlers Return From Orillia Bonspiel—Were Fairly Successful

NEIL-SHEPHERD TROPHY

The local curlers arrived home last night from the Orillia bonspiel, where they have been enjoying themselves for the past three days at their favourite game and in red-hot contests with northern curlers. In the primary games the locals were unsuccessful, although they put up stiff arguments in the four rinks. In the consolation, Mr. R. M. Waddell's rink ran up even with Mr. Toogood's rink of Orillia until the last shot, which failed by a narrow margin, leaving the Orillia quartette to the good. It was a very interesting game and in fact, throughout the bonspiel some excellent curling was manifested. In carrying off second honours in the consolation games, Mr. Waddell's rink won the silk hats that were offered.

After the bonspiel games it was arranged between Orillia and Peterborough that they play for the Neill-Shepherd trophy. The result was that Orillia won out by 21 shots. After the long consolation games, Mr. Waddell's rink was not in condition to play in their usual form. D. Davidson's rink alone won out by one point.

The following composed the rinks, showing how they stood in the Neill-Shepherd trophy games:

Rink I.—Down 16—
J Montgomery,
H Foote.
D Hall.
R M Waddell, sk.

Rink II.—Down 1—
Webb.
W G Read.
W E Talbot,
Lang, sk.

Rink III.—Down 5—
Lovekin.
J E A Fitzgerald,
C E Frost.
R Hicks, sk.

Rink IV.—Up 1—
R Hall.
Geo. Stevenson.
W J Thompson.
D Davidson, sk.

This leaves Peterborough down 21 points with the Orillia rinks. By the Neill-Shepherd trophy rules, Orillia has to play in Peterborough yet, but this is impossible this year. However, the games may be played on the Lindsay rink.

The curlers speak in the highest terms of the treatment they received at the hands of the Orillia players. There were teams assembled from many of the northern towns and everyone had a good time. The locals had a taste of the old game as they would have had at home this winter, and considering everything they made a good showing.

ORIENTAL IS TO HAVE BULLETINS

Will Have a Complete Service of Messages On the Game in Lindsay

The Oriental Hotel has made arrangements to have complete returns of the game at Lindsay to-night bulletined at the hotel. Each goal scored will be announced and a good service of messages has been arranged for. There is the greatest interest being taken in the game in Peterborough, and for those who do not take in the excursion the Oriental bulletins will be found the great advantage.

MANY GOING WITH THE STRATHCONAS

Peterborough's Line-up Should Assure a Big Crowd

A big crowd is going to Lindsay, to-night, with the hockey team, on the special G. T. R. train which will leave at 6.45 o'clock, and the match is causing the greatest excitement of the season. The feeling here is that Peterborough will win, great confidence being felt in the line up which has been selected. The players are all in good shape and the fast ice will be just to their liking. The game under such conditions should be about the most exciting since the memorable Peterborough - Belleville game of a few years ago. Lindsay people, it is said, are willing to bet that their pets will win by at least five goals, but in view of the line up that will represent Peterborough to-night there seems reason to believe that they will have a much harder game than they seem to expect. The goal keeper has not yet been decided upon but the rest of the team however will line up as follows:

Point, Glover,
Cover, Parnell.
Rover, Ray.
Centre, Morgan.

The return fare for the trip will be $1.05, and tickets are good only for the special train which will leave Lindsay at 11 o'clock.

Plot Uncovered In Portugal.

Lisbon, Jan. 24.—By courier to Badajos, Spain.—An abortive attempt to overthrow the monarchy and proclaim Portugal a republic was nipped in the bud Wednesday night by the prompt action of the Government.

The plot was organized by a small group of advanced Republicans. As near as can be ascertained the plan was to assassinate Premier Franco and then depend for success on street risings, supported by secret, Republican and labor organizations, armed with bombs and revolvers.

The conspirators intended to take advantage of various festivities to carry out the coup d'etat.

Cut Chancellor's Salary.

Berlin, Jan. 24.—The Socialists, in retaliation for the stand taken by Prince Von Buelow on the matter of manhood suffrage for Prussia, have decided to aim a blow direct at the Imperial chancellor. When the appropriations for the chancellor's salary comes up for debate in the Reichstag they will introduce a motion that his remuneration be reduced unless he promises a bill providing universal suffrage without distinction of sex for everybody over 20 years of age in every federal state of the empire.

Indians Exempt From Game Laws.

Ottawa, Jan. 24.—A new phase regarding the Quebec game laws arose yesterday morning in Hull in connection with the prosecution of the Revellon Co. of Montreal for having 400 beaver skins illegally in its possession.

The defence fight the case on the ground that the Indians from whom the skins were purchased had the right by an old treaty with the Dominion to kill and dispose of beaver, and that the Quebec law is ultra vires as applied to Indians.

OBITUARY.

MRS. HENRY MERRIAM

The death occurred on Wednesday, 6th inst., at Harwood, of Margaret Smith beloved wife of Mr. Henry Merriam, after an illness of about a year, heart trouble being the cause of death. Deceased was born in South Monaghan on Oct. 9, 1842, and has lived all her life in this vicinity. Her husband and four sons are left to mourn the loss of an affectionate wife and mother.

MRS. SOPHRANIA JOHNSON

At the residence of her son, James B. Johnson, on June 10, 1907, Mrs. Sophronia Johnson passed from mortality into life. Mrs. Johnson was the wife of the late James Johnson. She was born December 8th, 1819, near Peterborough. She was married January 3, 1843. Two sons survive her — William C. and James B. —both residing in Toronto. The deceased has lived in Toronto since 1874, and was a prominent member of the Dunn avenue Methodist church, being the first president of the Ladies' Aid of the Parkdale church. Mrs. Johnson's great age sweetened and ripened her, and increased her love for her church and people. She was an old dtime Methodist and she loved her class meeting, and always attended when in health. During her last illness she said to her pastor, "I feel as if Christ were right in this room, and as if He spoke to me, body and soul." And so this beautiful spirit passed from our midst. As Dunn avenue church stands her memory will be cherished by friends and loved ones. — William H. Hincks, in Christian Guardian

MRS. JOHN O'BRIEN

The hand of death visited the home of Mr. John O'Brien of Douro at an early hour this morning when, at 4 o'clock, his wife passed away after an illness of long duration. The deceased was about 50 years of age and was always well and most favourably known in the community in which she lived. Her maiden name was Ann Quinn. Besides her husband she is survived by four sons. They are Samuel of Otonabee, and Frederick, William and Frank, at home.

The funeral will take place to the Douro cemetery on Sunday morning at 10 o'clock from the family residence.

Band at Street Railway Rink to-night. Fancy Dress Carnival next Tuesday night.

A New Idea at Meeting of Chosen Friends This Evening

The C. O. C. F. will hold their regular meeting in the Sons of England Hall, Hunter street, this evening at eight o'clock. All the members are urged to be present. A short literary talk will be given on the clause regarding the regulations of insurance in fraternal societies, which is now under consideration at Ottawa.

The J. T. Stenson Store, 364 George Street will be the centre of attraction for 10 days. $3,500 worth of High Grade Shoes to be sold at Manufacturer's Prices. Sale opens Wednesday, Jan. 29th. at 9 a. m.

EXHIBITION OF THE ART ASSOCIATION

President of Dominion Association Coming—Exhibits of Famous Artists

Much interest is being centred in the coming exhibition to be held under the auspices of the Woman's Art Association in the building formerly occupied by the Bank of Montreal, beginning on Feb. 3rd. Invitations have been issued to the members of the Association and their friends to attend the opening of the foreign exhibition of water colours and etchings.

Some of the artists whose work will appear are Willy Sluiter, Arntzenius, and Bosboom in water colours and Joseph Israels on etchings. There will be 150 of the former pictures on exhibition.

Mrs. Digman, of Toronto, President of the Dominion Association will be in Peterborough for the opening and will give talks on Dutch pictures and on Home Industries. Tea will be served every afternoon at 4 o'clock until Friday when the exhibition closed.

The Art Association desire to announce that the International Studio Magazine has been placed in the Y. W. C. G. reading room which is accessible to all women.

YANKEE CONSULS TO LOSE THEIR JOBS

Number of The Offices in Canada Being Abolished—Others to be Created

The abolition of a number of the American consulates is proposed in a bill which has just been introduced in the United States Senate by Senator Cullom of Illinois.

The Canadian offices to be wiped out are Three Rivers, Que., where the salary is $3,500; Port Hope, $2,500; Belleville, Corticook, Port Stanley, Port Rowan, St. Hyacinthe, Windsor, U.S., and Woodstock, at $2,000 each.

A new office is to be opened in Owen Sound, and the salary there will be $2,500.

Consuls-General at Vancouver and Winnipeg, which have become more important points, are placed now on a salary of $4,500.

Calgary and Kingston are re-rated at $3,000.

"I really don't know why this is being done," said R. S. Chilton, the American consul at Toronto, to a reporter this morning, "unless it be for the simple reason that the business at the offices to be abolished is not sufficient to warrant their continuance.

"I have not heard of this proposal yet, and therefore I am at a loss to know the reason prompting it."

"When I came to Toronto three years ago I remember that then the United States Senate abolished a number of the smaller consulates in Canada on the ground that the business was not large enough to warrant the cost of maintaining them."

The returns of the Peterboro' Strathcona - Lindsay game in Lindsay to-night, will be received and given out at the Oriental Hotel.

FIVE COACHES FOR THE HOCKEYISTS

Will be Waiting at G.T.R. Station For To-night's Crowd

The G.T.R. special for Lindsay to-night will consist of five coaches, one of them being a baggage car. They were left at the station here last night in readiness for the Peterborough contingent. With fine ice there should be a large crowd go up with the boys and the special should be crowded.

57th Battalion Band at Brock Street Rink to-night. Returns of game.

ALONE

(By Robert Burdette)

Since she went home,—
Longer the evening shadows linger here
The winter days till so much of the year,
And even summer winds are chill and drear,
Since she went home.

Since she went home,—
The robin's note has touched a minor strain,
The old glad songs breathe out a sad refrain,
And laughter sobs with bitter hidden pain,
Since she went home.

Since she went home,—
How still the empty room her presence blessed;
Untouched the pillow that her dear head pressed;
My lonely heart hath nowhere for its rest,
Since she went home.

Since she went home,—
The long, long days have crept away like years;
The sunlight has been dimmed with doubts and fears,
Amid the dark nights rained in lonely tears,
Since she went home.

NOT ALONE

(By S. E. S.)

Mr. Burdette and our readers will forgive us when we say that sweet and sympathetic as these lines are, they seem to lack a suggestion of the comfort that God gives when he takes away our treasures ,and we have felt inspired to supply the lack—

"Since she went home"
Earth-shadows catch the sunlight of the spheres,
And oh, how small this little life appears!
I measure time by God's eternal years
"Since she went home"

I list no more earth's voices manifold,
I hear the song that never shall grow old,
The harpers harping with their harps of gold,
"Since she went home"

Not empty is her vacant room or bed,
I see an angel sitting at the head
And at the feet a form with wings out-spread,
"Since she went home"

O heart of mine ,be still and know no fear,
Earth fades away, and God's own heaven draws near,
The angels smile ,and Christ Himself is here,
"Since she went home"

St. John.

Miss Smith's lines, published in Palm Branch, are supplementary to those of Mr. Burdette. We insert both poems as the tenderness and exquisite beauty of "Not Alone" are even more apparent when the two parts are read together.—Com.

POPULAR SONGS ARE UPLIFTING

Movement in Musical Circles Begun By Ernest Ball and Dave Reed

THE SONG THAT DID IT

It is interesting to note the difference between the majority of the popular songs of to-day and those of the past five seasons. The improvement in their quality is as pleasing as it is startling.

The old hodge-podge, trashy stuff, called ballads for want of a better name, have been replaced by songs which border closely on the classical.

What is responsible for this change? Is it due to the improvement of the taste of the general public? If so, who educated it up to its present high standard? These questions can be answered by a single sentence—one song did the trick.

When Dave Reed and Ernest R. Ball wrote "Love Me and the World is Mine" the music publishers scoffed at them. "It is too high-class," they all declared "It is over the heads of the public of to-day."

Despite this criticism, the two young men, who were striving for better and higher ideals, were not discouraged. They finally offered the song to M. witmark & Sons, who saw its possibilities and accepted the song.

When the song was published, Ball sang it at an entertainment of the St. Bartholomew's Glee Club at City Island one night. The ovation it received astonished him in spite of his confidence in it. Next day he reported it to the Witmarks.

They began to publish it at once, and before they could realize it the song was the big hit of the country. Not the kind of a hit scored by the average song which runs over the country like wild fire and is dead within three months. "Love Me and the World is Mine," had a good steady growth, increasing in strength gradually and making for itself a permanent place in the world of music.

It is sufficient that all other song composers are striving to follow the trail blazed by these versatile young writers. If the tendency towards better songs continues, a tablet in the "Hall of Fame" should be erected. Great, indeed, is the work of any man who lifted the "popular song" from the sphere of mediocrity to its present high standard.—Campbell B. Casad, in Musical Bulletin.

RULES AND REGULATIONS REGARDING THE CARNIVAL

The Street Railway Company would like to draw the attention of those who intend skating in costumes at the fancy dress carnival next Tuesday night to the following points:

1—All skaters will have to procure a ticket from the conductor of the car on which they go out. This ticket must be shown whenever asked for by an official of the company.

2—All skaters in costume must procure a special ticket—cost, 10c—before going on the ice, and this ticket must be shown before anyone will be allowed to skate in the Grand March. These tickets will be for sale at the office of the company on Monday and Tuesday, and at the door of each dressing room Tuesday evening.

3—Ladies will use the regular ladies' waiting-room as a dressing-room and the gentleman the old bowling alley.

4—The Grand March will commence at 8.30 sharp, and all skaters are requested to be on the ice a few minutes before.

5—The judging for prizes will be done between 8.30 and 9 o'clock, and all skaters are requested to stay off the ice as much as possible during this half hour, so that everyone will have a good opportunity of having their costume judged.

6—His Worship Mayor Rush will present the prizes at 9 o'clock.

7—The prizes are now on exhibition in the window of Schneider's jewellery store.

MAY USE THE LARGE COURT ROOM

Owing to the first session of the county council being held next week in their chambers at the court house, Magistrate Edmison will not likely be able to hold the police court there on Thursday. Burke was remanded until that date and will come up for hearing. It is expected that a large crowd will be present as there is much interest centred in the case. It is therefore expected that the large court room may be used.

BIG STORM KEPT THE PEOPLE OUT

Roads Were Blocked at Lasswade—The Minister Back Again

Examiner Special.

Lasswade, Jan. 23. — This is a very hard winter on the lumbermen, as it is almost impossible to get into the swamps.

Mr J E King has begun taking out timber which he purchased a short time ago from Mr. Geo Daniels.

McColl Bros. have commenced sawing again with a good supply of logs in the mill yard.

Mrs. Cyrus McFadden is visiting at the residence of her son, J. G. McFadden.

Miss Zella Hales has resumed her duties at No. 4 School.

Miss Kate Bullied has returned home after spending a couple of weeks visiting friends at Apsley.

The storm on Sunday, the 12th, almost blocked the roads, and no doubt the people who were out for the day knew all about it, it being late on Monday when they returned.

Mrs. Edgar and her son, R. Edgar, of Ewarts, Alta., are visiting friends in this vicinity.

Rev. H. C. Garbutt has just returned after visiting at his home in Madoc.

We are glad to see Mr. and Mrs. William Snelgrove living in our midst again, also to hear of the recovery of Mr. Edward Yeomans, who of late has been very ill.

GOES INTO BUSINESS FOR HIMSELF

Mr. W. J. Thurston who for some time was with Mr. Robt. Neill here has taken over the business of J. W. McLaren & Company, of Guelph, and branching out for himself. The Guelph Herald says of the change,—

A business change is announced today that will remove one of the best known and highly respected of Guelph merchants from active life, in the person of Mr. Wm. McLaren, who has for so long been identified with the boot and shoe business on the corner of Wyndham street and St. George square. His successor will be Mr. Thurston, a gentleman (whom it is doing merely recognized will conduct the store on the same sound principles for honesty and fair dealing which has ever characterized it under Mr. McLaren's management.

The decision of Mr. McLaren to retire from the cares of active business life means the retirement of one of the city's oldest merchants. Manifold have been the changes amongst the business men of Guelph since he commenced some twenty years ago, and it is a tribute to Mr. McLaren that after such a lengthy period he hands over one of the best equipped stores in the city and retains a name unexcelled for probity and honesty. Mr. McLaren is considered to be an excellent authority on footwear and well deserves the reputation he has earned for honest dealing among his customers, not only in Guelph, but in the surrounding country. He extends to all his friends and customers his hearty thanks for their very generous and long continued support. The store Mr. McLaren occupied has been revolutionized since he took hold of it, until it is acknowledged to be one of the best equipped shoe stores in Western Ontario. Mr. Thurston is not a stranger in Guelph, having been in the employ of Mr. McLaren for upwards of two years, and being an ambitious young man, will no doubt continue to hold the trade in the old stand.

It will be gratifying news to the friends of Mr. and Mr. McLaren that it is their intention to reside in Guelph and all will hope that the remaining years may be long and happy ones.

The New York Stock Market

(Furnished by J. R. Heintz & Co.)

New York, Jan. 24.—The opening was fairly active, but the majority of the issues were weak. There was considerable irregularity, and business was generally in the hands of the professionals who were bearish, and brought about a sharp re-action, there was further liquidation in Rock Island issues as well as Atchison, Penna., the Harriman stocks and elsewhere. The equipment stocks suffered the effect of some pressure due to the announcement of the early closing down of the Amn. Loco. plant in Rhode Island.

Americans were heavy in the London market where the Steel stocks were sold on account of unfavourable anticipations in regard to the quarterly report, and foreign houses did considerable selling in the Steel Common here.

The steel stocks were under sharp pressure at times, and did not show the resistance which has been their characteristic recently.

Money rates were quite low, and the supply of time money is reported as increasing with a very light demand. Collateral, however, is being scrutinized very closely. Such good support as the market is receiving now comes almost entirely from the banking interests.

The market is likely to be irregular, but advantage should be taken of the drives to accumulate good stocks, as we expect much higher prices within a reasonable time.

THE MAN THEY COULD NOT HANG TELLS THE STORY OF THE FAILURE OF WORKING OF THE GALLOWS

His Lips Have Been Sealed For 23 Years by Prison Routine ---Recalls The Three Terrible Ordeals With a Vivid Realism---Saved From The Very Jaws Of Death

HE HAS AN EXPERIENCE THAT WAS NEVER DUPLICATED

John Lee, the man they could not hang, whose story of the murder of Miss Keyse, was given in last Saturday's issue, has now given to the world the startling events surrounding his trial, and the failure of the gallows on the three occasions when the fatal cap covered his head. The story is as follows:

WHEN the curtain fell last week at the end of the first part of my history, I told how I had just been arrested for the murder of my dear mistress, Miss Keyse.

I now draw aside the curtain again in order that you may follow the second part of my drama. It appears to me as I think of my own strange story that I have been all my life in the grip of Fate. For good or for ill; for some purpose unknown to me I have been given a tragic part to play in the drama of life. Perhaps some day when the piece is over, and the curtain down for ever, I shall see the meaning and the purpose of it all.

The two scenes which I shall describe to you this week are my trial, and attempted execution. But first there are certain things that I must say in order to put myself right with my fellow men—in order to ensure that sense of justice which is the common heritage of us all. Two charges are being made against me. First that I intend to question the verdict of the jury; second, that I make a direct claim to Divine intervention on my behalf when I stood on the scaffold in 1885.

There seems to be certain people in this world who derive pleasure from oppressing the outcast. There is no suffering possible to the human heart but they multiply it by all sorts of unworthy means. There will perhaps come to these people a moment when they, too, will stand on the brink of destruction. In that time they will remember how they pursued an unhappy man who suffered during twenty-three years agony unthinkable. May they obtain more mercy than they have shown me. May they at least be finally forgiven.

I do not question the verdict of the jury. On the evidence that was placed before them they could have come to no other conclusion than that I was guilty. Whatever I may think about some of the witnesses I do not complain about my trial. His Majesty's judges are beyond suspicion. No jury would wickedly send a man to his death. What I do complain about is that even before I was tried, and even whilst I was being tried, the malice that was shown by certain writers and other individuals was disgraceful. To all these people I again say: May more mercy be shown to you than you showed to me.

As for my wonderful escape from death, for they tried three times to execute me and failed, I have only one thing to say. If it be true that the Divine will is manifest in everything that happens; if it be true that not even a leaf can fall, or a sparrow perish without God's knowledge, then I say that Heaven, and Heaven alone, spared me on that terrible morning. God does not always send an angel with a flaming sword. The planks of the scaffold may have swollen with rain. The carpenter may have bungled his task. My deliverance could have been effected that way just as well as any other through that carpenter, through that executioner.

I do not propose to say very much about my trial or about the events which immediately preceded it. They interested me but little. I knew that I was innocent. Besides I was just a rough country lad of twenty. What did I know about trials? What do I know about them now?

A trial is so bewildering that it seems to be nothing but one long jumble of words, till, suddenly, the jury says, "Guilty!" and the judge passes sentence. I often think that the Law ought to recognize this. But unfortunately the Law only knows crime and its punishment. It takes no count of the man.

Let me put you in the dock for a moment, just as I was put in the dock. You are wearied and worn after many weeks of confinement, of hurryings to and fro between the police stations, gaols, court rooms, and coroner's inquest. You look tired, pale and thin. "Ah!" says the Law, "your guilty conscience is troubling you, and wearing you out." You [illegible] with nervous excitement. You are full of suspense. Your hand shakes. Your voice quivers as you speak. "Aha," says the public, watching your every movement. "Wretch, you are afraid! Your crime is overwhelming you!" But if by some wonderful chance you are able to preserve your fortitude; if the knowledge that you are innocent comes to your rescue and braces you up, if you betray no emotion, if you smile—what then? "Wretch!" is the cry. "Only the author of so diabolical a murder as this could show such wonderful calm and indifference!"

This is what happened in my case. Since my release I have turned up many of the accounts of my trial, and they all note my unruffled bearing. In some cases the accounts of my conduct are exaggerated.

Whatever I did, can anybody tell me why I should have behaved like a coward?

Immediately after I had been arrested I was marched all the way to Torquay police station in front of a policeman. No crowd accompanied me. I was not handcuffed. I simply trudged along as if I were bent upon some errand. Behind me was the sergeant. I made no attempt to escape. I wanted to see the whole business through from the beginning to the end. I had nothing to be afraid of. In a sense I was quite happy.

When we got to Torquay I was formally charged and put into a cell. As I heard the door clang upon me my heart sank. For a second time I was within prison walls. I sat down, my head in my hands, and strove to realize what had happened. Theft I had already suffered for. I was now charged with murder.

I have no more than a dim recollection of my appearance before the magistrates and the coroner. I remember being taken to the coroner's inquiry on the Monday following the discovery of the murder. The inquest was held at the town hall, St. Mary's Church. It lasted for two or three days, but I don't think I went every day. When I did go I was taken in a cab and always early in the morning so as to avoid the crowd that was waiting to see me.

One little thing did happen during the coroner's inquiry, which serves to show. I was judged and condemned even before the evidence had been heard. A postman named Richards was called to give evidence about a certain threat I was supposed to have uttered. When he had given the evidence a juryman said it was a pity the postman had not at the time told others about the threat, so life might have been saved! I cannot think of anything more calculated to prejudice my case. I am glad, however, to say the coroner did me the justice of pulling that juryman up and reminding him that it was too soon to come to such a conclusion.

I remember another occasion at the police court on which my solicitor, Mr. Templer, wished to correct a statement which was being made by Mr. Isidore Carter, the solicitor for the prosecution. To my utter astonishment, Mr. Templer was not allowed to make that correction. Again and again we protested against such gross treatment, but the chairman of the magistrates would not so much as listen to him. It must be plain to anybody that on such an occasion it is absolutely necessary to stop the creation of a false impression. But the magistrate refused me even that piece of common justice.

Then I was annoyed a great deal by artists sketching me. I particularly remember one man sitting at a table just below me. He kept looking up at me and making notes with a pencil. He worried me so much that at last I sent a note down to Mr. Templer and he made a protest to the magistrates. What do you think they did? They called for the artist's sketchbook and looked at his sketches. Instead of protecting me they praised him. I suppose I didn't matter. I was only the prisoner. I didn't count.

Scant as was the consideration I received from many people who ought to have known better, I received many little favours during those dark, dreary days. I am speaking now for the first time in 23 years, and I want to take this opportunity of publicly thanking the police, and especially the two Babbacombe officers, for their kindness to me. Wherever they are I would like them to know how I appreciated many a little thing they did when men who ought to have been an example to others were making my agony harder to bear. The police had an unpleasant duty to perform. Acting under directions, they had to build up the case against me. At the same time they did not forget that I was flesh and blood like themselves. They always made me comfortable. They shielded me from the crowds that waited for me whenever I appeared in public. I thank them most heartily.

About the beginning of December, 1884, all these preliminary proceedings ended. On the 13th I was taken to Exeter to await my trial. I believe thousands of people were waiting for me at the railway stations. They did not see me. Instead of taking me by train, the police drove me to Exeter in a carriage, and I was in my cell several hours before anyone knew I had arrived. There I remained till the morning for my trial, February 2, 1885.

For the world at large such a morning is full of bustle and excitement; for the prisoner it is one of almost distressing quiet. The weather was miserable. It rained without ceasing. Yet I heard that the doors of the court were besieged by crowds anxious to be present at the trial, whilst many persons stood for hours in the rain in case there was anything to be seen.

I heard that only those provided with signed passes were allowed to enter the court, where were policemen on duty at all the doors, and I remember someone telling me that much of their time was occupied in refusing to accept the bribes offered them by people who wanted to come in to see me. Hundreds of people would have paid ten shillings just to be allowed to stand in the court. My mother has since told me that they actually barred her way when she applied for admission. Poor mother! She had not provided herself with a ticket, and when she got to the door of the court the police told her she couldn't enter without a pass. "But I'm John Lee's mother," she replied angrily, "and pass or no pass, I'm going to be near my boy when they try him." At last they let her in, and for three days she sat in that court, from the beginning to the end of the proceedings.

On the Saturday afternoon before the trial I had a visit from Mr. Templer's brother. He told me that Mr. Templer was too ill to look after my trial, but that he, the brother, would be present in court.

"Shall I have anything to say, sir?" I asked him.

"No," he replied. "Don't you say a word. I'll get you off, all right."

When the hour appointed for the trial drew near I was removed to the court, which was a short distance from the prison. The governor came into my cell and told me to follow him. We went into the prison yard where a carriage was waiting. Into this we got, and were driven out of the prison to the court. We drove a long way round, with the result that the crowd that had gathered to see me was completely tricked. Prisoners were usually taken from the jail to the court in the Black Maria. The carriage was used as the governor was very anxious there should be no scene in the streets.

When we reached the court I was put into a cupboardlike cell below the court room. Above me I could hear the hum of people as they were taken to their seats. Suddenly all was silent. A key turned in a lock. Someone came into the little cell in which I was sitting.

"Come along, Lee," he said.

I was led up some steps, and before I knew it I was in the dock.

Before I could recover my self-possession someone was asking me if I was guilty. That brought me to my senses. My courage came back.

"Not guilty, sir!" I said boldly.

Everybody seemed to be waiting to hear what I would say. Before I spoke all was quiet as the grave. The moment I said "Not guilty" a great buzz of conversation broke out till someone roared "Silence!" Then all was still again.

The judge was Justice [illegible]. I had never seen a judge before. He did not seem to be so terrible as I imagined he would be. His robes made him look imposing. But he seemed to be a kind old man. I was defended by Mr. St. Aubyn, M.P., and I think Mr. Collins, Q.C., prosecuted. I did not know anyone else in court except the witnesses, and they were ordered to wait outside. There were several people on the bench. I particularly noticed the sheriff in his uniform.

There is no need for me to go over all the story of the trial. It commenced me. I got tired of listening to the long speeches. I wearied of what seemed to be the endless repetition of the story of the murder. I just wanted to know the end of it all. Pieces of jury were objected to by Mr. St. Aubyn and had to leave the box. He told me he had heard that they had been talking about the case.

As I have said before, I did not complain of my trial. The case seemed to be so black against me that I cannot blame the jury for finding me guilty.

THE DANGER OF LAZINESS

Many men have been accused of laziness who did not deserve the appelation, and a physician of national repute has recently declared that most so-called lazy men are not so in reality, but they are sick. Most of us have at times had to make a very decided effort to overcome a disposition to shirk our work, and have blamed it on the weather, not realizing that there is any real danger in the indisposition for mental or physicial exertion. There is, however, a very real danger, for this symptom is Nature's warning that the system is exhausted, and it is in just this condition that people are an easy prey to the serious diseases, such as typhoid fever, grippe, diphtheria or consumption. The surest way to ward off such consequences is to stimulate the bowls and digestive organs, thus cleansing and rehabilitating the entire system. The most practical manner of accomplishing this is by taking King Palmetto Compound, which is not a secret medicine, but is the most perfect prescription known to medical men. The formula of King Palmetto Compound is printed plainly on the wrapper, and if you are not acquainted with the efficacy of its ingredients, ask any one who is, and you will be assured of its great therapeutic value. Free sample sent. Write to King Palmetto Co, Bridgeburg, Ont. King Palmetto Compound is sold at $1.00 per bottle and is guaranteed by McDermid & Jury, druggists.

PLAIN TALK FROM THE DOCTOR

A prominent physician, famous for his success in the treatment of kidney and bladder troubles, stated that to the following prescription is due a great deal of his success:

One ounce fluid extract dandelion;
One ounce compound salatone;
Four ounces compound syrup sarsaparilla.

Mix and take a teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime, drinking plenty of water.

This mixture will, he says, positively cure any diseases arising from weak, clogged or inactive kidneys, and will assist these organs to cleanse the blood of the poisonous waste matter and acids, which if allowed to remain, cause lumbago, lame back, rheumatism and sciatica, and at the same time will restore the kidneys to healthy normal action. The ingredients, which are purely vegetable and entirely harmless, can be procured from any good druggist and mixed at home at very little cost.

This advice will undoubtedly be much appreciated by many readers.

A STORY OF LOVE AND ADVENTURE

BY BERTHA RUNKLE.

Copyright by The Century Co.

She hesitated a moment, embarrassed by her very wealth of matter, confused between her longing to set the whole case before the king and her fear of wearying his patience. But his glance told her she need have no misgiving. Had she come to present him Paris he could not have been more interested.

In the little silence monsieur found his moment and his words.

"Sire, may I interrupt mademoiselle? Last night, for the first time in a month, I say my son. He was just returned from an adventure under her window. Mayenne's guard had set on him, and he was escaped by the skin of his teeth. He declared to me that never till he was slain should he cease endeavor to win Mlle. de Montluc. And I? Marry, I ate my words in humblest fashion. After three years I made my surrender. Since you are his one desire, mademoiselle, then are you my one desire. I bade him God-speed."

She gave her hand to monsieur, sudden tears welling over her lashes. "Monsieur, I thought to-night I had no friends. And I have so many!"

"Mademoiselle," the king cried in the same breath, "fear not. I will get you your lover if I sell France for him."

She brushed the tears away and smiled on him.

"I have no fear, sire. With you and M. de St. Quentin to save him I can have no fear. But he is in desperate case. Has M. de St. Quentin told you of his secretary Lucas, my cousin Paul de Lorraine?"

"Aye," said the king, "it is a dolorous topic—very painful! Eh, Rosny?"

"I do not shrink from my pains, sire," M. de Rosny answered quietly. "I hold myself much to blame in this matter. I thought I knew the Lucases root and branch—I did not discover that a daughter of the house had ever been a friend to Henri de Guise."

"And how should you discover it?" the king demanded. He had made the attack; now, since Rosny would not resent it he rushed himself to the defence. "How were you to dream of it? Henry de Guise's side was the last place to look for a girl of the Religion. But I forgive him. If he stole a Rochelaise we have avenged it deep; we have stolen the flower of Lorraine."

"Paul Lucas—Paul de Lorraine," she went on eagerly, "was put into M. le Duc's house to kill him. He went all the more willingly that he believed M. de Mar to be my favored suitor. He tried to draw M. de Mar into the scheme, to ruin him. He failed. And the whole plot came to naught."

"I have learned that," the king said. "I have been told how a country boy stripped his mask off."

He glanced around suddenly at me where I stood red and abashed. He was so quick that he grasped everything at half a word. Instantly he had turned to the lady again. "Pray continue, dear mademoiselle."

"Afterward—that is, yesterday—Paul went to M. de Belin and swore against M. de Mar that he had murdered a lackey in his house in the Rue Coupejarrets. The lackey was murdered there, but Paul de Lorraine did it. The man knew the plot, Paul killed him to stop his tongue. I heard him confess it to M. de Mayenne. I and this Felix Broux were in the oratory and heard it."

"Then M. de Mar was arrested?"

"Not then. The officers missed him. To-day he came to our house, dressed as an Italian jeweller, with a case of trinkets to sell. Madame admitted him; no one knew him but me and my chamber-mate. On the way out Mayenne met him and kept him while he chose a jewel. Paul de Lorraine was there, too. I was like to die of fear. I went in to M. de Mayenne; I begged him to come out with me to supper, to dismiss the tradespeople that I might talk with him there—anything. But it availed not. M. de Mayenne spoke freely before them, as one does before common folk. Presently he led me to supper. Paul was left alone with M. de Mar and the boy. He recognized them. He was armed, and they were not, but they overbore him and locked him up in the closet."

"Mordieu, mademoiselle! I was to rescue M. de Mar for your sake, but now I will do it for his own. I find him much to my liking. He came away clear, mademoiselle?"

"Aye, to be seized in the street by the governor's men. When M. de Mayenne found how he had been tricked, sire, he blazed with rage."

"I'll warrant he did!" the king answered, suppressing, however, in deference to her distress, his desire to laugh. "Ventre-saint-gris, mademoiselle! Forgive me if this amuses me here at St. Denis. I trow it was not amusing in the Hotel de Lorraine."

"He sent for me, sire," she went on, blanching at the memory. He accused me of shielding M. de Mar. It was true. He called me liar, traitor, wanton. He said I was false to my house, to my bread, to my honor. He said I had smiling lips and a Judas-heart—that I had kissed him and betrayed him. I had given him my promise never to hold intercourse with M. de Mar again, I had given my word to be true to my house. M. de Mar came by no will of mine. I had no inkling of such purpose till I beheld him before madame and her ladies. He came to entreat me to fly—to wed him. I denied him, sire. I sent him away. Yet even to all to the guard. "This way, gentlemen. This is my lover?"

"Mademoiselle," the king exclaimed, "good hap that you have turned your back on the house of Lorraine. Here, if we are but rough soldiers, we know how to tender you."

"It was not for myself I came," she said more quietly. "My lord had the right to chasten me. I am his ward, and I did deceive him. But while he foamed at me came word of M. de Mar's capture. Then Mayenne swore that he should pay for this dear. He said he should be found guilty of the murder. He said plenty of witnesses would swear to it. He said M. de Mar should be tortured to make him confess."

With an oath monsieur sprang forward.

"Aye," she cried, starting up, "he swore M. de Mar should suffer the preparatory and the previous, the estrapade and the brodekins!"

"He dare not!" the king shouted. "Mordieu, he dare not!"

"Sire," she cried, "you can promise him that for every blow he strikes Etienne de Mar you will strike me two. Mar is in his hands, but I am in yours. For M. de Mar, unhurt, you will deliver him me unhurt. If he torture Mar you will torture me."

"Mademoiselle," the king cried, "rather shall he torture every chevalier in France than I touch a hair of your head!"

"Sire"——the word died away in a sigh; like a snapped rose she fell at his feet.

The king was quick, but monsieur quicker. On his knees beside her, raising her head on his arm, he commanded me:

"Upstairs, Felix! The door at the back—bid Dame Verney come instantly."

I flew, and was back to find him risen, holding mademoiselle in his arms. Her hair lay loose over his shoulder like a rippling flag, her lashes clung to her cheeks as they would never lift more.

"St. Quentin," His Majesty was saying, "I would have married her to a prince. But since she wants your son she shall have him, ventre-saint-gris, if I storm Paris to-morrow!" And as monsieur was carrying her from the room the king bent over and kissed her.

"Mademoiselle has dropped a packet from her dress," M. de Rosny said. "Will you take it, St. Quentin?"

The king, who was nearest, turned to pass it to him; at the sight of it he uttered his dear "ventre-saint-gris! It was a flat, oblong packet, tied about with common twine, the seal cut out. The king twitched the string off, and with one rapid glance at the papers put them into monsieur's hand.

"Take them, St. Quentin; they are yours."

CHAPTER XXIX.

Mademoiselle being given into Dame Verney's motherly hands, Gilles and I were ordered to repose ourselves on the skins in the saddler's shop. Lying there in the malodorous gloom I could see the crack of light under the door at the back and hear, between Gilles's snores, the murmur of voices. The king and his gentlemen were planning to save my master; I went to sleep in perfect peace.

At daybreak, even before the saddler opened the shop, monsieur routed us out.

"I'm off for Paris, lads. Felix comes with me. Gilles stays to guard mademoiselle."

I felt not a little injured, deeming that I, whom mademoiselle knew best, should be the one chosen to stay by her. But the sting passed quickly. After all Paris was likely to be more exciting than St. Denis.

The day being Friday, we delayed not to eat, but straightway mounted the two nags that a sunburnt Bearn pikeman had brought to the door. As we walked them gently across the square, which at this rath hour we alone shared with the twittering birds, we saw coming down one of the empty streets the hurrying figure of M. de Rosny. My lord drew rein at once.

"You are no slugabed, St. Quentin," the young councillor called. "I deserved to miss you. Fear not! I come not to hinder you, but to wish you God-speed."

"Now, this is kind, Rosny," monsieur answered, grasping his hand. "The more that you don't approve me."

Rosny smiled, like a sudden burst of sunshine in a December day. Another man's embrace would have meant less.

"I approve you so much, St. Quentin, that I cannot composedly see you putting your head into the lion's jaws."

"My head is used to the pillow. Do the teeth close I am no worse off than my son."

"Your death makes your son's no easier."

"Why, what else to do, Rosny?" monsieur exclaimed. "Mishandle the lady? Storm Paris? Sell the Cause?"

"I would we could storm Paris," Rosny sighed. "It would suit me better to seize the prisoner than to sue for him. But Paris is not ripe for us yet. You know my plan—to send to Villeroi. I believe he could manage the thing."

"I am second to none," monsieur said politely, "in my admiration of M. de Villeroi's abilities. But to reach him is uncertain; what he can or will do, uncertain. Etienne de Mar is not Villeroi's son; he is mine."

"Aye, it is your business," Rosny assented. "It is yours to take your way."

"A mad way, but mine. But come, now, Rosny, you must admit that once or twice, when all your wiseacres were deadlocked, my madness has served."

Rosny took monsieur's hand in a silent grip.

"Maximilien," the duke said, smiling down on him, "what a pity you are a scamp of a heretic!"

"Henri," Rosny returned gravely, "I would you had had the good fortune to be born in the Religion."

Again he wished us God-speed, and we gathered up our reins. As we turned the corner I glanced back to find him still standing as we had left him, gazing soberly after us.

The man who was going into the lion's den was far less solemn over it. By fits and starts, as he thought on his son's great danger, he contrived a gloomy countenance; but monsieur had ridden all his life with Hope on the pillion; she did not desert him now. As we cantered steadily along in the fresh, cool morning he already pictured M. Etienne released. However mad he acknowledged his errand to be, I think he was scarce visited by a doubt of its success. It was impossible to him that his son should not be saved.

We entered with perfect ease the gate of Paris and took our way without hesitancy through the busiest streets. Nowhere did the guard spring on us, but, instead, more than once, the passers-by gathered in knots, the tradesmen and artisans ran out of their shops to cheer St. Quentin, to cheer France, to cheer peace, to cheer to the echo the Catholic king.

"I hope Mayenne hears them," monsieur said to me, doffing his hat to a big farrier who had come out of his smithy waving impudently in the eye of all the world the white flag of the king.

We kept a brisk pace alike where they cheered us and where, in other streets, they scowled and hooted at us, so that I looked out for men with pistols in second-storey windows. But, friend or foe, none stopped us till at length we drew rein before the grilles of the Hotel de Lorraine.

They made no demur at announcing us. Monsieur went into the house, while I led the horses to the stables, where three or four grooms at once volunteered to rub them down, in eagerness to pump their guardian. But before the fellows had had time to get much out of me came Jean Marchand, all unrecognising, to summon me indoors. I followed him in delight, partly for curiosity, partly because it had seemed to me when the doorway swallowed monsieur that I might never see him more. Jean ushered me into the well-remembered council-room, where monsieur stood alone, surprised at the sight of me.

"A lackey came for me," I said. "Look, monsieur, that's where we shut up Lucas."

I ceased hastily, for I knew the step in the corridor.

It was difficult to credit mademoiselle's tale, to believe that Mayenne could ever be in a rage. In he came, big and calm and smiling, whatever emotion he may have felt at monsieur's arrival not only buried, but with a flower-bed blooming over it. He greeted his guest with all the courteous ease of an unruffled conscience and a kindly heart. Not till his glance fell on me did he show any sign of discomposure.

"What, you!" he exclaimed brusquely.

"Your servant brought him hither," Monsieur said for me.

"I understood that one of your gentlemen had come with you. I sent for him, deeming his presence might conduce to your ease, M. de St. Quentin."

"I am at my ease M. de Mayenne" my lord answered.

"No," said Mayenne. "Since he is here he may stay. He serves the purpose as well as another."

He did not say what the purpose was, nor could I see for what he had kept me, unless as a sign to monsieur that he meant to play fair. I began to feel somewhat heartened.

"You have guessed, M. de Mayenne, my errand."

"Certainly. You have come to join the League."

Monsieur laughed out.

"On the contrary, M. de Mayenne, I have come to persuade you to join the king."

"That was a waste of horseflesh."

"My friend, you know as well as we do that before long you will come over."

"I am not there yet, nor are my enemies scattered, nor is the League dead."

"Dying, my lord. It will not live coup de grace on Sunday, when the king goes to mass."

"St. Quentin," Mayenne made quiet answer, "when I am in such case that nothing remains to me but to fall on my sword or to kneel to Henry, be assured I shall kneel to Henry. Till then I play my game."

"Play it, then. We have the patience to wait for you, monsieur. Be assured, in your turn, that when you do come on your knees to His Majesty you will do well to have a friend or two at court."

"Morbleu," Mayenne cried, suddenly showing his teeth, "you will never go back to him if I choose to stop you!"

Monsieur raised his eyebrows at him, pained by the unsuavity.

"Of course not, monsieur. I quite understood that when I entered the gate. I shall never leave this house if you will otherwise."

"You will leave the house unharmed," Mayenne said curtly. "I shall not treat you as your late master treated my brother."

"I thank your generosity, monsieur, and commend your good sense."

Mayenne looked for a moment as if he repented of both. Then he broke into a laugh.

"One permits the insolences of the court jester."

Monsieur sprang up, his hand on his sword. But at once the quick flush passed from his face, and he, too, laughed.

Mayenne sat as he was, in somewhat lowering silence. My duke made a step nearer him, and spoke for the first time with perfect seriousness.

"My Lord Mayenne, it was no outrecuidance brought me here this morning. There is the Bastille. There is the axe. I know that my course has been offensive to you—your nephew proved me that. I know also that you do not care to meddle with me openly. At least, you have not meddled. Whether you will change your method—but I venture to believe not. I am popular just now in Paris. I had more cheers as I came in this morning than have met your ears for many a month. You have a great name for prudence, M. de Mayenne, I believe you will not molest me."

I hardly thought my duke was making a great name for prudence. But, then, as he said, he had to work in his own way. Mayenne returned, with chilling calm:

"You may find me, St. Quentin, less timid than you suppose."

"Impossible. Mayenne's courage is unquestioned. I rely not on his timidity, but on his judgment."

"You take a great deal upon yourself in supposing that I wanted your death on Tuesday and do not want it on Friday."

"The king is three days nearer the true faith than on Tuesday. His party is three days stronger. On Tuesday it would have been a blunder to kill me; on Friday it is three days worse a blunder."

"But not less a pleasure. I have had something of the kind in mind ever since your master killed my brother."

"You should profit by that murderer's experience before you take a leaf from his book, M. de Mayenne. Henry of Valois gained singularly little when he slew Guise to make you head of the League."

Mayenne started, and then laughed to show his scorn of the flattery. But I think he was, all the same, half pleased, none the less because he knew it to be flattery. He said unexpectedly:

"Your son comes honestly by his unbound tongue."

"Ah, my son! Now that you mention him, we shall discuss him a little. You have put my son, monsieur, in the Bastille."

"No; Belin and my nephew Paul, whom you know, have put him there."

"But M. de Mayenne can get him out if he choose."

"If he choose."

Monsieur sat down again, with the air of one preparing for an amiable discussion.

"He is charged with the murder of one Pontou, a lackey. Of course he did not commit it, nor would you care if he had. His real offence is making love to your ward."

"Well, do you deny it?"

"Not the love, but the offence of it. Palpably you might do much worse than dispose of the lady to my heir."

"I might do much better than bestow my time on you if that is all you have to say."

"We have hardly opened the subject, M. de Mayenne"——

"I have no wish to carry it further."

"Monsieur, the king's ranks afford no better match than my heir."

"No maid of mine shall ever marry a Royalist."

"I swore no son of mine should ever marry a Leaguer, but I have come to see the error of my ways, as you will see yours, Mayenne. It is for you to choose where among the king's forces you will marry mademoiselle."

A vague uneasiness, a fear which he would not own a fear, crept into Mayenne's eyes. He studied the face before him, a face of gay challenge, and said at length, not quite confidently himself:

"You speak with a confidence, St. Quentin."

"Why, to be sure."

Mayenne jumped heavily to his feet.

"What mean you?"

"I mean that mademoiselle's marrying is in my hands. Where is your ward, M. de Mayenne?"

"Mordieu! Have you found her?"

"You speak sooth."

"In your hotel"——

"No, eager kinsman. In a place whither you cannot follow her."

Mayenne look about, as if with some instinctive idea of seeking a weapon, of summoning his soldiers.

"By God's throne, you shall tell me where!"

"With pleasure. She is at St. Denis."

Mayenne cried helplessly, as numbed under a blow:

"St. Denis! But how"——

"How came she there? On foot, every step. I suppose she never walked two streets in her life before, has she, M. de Mayenne? But she tramped to St. Denis through the dark to knock at my door at 1 in the morning."

Preacher's Opinions

Rev. P. K. McRae, Forks Baddeck, C. B.: "I always count it a pleasure to recommend the Dr. Slocum Remedies to my parishioners. I believe there is nothing better for throat and lung troubles or weakness or run-down system. For speaker's sore throat I have found Psychine very beneficial."

Rev. W. H. Stevens, Paisley, Ont.: "Psychine seemed just the stimulant my system needed. I shall add my testimony as to its efficacy at every opportunity."

Rev. R. M. Browne, Amherst Head, N.S., "I have often recommended Psychine since taking it myself, for it is a cure for the troubles you specify."

Rev. Chas. Stirling, Bath, N.B.: "I have used Psychine in my family; the results were marvelous. I have visited people who state that they never used its equal. I strongly recommend it.

Rev. J. S. I. Wilson, Markdale, Ont.: "I have taken two bottles of Psychine and am pleased to say that I am greatly improved in health. I was troubled with my throat, but now I find it about restored to its normal condition. I find my work very much less taxing. I believe Psychine is all claimed for it."

These are earnest preachers of the gospel of Psychine. They know whereof they speak. Psychine cures all throat, lung and stomach troubles. It is a great voice strengthener, acting directly on the vocal, respiratory and digestive organs, thus specially adapted to public speakers. At all druggists, 50c and $1.00, or Dr. T. A. THROUGH HOLLAND.

A Day's Travel in the Land of Windmills and Canals.

Here is a pretty description of a day's travel through Holland: "At Amsterdam I left the train and boarded a boat bound for the Helder, the northernmost point of North Holland, where the low lying lands curve round to the horizon, looking as if they had been appointed ocean outposts to Friesland. The voyage might take a day, but what of that? There is only one way to travel in Holland—by water. The boat glides through the brimming canals and passes the clean towns and the busy windmills. Life persists, passengers and cargoes come and go, but you are no longer at war with the world or in trouble with it. You are a spectator, idling through a summer day wrapped in aloofness, content merely to be moving through the moist and luminous air. When the environs of Amsterdam are left behind and the water side houses give place to the reeds that bend as the backwash overtakes them and the factories fade into vast, bright meadows, the spirit of this land, wrested from the sea, possesses the traveler. I forgot to count the windmills, was indifferent to the quality of the hut where Peter the Great studied shipbuilding and was impotent with pretending to choose a habitation from among the dwellings whose gardens are washed by the waters of this great North canal.

"We passed through Alkmaar, on one side Dutch farmhouses, compact, four square, stretching in an endless line along the waterway, on the other side the meadows, and beyond them, far away, the sweeping line of the dunes. They rise above the North sea, and on their sandy sides and heights men are forever on the watch against the encroachments of the ocean. They plant the shrub called heim that binds the sand together, making a bulwark against the rage of the waves. 'God gave us the sea, but we made the shore,' says the Dutchman. These flower fruitful and pastoral meadows that outstretched as we glided northward were once submerged in water. The fight against the sea never ceases. As we moved northward the three great dikes loomed out. I gazed out at these high bulwarks, patrolled and watched by day and by night, and mused on the legend that at Amsterdam there is one master key a turn of which in times of peril from foreign invasion will drown the land again.

"And as I mused there swept past a barge. The great sail was hoisted. The family, a mite of the 50,000 canal population who live out their lives on these floating houses, were gathered round the tiller, where mynheer smoked and steered. The barge is the symbol of this sea conquering people. Below the Helder I landed. Beyond is the fort, with the fringe of islands outposting Friesland, the fishing fleet and the gunboats, and the channel between the mainland and Texel opening to the world. As I crossed the bridge I saw the sight of sights. There was no fuss, no shouting, no spilling of wine at that launch. The barge moved from her cradle, shot downward, took the water in a rush, pretended to capsize and all at once acquiesced. She had found her master."

Whistler's Portrait of Irving.

"Why did Whistler paint Henry Irving as Philip?" some one once asked me. How dangerous to ask "why" about any one so freakish as Jimmy Whistler! But I answered then and would answer now that it was because, as Philip, Henry, in his dress without much color (from the common point of view), his long gray legs and his Velasquez-like attitudes, looked like the kind of thing which Whistler loved to paint. Velasquez had painted a real Philip of the same race; Whistler would paint the actor who had created the Philip of the stage.

I have a note from Whistler written to Henry at a later date, I think, which refers to the picture. It is common knowledge that the sitter never cared much about the portrait. Henry had a strange affection for the wrong pictures of himself. He disliked the Bastien-Lepage, the Whistler and the Sargent, which never even saw the light. He adored the weak, pretty-pretty picture by Millais, which, I must admit all the same, held the mirror up to one of the characteristics of Henry's face—its extreme refinement.

The most remarkable men I have known were, without a doubt, Whistler and Oscar Wilde. This does not imply that I liked them better or admired them more than the others, but there was something about both of them more instantaneously individual, audacious and wonderful than it is possible to describe.—Ellen Terry in McClure's.

Vanity Makes Misfits.

A tailor tossed into a corner a suit that had turned out a misfit.

"It is men's vanity that makes nine-tenths of the misfits," he growled.

"How so?"

"Why, when a man comes in here to be measured he won't stand in his natural way. He is too vain. We go to take his chest measure, and to have the satisfaction of hearing a big number yelled out he puffs out his chest like a pigeon, and then his coat and waistcoat are too big for him. He does the same with his back, stiffening it if he is humped to a military erectness. The same with his shoulders—if they slope he raises them to his ears, and if they are round he throws them back till the shoulder blades clash together. And if his stomach protrudes he draws it in. Thus our measurements are all wrong, and the suit, thanks to the man's vanity, must go to the misfit dealer."—New York Press.

DAMES AND DAUGHTERS.

Mrs. Harold McCormick of Chicago is said to have ordered a thirty volume set of Browning's works to be bound at $1,000 a volume.

Miss Theodora Shonts, who is to marry the Duc de Chaulnes of France, is a fine linguist. Her maternal grandfather was the late Governor Drake of Iowa.

One of the peaks of the Carbon range in Alaska has been named Mount Grace in honor of Miss Grace McDonald of Meeteetse, Wyo., who was the first woman to scale it.

Although blind and partially paralyzed, Mrs. Catherine Snay of Oxford, Mass., celebrated her one hundred and sixth birthday by smoking her pipe. She has smoked since she was ten.

Mrs. Mary K. Michael of Hamilton, O., is an expert plasterer and paperhanger. Her husband, a plasterer, is a hard worker and is sometimes so pressed with business that he cannot get through it all. Then Mrs. Michael leaves her household labors and helps him.

Mrs. Caroline C. Furbush of Greenfield has one of the finest collections of books and autographs in western Massachusetts. She has also a collection of rare china. Her library of 7,000 or 8,000 volumes contains many rare editions of standard works, and some of her books are exceedingly rare.

Mrs. Ida Lewis Wilson, or Ida Lewis, as she is more popularly known, keeper of the Lime Rock lighthouse, at the southern end of Newport harbor, has again been honored for bravery in saving lives during her long service as a keeper of the light. Notice has been received from Andrew Carnegie that he has placed her name on his private pension list, insuring her an income of $30 a month during her lifetime.

SCIENCE SIFTINGS.

Professor Percival Lowell, the famous authority on Mars, has new pictures of the planet which corroborate in a striking manner his theory that it is the abode of intelligent life.

Two years will elapse before another opposition of the planet Mars, when it makes a still nearer approach to the earth than in 1907, and after that no favorable opposition will occur for a period of fifteen years.

Tests of a clock recently installed in a Cleveland observatory have proved that the mechanism is so accurate that the clock will not vary more than fifteen one-thousandths of a second from the exact time in twenty-four hours. This is considered to be nearly as steady and reliable as the sun itself.

By a new French process milk powder is produced by forcing the liquid under high pressure through a tube only one two-hundred-and-fiftieth of an inch in diameter into a closed chamber heated to 167 degrees F. by a current of warm air. The milk expands to vapor, the air current carries off the water, and the solids fall in powder.

GOWN GOSSIP.

Redingotes of all sorts and sizes are worn with winter frocks.

Long, wrinkled sleeves of net are proving a notable feature of many of the latest evening toilets.

Draped sleeves, rather full a little above the elbow and close fitting from the elbow to well over the hand, are very becoming.

Soft, heavily embroidered Japanese cuffs that turn back from the band are much worn. They are a feature of the Eton coats and of the long cloaks.

The plaited skirt is rapidly passing. From the exclusive couturier's viewpoint it has already gone. The new model, somewhat like its sister of trailing propensities, is cut circular, circular gored.

Chinese and oriental embroideries of all kinds are having a very special vogue—in mixed colors, of course, worked with silk or tinsel thread. These look best on black dresses, while filet lace on colors and worked with colors is much worn on chiffon and light dresses for home and evening wear.—New York Sun.

THE ROYAL BOX.

The German emperor never travels incog.

King Leopold has just settled a sum of £1,200,000 on the child of his morganatic marriage with the Baroness Vaughan.

The Grand Duke Alexis, the czar's son, now three years and three months old, is one of the handsomest of the royal children in Europe.

Prince Gustav of Denmark, aged twenty, weighs 336 and is growing. He is the heaviest of European royalties and has a jolly disposition.

His majesty Edward VII. is frequently referred to as "Edrex"—very obviously derived from the royal signature, Edward Rex. Prior to his assumption of the crown he was familiarly known as "Bertie" and by the other members of the royal family as "the guv'nor."

A VALID OBJECTION.

Young Sheridan's Ready Wit Saved Him a Birching.

Richard Brinsley Sheridan early evinced a genius for getting something for nothing and, seeing the door of the refectory had inadvertently been left unlocked, peeped in and saw a huge basket of grapes freshly gathered from the orchard.

Stealthily closing the door and approaching the grapes, he thus addressed them: "I publish the banns of marriage between Richard Brinsley Sheridan and these grapes. Is there any one to forbid the banns?" And, having no reply to his query, he proceeded to fill his breadbasket from the other basket with great gusto. But retribution was to follow, for on the class being reassembled the master called upon Richard Brinsley Sheridan to stand forth and joined with his name the ominous name of Walker, who was the dunce of the school and selected from his weight and size to mount the culprit upon his shoulders in order that the master might get a firm surface upon which to use the birch with effect.

Sheridan being duly mounted and appropriately denuded of superfluous raiment, the master thus addressed him: "I publish the banns of marriage between Richard Brinsley Sheridan and this birch. Is there any just cause or impediment why these two parties should not be joined in holy matrimony?"

"Hold!" yelled Sheridan.

"Well?" said the master.

To which Sheridan said, "Why, sir, the parties are not agreed!"

This being not only witty, but apt, as being a valid objection in point of law, Sheridan was requested to retire and restore himself to his former habiliments amid the uncontrollable laughter of all concerned, including the head master.—Exchange.

THE LAND OF OPHIR.

Where Was It—In Mashonaland, South Arabia or India?

One of the most interesting and important questions concerning Biblical sites perpetually invites research and persistently evades solution. "Where is the land of Ophir?" Dr. Karl Peters at a public meeting in Berlin declared emphatically that this famous Biblical region is located between the Zambezi and Limpopo rivers. He told his German audience how he has discovered many shafts of ancient gold mines, 500 temples, fortifications and other ruins of Phoenician origin. Dr. Peters affirms that coins unearthed in Mashonaland belong undoubtedly to the time of King Solomon. His opinion is that no other part of Africa could have exported the ivory, silver and precious stones which are recorded in the Bible as coming from Ophir.

Against this theory, founded as it undoubtedly is on very plausible evidence, Bible students are still likely to maintain, on the testimony of Genesis x, 29, that Ophir was a section of South Arabia. Here down to the time of Ezekiel the Phoenicians still landed to procure gold and gems with which those famous sailors and merchants of the ancient world traded in many countries distant from their Syrian shores.

Many erudite writers have attempted to identify Sofala, on the east coast of Africa, with Ophir, while yet others have located it in India. One of the most learned essays written on the subject is from the pen of Professor Hommel, who argued that the ancient land of gold was Arabia Felix.

A Diamond and a Ruse.

An amusing story is told of the way the Cullinan diamond—the birthday gift of the Transvaal to King Edward—was sent to England. It was felt that there was a certain amount of danger in the railroad journey from Johannesburg to Cape Town. Two stalwart railway detectives, an hour or two before the mail started from the gold reef city, were ordered to travel with it on special duty. They were told to be well armed, and at the last moment they were intrusted with a small sealed package, which they were directed not to lose sight of until they deposited it in the strong room of the liner. Learning that it was the great diamond, the two men had an anxious journey. Some months later the truth became known, by the Transvaal postmaster general's report, that the diamond had really gone in the mail as an ordinarily registered package. The detectives' mission was simply an elaborate piece of deception.

The Eagle on the Coins.

The new coins made from models by Saint Gaudens are not the first on which the American eagle is shown with plumage furled or at rest. Among the "individual coins" which were issued in the days of the civil war, when there was a gold and silver famine, a one cent piece issued by a grocery concern in this state bore on one side the inscription, "Good for one cent—D. L. Wing," and on the reverse side had an eagle much like the Saint Gaudens bird. Another "good for one cent" coin put out by a New York restaurant had an eagle at rest perched on a beer barrel. —New York Tribune.

A Dead Nebula.

A "dead nebula" is one of the most singular of strange objects noted in the sky. It appears in a recent photograph by Professor E. E. Barnard and is a long, straggling mass in the constellation Taurus, evidently hiding stars behind it. The numerous stars around it suggest that the few within its limits must be on this side of it. A small luminous portion gradually fading out is shown, but it appears that the nebula must be a large one and that most of it is dead or nonluminous, being in some places darker than starless parts of the sky.

Newbro's Herpicide

IS PRAISED BY

PAULA A. EDWARDES

Paula A. Edwardes, the well-known theatrical star, writes as follows:

"I am charmed with Newbro's Herpicide. It is a refreshing hair remedy, producing a beautiful luster and a luxuriance of growth, at the same time keeping the scalp free from dandruff."

Very truly yours,
New York City. (Signed) PAULA A EDWARDES.

Good results from the use of Newbro's Herpicide mean as much to one person as to another, but on the other hand, the fact that leading theatrical stars prefer Newbro's Herpicide is an important point in its favor. Professional people have an inclination and an opportunity—not enjoyed by others—to discriminate in their choice of toilet remedies and their opinions should not go unheeded.

The extraordinary success of Newbro's Herpicide is due to the simple fact that it kills the dandruff germ. While other remedies treat the disease that results in hair loss, Newbro's Herpicide destroys the cause of the disease, after which nature grows the hair, if it is not too late.

Chronic baldness cannot be cured, but before the hair follicles are too badly diseased, one can, by careful treatment and intelligent sanitary care, keep down and ultimately destroy the tiny vegetable growth (dandruff germ) whose continued presence in the sebaceous glands of the scalp means hair destruction.

Ladies become enthusiastic over Newbro's Herpicide, because it brightens up the hair and keeps it light and fluffy.

Stops itching of scalp almost instantly.

Guaranteed under the Food and Drug Act, June 30, 1906. Serial No. 915. Two Sizes, 50c and $1.00 at drug stores. Insist upon Herpicide. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Dept. L, Windsor, Ont.

Betty's Decision.

By LULU JOHNSON.

Copyright, 1907, by C. H. Sutcliffe.

Mournfully the somber melody of the dead march from "Saul" came through the double sashed windows of the Eagle House. The music gained in mournfulness what it lacked in impressiveness, for Dan Hicks' struggles with the unfamiliar clarinet added a wailing note not intended by the composer. Not one of the members of the Grantville Cornet band was a skilled musician.

Vance Bevan moved over to the window to watch the passing of the cortege. First came the band, shivering in their gaudy uniforms, which they would not hide beneath their overcoats. Then followed the Niagara Hose company and the Grantville Hook and Ladder. The long, light truck of the latter was stripped of its ladders, and in their place was a platform, on which rested a flag draped casket. Behind this were two closed carriages and then a long string of vehicles of all descriptions.

"There goes a good man," he said in the hollow tones that seemed most appropriate to the occasion. "I tell you, there wasn't a better man in all Scoville county. He was always doing something. First it was the engine company. He got it the steamer. Just kept at it until it had to come. He said Grantville was getting too big for the old hand engine. He was right. What chance would there have been of saving the Vail block if there hadn't been a steamer?'

"One of the leading citizens?" asked Bevan as he proffered a cigar. Flagler nodded.

"One of the best," he declared. "We were all sorry when he went to the Philippines. I guess he stirred them islands up. Only out there four years, and he came home with a cool hundred thousand. Yes, sir."

"But why go to the Philippines?" questioned Bevan. "It would seem that so clever a man should have no difficulty in getting ahead nearer home."

"But Fred was in a hurry," explained the hotel man. "You see, he had always been in love with Bessie Brewster. Bessie loved him, too, but she was an ambitious little thing. She wanted Fred to get ahead faster, and that meant the Philippines. He left it all to her too. I bet she must be all broken up. That's her in the second carriage, I guess. I see Betty Harvey in with her.

"Of course the family is in the first hack. I rode in that hack the night I got married. Lem Spriggs he says there's been enough varnish on that old hack to pay for a new one, and I guess he's right. Old man Harkness had it when he set up in business as a livery back in 1875. Every t'other year they slap on some more varnish, and it looks as good as new again."

Flagler rattled on with bits of information as the various carriages passed. The first heavy fall of snow was upon the ground, and a few sleighs were in the long procession. Bevan heard a little of the running comment. The mention of Betty Harvey had roused a chain of thought. He had run up from the city to argue with her and had found the whole town upset by the arrival of Fred Greyson's body Betty was busy comforting her friend, Bessie Brewster, and would not even see him.

There was small hope that he would be able to get speech with her, but he decided to wait until after the funeral. He wanted to make one last appeal.

The two had met at the shore during the summer. Betty had given her love to the clean young engineer, but when he had asked that they might be married soon she had shaken her head. Stumblingly she had explained her reasons for refusal. She was an heiress, and in the little town in which she lived she feared that the people might despise her suitor as a fortune hunter.

Ever since she had come into the money at the death of her father her friends had warned her against the wiles of the fortune hunters. She did not for an instant believe that Bevan cared for her money, but she was too proud of him to be willing that he should so be classified by others.

Much the same feeling had led Bessie Brewster to refuse to marry Fred Greyson until his fortune should match her own. Greyson had gone to the Philippines, where he believed that a fortune might be acquired quickly. He had made his "pile," but on his way home the fever had taken him. From Manila the journey had been made in a metallic casket.

The last of the carriages had passed. The dead march still sounded clearly on the crisp, frosty air, and Bevan fell in with the crowd that escorted the procession on foot. The road wound up the side of the hill to God's acre, where the yellowed headstones gleamed darkly against the freshly fallen snow.

The fire companies made a hollow square, within which the Masons formed for the funeral service. Betty Harvey stood with the chief mourners, supporting her friend, but before the short service was concluded she had to lead the bereaved girl back to the carriage. Rapidly the hack drove back to the village. Vance Bevan had been there to help Betty lift the girl into the carriage, and he had sprung to the driver's box to be of service when they should have reached home.

It was he who bore the fainting girl into the house, he who summoned the doctor, and he was waiting when at last, Bessie having fallen into the merciful oblivion of sleep, Betty stole softly from the room.

"Are you still here?" she asked in surprise as she came up to Vance.

"I must go back to town tonight," he explained. "Before I go I had to see you."

"We have been all over that before," pleaded Betty. "Can't you understand how I feel about it, dear?"

"And does this not change your mind?" he asked. "Look, Betty! I have come to let you decide for me. Already I am making progress in my profession. I am classed as one of the rising young men among the engineers. My reputation has obtained for me an offer from South America. It is to go down there and make the survey for a railroad. It will make me rich in three or four years.

"As matters are now I cannot make the same money here in ten or fifteen years, but I can support you comfortably. You can give away your fortune to charities if you want. I can make enough for two. Shall I go or stay?"

"Is there any question?" asked Betty. "Four years is a long time, Vance, but I can wait that long to see you escape being called a fortune hunter. Was there need to ask?"

"They represent four years that can never be replaced," reminded Bevan. "There are excellent probabilities that I may come back home, as Greyson did. If it were my only opportunity I should not hesitate, but I have a chance here. It is for you to say."

For a moment the girl hesitated. All her life she had been taught to despise the title of fortune hunter. She loved Bevan too well to wish that title might be applied to him, even though she knew that under no circumstances would he consent to avail himself of a penny of her money. It was a question between pride and love, and in a country town the opinion of others counts for much.

Bevan, reading her answer in her eyes, turned to go. For an instant she remained silent; then the glance fell upon the crape draped picture of Greyson on the wall, and with a little cry she stepped forward. Bevan turned to catch her in his arms.

"I don't care what people say," sobbed Betty. "Four years is too long, dear."

On the street without the fire companies were returning from the cemetery, and the band headed the procession playing "The Girl I Left Behind Me." Betty raised her head from Bevan's shoulder with a little smile.

"You will never leave me behind, will you, dear?" she whispered.

Bevan bent his head to kiss the rosy mouth. "Till death do us part," he quoted reverently.

Wrestling With English in Japan.

According to a foreign paper, the following example of Japanese proficiency in the use of the English language was found in an advertisement in a case of towels received in Canton: "I know you are acknowledge the Towel made in Japan are more convenience in using, and longer in existence than the Towel in Europe. Lately, however, the crafty merchants cheats the customers by making it change from light and coarse texture to heavy and fine by using paste, indeed these are most audacious manne. I was strike on this point, therefore for the sake of avoiding the small interests, and wishing to continue the sale for ever I endeavored to select the materials, to deduce the prices, and the dyes not to fall till the Towel get broken. Wishing the reputation should be raised like the height of the mount Fuji, I named it 'fugi' brand. Lastly I beg humbly that ladies and gentlemen should buy it at everywhere bewaring of the trade mark 'Mount Fugi.'"

An Excellent Waitress.

Nurses in training have many hardships to bear, but perhaps none is worse than having to appear cheerful under all conditions. A sense of humor is perhaps as great an asset as a nurse can have, for it will help her over many a difficulty.

The daughter of a wealthy man became imbued with the desire to know how to earn her own living, and to that end she entered one of the large New York hospitals as a nurse. The work was to her liking, and as she looked on the bright side of everything she was generally in a happy frame of mind. Her particular "pet" was an old and illiterate sea captain who was in the surgical ward with a broken arm which would not knit. He was a cheerful old fellow, and his droll remarks gained for him the good will of everybody. One day when the nurse had paid him some little attention he said, with an aggressive smile:

"Miss L. is the best waitress I ever had!"—New York Times.

Move About a Little.

There is something impressive in the story of a lifetime of persistent toil. But there is another point of view which deserves respect. The gadabout may be a useless member of society, but the stay at home is likely to be a narrow one. We find ourselves on this little planet, with its oceans and mountains and mighty rivers and wide prairies. We know not whence we came nor if we shall ever pass this way again. Surely we may do our task better in our own appointed place if we look about the world, feed our minds with the glories of nature and discover how men and women before us have lived their lives and embodied their aspirations in the great arts of building and painting and sculpture. The wheatfield and the ledger and the cooking stove are facts of human life, but so are the Cologne cathedral, the Sistine Madonna, the Canadian Rockies and the valley of the Yellowstone.—Youth's Companion.

I took a bad cold which settled on my lungs, and made it almost impossible to breathe at times. I coughed constantly and could not sleep at nights. A friend told me how Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup had helped her, so I procured some, and before I had taken one bottle my cough was gone and I could lie down and sleep at night."

INSULTS TO ROYALTY.

Some of the Things That Constitute Lese Majesty in England.

Many people think that lese majesty—giving insult to royalty—is not a crime in Great Britain. The English statute books, however, contain many penalties for such offenses.

Placing a postage stamp on a letter upside down is a punishable offense, as is also the defacement of a coin bearing the royal image. This is insulting the king's effigy.

Private individuals may not raise the royal standard over their dwellings. This is the emblem of the regal authority to be displayed only where the king is present.

While an agitator may talk against royalty in the abstract as much as he chooses, contemptuous or insulting personal references to the reigning sovereign opens the offender to a heavy fine and imprisonment.

The slightest slap upon the face of the king or queen—or any other part of the anatomy, for that matter—is punishable with the death penalty. In the reign of Queen Victoria a Lieutenant Page struck her across the face with his cane. He was sentenced to death, but the queen commuted his sentence.

It is likewise a crime to bring the uniform of the sovereign into contempt. To garb a low comedian or a villain of the stage in a discarded uniform of the army or the navy is sufficient to bring heavy censure from the government. For this reason theatrical managers usually see to it that the uniforms worn are not exactly copies of the real things.

BETTER THAN SPANKING

Spanking does not cure children of bed-wetting. There is a constitutional cause for this trouble. Mrs. M. Summers, Box W. 61, Windsor, Ont., will send free to any mother her successful home treatment, with full instructions. Send no money, but write her to-day if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child; the chances are it can't help it. This treatment also cures adults and aged people troubled with urine difficulties by day or night. 4

PAPER MAKING IN KOREA.

Hermit Kingdom Supplies Best to China and Japan.

It is not generally known that the best kinds of paper met with in China and Japan are the product of Korea. It is claimed by many that the Korean paper excels the very best that is made in China and Japan. It is produced entirely by manual labor and without the use of any machinery. The raw material used for the better kinds is obtained from the bark of the Broussonetia papyrifera, which is collected in the spring and beaten in water containing a large admixture of wood ashes until reduced to a thick pulp.

This is taken in large ladles and spread upon frames of bamboo so as to form thin sheets. Another kind of paper is made from old scraps trodden into pulp, much in the same way that grape juice is extracted in some countries, and, though this mode of pulping is slow, it has the advantage of not breaking the fiber so much as when machinery is used.

After the pulp has been made into paper the sheets are piled up to a height of six feet and then cut into pieces, to be again subjected to the stamping with the feet. At the same time the roots and seeds of a plant called tackpeal are added, the soluble parts of which are supposed to give tenacity and toughness to the paper.

Permanent Results

"I had been suffering for over two months with an obstinate cough, as had also my little girl. We tried several remedies common to any drug store without obtaining any apparent relief, in fact we were growing worse. I got a bottle of Coltsfoots Expectorant from my druggist and inside of two days the cough was stopped, and the results so permanent and rapid that we decided to keep it in our home continually.

Drooping—Tired—Weary

You Feel Depressed, Dragged Out, and Sort of "All Gone"—Shake Off That Tired Feeling, Get Well and Strong, Fortify Your Nerves, Nourish Your Blood.

FERROZONE

You are getting pale and thin. You're dragged down with a "don't care" feeling that makes life most unhappy. Your strength is fleeting away, and weakness is creeping in. Every day your chances for cure becomes smaller.

Trouble is you don't assimilate your food, consequently the body is poorly nourished. The blood is thin, lacks those red corpuscles that denote health.

You can only prevent a total collapse by building up all the powers of the body with Ferrozone, which will surely make you well. Ferrozone creates tremendous appetite, increases the power of digestion, and insures perfect assimilation. Everything you eat is at once converted into nourishment.

FERROZONE makes rich, pure blood, a surplus of energy, new life for the nerves and all over-strained organs. Robust health will glow on the cheeks, jovial spirits, increased weight, and a clear, active brain will evidence a few of the benefits that follow Ferrozone.

The effect of Ferrozone is instant, yet permanent. For upbuilding and invigorating the listless and depressed it has no equal. It's the concentrated nourishment in Ferrozone that makes it so beneficial. We guarantee it contains no opiates, no alcohol, nothing but the most strengthening qualities known in medicine. Won't you use Ferrozone; it will surely make you well.

GAINED 15 POUNDS.

Mr. H. A. Thurston, of 223 Vermont St. E., Indianapolis, Restored by Ferrozone.

"A year ago I took the grippe. I was as weak as a child. I was no longer able to eat. My blood was thin. My cheeks were white and hollow. Doctors gave me all kinds of medicine, but none of them brought me strength. My friends said I was wasting away with some slow disease, and I bade them good-bye. Then I heard of the wonderful Ferrozone. After three days it gave me an appetite. I gained strength and became cheerful. Under Ferrozone I improved steadily. I am well to-day. I weigh fifteen pounds heavier than ever before, and feel like a new man.

(Signed) "H. A. THURSTON."

MAN THEY COULD NOT HANG TELLS OF FAILURE OF WORK OF GALLOWS

But there is one thing I want to explain. What the prosecution practically said was this: "How is it, if you are innocent, that you did not hear the person who committed the murder moving about? The pool of blood in the passage was five feet from your bed in the pantry. You must have heard the blows struck that knocked the poor old lady down. You must have heard the murderer going about the house. You must have heard the matches being struck that lighted the fires which nearly destroyed all traces of the crime. How is it you heard nothing of these things?"

Let me reply to this question by reading you a newspaper paragraph I cut out the other day:—

Barrack Room Tragedy.

Gunner Charles Billington, a native of Bristol, was found lying partially on his bed in a barrack room in Dover Castle with his head nearly severed from his body, as if with a razor. Companions were sleeping on each side of him, but they heard nothing during the night.

These men heard nothing. Neither did I.

I always have been a heavy sleeper. At the time of the muder of Miss Keyse I was a particularly healthy boy. I always slept well, so well that though the Necks very often used to be up late at night working in the pantry where I slept, they never woke me up. I believe they even used to shuffle along between my bed and the cupboard where the oil-can was, and yet not disturb me.

I say again that I slept soundly whilst every blow in that terrible murder was being struck whilst all the other deeds that were afterwards discovered were being done.

I don't think enough was made of this point at the trial.

Here is another point. What was it that brought Miss Keyse downstairs to her death?

It was proved at the trial that she went into the kitchen before going to bed; that she there took her cocoa from the hob, where one of the Necks had left it; that she next went upstairs carrying the cocoa and a candle; that she undressed and put on her night-clothes; that she came down again candle in hand.

What was it that brought her downstairs?

If I had wished to murder her I could have done so whilst she was sitting alone in the dining room writing after the servants had gone to bed. Or I could have done it upstairs.

I ask again: What was it that brought her downstairs? I think everybody will agree with me that this is a most important point. Unfortunately it was not gone into, and it is too late to discuss it now.

The trial lasted three days. At the end of each day I was taken back to my cell in Exeter Prison. On the second or third morning I went to the Court in a carriage, just as I did with the Governor on the first. But on one morning, I don't know which it was, I went in the Black Maria. I suppose the crowd had discovered the trick. During the adjournments each day I took my meals at the Court.

A silly story got abroad to the effect that during one of these intervals I stood at one of the windows so that the people could see me, and twisted the window cord round my neck!

* * * *

Shall I ever forget the last day of the trial? It was Wednesday. All the speeches were over. The judge had summed up. The jury had left the Court to consider their verdict.

As soon as they left I was taken below. I remember as I left the dock how the people gazed at me. They were watching, I suppose, for some sign of fear or guilt. They were disappointed.

As I sat alone beneath the court I could hear the people talking overhead. Then as before came the sudden hush. Once more a key turned in a lock. Once more I was taken back to the dock.

The jury had been absent about half an hour. At last I was to hear my fate.

I have heard that this is the most terrible of all moments. It is, of course, a moment of awful suspense. The jury are filing slowly into the box. Everybody is watching them to detect if possible some sign of the secret they hold in their hearts. Is it to be "Guilty" and death, or "Not Guilty" and freedom?

For my part I was as calm as ever. "Courage, John," I said to myself, "you are in Heaven's hands."

I was standing at the dock rail waiting for the foreman to speak. At my back were several warders. You could have heard a pin drop.

"Guilty."

Three Times They Fail

I will now try to describe to you the three attempts that were made to execute me. Various accounts have been published of my execution. They all differ, and are mostly wrong in their description of what took place after each attempt.

Some of them say I turned deadly pale and that when I was finally taken off the trap my face was a horrible hue. Some say I nearly fainted. As far as I know—and after all I am the man who should know best—I have up from the beginning to the end of my terrible ordeal. I certainly did not faint.

Let me now tell you all about the first attempt they made to hang me.

As soon as I was in position, the executioner stooped down and fixed a belt around my ankles.

I looked about once more. Rising up in front of me was the dreary prison. At one of the windows I could see the reporters waiting to see how I would die. There were some birds hopping about in the gardens near the shed. How sweet their music was. It reminded me of my own dear little village of Abbots Kerswell. I thought of our cottage, of my mother and father probably sitting by the fire, of the people I knew.

I was soon brought back to the morning's dreadful reality. Whilst Berry was making his preparations, the chaplain, Mr. Pitkin, who, of course, was roped, came and stood just outside the shed and in front of me. He was still reading the burial service. He seemed to be much affected. His voice trembled as he read.

I felt the belt being pulled tight at my ankles. Next Berry put a big bag over my head. It was like a pillow-case, except that it had elastic just where it fitted round the neck.

I had, I thought, looked my last on the light of day.

No qualms of soul tormented me. I was perfectly conscious of all that was passing.

As I was wondering what would happen when the moment of my death arrived, I felt something being placed around my neck.

It was the rope.

For the moment I was conscious of a strange sensation in my throat. My mouth went dry. I could feel the executioner's fingers about my neck. I felt him pull the rope tight, so tight that it pinched me just under the left ear.

As he jerked the rope into position Berry asked me if I had anything to say.

"No," I replied. "Drop away!"

I held my breath and clenched my teeth. I heard the chaplain's voice. I heard the clang of the bell. I heard a wrench as of a bolt drawn, and——

My heart beat! Was this death? Or was it only a dream? A nightmare?

What was this stamping going on? Good heavens! I was still on the trap! It would not move!

"This is terrible," heard someone say.

The trap had given just about two inches. It would go no further. A second passed. It was like a lifetime. The trap could not be moved! My dream had come true!

For something like six minutes I stood on that drop blindfolded and pinioned whilst the warders jumped on the boards to make them part.

I was literally resting on my toes, and every time the warders stamped the trap shook. Again and again the bolt was drawn but it was quite evident that the mechanism would not work.

Such an ordeal would be enough to kill most men I suppose. But I remained perfectly quiet and at last I was led off the trap.

The cap, rope and leg straps were removed and I was taken into a little storeroom about six yards away from the shed.

Whilst I was there I believe an officer hung on to the rope and was allowed to drop through the trap which seemed to work all right.

I believe I waited in that room for something like four minutes. It was not very far from the scaffold and I could hear all that was going on in the shed quite distinctly. I could hear them pulling the bolt backward and forward. This bolt, I should explain, was fixed upright in the floor of the shed to the left of the trap. It was not like a railway lever. It was more like a piece of an iron railing with a handle on it. I could hear them pulling it backwards and forwards and each time there was a thud as the trap was released, and fell inwards. The scaffold was apparently working all right. You can imagine what these preparations sounded like to me. Nevertheless they did not break down my courage. They simply made me more anxious to get it all over.

After a time Berry came in. He seemed to be very much distressed. Clasping his hands, he said, "My poor fellow I don't know what I'm doing."

The second attempt was about to be made to execute me. I remember all that took place. I see the scaffold before me as I write. All the details are clear.

When I got back to the shed the officials were waiting for me. Some of them turned away as if they could not bear to witness a second time a scene similar to that which had taken place. Mr. Pitkin, the chaplain, was so distressed that he looked as if he would collapse. The warders were as white as ghosts.

Once more my legs were strapped, and once more the cap and rope were adjusted. Again the chaplain who was standing in front of the shed, facing me, began to pray, and again the bolt was drawn.

This time I made sure that I was gone. I could not see through the cap and when the drop gave I felt as if my terrible drop into space had begun.

The shock took away my breath. I wanted to put out my hands and grasp something. It seemed as if my heart was leaping out of my body.

But death had not come yet. I sank two inches just as before, and there I remained.

The horrible stamping and hammering were repeated but all to no purpose.

I heard them saying, "Stamp on it .....Now see if it will work."

But the trap refused to move.

"Take him off!" commanded someone and I was made to step back two paces off.

The rope was left around my neck, the cap over my head. I was stifling, choking for breath.

But it was terrible to have to stand there and listen to the attempts that were being made to get the scaffold to go.

As before, the bolt was jerked backwards and forwards, and I could hear noises as if wood was being chipped and hacked away. I believe they thought that the planks of the trap had swollen with rain, and that paring away the wood was all that was necessary. Of course I could not see what was going on, the cap was still on.

At the end of an awful five minutes I was again placed upon the drop, and the third attempt was made to execute me.

Again the bolt was drawn, and again there came that fearful jerk as the trap stuck fast and left me poised on my toes.

Once more they began stamping on the boards, but they soon gave it up, and I was taken aside.

The rope was removed, and I felt someone unstrapping my legs.

But what I wanted was air. The cap on my head was slowly smothering me, so I tried to push it off my mouth by bending down my head and raising my manacled hands. I could only move them about an inch.

Apparently my action was misunderstood. The officials thought I was fainting. They were quite mistaken. I was terribly distressed, but I had all my senses about me.

My arms still strapped up. I was taken into the store-room again. The doctor came in, and brought me a glass of brandy.

"No, thank you, sir," I said; "I don't want any brandy."

"Then throw it away," he said to a warder, handing him the tumbler.

I don't know what the warder did with the brandy. I expect he drank it. Instead of the brandy the doctor gave me appelling salts.

I shall never forget the state the officials were in. When the cap was taken off I saw their white agitated faces around me. The chaplain seemed to be on the verge of collapse.

When I had gone to the store-room, I believe the governor sent for a carpenter. I heard the grating of a saw and repeated blows of a hammer. How long all this lasted I could not tell. I sat with my head in my hands. My mind was a blank.

Presently in came Berry.

"My poor fellow," he said, with tears in his eyes, "you have had to suffer."

He then began to take the straps off my arms.

"Don't do that," I cried out. "Leave them on. I want to be hung."

The suspense was becoming unbearable. I wanted them to get it over at any price.

At that moment the chaplain came to me. His face was dreadfully white, and there were tears in his eyes.

"I suppose, my poor fellow," he said, "you know that by the laws of England they can't put you on the scaffold again!"

I did not know, and in any case I too broken up for the moment to. You must understand that each time the bolt was drawn I thought I was gone. For the moment I experienced a strange sensation like that peculiar "falling," sinking feeling one gets in a nightmare. This continued each time until consciousness returned and I felt my feet still on the boards.

The experience was made a thousand times worse owing to the fact that with the cap over my head I was practically in darkness. If I could have looked about me, if my hands or arms had been free, I would not have suffered so acutely. The darkness added to the horrible uncertainty of it all made my agony almost unendurable.

After Berry had removed the straps the governor came in.

Taking me gently by the arm he said:

"Come along, Lee. I'll tell you all about it."

He then told me to sit down whilst Berry took off the straps that had secured my arms and hands.

Free of my bonds, I followed the governor to my cell. The prison bell was still tolling.

Suddenly it ceased. My dream had indeed come true.

There was no execution that morning. They had tried to hang me three times.

Each time they had failed.

Highly Recommended Prescription For Kidney and Bladder Troubles

IT IS MIXED AT HOME

A well known authority states that there are more cases of kidney trouble here now than ever before, while recent reports show that more people succumb each year to some form of kidney disease than any other cause.

When there is sickness, examine the urine. Rheumatism is only a symptom of kidney trouble. It is nothing more or less than excessive uric acid in the blood, which the sluggish, inactive kidneys have failed to sift out, leaving it to decompose and settle about the joints ad muscles, causing intense suffering; frequently resulting in deformity; often reaching the heart when death ensues.

Pains across the back, frequent, painful and suppressed urination and other symptoms of weak bladder are not the only signs of kidney trouble; many cases of stomach disease, headache, pain in the heart, inactive liver, etc., are but symptoms; the cause of which can be traced to feeble, clogged kidneys.

The physicians for the insurance companies always carefully examine and report on the condition of the urine, it is a certain sign of sickness or health of the human body.

A test of the urine should be made by every man and woman at least once each year. A simple test is to void a small quantity of urine in a bottle or glass and let it stand over night; next morning, if there is a reddish brick-dust sediment, or white, filmy substance present, either consult some reputable physician or take a good vegetable treatment. The following prescription is recommended highly in these cases, and it desirable the sufferer can mix it at home. Any good prescription pharmacy has the ingredients, which are harmless and inexpensive: Compound Kargon, one ounce; Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Shake well and use in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime. Where any of the symptoms enumerated above are present, good results are sure to follow immediately the use of this simple prescription.

MR. T. F. MATTHEWS ELECTED PRESIDENT OF THE CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY FOR THIS YEAR

Annual Meeting of the Children's Aid Society Held Last Night Showed Increased Enthusiasm —Mr. A. Mowat Second Vice President

ADDRESS BY J. J. KELSO

The annual meeting of the Children's Aid Society was held last night and was one of the most encouraging that the society has ever experienced. Besides the regular routine of business, Mr. J. J. Kelso, superintendent of the Department for Neglected Children, of Toronto, gave a very able address on that subject, pointing out the best methods to be employed in the treatment of children and the modern movement in dealing with a great social problem.

The attendance was rather discouraging but the enthusiasm of those who were present fully compensated for the small audience. The ladies were well represented.

Mr. P. Campbell, on motion, presided as chairman, and called on the secretary, Mr. Goodwill, to read the minutes of the last annual meeting, which were adopted on motion of Mrs Garvin and Mr. A. Mowat. The minutes of the special meetings held during the past year, were also received.

A communication was received from the president, Mr. J. H. Burnham, expressing his regret that he was unable to attend the meeting. He desired that his resignation be accepted but said that he would always be connected with the society, and offered his services at any time when they might be desired.

A letter was received from Mr. R. M. Dennistoun, the former secretary, acknowledging a letter from the society, expressing his pleasure that the society was flourishing so splendidly and regretted that he could not be present at the annual meeting.

Rev. Canon Davidson moved that the society convey to Mr. J. H. Burnham and Mr. R. M. Dennisteun, their gratification and appreciation of their services while connected with the society and also that their regrets be expressed that circumstances forced their resignations.

Mr. Mowat spoke on the Truancy Act, urging that the power of the Truant Officer be made more comprehensive. He pointed out the necessity of such an action, and described the formal method that the officer at present has to follow before he can act.

Mr. Cochrane agreed with Mr. Mowat's suggestion. He said that outside of the city the Truant Act is practically useless as the officer has no jurisdiction in the country. Moreover, in the city, his power is too limited, having to wait until a teacher reports a pupil's truancy. He believed that the act would be more useful if he had power to apprehend truants at night.

Mr. Kelso gave his advice as to what steps should be taken.

As a result, a resolution was moved by Mr. Mowat, that the secretary write the department calling attention to the conditions as they existed and recommending that the Truant Officer be given more scope in performing his duties.

Secretary's Report

Mr. Goodwill then read the secretary's report, as follows:

To the President, Officers and Members of the Children's Aid Society, of Peterborough,—

Ladies and Gentlemen: I have the honour to present the annual report as secretary of your society. Another year's work has been added to the history of the society, and I venture to say that the year 1907 has been one of the most eventful since your incorporation.

Early in the year by the resignation of Mr. R. M. Dennistoun, K. C., upon his departure for Winnipeg, having filled the office for six years, and of solicitor for upwards of ten years, you lost the services of your most efficient secretary and solicitor, and one of your most active members. His removal has been a great loss to the city, and other organizations, but particularly to the Children's Aid Society. It was with regret that he severed his connection with this society, to which he devoted so much of his time, and the high stand taken by this society can be attributed largely to his faithful and efficient services.

Your have also by removal from the city lost by resignation your president, Mr. Hampden Burnham. Mr. Burnham has for many years taken a great interest in the children's cause, being a charter member of the society, and his absence from our midst is felt very greatly indeed. You will be pleased to know, however,

TEACHERS TO HOLD MEETINGS

Mr. J.E. Hodgson Will Lead a Course in Nature Study

The Public and Separate School teachers of the city held a meeting this morning at the Central School to discuss subjects of interest in their work. A series of meetings will be held during the present term, and attention will first be given to the subject of nature study. Mr. Hodgson of the Collegiate Institute staff has been secured to outline the course in this work for the teachers, and an interesting and profitable series of meetings is expected.

WAS LAID AT REST AT MILLBROOK

Funeral of Late Mrs. Fred McCorry Took Place Yesterday

The funeral of the late Mrs. Fred. McCorry took place yesterday afternoon at Millbrook, and was very largely attended, a long cortege testifying to the esteem in which the deceased was held. Interment took place in the Presbyterian cemetery, and Rev. Mr. Johnston, the pastor of the Millbrook church, conducted the funeral services. The pall-bearers were Messrs. John Deyell, Robt. Deyell, W Walsh, J C Kellet, H Argue, and H. Campbell.

HAMILTON'S FIRE SALE OF GUARANTEED GROCERIES

Commencing Monday Morning, January 27th, at 10 O'Clock

It will be remembered that a fire occurred a month or two ago in Mr. W H Hamilton's grocery store, Simcoe street, causing the loss of large quantities of goods and jeopardising quantities of new stock which had just been opened up for the Christmas trade. After the insurance companies had adjusted the loss, Mr. Hamilton had all the stock unfit for use carted away, and intended to have held a clearing sale of the other goods at the time, but was prevented by the pressure of the holiday business. This sale has now been announced to commence in the store next to Mr. Hamilton's, on Monday morning, 27th inst., when housekeepers and others are offered bargains in groceries which will make it worth their while coming after. See advertisement in another column. Shoppers are requested to notice that the sale does not start until 10 o'clock in the morning.

MANY ATTRACTED TO JACKSON PARK

The Open Air Rink and Toboggan Slide Were Popular

The Jackson Park Street Railway rink was a popular spot last night. The ice was in a splendid condition and almost every available space was taken up. The slide attracted scores of youths and maidens and was very fast on account of the cold weather.

With the band in attendance the evening at the park was all the more inviting and many enjoyed it.

Scotchmen Gather To Commemorate The Birthday Of Burns

Half a Hundred Assemble at The Crown Hotel—They Were Not Foo' But Unco Happy

SCOTCH SONG AND STORY

The Scotchmen of Peterborough gathered to the number of fifty in the Crown Hotel last night to celebrate the 149th anniversary of the birthday of Scotland's bard—Robert Burns. "A Nicht wi' Burns" was the reason for the happy occasion. The gay laddies were there with their tam-o'-shanters, and the assembly was certainly a jovial one. This was the first time the Scotchmen of Peterborough had gathered togother to celebrate the event, and in all probability it will become an annual banquet. The room was gayly decorated with flags and bunting and the Scotch thistle held a conspicuous place in the buttonholes of each Scotchman's coat. Many of those present were fresh from the old land and the broad Scotch was greatly in evidence. The gathering all round was one of the most jovial assemblies that ever congregated at any banquet in Peterborough, and everything was done in real Scotch style. Those who contributed to the programme sang with double energy the old Scottish songs.

Campbells are Comin

The men had all gathered around the festive board when the Scotch haggis was ushered in, preceded by a piper playing "The Campbells Are Comin'." The men cheered lustily during this ceremony, and the haggis was placed before the chairman, Mr. S. Stewart, who served it out to the jolly company. The menu card read as follows:

"Rise up, guid wife, and shake your feathers,
Dinna think that we are beggars—
We're but bairns come to play—
Rise up and gie's bun Hogmanay."

Scotch Haggis (Tam-o'Shanter style)
"Ye powers who mak' mankind your care
An' dish them out their bill o' fare:
Auld Scotisnd wants nae kinkin' wame
That jaups in luggies—
But if ye wish her grateful prayer
Gin her a Haggis."
—Burns.

CAN THIS BE TRUE?
A HARD EARNED REST

Danvers, Mass., Jan. 25. — (Special.)—Henry, H West, retired from active service as teamster for a wire company here, today at the age of ninety years, after having accumulated $50,000 saved from his wages of $12 a week.

West had been in the employ of the company for forty years, and in that time has not been absent from work a single day. Previous to taking the position with the wire company he worked for other concerns, always as a teamster.

He is hale and hearty and retires not because he is unable to continue work, but because he feels that he is entitled to a little easier time for the rest of his days.

NO DISTRESS IN INDIA

So Cables Viceroy When Asked If Help Was Desired To Stave Off Famine

GRATEFUL FOR THE OFFER

Examiner Special.

New York, Jan. 25—Replying to the message by cable inquiring as to the actual famine conditions in India, and tendering help, if desired, Lord Minto, the governor-general and viceroy has sent the following cable despatch to the Christian Herald of this city: "Calcutta, Jan. 24. — Most grateful for generous offer. Will distribute any help America sends, but distress is not yet so acute as to appeal to her liberality.

New Building is Now Contemplated By The Quaker Oats Company

Proposal to Erect a Large Warehouse This Year—Plans Now Being Prepared

MORE ROOM IS NEEDED

The branching out of the business of the Quaker Oats Company again demands the enlargement of their premises in Peterborough and during teh coming year another large addition will, it is expected, be erected during the present year.

The company is contemplating the erection of a building to the south of the elevator and on the vacant property belonging to the company to the north of the large building. If the plans being considered are carried out it will be almost 270 feet in length and four storeys high and will be built of brick.

So far tenders have not yet been invited but it is understood they will be as soon as the plans are complete.

Increase in Trade

The decision to build has been arrived at on account of the rapidity with which the business of the Quaker Oats Company has grown. The new building will be used principally as a warehouse in which to store the goods of the company.

It's erection will mean a good start to the building trade in the city as the warehouse will be of large dimensions and will also mean the employment of additional employees.

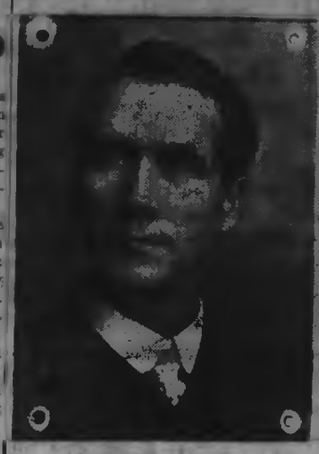
Forgery Charge Against Healey Bros. Dismissed

Charles and Frank Healey were acquitted this morning by Magistrate Edmison of the charge of forging a note which Mr. Chas. Armstrong of Havelock cashed. Full particulars of the affair were published a few days ago.

In dismissing the case His Worship pointed out the evils of intemperance on the part of young men and advised the two boys to guard against it in the future and never to allow themselves to stoop to crime or cheating of any description. In this way they would never find themselves in trouble and would become useful and honest citizens.

SUICIDE TRAGEDY AVERTED IN POLICE COURT CELL BY THE VILIGANCE OF THE OFFICERS

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY LAST NIGHT



MR. A. MOWAT
Public School Inspector, Elected 2nd Vice President of the Society

BUSY AROUND THE CITY HALL

Several Meetings Are Scheduled For The Beginning of The Week

Monday will be rather a busy day around the city hall inasmuch as there are no less than four civic meetings called for that day. The Board of Health will hold a meeting at 9.30 o'clock, the first session of the year, at which a chairman will be elected, and other business transacted. The Charity Board will meet at 7.30 o'clock, and the Fire, Water and Light Committee and the Board of Works hold a joint meeting.

RETURNED FROM THE ORIENT

Mr. F. H. Dixon is Back From Hong Kong, China

Mr. L. H. Dixon, who for the past two years been cashier of the Sun Life Assurance Company at Hong Kong, returned to Peterborough last night, being invalided home. He is being warmly welcomed back by his many friends in this city, who, although very sorry to see that he is not in the best of health, are pleased to have him back again. Mr. Dixon has had a severe illness owing to sunstroke but is recovering nicely. He is accompanied back to the city by his wife.

MANY SAW RETURNS AT BROCK STREET RINK

A Large Number Present—Ice Was in Splendid Condition

There was a large crowd present at the Brock street rink last night where the ice was never in a better condition. The regimental band was present and supplied excellent music for the skaters. The returns of the Peterborough-Lindsay game were also received and despite their discouraging nature, the skaters enjoyed the evening.

NO CHURCH IN VIEW OF THE MONEY DEPRESSION

Charlotte Street Church Building Committee Decide to Wait a Year

At the joint meeting of the Trustee Board and Building Committee of the Charlotte Street Methodist Church last night it was decided not to proceed further this year with the proposed new church building. This action was due to the depression in financial circles, the members of the committees deeming it inadvisable to go on with the building.

The financial report of the trustees was presented and will be submitted at the Quarterly Board meeting the week after next for ratification.

The J. T. Stetson Shoe Store will be closed Monday and Tuesday, Jan 27th and 28th, to arrange stock and mark down all prices for the big sale opens Wednesday, January 29th.

Mrs. George Williamson Found Suspended At Midnight From The Iron Bar of The Cell Door —Because Tired of Life

INTOXICATION THE CAUSE

What might have resulted in a ghastly tragedy, and what might have tainted the reputation of the local police station, was narrowly averted last night by the quick work of P. Cs. Newhall and Meharry. The police had arrested Mrs. Mary Williamson, who resides in the gipsy settlement on Stewart street north, on a charge of being drunk and disorderly. The woman was crazed with drink, and long after she had been confined to the police cells her cries and curses filled the police court sanctuary. About eleven o'clock she began to quiet down, and as the minutes were on to twelve, the two officers, P. Cs. Newhall and Meharry, who were in the office at the time, heard considerable noise coming from the cell. The officers became alarmed, and knowing the condition in which the woman was in, hurried to her cell and found her to be almost strangled to death, by trying to hang herself. The officers opened the door, and rushed in to cut the rope loose, but it was considerably time before she became all right again.

Used Her Scarf

She had fastened a silk handkerchief about her neck and tied it tied in several knots to make it secure. She then stood up in the bench in the cell, and tied one end of her plaid scarf to one of the bars that covers the window of the cell. The other end of the scarf she fastened to the silk handkerchief around her neck, and when all was in readiness jumped from the bench. It would have have been a matter of a few more minutes and Mrs. Williamson would have passed to the great beyond. Her body was held suspended about two feet from the floor, and when the officers found her she was almost dead. Her face was a ghastly hue, and her lips were livid. She was let down immediately and the hanging apparatus—the handkerchief and scarf — was taken into the office and placed in the cupboard along with other relics of past events.

The unfortunate woman appeared in the police court this morning before His Worship Magistrate Dumble on a charge of being drunk and was remanded for a week. Her fair hair was in an unkempt condition and her ragged clothing gave her a pitiable appearance. She received her remand without a murmur, and walked downstairs again to her cell.

This is the first time in the history of the Peterborough police station that a prisoner has deliberately tried to commit suicide while locked up in the cells.

COUNTY COUNCIL NEXT WEEK

Will Meet on Tuesday For a Five Day's Session

The County Council will hold its first session for the present year on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock in their chambers in the Court House building. The first business to be done is the election of a Warden, following which the Standing Committees will be appointed. The Council will be in session five days. The reports of last year will be received besides other general business of importance which will be brought up before the week is over.

WATER BY-LAW WAS PASSED

Water Commissioners Held a Meeting Yesterday

At a meeting of the Water Commissioners held yesterday afternoon bylaw No. 2, entitled a bylaw to fix and provide for levying a special frontage rate upon lands in the City of Peterborough fronting [illegible] streets, lanes and alleys upon which water mains are laid, was passed and signed and sealed by the chairman and secretary-treasurer, on motion of Messrs. Hall and Moore. This is the bylaw which was voted on by the ratepayers at the beginning of the year, and will not likely come into effect before July 1st of this year.

No Lockout in Manchester.

Manchester, Jan. 25.—There will be no lockout of the Manchester cotton operatives. Lengthy negotiations between the cotton mill workers and their employers resulted in the capitulation of the workers last evening. The employers insisted upon the acceptance of their terms, and to these the men agreed. This understanding averts the great lockout, which would have been commenced to-day.

THE COUNTY COUNCIL

The inaugural meeting of the Council of the County of Peterborough will be held at the Court House on Tuesday next. We don't hear very much about the doings of this body; and, perhaps, fortunately, too. It is the maxim of the principal of the Collegiate Institute that when there is no "news" about the Institute, no talk of its doings, things are moving on satisfactorily. The County Council is governed by the general law that great forces work silently. A glacier, consisting of millions of tons of ice, moves down a mountain valley with a steady and irresistible force, but withal, silently. One thing that distinguishes the Peterborough County Council is the force it exerts without fuss. In the Dominion Parliament, in the Ontario Legislature, and, conspicuously, judging by the past, in our City Council nothing can be done without a deluge of talk. The merits of public questions are sunken and obscured fathoms deep by a turbid flood of limitless oratory. Motive power, whether from steam, consumer gas or electricity, has no practical interest for these bodies. The Dominion, Provincial and civic forces are moved by wind power, apparently exhaustless in quantity. But the County Council of this county takes itself seriously—it meets to do business, and it does it. It has a good deal of important business to do, too. It has the expenditure of about $75,000 a year—last year the amount was about $80,000; the year before, $100,000—to look after carefully. It has thirty expensive bridges to maintain, and has to hold the balance with even hand between the several municipalities. Yet it does all this without as much talk or discussion, in the course of a year, as a city council would expend in buying a wheelbarrow or a length of fire hose. They conduct their business in committee, and only meet in council to hear some deputation or to implement the decisions arrived at. This is done with dignity, decorum and despatch. The business is done, and the corked vessels of oratory are reserved for some expeditionary visit of bridge inspection. This absence of oratorical splurge accounts for the generally excellent manner in which the county business is transacted. The one exciting event of the year is the election of warden, and over this there is not a great deal of display. The dignity is one worth striving for. It means the presidency of the Council and the privilege of wearing the silken robe of office, which, with a wise prevision, has been tailored to answer the various physical make-ups of its successive wearers. Be a man six feet tall or four feet tall, the same warden's gown must serve for both. The fit of the gown is of less importance because it is used only on state occasions, such as the investiture of the new incumbent of the warden's chair, and then stowed away for the rest of the year, out of the reach of the moths. The election of warden is generally conducted by ballot, and there have been some notable, but silent and breathless struggles. On one occasion there were nearly two score of ballots taken, and the apparent deadlock or see-saw of ballots was broken by the voters leaving the favourites at the three-quarter pole and bringing in the dark horse a winner. There promises to be an interesting election this time, because, except perhaps to the inner circle, the personality of the coming warden is a mystery, for whose solution next Tuesday afternoon will have to be awaited. As a rule, there is some sort of observance of the unwritten law that the honour must be passed around—that one municipality is not to unduly honoured with the wardenship over the others. But when the contest becomes keen and the ropes get tangled, some municipality and some reeve or deputy reeve may come into the honour a little out of turn. But whoever is elected, he will preside over a council that won't waste much time in talk, but doubtless do the public business in a praiseworthy way.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Not to be a "K.C." will soon be a mark of distinction among lawyers, judging by the broadcast way in which the silk-lined title is being distributed.

Who will be Warden of Peterborough for 1908, is the chief question will agitate the members at the opening of the County Council next Tuesday. Half a dozen names are mentioned.

Mr. Valentine Stock has been nominated as the Liberal candidate in South Perth to oppose the Minister of Agriculture. This is a kind of stock Hon. Mr. Monteith will not look after very tenderly.

Three islands near Yucatan have disappeared beneath the water, evidently a case of seismic absorption. Yucatan is in the earthquake belt and this fact suggests the possibility Uncle Sam's near-by Panama canal waking up some fine morning to find itself dumped into the bowels of the earth to cool off some feverish volcano.

In the German Reichstag, the Chancellor is described as "trembling with indignation." Under similar conditions French members of the Chambers of Deputies tear their hair and weep. The Anglo-Saxon generally confides the expression of his feelings to the employment of a word generally printed with a d, followed by a dash.

The building record for the Town of Welland last year, represented nearly a million of dollars. Not so bad for a town of about 5,000 population, which a few years ago was practically dead. The material used in building was principally board—that is, the great revival of the town's industry and progress is chiefly due to a most energetic and much alive Board of Trade, which exists for the purpose of doing things. The recent rate of progress maintained a few years will place the Town of Welland in the City column.

Popular Cure for Croup

Anyone who has tested Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, as a cure for croup, will not hesitate to pronounce it an unqualified success. It is wonderfully prompt in relieving the cough, clearing the air passages and soothing the excited nerves. Many mothers who realise the suddenness with which croup comes on keep this great medicine promptly on hand for use in case of emergency.

WILL EXPLODE BOMBS.

Governor Fights the "Revolutionists With Their Own Weapons.

Odessa, Jan. 25.—Gen. Tomaltcheff has been made Governor General of Odessa in succession to Gen. Soufal, and he has inaugurated his reign with a determination to fight the revolutionists of Odessa with conspicuous energy.

An example of this determination was given yesterday. The police discovered a bomb, left it where it was and the new governor was notified. He gave orders that the bomb be exploded where it was found. This was done, with the result that the entire house where the tea-room was located was destroyed.

Gen. Tomaltcheff announces that this method of fighting the revolutionists will be continued.

The new governor-general came here from the Caucasus, where he held the post of governor.

BOAR ATTACKS ALFONSO.

King Has Narrow Escape From Death While Out Shooting.

Madrid, Jan. 25th.—King Alfonso had a narrow escape from death while hunting yesterday. A wild boar unexpected appeared and rushed at the King, who shot the animal. The King then dropped his gun and walked up to the body, supposing that he had killed the boar, but it suddenly bounded up and flew furiously at the King, who was saved only by a prompt shot fired by one of the party into the maddened animal's head. The King was unhurt.

Oyster Schooners Lost.

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 25.—Four oyster schooners are believed to have been lost in yesterday's storm off Brown Shoal. The body of a white man supposed to have been from one of these vessels was swept by a Newport News dock in a heavy current. The sea was so high that the body could not be caught.

With the temperature down to 22 degrees, the Virginia and North Carolina coast was swept by a severe storm, accompanied by a blinding snow and increasing northwest winds, which yesterday afternoon had reached a maximum velocity of 60 miles an hour at Cape Henry.

The steamer Jamestown, of the old Dominion Steamship Co., en route from New York for Norfolk, was reported last night by the wireless station at the navy yard, 50 miles off the Virginia Capes, unable to stem the storm, and put her nose in the Capes. The vessel is being slowly driven seaward.

Suppressing the Newspapers.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 25.—The prefect of St. Petersburg yesterday suspended two newspapers of the capital of wide circulation, Tovarish and The Sevednia, on the ground that they were preaching revolution.

The suspension of The Sevednia leaves St. Petersburg with but one afternoon newspaper.

Accountant Ends His Life.

St. John, Que., Jan. 25.—Arthur Leger, chief accountant of the Corticelli Silk Co., committed suicide yesterday morning. The deed is supposed to have been committed while in a fit of temporary insanity.

Port au Prince, Hayti, Jan. 25.—The revolutionists have taken possession of the town of Port de Paix, 35 miles west of Cape Haytian. An English and a French cruiser are expected on the coast shortly. They will give protection to British and French interests.

Charles Miot, the American consular agent at St. Marc, has been removed from office by the American legation, because of his complicity with the rebels. Miot is a Haytian.

Let the Store Burn.

Cornwall, Jan. 25.—About 9 o'clock last night persons passing the store of Burton Bros., Osnabruck Centre, saw there was fire inside, and on opening the door the flames rushed out. There being no fire-fighting appliances, and everything frozen up, nothing could be done but let the place burn. It is supposed the fire caught from a stove. The telephone office was in the burned premises.

Passengers Walked Ashore.

New York, Jan. 25.—The steamer H. Starin of the Starin line, plying between New York and New Haven, went ashore at Willet's Point, while entering the East River yesterday morning en route from New Haven to this city. The Starin was engaged in both passenger and freight service. She was so high and dry that the passengers walked ashore.

ENGLAND

The new game of Diabolo has claimed its first victim in London. Dr. Wynn F. Westcott, coroner, held an inquest at Hackney on the body of Rose Annie Page, aged eight, the daughter of a general dealer, of Mortimer road, Dalston, who died from an injury sustained while playing "Diabolo." The girl was playing "Diabolo" in the garden. After a time she went in doors and said she had thrown the spindle up and it had struck her on the left side of the head. About 2.30 o'clock the next morning she was seized with vomiting and convulsions. She was seen by a doctor and then removed to the Metropolitan Hospital, where she died. The spindle in question was produced in court and proved to be a wooden one. The coroner remarked that though that would be sufficient to hurt a child if it fell on the head from a height, it would not do so much damage as some he saw in France last summer made of china.

Pedestrians hurrying along Oxford street, London, the other evening a few minutes before 10 o'clock witnessed the novel and unusual spectacle of a motor-omnibus careering wildly along the pavement. This extraordinary sight excited a great deal of consternation at the time. The vehicle was travelling from Marble Arch to the city. Just before it reached the Bond street Tube station it came into violent collision through some reason yet unexplained, with a one-horse brougham standing at the side of the pavement, smashing this conveyance up, it mounted the curb bodily, turning as it did so on a parallel with the roadway, and travelled some distance before it was stopped. The driver was the only one thrown from the omnibus, but he was only slightly shaken up. Although a great number of passengers were aboard at the time, no one was injured.

IRELAND

While a train from Belfast to Bangor, Co. Down, was travelling at high speed between Orrigavad and Clandeboys, the engine on rounding a curve dashed into a big bank of earth and rocks which had fallen from the side of a cutting. The driver escaped injury, but the fireman was thrown against the firebox and seriously injured internally. Although none were badly hurt, the majority of the passengers complained of severe shock. Until the line was cleared late in the afternoon at the Bangor end a number of horses were requisitioned and a couple of carriages containing passengers and heavy Christmas mail were hauled to a cutting about four miles away and thence transferred to a train on the other side of the obstruction. The collapse of the cutting took place only a few minutes before the train was due at the spot.

There has just passed away in the village of Naiva, Co. Donegal, Mr. Cornelius McColl, one of the oldest inhabitants of the Downetrands district at the computed age of 108. McColl was born in the townland of Clooney, a mile from where he died. He worked for various masters in Donegal and Tyrone. After he was 30 he went to Scotland, and later to America, where he spent 15 years. Upon his way from the States he was shipwrecked twice. He lived three months in Bermuda, the penal settlements. Ultimately he preached Ireland during the famine in the forties, and used to tell harrowing tales of the privations suffered by the unfortunate people during that period. Notwithstanding that he had lived so long and travelled so much, it was remarkable fact that McColl never never saw a train until a few days before his death.

SCOTLAND

Once again Gretna Green, Dumfries, has witnessed a runaway marriage at the famous old blacksmith's shop. When the couple told the "priest," John Dixon, who is a shoemaker and lives next door, that they wanted to be married, he was not slow to comply with the request. He took them into the old shop which bears the name of "Headless Cross," and over the old anvil and register book the runaways joined hands and plighted their eternal faith in the usual way, and afterwards signed the register. Refreshments were brought from a public-house, and there being by this time a large number of villagers present the health of the "happy pair" was duly pledged. The lovers then drove off to their home at Canonbie. Gretna Green weddings were declared illegal in 1856, except in the case where one of the parties had resided in Scotland in 21 days.

A legacy of £40,000 left by the Earl of Leven for the repair and restoration of the Abbey Church at Holyrood, is not, it seems, available after all for that purpose. Some legal difficulty had interposed, and there has been much disappointment in Scotland in consequence. The Holyrood Restoration Committee has memorialised the trustees of the late earl, asking that, as the restoration of the chapel is perfectly practicable, and much desired in Scotland, they should reconsider the whole question and seek the permission of the King for the work; but the trustees, who have taken counsel's opinion as to their legal position, reply that the fund of £40,000 is not applicable for the purpose named in Lord Leven's codicil, and must fall into and form part of his residuary estate.

The Indian Mutiny Described By a Gallant Old Soldier

Story of The Fall of Delhi And of The Fighting During That War---Was in The Trenches at Sebastopol--Wounded At The Redan

"In the fifties the private soldier was not generally as well educated as he is to-day, and the letters that came home from the men and even the non-commissioned officers to their relatives seldom contained more than brief statements of facts, and possibly expressions of sorrow at the death of some especially favourite comrade. But one gallant old fellow, John Acome by name, who, unhappily, is partially paralysed and was not equal to meeting his old companions-in-arms on Dec. 28, kept a diary, which he transcribed when he left the Queen's regular service in 1863. He became sergeant in the 90th Light Infantry, and his record begins that he "Enlisted into the 90th Light Infantry in the year of our Lord, 1852, 15th of March, at Westminster at the age of 17 and 4 months, and joined my regiment at Cork Barracks, Ireland, 15th of April, 1853." He was in the trenches before Sebastopol, and was at the storming of the Redan on Sept. 9 where he was slightly wounded. He sets down with great pride how he came home Her Majesty's ship The Queen, "one of the largest man-of-war ships of that date ,and carried 161 guns."

Delhi was Falling

The narrative is so simple and so graphic that extracts from it are best given in the old man's words—"The regiment had not been at Portsmouth long before the order came that it was to hold itself in readiness to embark for China War,, but we did not embark until 13th April,, 1857. The regiment, at least seven companies,, on board the Himalaya again, and we were to proceed to China War; the other four companies embarked on Her Majesty's ship Transit, but when they got to a place called Bankers Island,, on the coast of Ceylon, the ship got on a rock and broke in two, but only one life was lost. They had just time to get all men's kits out before she disappeared under water. The Himalaya was made a man-of-war. The whole regiment was under the command of Colonel Campbell and Lieut.-Colonel W. P. Purnell. When we got to a place called Java Head there was a gunboat there waiting with orders for us to proceed to Calcutta with all speed."

From Calcutta the 90th was ordered to Chinsura, and thence to Allahabad,, Here they found "General Outram in command, and he gave all orders for everything and we all started on our voyage again,, and when we got a place called Dinapore one of Her Majesty's regiments was about mutinying at that station,, so orders were given to disembark,, and we were formed up on the parade in front of them, and orders were read to them by General Outram. At the time they seemed satisfied, and we came back to our boats again, and started on our journey to Buxar to disarm two companies of Sepoys. While doing so a message came up to General Outram again, so five companies went back and read the Riot Act to them and would have made them all prisoners, but they all agreed to do their duty. Two companies of the regiment were left at Buxar while coming back and we were in Buxar for twenty-four hours, then the remainder of the regiment came back and the companies went on board again, two days' steaming to a place called Berhampore.

Belts and Swords Broken

The cavalry were then disarmed, their belts being cut and the swords broken. Then, "when we got back to our boats we gave General Outram cheer after cheer for his generalship, all done so quiet. Our Colonel Campbell and Colonel W. P. Purnell gave us extra rations when we marched back, the band played, "Young Campbell is coming. Oh dear! Oh dear!' The next day we steamed off for Allahabad, three days' journey. We never steamed by night, but we certainly expected to have had to turn out one night,, and we were fully prepared for it if we had, for we always had rifles by our side and our belts on ready for any emergency. . . . . I think it is between 100 or 200 miles from Allahabad to Cawnpore, the force marching every night. We did not then march by day unless we had to go and give some of the Sepoys a bit of a brush, then each company took its turn in going out to attack them and clear them off. We marched all up the Grand Trunk road and what with our baggage animals and bazaar, it reaches three miles, so that it was very inconvenient for those on the baggage guard. We reached Cawnpore just two days after the massacre had occurred, after we had been marching our last night's march, and it was just getting daylight when we came in sight of home tents. Little did we men think we were so near Cawnpore, but General Outram and his aide-de-camp rode on in front to see whose it was, and found it was General Havelock's camp, and the band of the 64th and 84th Regiments came out to meet us, and played us into the camp to the tune 'See the Conquering Heroes Coming.'

"We stopped at Cawnpore three days to get a bridge of boats made to get our guns across the River Ganges; the fourth day we crossed the Ganges, and after having an engagement General Havelock formed our regiment into square and read a letter he had from the War Office, of which he said, "Men of the 90th Light Infantry, I am very pleased to have such good news of your bravery in the Crimea with the Enfield rifle, and that you have proved yourselves with the knowledge of it. This is the character I have received of the regiment, and to-day I hope the first day under my command, I am very proud to have the pleasure to lead you into action with the rifle you had so much experience of in the late war. Now, men of the 90th, this time we want you to commence your duty, of which I expect every man to do his duty.' We had left all our kits behind us, had nothing but what we stood upright after three days' journey. The detachment of the 64th Regiment and 84th Regiment, and the whole of the 90th Light Infantry, commenced the march in Oude Presidency, Sept. 22, 1857, fighting the whole of the way."

Old Man's Words

Sergeant Acome tells how, on Sept. 25, the news came that Delhi was taken and Havelock and Outram were making their supreme effort. Then "we were in Lucknow just fighting day and night for our food and to keep the Christians men, women and treasury, and a 78th Detachment that was there before our brigade got there; but our regiment was the only regiment that had rifles, so we were always engaged in front, and the Sepoys could not make it out as we fired a longer distance than they could, and we also showed different movements than they knew. On Nov. 25, 1857, Sir Colin Campbell came into Lucknow and relieved us out of Lucknow with a much larger force than what ours was, and we all joined together and soon cleared the town in three days. Then what was left of General Havelock's and Outram's brigades was left on Alumbaugh Plain, where we had to keep fighting day and night; but I am sorry to say that we lost our colonel and our brave General Havelock, who died at Dilkoosha. General Outram took command of the brigade, and Lieut.-Colonel W. P. Purnell took command of our regiment."

No Ability To Digest Food

NERVOUS SYSTEM SO EXHAUSTED THAT THE VITAL ORGANS ARE FEEBLE IN ACTION

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

The digestive system is a wonderful piece of machinery, but power is necessary to make it effective.

Overwork, worry, anxiety and excessive mental effort exhaust the nervous system at a tremendous rate.

In this case the power is the nerve force contained in the body, and if the nerve force is lacking the digestive system becomes crippled and there is suffering from indigestion nervous headaches, neuralgic pains, dizzy spells, weakness and discouragement.

Strength cannot be regained from the food you eat so long as digestion is so imperfect, but you can be restored by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, which contains in condensed pill form the very elements of nature which and repair must be made before come dreadful form of nervous disease sets in. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food invigorates the nerves which control the digestive fluids, sharpens the appetite, is slightly laxative, so as to encourage the action of the bowels and strengthens every organ of the body.

You can use this treatment feeling certain that every dose is doing you at least some good, and can prove it by noting your increase in weight.

Mrs. M. A. Sharp, 346 Dublin street, Peterborough, Ont., states: "For some years I was troubled with indigestion which developed into nervous dyspepsia and besides suffering from nervousness, dizzy spells would come over me. Hearing of the good results obtained from Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I decided to try it. After a pretty thorough test of this medicine I can say that I never used anything that did me so much good. It seemed to be the very treatment that I needed and as a result of the use I am quite restored to health."

CAUGHT BY THE GRIP-- RELEASED BY PE-RU-NA.

La Grippe is Epidemic Catarrh.

THE disease now known as 'grip' used to be called 'influenza.'

It very closely resembles a cold, but is more tenacious in its hold upon the system and produces more profound disturbances.

Grip is in reality epidemic catarrh. When it once begins it spreads over the country very rapidly.

People do not catch the grip from each other, but each one catches it from the atmosphere.

"Most Effective Medicine Ever Tried for La Grippe."

Robt. L. Madison, A. M., Principal of Cullowhee High School, Painter, N. C., is chairman of the Jackson County Board of Education.

He is a writer of occasional verse and has contributed to a number of leading papers and magazines,—religious, educational and secular.

In speaking of Peruna, Mr. Madison says:

"I am hardly ever without Peruna in my home. It is the most effective medicine that I have ever tried for la grippe.

"It also cured my wife of nasal catarrh. Her condition at one time was such that she could not at night breathe through her nostrils.

"In consequence, an inflamed condition of the throat was brought about, getting worse and worse and yielding to no remedy until Peruna was tried."

Healthy Mucous Membranes.

Those who are fortunate enough to have perfectly healthy mucous membranes ordinarily do not catch the grip.

The mucous membranes lining the nose, throat and lungs, when in a normal state, are an effectual barrier against the invasion of grip.

But, if there happens to be the slightest catarrhal derangement of the mucous membranes, then the victim becomes an easier prey to the grip.

This in part explains why some people get the grip, while others do not.

The rational thing to do is to keep the system free from catarrh. In attempting to do this most people have found Peruna to be invaluable.

Systemic Catarrh, the Result of La Grippe. Pe-ru-na Receives Credit for Present Good Health.

Mrs. Jennie W. Gilmore, Box 44, White Oak, Ind. Ter., formerly Housekeeper for Indiana Reform School for Boys, writes:

"Six years ago I had la grippe, which was followed by systemic catarrh.

"The only thing I used was Peruna and Manalin, and I have been in better health the last three years than for years before.

"I give Peruna all the credit for my good health."

The Medical Profession Recognizes The Grip as Epidemic Catarrh.

During an epidemic of grip Peruna should be used. The doses recommended on the bottle are sufficient.

After the grip has once been acquired, Dr. Hartman recommends the use of Peruna in teaspoonful doses every hour during the acute stage, after which the directions on the bottle should be followed.

Experience has shown that the people who use Peruna as a remedy for grip generally recover sooner and are less liable to the distressing and long-continued after-effects of the grip.

When Peruna has not been used during the course of the grip and the patient finds himself suffering from the after-effects of this disease, a course of Peruna should be resorted to.

Suffered Twelve Years From After-Effects of La Grippe.

Mr. Victor Patneaude, 238 Madison St., Topeka, Kan., member of Knights and Ladies of Security, writes:

"Twelve years ago I had a severe attack of la grippe and I never really recovered my health and strength—but grew weaker every year, until I was unable to work.

"Two years ago I began using Peruna and it built up my strength so that in a couple of months I was able to go to work again.

"This winter I had another attack of la grippe, but Peruna soon drove it out of my system. My wife and I consider Peruna a household remedy."

Pneumonia Followed La Grippe.

Mr. T. Barnecott, West Aylmer, Ontario, Can., writes:

"Last winter I was ill with pneumonia after having la grippe. I took Peruna for two months, when I became quite well, and I can say that any one can be cured by it in a reasonable time at little expense."

Pe-ru-na—A Tonic After La Grippe.

Mrs. Chas. E. Wells, Sr., Delaware, Ohio, writes: "After a severe attack of la grippe, I took Peruna and found it a very good tonic."

Mrs. Jane Gift, Athens, Ohio, writes: "Six years ago I had la grippe very bad. I read a testimonial of a woman who had been cured of grip by Peruna. My husband bought me a bottle of Peruna. I was soon able to do my work. I continued using it until I was cured."

SLEEPLESS BABIES ARE SICKLY BABES

"Well babies sleep soundly and wake up brightly. When little ones are restless, sleepless and cross it is the surest sign that they are not well. Probably the stomach or bowels are out of order or it may be teething troubles. Give Baby's Own Tablets, and see how quickly the child grows well and happy and sleeps soundly and naturally. Not the drugged sleep of "soothing" medicines but the natural sleep of health. FIRST CONSIGNMENT OF GOVERNMENT FLAGS

2000 Shipped Yesterday Within the Time Limit—Communication From Quebec

Yesterday Messrs. J. J. Turner & Sons sent the first shipment of the Union Jack flags to the Ontario Government at Toronto. The consignment consisted of 2,000 flags, being the first of three orders of 2,000 each. In taking the contract this firm agreed to send a shipment every three months, and yesterday's was well within the time limit, showing the progressiveness of this firm. The flags will be distributed among the various schools of Ontario.

The firm has also received a communication from the city clerk of Quebec, asking them to tender on the decorations of that city for the celebration of the Tercentennary of Champlain's Landing at Quebec, full-er particulars of which they will receive later.

"CURED TO STAY"

Is the universal testimony for South American Nervine, and what it did for Mrs. Armstrong it will do for any woman living.

"For one who has suffered as I have for over six years from nervous prostration, and having spent nearly all I possessed in doctor bills without any permanent relief, you can imagine what a God-sent blessing I feel South American Nervine has been to me. The first few doses gave me great relief. It took six bottles in all to cure me, but I feel I am cured to stay cured."—Mrs. Geo. Armstrong, Orillia, Ont. (31 that although absent from this city, Mr. Burnham continues to take an active interest in our work.

The Year's Work

During the past year, thirty-seven children were placed in the Shelter, being one of the largest years in the history of the Shelter. Of course, it is only the exceptional case that is placed in the Shelter and during the past year a great many cases have been investigated and the children placed directly in foster homes.

The society is fortunate in having the services of Mr. Cochrane as agent. He has in the past year rendered valuable aid in the carrying on of the work, investigating and reporting all matters placed in his hands, and discharging his duties in a manner reflecting great credit upon himself and the society.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry continue to discharge their duties in the Shelter to the utmost satisfaction. The fact that I found the children all anxious to return, and, in one or two instances, going so far as to deliberately stir up trouble in the foster home with the express object of being sent back to the Shelter, to be with Mr. and Mrs. Henry, speaks volumes in itself.

The New Shelter

The members of the society have reason to congratulate themselves upon the acquisition of the new Shelter upon such favourable terms, the city having granted us the use of the Hilliard house and part of the grounds for a term of twenty years at a nominal rental, with the undertaking on the part of the society to place in the house certain improvements. With the expenditure of a moderate sum of money this property will be placed in first class shape for the children. At present we have only possession of the east end of the house, but in the spring we will obtain the remaining part.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry have succeeded in making this new home a very comfortable and attractive spot and they deserve great credit for the manner in which they have renovated the portion of the house now occupied by them.

Many cases have been investigated during the year in the city and county, and warnings have been given to parents whose conduct towards their children, while not sufficiently cruel to justify the society in taking possession of the children was yet of such a nature as to call for interference.

It is believed that the influence of the Society has proved a powerful factor in the community. In many cases where no direct action has been taken, parents and others now know that there is an organization that can reach them, and many are afraid of the disgrace of exposure, with the result that there are fewer cases of cruelty reported than formerly.

A Particular Case

In all cases reported we have taken prompt and vigorous action, in which we have been assisted by the Crown officers. One case in particular may be mentioned, which came under our notice. A widow, with a large family of small children, placed one, a very pretty young child, in a home in the neighbouring county. Information having been received by the mother that the child was not receiving proper treatment she had a friend call and bring the infant to the city. It was then discovered that the child had been used in a most cruel manner. The mother was advised to consult with the officers of the society. Upon investigation we found a pitiable sight. Her face and body had been covered with large bruises and exhibited evidences of having received the most inhuman usage. The Crown officers in the county in which the alleged offender resided, were consulted and in a short time she was brought to justice.

People living in the vicinity of a character of this type do not feel inclined to take any steps. Indeed, it is with considerable difficulty that evidence can be obtained from them, when proceedings are brought by the society. The reason is obvious. A person of this nature in the community in which he lives, and more especially, if it is a country district terrorizes it to a considerable extent.

The large increase of juvenile crime in this city during the past year has been repeatedly the subject of comment by the press, the magistrates, clergy and others. The Grand Jury at the Fall Assizes of the High Court of Justice, made it the subject of special comment and made certain recommendations which your officers heartily endorsed.

Your officers have been asked many times as to what is the cause of this rapid increase of crime. No doubt there are many things to be taken into consideration to properly arrive at a correct estimate, but we would suggest as a most striking delineation of the cause in this city, to be lack of parental control.

Parental Neglect

As solicitor of your society I personally attended to over thirty juvenile trials before the City Police Magistrate, and also at all cases investigated before the County Police Magistrate. In over 90 per cent. of the cases tried the offence charged was that of theft. The evidence adduced at these trials clearly indicated that the crime was the natural outgrowth and culmination of waywardness unchecked, self-will and self-indulgence unrestrained, and of long-standing parental neglect.

A careful record has been kept of all children placed in foster homes, and the report of the Provincial visitor as received from the superintendent, Mr. Kelso, have been examined and, when necessary, action has been taken. In only a comparatively few cases we considered it necessary to make a change, and we are glad to note that our action has been beneficial. We frequently find that a child of a certain disposition will not suit certain foster parents, and we impress upon parents to first take the child upon trial for a short time, and, if not suited, they may exchange it for another.

One little girl of peculiar disposition, has been at five different homes within seven months and returned to the Shelter as unsatisfactory in each case. She has been placed in another home a few weeks ago and the foster parents asked for adoption papers to be executed as they said they would not like to part with her for anything.

We are glad to find that there seems to be an unlimited demand for bright, healthy children between the ages of two and six years, and this year we have experienced no difficulty whatever in placing in good homes where they are gladly received, a large number of children. There is also a large demand for older children, but these are sought not for adoption but for the service they can render.

One of the most encouraging and pleasing features of the work is to receive the applications of foster parents for adoption papers. Of the number of children placed on trial during the year ten have been permanently adopted, and we have in the Shelter at the present time only one child.

Gratitude Extended

It is evidently from the many gifts received by the Society during the year that our work continues to be commended and appreciated. Our thanks and gratitude are extended:

1. To the City Council and City Trust Commissioners for the grant in such favourable terms of the Hilliard house and part of the adjacent grounds for our use as a Shelter.
2. To the Trustees of the Nicholls Estate for their liberal grant which has made it possible to renovate and place our new Shelter in proper conditions for the work.
3. To the City and County Councils for their annual grants.
4. To the Ontario Government for their grant which we hope may be an annual one.
5. To the various churches, Sunday Schools, the medical profession, the Ministerial Association and Press and others for gifts and money and treats for the children.
6. To Ex-Mayor Best for the use of his property as a Shelter for so many years on so liberal terms.
7. To the Police Magistrate and the members of the Police force and many friends in the City and County who have assisted us so materially by their gifts, help and co-operation in carrying on the work of the Children's cause.

Conclusion

The following is a brief reference to a few of the cases which have come under our notice since the last annual meeting:—

Case 500.—This young girl was placed in The Orthopedic Hospital in Toronto and maintained there by the society for nine weeks to undergo treatment for her feet, the use of which she was rapidly being deprived of. Through the skill and care of Dr McKenzie the Superintendent of the hospital, she is now able to walk around almost completely cured.

Case 552.—Two small children were deserted in this city by their mother, and came under our care. The only information concerning them was what we could gather from the children and that very indefinite. One, a pretty little girl, has been placed in a good home and shortly after adopted. After considerable difficulty in following up all possible clews we have succeeded in locating friends of these two infants and in a few days the other child will be placed in the hands of his grandfather.

Case 501.—The parents in this case were reported to be neglecting their young children and drinking to excess. The case was investigated and the parents finding that they were about to lose their children, made a pitiful appeal to have them restored to them upon undertaking and promising to reform. This case was placed in the hands of the prohibition officer. The children were returned and we are glad to report conditions are much improved.

Case 567.—This boy appeared a considerable number of times in the police court charged with theft. He was finally placed in the Industrial School. The parents subsequently made him over as a ward to the Society and we had him removed from the Industrial School and placed as a good home in the country where he is reported being very well.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

E. L. GOODWILL,
Secretary.

The above report was presented by the treasurer, Mr. Peter Campbell, and was adopted.

Mr. Campbell in a few words introduced Mr. Kelso and expressed his pleasure that he had been able to attend the meeting and visit the Peterborough Children's Aid Society.

Mr. Kelso's Address

Mr. Kelso congratulated the society on its strength and the influence it was exerting. He referred to the interesting nature of the work, the development of the children once they become wards of the society. Not one per cent., he said, of these children ever go astray after they have entered the world when they have reached mature years. The society in this regard has been most successful and few failures have ever been recorded.

The Children's Aid Society, Mr. Kelso said, tries to remove the evils in the home, which is the real cause of wrong-doing on the part of the children. More attention should be given the social side of the home, and the question of improving the surroundings of poor families is one of the greatest problems to-day. The poor, Mr. Kelso said, have a very hard time. When the children of poor parents get into trouble they are generally punished in the courts, sent to prison for serious offences, and receive not the least consideration. On the other hand, children of wealthy parents are assisted by the position and wealth of their fathers. Boys brought up under adverse circumstances need sympathy and the assistance of those who can aid them; not turned down on every hand and treated as malefactors and people fit only to be punished.

Treatment of the Poor

The general public has but little sympathy for the poor. Mr. Kelso said they are crowded into alleys and side streets, where the most unsanitary conditions prevail, where the children are dragged into maturity without education or the benefits of our modern civilization and religion. Hence the children are not responsible for their actions. Mr. Kelso advocated reforming these conditions and thus getting at the root of the evil. Playgrounds are needed in the cities. Children do not know how to play. Left to themselves the boys are rough. They swear, and act generally in a most unbecoming manner. In a playground under the watchful eye of a good instructor they would be taught self-control, manliness, fairness and how to enjoy their games without using profane language or allowing their lower nature to predominate over them. Girls could be treated in a similar way.

Children and Truancy

Mr. Kelso said that in the Province, out of 250 municipalities, only 75 have appointed truant officers, and many of them do not, or have not the opportunity of performing their work in the proper manner. He was not in favour of whipping children. That was not the proper way to deal with them. Mr. Kelso told of the methods he has always employed and which have invariably proved successful. Sympathize with them, praise them, trust them, are a few of the influences he brings to bear upon the children and this wins their affections and accomplishes through this spirit the desired result, and trains the young minds to act from the proper motives.

In Ontario there are 67 Children's Aid Societies, and in every case they find a scarcity of children. Mr. Kelso said that instead, the orphanages in the country are filled with them, costing in a year $158,000. There life is narrow and confined to their playgrounds. They wear a uniform and are carefully kept away from the world. Were they under the care of the Children's Aid Societies they would be placed in good homes, would learn to buffet with the world, and would be turned out valuable citizens. Mr. Kelso said there are few cases of ill-treatment recorded, and as soon as they are learned of the children are removed.

In conclusion he urged the society to persevere, and advised it to extend its jurisdiction over a larger district. Haliburton county is in a shocking state, he said. Being a poor district, a larger percentage of the people are uneducated, are brought up in vice, and consequently are of very low morals. He suggested that the Peterborough society, being financially strong, should take up this district and extend its influence where it was needed, and thus increase the good work it was doing.

At the conclusion of the address Mr. Goodwill moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Kelso for his most interesting talk on the work of dealing with the poorer classes, and for his kindness in coming down from Toronto for that express purpose. Mr. Todd seconded the motion.

Mr. Goodwill also moved that Mr Kelso be asked to assign to the local society the district he referred to—Haliburton. Rev. A H Brace seconded it. Mr. Cochrane moved the appointment of a house committee to assist him in his duties of visiting particular houses.

Wit and Wisdom

A retentive memory is a great thing but the true token of nobility is the power to forget.

It's easy enough to turn over a new leaf. The difficulty lies in keeping it free from blots.

The man who is behind the times has a view that should be stimulating.

"Are you going to settle anything on your daughter?" asked the young man, with the cigarette and languid air. "Well, it rather look if she marries you that she is going to settle something on me," replied the parent.

"By the way, sir, asked the waiter, "how would you like to have your steak?" "Very much indeed," replied the mild man, who had patiently waited for forty minutes.

The young girl's air was pensive. "To-morrow," she said, "Reginald will conduct me to the altar. There," she added smilingly, "his leadership will end."

The world would be a poor place without enthusiasm, unselfish and daring. Your lukewarm man never has done and never will do anything.

A good woman is the loveliest flower that blooms under heaven.

They are never alone that are accompanied with noble thoughts.

The day of fortune is like a harvest day, we must be busy when the corn is ripe.

A worldly man makes himself but a cock set for a while on the world's heap to scratch and peck.

On every occasion that leads thee to vexation apply this principle — that though this is a misfortune, to bear it nobly is good fortune.

Rare is the virtue of self control. One of the most important, but one of the most difficult things for a powerful mind is to be its own master; a pond may lay quiet in a plain, but a lake wants mountains to compass and hold it in.

The active, singing, scratching hen is the one that furnishes the eggs.

"Father, do all angels have wings?" asked a lad. "No, my son," replied paterfamilias, "your mother has none." And then the good lady said he might go to the club if he wouldn't stay very late.

One day while two boys were talking together, one asked the other a question. He said—"Do you know what the Scotch mean when they say 'A dinna ken?'" The other replied with the correct answer—"I don't know." The former replied—"It's time you did then."

Be sure and lay by something for a rainy day, even if it's nothing more than your neighbour's umbrella.

A man can do no wrong—after the undertaker gets him.

"Many boys," says a philosopher, "are called, but few get up."

A crank is a man who knows all about a subject which you know nothing about.

Don't be so busy worrying about the good luck the other fellow has; that opportunity must kick the door in when she reaches your number.

Levitation is the creeping up of your trousers when you ride horseback so that they supply you a necktie.

No man is so wholly right that he can afford to say that another is wholly wrong.

A woman can defend her virtue from men much easier than she can protect her reputation from women.

"The more dollars you get together the louder they talk," remarked the thoughtful thinker.

"Same way with women," rejoined the man who had been married three times.

Increasing Interest In Literary Society Meetings

Excellent Essays on "Dombey and Son" by The Misses McGrath—Many Were Present

FINE MUSICAL PROGRAMME

So popular have become the literary entertainments arranged under the supervision of the Ladies' Literary Committee of St. Peter's T. A. S., that the interest in these meetings seems to increase rather than abate as the season advances, thus showing the appreciation the members of the society have for the efforts put forth by the members of the committee in providing such elevating entertainment.

The programme of last evening's meeting was, as usual, a most pleasing one consisting, as it did, of very able essays on "Dombey and Son," by the Misses McGrath and a bright musical programme by local talent.

Miss Margaret McGrath read in a pleasing manner the first essay of the evening, it being a complete and concise account of the story of Dombey and Son. It is the life story of a proud, unbending Englishman, whose great idea in life was to preserve the old name of "Dombey and Son." Dickens introduces us to both the characters at the deathbed of Dombey's wife.

The various characters throughout the story, whether important or unimportant, were then very deftly pictured by Miss McGrath. Among the characters so ably portrayed were Dombey, Paul, Florence Dombey, Old Solomon Gills and his nephew Walter, Captain Cuttle, Mrs. Chick, Dombey's sister, Miss Tox, Major Bagstock, Carker and others.

Continuing, the writer stated that the sketch of the story serves to bring to our minds the pen pictures Dickens gives us. His characters are as numerous and varied as Shakspere's and as resemblance to nature can generally be traced between them and those of every day life.

Dickens' style of writing, as illustrated in this particular work, was then very ably dealt with. His elements of force (contrasts and similarities), his close observance of nature, his knowledge of human nature, his tendency to make nature harmonize with the moods of his characters, his pathos and humour were all very clearly shown to be characteristic features of his style. To exemplify these various characteristics many examples were quoted from Dombey and Son.

Miss Kate McGrath then followed with an exceedingly interesting account of the life of Paul Dombey, who was a positive joy throughout. From a child he grew to be a pretty little fellow, but there was something wan and wistful in his small face. He had a strange old-fashioned thoughtful way of sitting, brooding in his little arm chair, till he looked and talked like one of those terrible little Bowgs in the Fairy Tales. This precocious mood would startle him at all times, but especially when sitting by the fireside after dinner.

The writer then gave in beautiful language very interesting accounts of Paul's childhood at home, his school days, his conversations with his father at the fireside, his conversation with Mrs. Pipchin and with Floy by the seaside and of his sojourn at Dr. Blimbers.

The writer gracefully concluded by giving a most pathetic description of the death of Paul. For his description of Paul's death, stated the writer, Dickens is known the world over and it bears repetition. It is penetrated with the most exquisite sense of pathos and is an example of Dickens' ability along that line.

These excellent essays were intensely interesting throughout, the treatment of the subjects by the talented essayists being most praiseworthy. As the mind wanders over the lengthy list of histories, novels and narratives, and returns to the works of Charles Dickens, one recognizes anew the old truth that no great work is ever exhausted. This fact was shown in last evening's essay.

These interesting essays were prefaced by a musical programme of rare merit, which was rendered in a faultless manner by the clever performers.

The following was the musical programme, introduced by Miss H. Sullivan, who occupied the chair for the evening:

Instrumental duet—Misses E. Tangney and D. Tangney.
Vocal solo—Mr. Crowe.
Vocal solo—Miss L. Kearns.
Instrumental solo—Miss D. Tangney.

The meeting was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem. The next meeting of the society will be held on Friday evening, February 7th, when a lecture will be delivered by the Rev. Father Galvin.

PREPARING FOR THE BENEFIT CONCERT

Some Splendid Local Talent Secured—Band to be in Attendance

The Hartley benefit concert to be held in the Grand Opera House on Thursday evening, January 30, promises to be a splendid event. Mr. R. Gliddon, director of the Conservatory of Music, has already secured the services of Miss Julia Choate, violinist, and Miss C. Rosser, vocalist, two talented artists, and the 57th Regimental band. In addition to these, other well-known local artists will contribute, so there is every assurance that the concert will be of a most creditable character, and one of the best musical and literary treats of the present concert season.

Birthdays Are Scarce When They Eall on February 29th

Leap Year Here Again With All It's Opportunities For The Young Woman

ELASTIC MONTHS OF OLD

"Leap year again," said the Man in the Corner, looking up from his newspaper with a humorous eye upon the Young Woman. She flashed a glance of interest at him, then blushed and looked down.

The Man in the Corner went on reading, but a few minutes afterwards he folded his paper across with a perplexed air and asked if anyone knew why it was called leap year.

"The origin of the name," replied the Well-Informed Man, as every one knew he would, "is unknown, but it arose probably from the fact that in a year with 366 days instead of 365 any date after February 29 leaps over the day of the week on which it would otherwise have fallen. Thus March the first was last year a Friday. If this were not leap year it would fall on a Saturday, but actually it 'leaps' over Saturday and occurs on the Sunday instead."

"Isn't that a bit thin?" said the Man in the Corner.

"Its the generally accepted theory," was the freezing reply. "You will find it in the 'Century' and other famous dictionaries, I believe."

Not Enough Birthdays

"But why," inquired another season ticket holder, "why does February have twenty-nine days every fourth year? It seems very rough on people who were born on the twenty-ninth to get so few birthdays."

"They keep them of course, on the twenty-eighth in ordinary years," observed the Well-Informed Man, loftily.

"And as to the reason to the added days," he continued, "it is exceedingly simple. When Julius Caesar undertook to reform the calendar he determined that the years should be regulated by the sun entirely. Up to that time it had for a long period depended partly upon the moon and partly also upon the ecclesiastical authorities of ancient Rome. The Romans had followed the practice of Greeks and Jews and had made their year up of so many lunar months. But the number of days in a year of twelve lunar months did not correspond with the number in a solar year."

"And what," interrupted the Man in the Corner, "is a solar year."

"A solar year," said the Well-Informed Man, pityingly, "is the period of time in which the earth goes round the sun. To be exact that is 365 days 5 hours, 48 minutes and 46 seconds. This number of days being in excess of the number contained in twelve lunar months, it was necessary, in order to prevent the months getting out of joint with the seasons, to put in—or, as it was called to intercalate—a few weeks every now and then. The Pontiffs had charge of the intercalation, and they used to lengthen or shorten years according to their fancy, or in return for bribes.

Elastic Months of Old

"For example, if they were well-disposed towards a magistrate elected (like he Lord Mayor) for a year, they would spin his year of office out, whereas, if he were obnoxious to them, they would cut it short. Imagine the Archbishop of Canterbury being able to postpone the opening of Parliament by suddenly announcing that January this year would have forty days instead of thirty-one! That was the sort of thing which made Julius Caesar take the calendar in hand.

"What he did was to make the year correspond as closely as he could with the period of time in which the earth goes round the sun. He said a year should technically consist of 365 days six hours. But as it would have been very inconvenient to make each new year begin at seven o'clock in the morning instead of at midnight, he decided to let the quarter days accumulate until they made a whole day, and then to addd thois day on to the 365 days and make the year consist of 366 days."

"Yes, that sounds all right," said the Inquiring Spirit, "but how could he make up his little odds and ends into a complete day? Here's the situation. This year the sun is going to put in an extra day's work—"

"Presumably," interjected the Man in the Corner, "for the same money."

"Other years he only shines 365 days. Leap year he has to make it 366. How do you explain that?"

"You appear to forget," retorted the Well-Informed Man, with some asperity, "that time is a purely arbitrary invention of mankind."

The young woman was so amazed by this statement that she promptly looked with a dazed expression at her watch.

What happened was this—Caesar found that four revolutions of the earth around the sun made up 1,461 days. This gave him four years of 365 days each and one day over. There were no 'odds-and-ends' at all. He simply had to work in one day, and he did by instituting leap years. I imagined all educated persons to be well aware of these elementary facts."

The glance with which he accompanied this remark was so glacial that the Inquiring Spirit put up the window.

"But even now," said the Man in the Corner, impenitently, "I am still so disgracefully ignorant as not to know why 1900 was a common year, and not a leap year, although it was divisible by four."

"That is interesting too. You see, a year, 365 days and six hours, is eleven minutes and fourteen seconds longer than the actual solar year, which, as I told you, is 365 days, 5 hours, 48 minutes and 46 seconds.

Bespeaking ye men

"In course of time this discrepancy piled up and up until at last in 1582 Pope George XIII had to knock ten days out of the year. In order to prevent this from happening again, it was arranged that 1700, 1800 and 1900 should not be leap years. Quite simple again I think."

"But still," said the Inquiring Spirit "we have not heard how the custom of women proposing marriage in leap years originated?"

Everyone looked at the Young Woman, who was understood to murmur, "Silly nonsense."

"You are not likely to learn much about that," the Well-Informed Man made answer; "its origin is exceedingly obscure."

"Isn't there some story about St. Bridget proposing to St. Patrick, and getting a silk gown and a kiss because he refused her."

"I thought you were in search of facts?" was the crushing rejoinder. "The only bearing upon the subject of which I am aware is that in 1288 a Scottish law was passed confessing upon, 'ilk mayden layde of bothe highe and lowe estait' during 'leap years' the privilege of 'bespeaking ye man she likes.'

"Whether the custom is still kept up," he added, "I am not aware."

The Young Woman seemed about to say something, but at this moment we ran into Waterloo. I wonder what she was going to say.

COMMISSIONER COOMBS AT THE GRAND OPERA HOUSE TO-MORROW

The coming of Commissioner T. B. Coombs here to-morrow, will mark his second visit to Peterborough since his arrival from the Old Country. The last time the Commissioner spoke here he was greeted by vast crowds,

COMMISSIONER COOMBS
The Head of the Salvation Army in Canada Who Speaks at The Opera House To-morrow

many being turned away from the hall. He comes here to-night accompanied by several of his prominent staff officers, one of which will address the gathering at the hall this evening.

The Commissioner and his staff will be met at the C.P.R. station upon the arrival of the local, by the Salvation Army Band and corps and a parade will take place to the barracks where a reception will be held.

The Commissioner will not give any formal address this evening, but one of his staff will conduct the service. The leader will speak twice in the Grand Opera House to-morrow. In the afternoon the subject will be "The Salvation Army of Yesterday, To-day and To-morrow." In the evening he will give his illustrated address "From Bethlehem to Calvary." Mr. R R Hall, M.P., will occupy the chair on both occasions and among the prominent citizens who will have seats assigned them on the platform will be His Worship Mayor Rush and Hon. J R Stratton.

Commissioner Coombs is recognised as one of the ablest platform men in Canada, and will be greeted with a splendid audience, as arrangements are now almost complete which point to a most successful meeting.

The theatre will likely be crowded at night to witness the famous service conducted by the commissioner, entitled "From Bethlehem to Calvary," being the life of Christ in moving pictures of a very superior class (over 3,000 feet); also some stationary pictures from the world's greatest artists. The commissioner will be assisted by the staff male choir, which will sing in connection with the different scenes as thrown upon the canvas.

A Great Doctor Speaks Of A Great Remedy

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Strongly Endorsed by One of the World's Greatest Doctors---Hope for the Sick

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People is the only advertised medicine in the world that has had the public endorsation of a doctor of world wide reputation. Such an endorsation stamps this medicine as being worthy of the confidence of every person who is sick or ailing. A great doctor would not risk his reputation unless he was absolutely confident, through a personal knowledge, that Dr. Williams Pink Pills will do what is claimed for them. Dr. Giuseppe Lapponi, one of the greatest physicians of modern times, for years the trusted medical adviser of the Pope, writes the following strong letter in favour of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills:—

"I certify that I have tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in four cases of the simple anaemia of development. After a few weeks of treatment, the result came fully up to my expectations. For that reason I shall not fail in the future to extend the use of this laudable preparation, not only in the treatment of other morbid forms of the category of anaemia or chlorosis, but also in cases of neurasthenia and the like."

(Signed) DR. GIUSEPPE LAPPONI,
Via dei Gracchi 332, Rome.

The "simple anaemia of development" referred to by Dr. Lapponi is of course that tired, languid condition of young girls whose development to womanhood is tardy, and whose health, at the period of that development, is so often imperilled. His opinion of the value of Dr. Williams Pink Pills at that time is of the highest scientific authority, and it confirms the many published cases in which anaemia and other diseases of the blood, as well as nervous diseases, have been cured by these pills, which, it need hardly be mentioned, owe their efficacy to their power of making new blood, and thus acting directly upon the digestive and nervous system. In all cases of anaemia, decline, indigestion, and all troubles due to bad blood, and all affections of the nerves, as St. Vitus' dance, paralysis and locomotor ataxia, there are recommended to the public with all the greater confidence because they have the strong endorsation of this great physician.

VISITATION FROM HOUSE TO HOUSE

To be Undertaken in Peterboro' in Near Future—Meeting Of Executive of Sunday School Association

The executive of the Sunday School Association met last night in the Y. M. C. A. parlours, when a number of important matters were dealt with, the most important of which was the house to house visitation which the Ministerial Association, at its last meeting, decided should be conducted in the city. The Sunday School Association will co-operate in the matter. Mr. Thomas Yellowlees, of Toronto, one of the secretaries of the Provincial Association, who has had experience in this work, will superintend the organization and the execution of the canvass. It was arranged last night that a meeting should be held on the evening of Friday, Feb. 7th, for the purpose of making preliminary arrangements, and explining fully the objects and benefits of the visitation. All Sunday school workers and all who take an interest in the religious welfare of the city are urged to attend that meeting. Notice of the place of meeting will be given later.

A census of this kind was recently taken in Stratford with excellent results, and Kingston is now being organized for the same purpose. To do the work in this city about 300 volunteer canvassers will be required, and the benefits derived will be in direct proportion to the thoroughness with which the work is undertaken by the different church and Sunday school organizations.

A DOLLAR A DAY FOR STONE BREAKING

Mr. Aston Thinks it is no Snap These Days—Wants Council to Act

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—With reference to the stonebreaking discussion, I might say that some of my countrymen will, perhaps, feel a little better after Saturday's issue—it is such a relief to get rid of hot air, I trust, though, that there will be no bad feelings afterwards. One thing I might suggest to those whom it may concern, and that is, that these men, who are willing enough to try and break stone to get sufficient to eat for their wives and families, should be paid one dollar a day in cash. Stonebreaking these days is no snap and there is not a man amongst us who would care to go stonebreaking this weather for less than a dollar a day, and that would not be overpaying them, but it would keep them from want. On the other hand, if I do a day's work for anyone, I want my pay in hard cash, and then I can buy my own groceries and necessities. Trusting that the council will take this matter up so that these men may get a fair day's pay for a day's labour.

Yours truly,
FRED ASHTON.

What a joy to Feel Well

Do you know what it is to feel well—to feel young, hearty and vigorous—to enjoy work and to look forward with hope to the future? This is the way that you will feel if you revitalize your wasted and depleted nervous system by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. Not in any miraculous way but when your system has been gradually built up by this great restorative treatment,

THE DUNSMUIR LETTERS AGAIN

Correspondence Again Brought Up in the House.

TRADE WITH WEST INDIES

Opposition Resume Their Demand For Documents In the Original—Threaten Obstruction In Supply—Estimates For Marine Department — Banking Amendments —Liquor to Railway Men.

Ottawa, Jan. 25.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier yesterday afternoon brought down the correspondence between the Secretary of State and Lieutenant-Governor Dunsmuir of British Columbia regarding the latter's refusal to give assent to the Natal Act. On April 23 last Mr. Scott telegraphed the Lieutenant-Governor as follows: "Your Premier, Mr. McBride, assured me that the bill entitled 'An Act to Regulate Immigration into British Columbia' will not receive assent, but would be reserved for consideration of the Government. Can I rely on this assurance?"

The answer of the Lieutenant-Governor, dated the following day, reads: "Your telegram received. Bill referred to will not receive my assent." Mr. Dunsmuir followed this up with a letter to Mr. Scott dated April 29, in which he says: "I have the honor to inform you that I prorogued the Legislative Assembly of this province on the 25th inst., at which time I assented to a number of bills, duplicate copies of which I am forwarding to-day by registered mail. I have thought it advisable to reserve for the pleasure of His Excellency, the Governor-General, bill No. 30, an act to regulate immigration into British Columbia. My reasons for doing so are that this bill appears to be but a modified form of others acts dealing with the same subject, which have already been disallowed by His Excellency, and should it become law, might seriously interfere with our international relations and Federal interests."

Banking Regulations.

R. A. Pringle (Cornwall) has given notice that he will move the following resolution:

"This is an opportune time to consider the advisability of amending and revising the Bank Act, and that the following, among other amendments, should receive consideration:

"1. To provide for Government inspection.

"2. To provide more stringent regulations as to circulation.

"3. That all chartered banks shall provide a special reserve fund for security of depositors.

"4. To make provisions as to percentage of capital and reserve that may be loaned to any one borrower.

"5. To make provision for a percentage that a bank may loan to its combined directors.

"6. To limit the amount of interest on discount that banks may contract for.

"7. To define the powers of the Bankers' Association."

West Indian Relations.

Mr. Martin, (P. E. I.) asked the Finance Minister in reference to negotiations for reciprocity or reduced tariffs with the British West Indies.

"Information reached us some time ago," Mr. Fielding replied, "that a conference of delegates representative of the various West India Islands was about to be held in Barbados, and the suggestion was offered that the time was opportune for a representative of the Government of Canada to meet these gentlemen, and that perhaps, out of the discussion something in the way of closer and better trade relations might be brought about. Responding to that suggestion, without any definite plan, which was offered by Sir Daniel Morris, the Imperial commissioner of agriculture for the West Indies, the Government appointed W. G. Parmalee, deputy minister of trade and commerce, and A. E. Jones, a well-known West India merchant of Halifax, to attend the conference. Perhaps at this moment the conference may be over, but we have not been advised yet as to its results."

No Liquor While on Duty.

The bill introduced in the Senate by Hon. Mr. McMullen to amend the Railway Act in respect to furnishing liquor to railway employes on duty provides for the repeal of section 414 of the Railway Act and the substitution of the following: "Every person who sells or gives or barters any spirituous or intoxicating liquor to or with any servant or employe of any company while on duty is liable, on summary conviction, to a penalty not exceeding $500 or to imprisonment with or without hard labor for a period not exceeding one year, or both."

Before the opening of the House yesterday afternoon, the Opposition got together in caucus and then went into the chamber determined to oppose the granting of supply until the Premier retreated from his position, that members of the House were not entitled by right to access to all records of the Departments.

The amendment of Mr. Northrup, offered on Thursday night, was discussed for two and one-half hours, and a division was taken, the amendment being defeated by 95 to 50.

When the vote was announced, the Premier arose. "With regard to the matter that has been under discussion," he said, "when the temper of the House shall have cooled down I will have a statement to make."

Mr. Fielding said that when the motion to go into supply was made Thursday night it was intended to take up the estimates of the Public Works Department. The Minister, however, was not now present, and he proposed to take up the estimates of the Marine Department.

Mr. Foster observed that this contingency was probably unavoidable, but it would have been well if the Opposition had been notified, as they had their committees assigned to various Departments.

Mr. Fielding said that in view of the statement of the leader of the Opposition about the gentleman of "pipe-stem" order, he (Fielding) did not expect to get into supply so early.

Mr. Taylor suggested Mr. Speaker call 6 o'clock. By night the House would have cooled down and the Premier's statement be forthcoming.

"Until we hear from the Premier," he said, "we may not make much progress."

The Premier smiled genially and the committee proceeded to business. To cool off, the committee discussed ice-breakers till 6 o'clock.

The House went into committee last night, but in pursuance of the declared policy of the Opposition, not a dollar was voted, and at 11 o'clock Mr. Fielding proposed adjournment. This was agreed to. The whole evening was taken up by a discussion of the work of the ice-breaker Montcalm.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier will on Monday make a statement respecting the rights of the members to inspect original documents, and this may, and, again, may not, break the deadlock.

THOUGHT HIM A BURGLAR.

Philadelphia Jury Acquits Man Charged With Murder.

Philadelphia, Jan. 25.—After a trial of three days, Andrew Jackson Detsch, who was charged with murdering Harry Ferre in a boarding house in this city last November, was acquitted yesterday. The jury was out nearly three hours. The announcement of the verdict caused an enthusiastic demonstration in the court room.

The killing of Ferre was sensational, and owing to the peculiar circumstances surrounding it, the case created much interest. Detsch claimed he killed Ferre in mistake for a burglar, and the jury took this view of the case.

Detsch, who is 23 years of age lived with his wife, aged 22, and child, aged 18 months, in an uptown boarding house. On the night of Nov. 5 policemen heard several shots and traced them to the house. In front of the door of the Detsch apartments they found Ferre dead with three bullet wounds in the body. He was in his stocking feet. Ferre was about 50 years of age, and had occupied a room on another floor. Detsch told the policemen that he heard someone trying to get into the room and shot four times through the door with a revolver.

The police in searching the personal effects of Ferre found many letters that had passed between Ferre and Mrs. Detsch and a number of suggestive photographs. The police then charged Detsch with having deliberately killed Ferre.

The theory of the commonwealth was that Detsch caused his wife to lure Ferre to her room on the belief that the husband was absent and that Detsch fired the shots through the door when he heard Ferre place his hand on the door knob.

In an endeavor to show a motive for the shooting the commonwealth made an effort to introduce the letters and photographs, but the court ruled them out, on the ground that the commonwealth must prove that Detsch knew of the alleged intimacy of his wife with Ferre. This left the prosecution without a motive, and it rested its case after proving the killing. Counsel for the defendant, in his argument to the jury, said that he did not appeal to the so-called unwritten law, but that the defence stood on Detsch's statement that he took Ferre for a burglar.

ARE STILL OVERDUE.

Mount Royal's Passengers Not Yet at End of Trouble.

St. John, N. B., Jan. 25.—The three hundred continental emigrants, men, women and children, who early in December sailed from Antwerp for Canada, are certainly having enough of the North Atlantic to last them for a lifetime. They took passage on the Mount Royal on Dec. 7, and after being driven all over the ocean for 32 days were finally returned to Queenstown.

There, on Jan. 11, they once more embarked on the steamer Montrose on the voyage to St. John. The Montrose should make the trip in ten days, and was due here on Tuesday last, but up to the present there has been no report from her. She is now three days overdue, and while, of course, there is not the slightest anxiety, such delays being the rule rather than the exception at this season, there is general sympathy for the foreigners on board, who are finding such difficulties in their endeavors to reach Canada.

May Prove Him Murderer.

Detroit, Jan. 25.—The police last night broke their silence with regard to Percy Boyne, arrested near Woodville, Ont., and state why they connect him with the murder of Mrs. Welch in this city a few weeks ago.

Boyne admits that he spent the night of Friday, Jan. 3, in Mrs. Welch's house. While her body was not found until Tuesday, Jan. 7, the police are convinced that she was killed the Friday night previous. The following day Boyne was flush with money, though he had previously been penniless and living on free lunches.

Boyne is a fine-looking young fellow of 18.

Students Raise Riot.

Philadelphia, Jan. 25.—An effort on the part of the sophomores of the University of Pennsylvania to break up the annual class dinner of the freshmen here last night, precipitated an incipient riot in Kugler's fashionable restaurant, in the course of which nearly $500 worth of damage was done by the students. Ninety policemen were hurried out to quell the disturbance. A number of students were beaten by the police and half a dozen were arrested.

FIRE PLAYS HAVOC IN PORTLAND

Million Dollar Hall and Buildings Destroyed at Portland.

HISTORIC PAPERS BURNED

Only Few Persons Hurt — No Lives Lost—Seven Hundred Knights of Pythias In Session When Fire Started—All Marched Out In Safety—The Blaze Was Caused by Defective Wires.

Portland, Me., Jan. 25.—A fire, which caused a property damage of $1,000,000 early yesterday, destroyed the city hall and police building and endangered the lives of more than 700 persons. Although known as city hall, the building was divided between city and county offices, while the police building sheltered the supreme, judicial and municipal courts, in addition to the police department.

There were more than 700 members of the Western Maine Knights of Pythias jubilee gathered in the auditorium of the city hall when the flames were discovered. Only a few persons were hurt.

Chief Engineer Melville Eldridge, the only one known to be seriously injured, was able to direct the fight against the flames throughout, being supported by two assistants.

The financial loss is estimated at $1,000,000, but this sum will not cover the loss of the papers and documents in the registry of deeds, where everything was destroyed. Other city departments were swept clear of everything by the flames, with the exception of the city clerk's and the city treasurer's offices. One of the most valuable libraries in the state, the green leaf law collection, was completely destroyed, with a loss estimated at $10,000.

The blaze originated in the city electrician's office and was caused by crossed wires.

When the flames were discovered, William A. Turner, chairman of the meeting of the Pythian body, was met in the hallway by three men, who acquainted him with the condition of affairs. Coolly he entered the auditorium and ascended the stage, interrupting the rites of the investiture, which were going on at the time. He calmly told the assembled members of the existing conditions, saying there was no need for hurrying and himself supervising a system of orderly departure, which proved effective in averting a panic and in bringing out more than 700 persons without an injury.

Chief Eldridge was injured by the breaking away of a siamese coupling of hose, which hit him in the stomach.

When the flames communicated to the police building, where the city jail is located, the prisoners were liberated. The building, which was a five story brick structure, was burned.

The city hall survived the great fire of 1866, although it was badly damaged at that time. It was first opened in 1859. The building had a frontage of 150 feet, and was 250 feet long. The property destroyed was insured for $240,000.

Engineer Killed Six.

Baku, Trans-Caucasia, Russia, Jan. 25.—In consequence of the accidental killing of some laborers by a locomotive at a suburban station of the railroad here yesterday, a mob of comrades of the victims surrounded the engine and attempted to lynch the engineer. To escape the fury of the excited workmen the engineer opened the throttle of the locomotive and dashed through the crowd, killing six men and wounding many others.

Dismissed the Appeals.

London, Jan. 25.—The Privy Council has ruled that the consolidated appeals of the Quebec Improvement Company v. Quebec Bridge Railway Company be dismissed, the appellants to pay costs.

These arose from actions by the appellants to recover the amount awarded them by arbitrators for lands taken from them, and by respondents to set aside the award.

WITNESSES WERE DELAYED.

Thaw Trial Stands Adjourned Until Next Monday.

New York, Jan. 25.—The blinding snowstorm which swept New York yesterday caused the first serious interruption of the second Thaw trial. It put a stop to practically all shipping in the lower bay, and prevented the big steamer Adriatic from reaching her dock. On board the liner are four physicians and a trained nurse from Europe, who, Mr. Littleton declared in court, are important witnesses for the defence, and whose testimony he desires to place upon the record before propounding his hypothetical questions to the three experts who will swear that when Harry K. Thaw shot Stanford White he was so mentally deficient that he did not know the nature or quality of his act, or that the act was wrong. The request for an adjournment until Monday, made upon the opening of court, was granted by Justice Dowling.

Mr. Littleton promised to have the long hypothetical query ready immediately after his few remaining witnesses of fact have testified on Monday, and unless Mr. Jerome's cross-examination of the experts is unexpectedly long, the defence will rest by Monday night.

The prosecution will proceed on Tuesday with its rebuttal case, and should not occupy more than a day and a half. The sur-rebuttal by the defence will be brief, and in spite of delay the case should end by Friday or Saturday of next week.

The witnesses who are to land from the Adriatic are expected to tell of alleged irrational outbreaks by Thaw in Europe long before Evelyn Nesbitt came into his life. The district attorney tried to secure the names of the witnesses from Mr. Littleton yesterday, and there was a lively exchange of words for a few minutes, ending with the identity of the newcomers as much of a mystery as ever.

WOULD NOT HEAR CHIEF.

Magistrate Made Appeal For Fair Play Without Avail.

St. Catharines, Ont., Jan. 25.—For the first time in months the full board of city police commissioners met yesterday afternoon, when Police Magistrate Comfort made a plea for Chief Parnall to be heard against statements of Judge Carman, made at the last meeting of the commission. So soon as he had finished reading the minutes the magistrate moved that as the judge had refused to allow the chief to speak at the last meeting, the chief be now heard. Mayor Campbell contended the motion was irregular, and on his motion the judge declared the minutes approved, the magistrate opposing.

After a quantity of routine business had been transacted the mayor suggested that the chief be given a chance to explain his position in connection with the arrest of Lillian Hamilton if he thought he had a grievance against the commission. The magistrate continued to read from newspapers and to criticize the judge.

"Will you second my resolution?" said the mayor.

The magistrate made no reply, but again objected to the judge's recent statements, and the mayor moved adjournment, which the judge declared carried.

"Are you not going to give the chief a chance?" asked the magistrate.

"You would not second the resolution," said the mayor.

As the other two commissioners left their seats the magistrate was later convinced that the mayor had moved a resolution and explained that he had been busy with papers and thought he had been talking about something else. The judge in the meantime smilingly left the room.

Talked In His Sleep.

Worcester, Mass., Jan. 25.—Charging that her husband, Victor P. Thewlis, owner of large interests in Sherbrooke, Quebec, and superintendent of a Sunday school, talked in his sleep that he was in love with his stenographer, Mrs. Mary Lincoln, says when she tackled him, acknowledged one night of his "soul mate" and that he cursed and swore at her for objecting, Mabelle M. Thewlis brought suit for divorce.

She was given the decree yesterday, and also was granted alimony of $150 a month and the custody of the two children. The co-respondent in the case is said to be in Sherbrooke now, Thewlis formerly was at the head of a large concern here. He went to Canada two years ago.

Vessel Ashore.

Hull, Mass., Jan. 25.—A vessel, believed to be a three-masted schooner, was discovered ashore in Black Rock Channel, on the Lovell Sound side, and opposite Bug Light, in the lower harbor, yesterday afternoon. The weather is very thick and it is not known how long the vessel has been in her present position. A tug has been sent to the vessel's relief from Boston.

Collision, One Killed.

Quebec, Jan. 25.—In a collision at an early hour yesterday morning, between a Great Northern Railway and Quebec and Lake St. John Railway train at Riviere St. Pierre Junction, Edward Gelly, an employe of the Quebec and Lake St. John Railway, was killed, while a few others were more or less injured.

A BIG BLAZE IN CITY OF BALTIMORE

Heroic Firemen Crushed Under Showers of Bricks.

THREE DEAD; SIXTEEN HURT

Chief Hoston Among Those In Serious Condition—Wall Fell Without Warning—Fire Engine In Collision —Strong Wind Fanned Flames and Increased the Peril—Financial Loss Is About $400,000.

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 25.—Fire yesterday took heavy tolls of the members of the fire department of this city, three being dead and sixteen others more or less seriously injured, including George Hoston, chief of the fire department, who is in a serious condition. He has a badly lacerated scalp and internal injuries.

The dead are: Lieut. Frederick Harman; William B. Pugh; unidentified man, thought to be Emil Morrin.

The financial damage is estimated at $400,000.

The blaze, which is the worst that has occurred in this city since the calamity of 1904, started on the third floor of the building on the southeast corner of Holliday and Saratoga street, occupied by the J. Regester Sons Co., plumbers' supplies. Other occupants of the building were: the Baltimore Bell & Brass Co., and the William L. Hollingsworth Co., machinists. Upon these three the heaviest losses fall. The fire had apparently been burning some time before it was discovered. A strong wind from the northwest and a very low temperature made the work of fighting the fire more than ordinarily difficult.

In an incredibly short time after the blaze broke out on the Saratoga street side of the Regester Building, and without warning, a large section of the north wall of the building fell. It was this that scattered death and injuries among the firemen, who were working close to the building. The rain of bricks also put out of commission an extension ladder truck upon which some of the men had been working.

For a time it seemed that the fire would sweep diagonally through the block to Gay street, and a number of people living on that thoroughfare moved their effects. Changes in the wind, however, enabled the firemen to confine the damage, in addition to that already mentioned, to the plants of the E. B. Reed & Sons Co., printers, and the Flynn & Furich Co., machinists, located in a five-storey building on Saratoga street in the rear of the Regester Building, the Leonhardt Wagon Co., Saratoga street, opposite the building in which the fire originated, the old City Hall building, and the Zion School building.

While responding to the alarm, a hose carriage and fire engine collided, and five of the men on the engine were injured, one of them seriously.

SCENE IN ASSEMBLY.

Extraordinary Episode In the Newfoundland House.

St. John's, N.B., Jan. 25.—An extraordinary scene occurred in the assembly Thursday night. Finance Minister Jackman endeavored to justify his assertion that M. P. Cashin's opposition to the Bond Government is due to the Premier having refused him an executive position solicited.

Cashin on Wednesday called upon his colleague, Ellis, supporting Premier Bond, to exonerate him from the imputation. Ellis did so unreservedly. Sir Edward Morris, former minister of justice, confirmed Mr. Ellis.

Yesterday Hon. Mr. Jackman read a letter from Archbishop Howley, stating that Cashin had waited on the archbishop after the election, requesting his influence.

Mr. Cashin stated the letter and the assertion of the archbishop was unqualifiedly untrue, that he had asked nobody to secure the position, which he neither wanted nor would accept. This denial he was prepared to make oath to at any time before any tribunal.

The episode has caused consternation, Cashin being a Catholic in good standing, and devoted to his church. Morris, Ellis and Jackman are also Catholics.

BOWLING BASKETBALL CURLING

Lindsay Won Great Game From Straths Last Night

Locals With Remnants of the "Old Guard" on Line Up Were Defeated by the Midgets by 11 Goals To 8--Game One of Best Seen in District For Years---Lindsay Had Luck Although Straths Broke Even On Play

Even the remnant of the "Old Guard" was powerless to avert the defeat of the Strathconas in Lindsay last night and the locals lost one of the hardest fought battles that has been seen in the district for years, going down before the Midgets by a score of 11 to 8. The tally at half time was 8—4 with Lindsay in possession of the large end of the score, and although Peterborough had all the best of the last half they could never get nearer than two goals to the Midgets. At that the play was even up all through and with any kind of luck the Straths should have scored oftener. On the play they were entitled to more goals, but Newton picked out many likely-looking shots and others missed by narrow margins. The teams alternated in scoring in the early stages and in the first half the teams were tied. Then Glover was ruled off for three minutes and during that brief period Lindsay rammed in four goals, winning the game right there, as Peterborough although they never let up and played desperately until the timers announced that it was all over, could not overcome the lead, although they looked so dangerous that the Midgets never had a breathing spell until the finish.

The game was played on grand ice before a very large crowd which included some eighty-five from Peterborough who accompanied the team on the special G.T.R. train which left here at 7 o'clock. The squad rooted vigourously for the red and white and although the score was a disappointment the fans were thoroughly pleased with the game which was certainly the best of the year. The pace was terrific all through, first one team and then the other going down the ice like demons. There was no let up whatever, the defences invariably rushing. The score looks big for good hockey but the many goals are accounted for partly at least by the fact that both defences played an open game, taking chances on frequent rushes. It was fast, hard hockey all the way, in which Lindsay had nothing on their opponents. The Midgets were helped by the billiard cushion-like sides of the rink. When they shot wide of the goal the puck would rebound in front of the nets and there would be another shot before the defence could anticipate the move. Nearly all the goals in the first half were scored this way and it looked lucky for the Midgets.

Peterborough had the strongest line-up of the season and put up fine hockey especially on the forward line where they had Lindsay faded. They revealed something neat in the line of combination, passing the puck quickly and accurately, and had no difficulty, for the most part, in getting away from Lindsay's advance guard. The four checked back well and were in game all the way. Harry Morgan played his first game of the year and was of invaluable service, his rushes and fine shooting keeping Newton on the jump. Morgan scored half of Peterborough's goals, taking the passes to centre in his old time manner. Ray put up a grand game, playing rover the first period and centre in the last half. He was the youngest and lightest player on the ice, but never let up for a minute, rushing speedily and coming back fast with the Lindsay line when the latter had the puck. Rose who appeared for the first time for the Strathconas, put it all over his check, Cote. He had the latter beaten every way, stopping him easily when the Lindsay man carried the puck and eluding him just as easily when he had it himself. Rose shot wickedly from the wing, but Newton handled them well. McWilliams, on the other boards played good hockey, especially in the second half, when he carried the puck along his side of the rink nicely for passes to the centre.

Parnell was at cover point, a new position for him, but which he filled nicely, checking well and making many pretty rushes which relieved the pressure. Glover played his usual strong defence games, breaking up many rushes. The Lindsay forwards for the most part shot from outside of him. Wasson, the veteran guardian of the nets, put up a fine game considering that he has had no practice. He waded into many shots that looked good, and cleared well.

Koyl was about the whole thing for Lindsay on an analysis of the play will show. The big defence man played brilliant hockey all the way and to his great rushes may be given the credit for Lindsay's victory. He carried the puck down with long, sweeping strides, getting away from the Peterborough forwards, and then drawing out the Peterborough defence passed across for shots that generally resulted in goals. Outside of Koyl and Newton, the form showed by the winners was nothing remarkable. Stoddard was very bad in spots, missing passes to centre and passing wildly to the wings. The well known captain seems to be going back. Old "Goosie" Taylor joined the other old timers in the game and played centre. "Goosie" made himself prominent by loafing offside and tripping. The referee caught him at most of the latter, but the loafing went all right. Taylor scored a few goals but they were only an incident. Randall and Cote were both out-played by their checks, but Sullivan at cover did nothing but trip and slash all night, serving four periods on the fence. If last night's style is his usual form it is hard to see where he has got his reputation. W. A. McCord, of Toronto, refereed and gave good satisfaction. He was impartial and very strict, handing out penalties as freely as Carnegie does free libraries.

The teams were as follows:—

Lindsay.	Peterborough.
Goal.
Newton	Wasson
Point.
Koyl	Glover
Cover.
Sullivan	Parnell
Rover.
Stoddard	Ray
Centre.
Taylor	Morgan

Penalty Timer — Bert Menzies, Lindsay.

The Play

The game was late in beginning, but when the puck was finally faced, play started at a furious clip. Peterboroughs were aggressive from the start, and several combination rushes by Morgan, Ray and Rose, carried the war into the enemies' camp, where Newton was called upon to stop several warm ones. Play hovered in Lindsay territory for some minutes when suddenly Koyle broke away from a scrimmage and carried the puck to centre, where a pass to Randall and a quick return to the cover point, resulted in a goal. Lindsay, 1; Strathconis, 0.

McWilliams was boarded for bodying Koyle into the wall when nicely underway for a rush. He was followed by Cotey, who tripped Rose, right in front of the referee. Koyl had to retire to patch up his uniform, and Ray went off to even up. Lindsay made things interesting for Wasson, and at one time the veteran goal keeper carried the puck up to centre ice to relieve the goal. Peterborough forced the play and finally scored on a pass from the side, the puck tearing right through the nets. Lindsay, 1; Peterborough, 1.

Goosie Taylor went to the fence for tripping, but was back again before anything happened, and by this time Ray and Koyle were back into the game. Sullivan made a nice rush, and passed to Cotey, whose shot was blocked. Sullivan, however, ripped it over on the rebound. Lindsay, 2; Peterborough, 1.

The Straths came back in short order, Ray and Morgan carrying the puck down the ice nicely and the latter planting it behind Newton. Once more the puck tore a hole in the nets. Lindsay, 2; Peterboroughs, 2.

Koyle once more put Lindsay in the lead for a pretty rush, and shot. Score, Lindsay, 3; Peterborough, 2.

Taylor who had been loafing ever since the game started, was finally caught by the referee and served a sentence with the penalty time. Glover was penalized for bodying Sullivan. Taylor came back on the ice just in time to slash somebody, and off he went again. Peterborough were decidedly aggressive and, after several shots had failed to find their mark, Rose scored on a pretty shot from the corner. Lindsay 3, Peterborough, 3.

Taylor, just back in the game, distinguished himself by tripping and went back to the timer's box. He had just finished his time when Glover was given three minutes, and then came the avalanche. Before he was back Lindsay had found the nets four times. Cote got the first one on a nice rush and shot. Score — Lindsay, 4, Peterborough, 3.

Taking advantage of Glover's absence, Lindsay pressed, moving their defence men up. Randall passed neatly from the corner, and Taylor batted it in. Lindsay, 5; Peterborough, 3.

Steddard and Cote got away together, and the little left wing increased the lead for his team by scoring from a scrimmage. Lindsay, 6; Petrborough, 3.

Sullivan increased the lead to 4, before Glover was back, scoring on a neat shot. Lindsay 7; Peterborough, 3.

Peterborough not dismayed at all by the disaster, kept hammering away, and it was not long until Ray had scored on a pretty left shot from the side. Lindsay, 7; Peterborough, 4.

McWilliams was penalized for stopping Koyle and was followed by Sullivan for charging Rose. Half time was called just as the Lindsay cover point's sentence was finished.

Peterborough dug in in the second half with the determination to even up, if possible, and although they rushed matters from the start it was Lindsay who scored first. Wasson stopped several shots and in doing so had the stick knocked out of his hand. Before he regained it, Stoddard sent in a hard shot, which Wasson partially stopped, but the puck rolled between his feet and the nets. Score, Lindsay, 9; Peterborough, 4.

Five goals behind, Peterborough still kept hammering away, and made things decidedly interesting for Lindsay. The red and white team were having all the best of it at this stage out-skating and out-playing their opponents, although the shooting might have been improved on. Newton, too, was playing a wonderful game, and a got bit by a large number of hard ones. Morgan made it one closer by a pretty shot from outside Koyle, and then McWilliams carrying the puck nicely up the wing beat Koyle with a fine shot from the side, which beat Newton completely. Lindsay, 9; Peterborough, 6.

It was Lindsays turn next, and Stoddard and Taylor got away together for a goal. The latter kicked the puck, but the referee did not see the play and Taylor scored on a shot, with his back to the goal. Lindsay, 10; Peterborough, 6.

Penalties were being handed out pretty freely. Sullivan was off for tripping, and a moment after Stoddard and Rose mixed it up and went to the side. A few minutes later, Wasson fell behind his own goal and handed the puck out. He, too, was given a minute's rest, and Glover played goal in the interval. A score was averted only by strenuous efforts and Koyle came near scoring, sending one through thee side of the net. Wasson was back before a goal was scored. Sullivan tripped Ray, and went back to the penitent bench.

Peterborough had Lindsay on the run at this stage, and it looked like a victory for the Strathconas. Rose carried the puck nearly up the side, and shot one in like a bullet at Newton, who blocked cleverly, but Morgan hammered it in. Lindsay, 10, Peterborough, 7.

Not content with this the Peterborough forwards got away in a bunch, and Ray shoved another one past Newton in the scrimmage which followed the rush. Lindsay, 10; Peterborough, 8.

Peterborough's chances looked good but their hopes were speedily dispelled when Koyle broke loose on one of his spectacular rushes, and centred to Stoddard, who beat Wasson with a neat shot. Score, Lindsay, 11; Peterborough, 8.

There were still a few minutes left and although Peterborough had the best of the play they could not find the nets again. Ray was penalized for tripping and on his return Morgan went off for the same offence. A minute before time was called Parnell and Koyle had a run in, and both were sent to the stalls.

Following is the summary:

1 Lindsay, Koyle.
2 Peterborough, Morgan.
3 Lindsay, Sullivan.
4 Peterborough, Morgan.
5 Lindsay, Koyle.
6 Peterborough, Rose.
7 Lindsay, Cote.
8 Lindsay, Taylor.
9 Lindsay, Cote.
10 Lindsay, Sullivan.
11 Peterborough, Ray.
12 Lindsay, Taylor.

Half Time.

13 Lindsay, Stoddard.
14 Peterborough, Morgan.
15 Petrborough, McWilliams.
16 Lindsay, Taylor.
17 Peterborough, Morgan.
18 Peterborough, Ray.
1 Lindsay, Stoddart.

Penalties—

Peterborough — McWilliams 2, Glover, 2, Morgan 2, Rose, Wasson Ray, Parnell. Total 10.

Lindsay — Cote, Taylor 4, Sullivan 3; Stoddart, Koyle. Total 10.

ICE AT THE CURLING RINK

Is Hard Enough For Games Which May Be Played

The ice at the curling rink is in fair condition to-day, although Mr. McIntosh has had to take advantage of every spare hour to get it into its present shape. The surface is somewhat rough, but this is due to the snow that has fallen. A number of games were played this afternoon, the players being anxious to get into the game whenever possilbe. The little waiting-room which has been temporarily erected, will have to suffice for this winter. It is fitted with electric lights, and a telephone has also been installed. If the sun does not come out too strong Mr. McIntosh expects to have the ice fit for some good games next week.

Not the least exciting game at the Brock street rink last night was that between the plumbers and express drivers. Although the latter thought they had a lead-pipe cinch on the plumbers, they were turned under by the score of 5-0. At half-time it was 3-0. Some rough work was noticed in spots, Pete Wallace emerging with a slight wound. Several penalties were handed out by the referee, whose work was of the stellar variety. The teams—

Manager Jack Thirnbeck, had his team, the Chieftains in excellent shape again last night, when they again trimmed the Otonabees, by the score of 3—0, their goals all being scored in the first half. The rural team, however, is playing better hockey than the first time they met, when they were defeatd by 7—1. Thee Chieftains are a good junior bunch, playing systematic hockey. The teams were:

Chieftains — Brown, g; Munro, p; Fortye, cp; Crane, r; Hall, c; Burritt, rw; Wallis, lw.

Otonabees — Mahoney, g; McMartin, p; Close, cp; G Rose, r; Anderson, c; Howden, rw; D Rose, lw.

Referee, "Short" Long.

"Auld Long Syne."
"Let us drink and gae hame, let us drink and gae hame;
"If we stay any longer we'll get a bad name."

Tribute to Burns

The toasts were opened with an address from the jolly chairman, Mr. S. Stewart. He gave his speech in the pure Scotch dialect, and in glowing terms he rehearsed the life and works of one of the greatest poets who ever lived—Bobbie Burns. He also referred to the great deeds of Bruce and Douglas, and the brave deeds accomplished by the Highland laddies in the late war.

Mr. J. Main responded to the toast of "Immortal Memory" in short form and related the following verse which set the company in joyful gleet:

"Oh land o' cakes and brither Scots,
Frae maiden kirk to John o' Groats,
If there's a hole in a' your coats,
O red ye tent it.
A cheil' amang ye takin' note,
An' faith he'll prent it."

The large programme was greatly enjoyed and the laddies responded in joyful chorus to the numerous songs on the programme.

After the list was exhausted an impromptu programme was gotten up and each person called upon had to sing or make a speech, and no one failed. Each Scotsman was there, and when his name was pronounced rose to his feet and sang the song he loved the best. The entertainment was continued until the wee hours of the morning, when the company broke up with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne" and "God Save the King."

It is now proposed that these men should form themselves into an organization and make Burns' birthday an annual celebration. The memory of the first one in Peterborough will live (green for many years in the hearts of those who were present, and they all intend to send their menu cards to those at home.

MEETING OF THE KNOX CHURCH BOY'S CLUB

A Treasurer and Newspaper Correspondents Were Appointed

A meeting of the Knox Boys' Club was held last night, when a few important questions were discussed. They elected two boys to report the meetings, which are held on Friday nights, to the Examiner and Review. A new treasurer was also elected on account of the old boy leaving the city. Mr. Wilkie was appointed as the new treasurer. The rest of the evening was spent socially and in games.

Invalid Ladies

This Is For You.

There are thousands of females who suffer untold miseries common to their sex.

This is largely due to the peculiar habits of life and fashion, and the improper training of girlhood. Then, too, the physical changes that mark the three eras of womanhood (the maiden, the wife, and the mother) have much to do with her sufferings, most of which are endured in silence, unknown by even the family physician and most intimate friends.

To all such whose hollow cheeks, pale faces, sunken eyes and feeble footsteps, indicate nervousness, palpitation of the heart, weak, faint and dizzy spells, we would earnestly recommend a course of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

Mrs. Jos. Sharp, Brighton, Ont., writes: "I was troubled with palpitation of the heart, weak spells and nervous trouble, and found no relief until advised to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. I got one box and that helped me so much I sent and got five more. I am now cured completely."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. per box or three boxes for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Mr. Lillie is sending full information to this new telephone company to-day.

THE RAILWAY CARNIVAL POSTPONED

Will be Held on Tuesday—Last Night Was Ideal

In all probability, had the Peterborough Street Railway held their fancy dress carnival last night, it would have been one of the most successful and best attended ever known in this city. The night was ideal for such an event; rink and toboggan slide never before this season being in such a splendid condition and it was with great disappointment that the many young people who had ordered costumes cancelled their orders. The railway officials cannot be blamed for postponing the night as the proceedings didn't know what gloomy forecast for this brilliant event and they decided to hold the carnival on Tuesday night next. It is hoped that all those who intended to enter on Friday night will come out on Tuesday night.

To-night from 6 to 8.30 the Saturday night Bible Club meet with Mr. A. Poe as leader. A new series of twelve lessons will be commenced on "The Social Teachings of Jesus." Any man, whether a member of the association or not, is invited.

The Social Committee meets to-night at 8.30 p. m.

LEARN DRESS-MAKING BY MAIL In Your Spare Time at Home

We want our course to be in every home in Ontario where there are ladies, so have decided to give, direct to the public our improved $15 course in dressmaking, including our Ladies' Tailor System for wholesale price, $5.00.

As there are a large number of people, especially dressmakers say you cannot learn by mail we will send system and first lesson (which teaches how to make a perfect fitting waist) registered to any address in Ontario. After you are satisfied you can learn, send $5.00 and we will forward full course of lessons. Please do not send unless you wish to learn dressmaking; we are so sure anyone can learn that we guarantee to give $500 to anyone we cannot teach.

These lessons teach how to cut, fit and put together any garment from the plainest shirt waist suit to the most elaborate dress. This is the only course in Canada that the whole family can learn by. One member taking it up. We have been in business for ten years, have taught over 7,000. Beware of imitations, as some have been known to copy our advs. and even claimed where they were not known to be the inventor of this course. No adv. is genuine without our $500.00 guarantee.

DISTRIBUTION OF BEEF AND POTATOES

Will be Held at Mr. Finch Miller's Store To-night

The distribution of beef and potatoes to the poor and needy families of this city last week was a great success and the credit is wholly due to the efforts of Mr. Finch Miller, the relief officer of this city. Mr. Miller saw the condition of the people and proposed the plan of giving food instead of money. Often money is never properly spent when it is given away. The Charity Board decided to abide by Mr. Miller's suggestion and the result was that fifty families were supplied with a week's rations of beef and potatoes last Saturday. Mr. Miller will continue this periodical distribution and any person who is in need will call on the officer at his store on Water street to-night after 6 o'clock and their wants will be supplied. There will be no starving families while the charitable work continues.

AN OVERCOAT STOLEN TO-DAY

Was Hung up on a Pole in Front of LeBrun's Store

One of the men employed by Mr. G. Evans had his overcoat stolen this afternoon. He was doing some work in front of H. LeBrun's store and hung his overcoat on a spike in a telegraph pole. Some person who was minus an overcoat pulled it down and coolly walked away with it. The civic employee is indignant over the matter and promises to make it hot for the thief.

The culprit was seen taking the coat and if it is not returned soon, the party will be taken into custody.

CONDUCTOR MISSED HIS CAR

Ran Nearly a Mile After It And Then Failed Encore

One of the day motormen of the Street Railway Company was last night engaged as conductor on a Jackson Park car and had a funny experience on one of his trips. Just at the loop at the Park, he gave the signal for the car to start, but just then got off to speak to two lady friends. Almost forgetting he ran after the car which was starting down the grade. He missed it and not knowing has conductor was left behind the motorman continued on his way to the city. The conductor in a very dersuffled state of mind, ran all the way to Charlotte street and was then late again. The conductor of the C.G.E. car had taken his place and he took charge of the C.G.E. car to even up. When he returned to Charlotte street he regained his own car but vowed that he would talk to the ladies only from the car steps in the future.

TREMENDOUS SACRIFICE SALE

THE PUBLIC BENEFITS

The public of Peterborough, Peterborough County, and vicinity will benefit greatly by the tremendous sacrifice sale of the J. T. Stenson big stock of shoes. The entire stock will be placed on sale for ten days at prices less than actual cost of raw material. This will be a sacrifice sale of shoes such as the people of Ontario never had before, or will ever have again. It will be a sacrifice sale such as the public only have in opportunity to attend about once in a life time, and the people of Peterborough and Peterborough County will no doubt take advantage of this great sacrifice sale to secure for themselves shoes at manufacturers' prices. They want twenty--five extra salespeople, in order to serve the vast crowds who will attend this sale. We bespeak for this sacrifice sale of J. T. Stenson's shoe stock, a most gigantic business, as they have never carried any but the most reliable quality of shoes. This great sacrifice sale no doubt, will attract thousands of people to Peterborough, as the people know when they are getting big bargains, and the public are always ready to save on their purchases, whenever that opportunity presents itself, and this certainly is the time for our people to secure shoes at almost one-half actual value. Think what this great sacrifice sale of J. T. Stenson's shoe stock means to you, right in the height of the season, when you need shoes the most. The entire stock is placed on sale without reserve. The store will be closed on Monday and Tuesay, January 27th and 28th, getting every article marked down in plain figures, and we propose to sell more than half of this entire stock in ten days time. The store will not be open for business until the opening day of this tremendous sacrifice sale. Let all who can, come, and take advantage of this tremendous ten days' slaughtering of prices, and secure their share of the many great bargains that will be offered. At the prices we understand this stock will be sold at, we expect this stock of shoes to melt away quickly, like a snowfall before a July sun. Remember the opening day of this big sacrifice sale of the J. T. Stenson's shoe stock, opening Wednesday, January 29th, at 9 a. m. It will be a colossal event, and we would advise early morning trading, in order to facilitate the serving of the immense crowd of people that will attend this great sale. A word to the wise should be sufficient, and we advise you to be on hand early and benefit accordingly. Look for the big sign, covering the entire front of J. T. Stenson's store. Act quickly.

IF YOU VALUE MONEY, PREPARE ACCORDINGLY.

ANOTHER BIG GAME ON MONDAY

Fast Cobourg Septette Will Meet Peterboro' in O. H. A. Match

Cobourg will be here on Monday night and will meet Peterborough in what should easily be the best game of the season on local ice. The teams in this district are just beginning to play hockey now, as is evidenced by last night's game in Lindsay, which was one of the prettiest and fastest exhibitions seen in this section in years. The Peterborough crowd who put up last night were delighted with the contest. Monday night's game should be equally as fast. Cobourg are right at Lindsay's heels in the race for the district championship and they must win on Monday night to have a chance to win. On the other hand Peterborough is determined to win their remaining games and the two will go at each other hammer and tongs from the first, while Cobourg will have on their strongest team, including Crossin, the man with the wrist shot, who can shoot them in on a line from any old place on the run. Peterborough will have a strong lineup and the game will be well worth seeing.

It is the second last O. H. A. contest of the season, and if it approaches in spectacular features anywhere near the exhibition put up at Lindsay last night the fans will certainly get their money's worth.

IS SIGNED WITH A PRO. BALL TEAM

Jack Connors to be Tried Out With Youngstown, Pa.

Jack Connors, the hard hitting centre fielder of last year's Peterborough Midland League ball team, and son of Mr. Martin Connors, city, has been signed by the Youngstown professional ball team for a trial next season. The Youngstown Vindicator has the following to say of him:

Four new players were signed for trial with the Youngstown club next spring during the past week. They are a catcher, two outfielders and an infielder.

John Connors and C. H. Gibbs are the outfielders. Connors was a member of the Canadian League last season and made a good record. He was especially strong with the stick hitting .313 in fifty odd games. Connors is at present located in Youngstown.

RULES AND REGULATIONS REGARDING THE CARNIVAL

The Street Railway Company would like to draw the attention of those who intend skating in costumes at the fancy dress carnival next Tuesday night to the following points:

1—All skaters will have to procure a ticket from the conductor of the car on which they go out. This ticket must be shown whenever asked for, by an official of the company.

2—All skaters in costume must procure a special ticket—cost, 10c—before going on the ice, and this ticket must be shown before anyone will be allowed to skate in the Grand March. These tickets will be for sale at the office of the company on Monday and Tuesday, and at the door of each dressing room Tuesday evening.

3—Ladies will use the regular ladies' waiting-room as a dressing-room and the gentleman the old bowling alley.

4—The Grand March will commence at 8.30 sharp, and all skaters are requested to be on the ice a few minutes before.

5—The judging for prizes will be done between 8.30 and 9 o'clock and all skaters are requested to stay on the ice as much as possible during this half hour, so that everyone will have a good opportunity of having their costume judged.

6—His Worship Mayor Rush will present the prizes at 9 o'clock.

7—The prizes are now on exhibition in the window of Schneider's jewellery store. 3d fm

MARRIAGE IN TIBET.

Courting and Wedding Etiquette in the Forbidden Land.

In A. Henry Savage Landor's account of "The Forbidden Land" we read that among the Shokas, when a young couple consider marriage advisable, the young man, dressed in his best clothes, proceeds to the house of his intended father-in-law, carrying wine, grilled grain, dried fruit, sugar candy and other sweetmeats.

If the bridegroom is thought a suitable match, the parents of the girl receive the young man with due consideration and partake heartily of the food and drink proffered by him.

The marriage is there and then arranged, the bridegroom further disbursing to the father a sum of not less than 5 rupees and not more than 100. This is supposed to be the money equivalent to the sum spent by the relatives of the girl in bringing her up.

The marriage ceremony then follows, and this is simplicity itself. A cake called "delang" is baked, of which the friends of the two families partake. If either the bridegroom or the bride refuses to eat a share of the cake, the marriage is broken off. If they both eat some of the cake and later any discussion arises between them, all those who assisted at the function are called as witnesses that the marriage took place.

Often even this primitive ceremony of eating cake is dispensed with, and Shoka marriages begin and continue as happy and faithful unions without any special form of service or rite to solemnize the tie.

A breach of the seventh commandment is severely visited not only on the guilty man, who is well beaten, but on his parents. The Shoka men proceed en masse to the parental dwelling and completely denude it of all furniture, stores of grain and merchandise.

They confiscate the sheep, goats, yak and all their valuable saddles and loads and present the whole proceeds to the person who has been wronged by the guilty pair as some sort of recompense.

Frequently the unfortunate and innocent relatives of the evildoer are bound and even beaten to death by the villagers.

These severe measures are resorted to to maintain a high standard of morality and honor, and there is little doubt that, primitive as these methods may seem, the good results obtained more than justify them.

An institution which the author speaks of as surprising in a primitive people, but nevertheless, to his way of thinking, eminently sensible and advantageous, is called the Rambang, a place or club where girls and young men meet at night for the sake of better acquaintance prior to entering into matrimony. Each village possesses one or more institutions of this kind, and they are patronized by well to do people, who recognize the institution as a sound basis on which marriage can be arranged.

Rambang houses are either in the village itself or halfway between one village and the next, the young women of one village thus entering into amicable relations with the young men of the other, and vice versa.

Uncle Henry's Experience.

"It's all nonsense and a waste of time," said Uncle Henry, "to tell a young man what kind of wife he ought to pick out when he gets ready to marry. Nine times out of ten he has picked her out already, and if he hasn't he doesn't need anybody's help."

"What do you know about it?" he was asked.

"I know something about it by observation," he answered, "and a little by experience. When I had reached the age of twenty-five, with a fair income and good prospects, I thought it was time for me to marry. I had almost decided to ask a certain Naomi Heathorne, but didn't altogether like the family, and was in an uncertain frame of mind about her, when some of my friends began to take it upon themselves to assist me. They told me that Naomi was the very girl for me; that I couldn't find a better wife if I were to hunt all over the country, and so on. In short, they praised her so highly that I made up my mind I'd follow their advice. I began paying attention to her, and in a few weeks I popped the question."

"Well?"

"Well," said Uncle Henry, with some reluctance, "she said she wouldn't marry me if I was the last man on earth."

Bubbly jocks.

Probably everybody has heard of the little boy in Scotland who was asked if his life were happy. "Aye," he replied, but doubtfully, and added that he was "nair hauden doon by yon bubbly jock." If this laddie had been the only one so held down, the story would not have been so important, but it is all the world's story. We should all be good and wildly happy—many of us feel that we should be great—if it were not that we were so nair hauden doon by a bubbly jock. (Adam, of course, named the bubbly jock a turkey; Eve knew when she saw it cruising toward her with the fat, overbearing gait of a bully and before she heard its absurd voice that it was the bubbly jock and no other.) Bubbly jocks are not lions. They do not kill and devour; they torment. They do not attempt life, but the joy of life. They cannot prevent our doing as we please, but they can gobble at us and threaten us, so that we work in cadence and not in joy, grimly instead of whistling. Like the little boy, we eat our oatcake and with a sort of appetite, but we keep one eye on the strutting bubbly jock.—Atlantic.

The barber as well as the pugilist can give an uppercut.—Philadelphia Record.

THE KISSING GERM.

It is a Treacherous Reality According to These Experiments.

We come to the danger of the mustache in the kiss, as recently demonstrated by scientific experiments of the highest order, followed by conclusive results. Of these the most important have been made by a noted French professor whose studies of all questions relating to the now thoroughly established "germ theory" have won for him great fame.

He enlisted the services of two men, one shaven, one bearded, and walking with them through several streets of Paris, the Louvre and several places, finally fetching them in a crowded tram car to his laboratory. There, waiting with subdued expectancy, was a young woman who—probably the first experience of the kind in the history of her sex—had been hired to be kissed. When the professor had made certain, by the use of antiseptic preparations, that no germs lingered upon the lips of the maiden, the shaven young man applied his lips to hers in the customary manner. The professor then passed a sterilized brush over the young lady's lips, dipped it into a test tube containing a sterile solution of agar-agar and quickly sealed the top.

The girl's lips, and face even, having been thoroughly sterilized a second time, the bearded man followed the example of his shaven companion, and the sterilized brush and the test tube were again called into play in the same manner. During each of the operations the young women held her breath in order that no accidental germ might be drawn upon her lips from the atmosphere.

After four days the tubes were opened. The first, taken from the shaven man, was speckled with dots, each of which was a colony of yeast germs, such as cause mold, but are practically harmless. The second, from the mustached man, literally swarmed with malignant microbes. The long, thin tubercle bacillus was the first found, followed by diphtheria and pneumonia germs, minute bits of food, a hair from a spider's leg and goodness knows what all, so great a variety in any case that nobody had the hardihood to reveal the results of the experiment to the young lady.—George Hervey in North American Review.

WANTED TO GET INSURANCE.

Desired to Be Thought Dead So Left Clothes on Beach.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 25.—William Watson, an English pottery manufacturer, arrested by the police Thursday, charged with defrauding an insurance company out of $5,000, which the company paid upon alleged proof of Watson's death, will not be extradited. It is said that the insurance company, with Watson's alleged confession in its possession, believe that it will be able to recover the amount of its loss from the proceeds of the estate of Watson's beneficiaries, who died recently.

According to Watson's alleged confession to the police, he left a suit of clothes on the beach at North Sunderland, England, in 1906. He went to Paris, then returned to London, and finally went to Quebec, eventually coming to the Pacific coast. Domestic troubles led to Watson's difficulties.

According to the alleged confession, after borrowing considerable money from Mrs. Helen Lampert, Watson had his life insured for $5,000 in her favor, and took out an additional policy of $1,000 for his wife. He then conceived the plan of having his clothing found on the beach.

ARTIFICIAL LIGHT.

The Most Brilliant Illumination Is Not Always the Best.

A writer in an engineering magazine offers some disconcerting information on the subject of illumination, disconcerting because the reader will probably find that he has been, ignorantly enough, following a couple of precedure there described as injurious. For instance, in the case of eye strain he may have felt that using the dim light by which he worked was too strong, and so turned down the light, thus increasing the difficulty or, what is more likely to be the case, when the strain has been caused by too brilliant illumination he fancies that what is needed is stronger light and so increases it.

Overstrain from too bright a light is said to manifest itself by an itching sensation in the eyeballs, with the tendency to rub the eyes for relief. The proper course, then, is to see that the light is more perfectly diffused or softened and that it falls in the right direction. After these precautions have been taken it is worth while to try a smaller quantity of light, this trial to continue long enough for the eyes to become fully accustomed to the change. The value of illumination is not to be judged by the apparent brightness of the lights employed at directly—the brightest the better—but by the effect on the subject to be looked at, and the most desirable effect, so far as the eyes are concerned, is not always produced by the most brilliant lights.

Set the Pace.

Young Mabel had a habit when soup was served at the table of crumbling her crackers or bread in it until it was a great mess. Her mother tried many efforts to have her correct this strictly primeval habit.

One day there was to be company at the table, and the mother said:

"Now, Mabel, Mrs. Brown is to dine with us tonight, and I want you to act at the table just as nicely as she does. Please don't 'mush' your soup."

Mabel promised faithfully to follow the example set by Mrs. Brown, and the dinner opened with every promise of a fine time. However, Mabel was using a pair of very sharp eyes on Mrs. Brown and in an instant thrusted forth at the top of her voice:

"Oh, mamma, Mrs. Brown is 'mushing' her soup!"

YOUNG'S POINT YOUTH STRUCK BY FALLING TREE; HARDSHIPS EXPERIENCED IN LUMBER CAMP

Caught Cold While Being Taken To Mount Julian — Blood Flowed Freely From His Face And Ears

HE LIES DANGEROUSLY ILL

The tall timbers of the northern woods almost claimed another victim on Friday of last week, when Jack McFadden, a youth of eighteen years of age, was struck on the head by a falling tree, and is now not expected to live.

Young McFadden's home is at Young's Point, where his father, Ezra McFadden, shoemaker, resides on the Burleigh Road, just north of the village.

The conditions accompanying the accident, serve to illustrate the trials of the lumberman who earns his bread by travelling through the deep snow of the winter forest; who sleeps in the log shack, through the chinks of which the winter wind whistles, and who lives apart from his fellow man.

According to the meagre news of the accident which has reached the city, McFadden was engaged with another lumberman in cutting down a tree in a lumber camp about two miles from Mount Julian, in Burleigh township. It lodged against another and in the attempt to dislodge it he was struck on the head by a branch.

His face and head were badly cut, and with the blood streaming from the wounds he was carried in a semi-unconscious condition to the camp.

Two Miles by Hand Sleigh

The injured youth could not be left alone while medical aid was summoned so he was muffled up the best way possible under the circumstances and drawn on a small sleigh for two long miles through the deep snow to Mount Julian on the shore of Stony Lake.

During the trip he was almost frozen to death, and may yet lose his life on account of the cold. The blood began to run from his nose and ears, and he was in a most pitiable looking condition on arriving at his destination.

Taken to his Home

On Saturday he was driven to his home in Young's Point, a distance of fifteen miles and it was there that he first received a doctor's care. It was found that his face and head were badly lacerated, and it is a question whether he will recover. He is a bright, energetic young man, and his good constitution may serve to bring about his recovery.

LAST O. H. A. GAME OF THE SEASON.

To-night's O. H. A. Game between Cobourg and Peterboro, will be the last of the season and should be one of the best exhibitions on local ice in years, game will be called at the Brock St. Rink at 8.15 o'clock sharp. See the last O. H. A. Contest of the year to-night.

TRAFFIC WAS TIED UP TO-DAY

C.P.R. and G.T.R. Trains Battled With The Drifts

The storm to-day is the most disastrous of the season so far as the railways are concerned. The C. P. R. express at noon was 35 minutes late. When it arrived it was drawn by two of the largest engines, the front one being a mass of snow. Between Toronto and Peterborough the cuts were badly filled in, the wind blowing a tempest. The snow plow was run over the road, but the wind quickly drifted it in again.

The G.T.R. had difficulties also with the early morning trains late, and the noon trains were blocked and delayed several hours.

ARRESTED EARLY ON SUNDAY

Goes to Cobourg to Answer Charge Of Theft

On the strength of a telegram from Chief Constable Ruse of Cobourg, Jesse Ayres, a well-known Peterborough boy who has figured several times in the local police court, was arrested at 3 o'clock Sunday morning as he was sleeping at his home by P. C.'s Newhall and Meharry.

The telegram, received late in the evening, read as follows:

"Cobourg, Jan. 25, 1908."

"Chief Ruzel—

"I hold a warrant for the arrest of Jesse Ayres for theft.

"Signed, J. C. RUSE,
"Chief Constable."

Young Ayres was brought to the police station and lodged in a cell, where he finished his sleep.

This morning he appeared before Magistrate Dumble and was remanded until an officer arrives from Cobourg.

Ayres, in talking to the Examiner, said he was in Cobourg last summer, but had no knowledge that any charge lay against him down there. "It is a case of when a dog is down put the boots to him." After leaving Cobourg he went to Arizona, where he worked on a ranch, and when he heard of his father's illness came home to Peterborough.

It is expected an officer will arrive from Cobourg to-night and take his prisoner back on the 9 o'clock train.

REPORT OF CONVENTION PRESENTED

Master Hugh Burritt Tells of His Trip To Brockville

The weekly meeting of the Junior Brotherhood of St. Andrew, of St. John's Church was held yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the guild room. There was a large attendance of the members of the society and several strangers. The feature of the meeting was the eloquent address delivered by Master Hugh Burritt, giving an excellent account of his trip to Brockville, where he represented his chapter at the convention. He told of the different methods brought forward by the boys in conducting their chapters, and hoped that a few of these would be introduced into his chapter. While there he met Mr Herbert Carlton, general secretary of the society and editor of "The Cross." Mr. Carlton spent most of his time among the boys, and they had an all round good time.

FELLOWSHIP CLUB TO HOLD CONCERT

Committee Appointed Saturday to Look After Entertainment

The Stranger's Fellowship Club met as usual last Saturday night for supper at the Y.M.C.A. Several new members were elected and important business discussed. An entertainment under the club's auspices is to be held on Saturday, February 8. Messrs. W. McLaren and C. E. Coleman have this in full charge, and a fine entertainment is anticipated.

The Social Committee also met on Saturday night, and social features, consisting of receptions, entertainments, etc., will be held during the month of February.

He will visit Medicine Hat, Lethbridge, McLeod, Nanton, Calgary, Banff, Red Deer, Lacombe, Wetaskewin, Strathcona, Edmonton, Vermilion and many other places in Alberta and British Columbia. Mr. Tully will spend a couple of days in Winnipeg on his trip to the west.

Popular Cure for Croup
Anyone who has tested Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, as a cure for croup, will not hesitate to pronounce it an unqualified success. It is wonderfully prompt in relieving the cough, clearing the air passages and soothing the exacted nerves. Many mothers who realize the suddenness with which croup comes on keep this great medicine promptly on hand for use in case of emergency.

THE WEATHER.

Stormy conditions prevailed yesterday, and, especially, last night. During the night the wind backed from the east to the north-west, turned much colder, and blew with the force of a gale. The consequence is that the snow has been badly drifted in exposed places, of which the incoming trains to-day bore ample evidence. The lowest temperature this morning was 4 degrees below zero; at noon, zero exactly.

THE FRENCH TREATY

While the Conservatives in Parliament are describing the French treaty as a delusion and a snare, and the party stumpers in bye-election campaigns, and at the conventions, are telling the people that it is a gold brick, the business community is showing every evidence of being thoroughly well satisfied with the convention negotiated by Hon. Messrs Fielding and Brodeur.

The direct shipment clause has been the source of considerable discussion, especially in Toronto, whose merchants naturally, owing to their geographical position, procure many of their shipments via New York; but it has taken only a little consideration, the Ottawa Free Press says, to convince even these gentlemen that the direct shipment clause will be of benefit to Canada as a whole, and they are, therefore, willing to accept the situation for the sake of national unity. One prominent firm, that of Nesbitt and Auld, expresses the opinion that the direct shipment clause is a good one because the Canadian route is becoming the best in the world.

"We have no troubles at all with goods coming that way, while constant irritation exists over the New York cargoes. The goods get to that port all right but little care is taken in the transhipment of the goods here."

Montreal merchants are, of course, prepared to accept the policy, which must mean a building up of the Canadian ports, so that while there may be objections here and there, it may be taken for granted that the mercantile community, as a whole, is ready to accept the direct shipment clause.

Some other critics of the treaty have complained because the French tariff is too high, and that Canada does not get sufficient concessions. To such as these it may be pointed out that there are many cases in which the French duties under the treaty, will be lower than those charged by Canada herself. Take the item of cheese, one of the principal exports of Canada, for instance. Under the French treaty, Canadian cheese imported into France will pay a duty of one and one-third cents per pound, while under our own tariff, cheese imported into Canada pays two cents under the preferential tariff and three cents under the intermediate and general tariff. The same thing is true of horses. When this is the case how can the Conservatives argue that the French duties under the tariff are too high?

But if the Conservative critics in Canada do not know a good arrangement when they see it, other people do. The most striking feature of recent comment in the United States press upon Canadian affairs has been the general admission that Canada has secured from France most substantial concessions in the matter of reduced duties. The trade and specialist journals have been the first to grasp this advantage and have not spared their comments thereon. Take, for instance, the Breeders' Gazette of Chicago, one of the most successful of the organs of the farmers and meat packers of the United States. Under the heading "Canada Captures the French Market," it says:—

"Just as we have predicted, while we have been standing pat, Canada has captured the French market for such products of the farm and feed lot as we have to sell. The Franco-Canadian treaty is a fact accomplished. Canada has beaten us to it. Note, then, the list of articles which Canada may now sell to France at the maximum tariff: Cattle, horses, packinghouse products, all grains, poultry, dairy produce, eggs and the like. And all this has been achieved in return for the granting of an intermediate tariff — not a minimum tariff—on a lot of articles which Canada either has to have or does not need, or at least need not bother about in the very least. Canada has to sell all the farm products of which we have a surplus. For years back the Government to the north of us has been educating its people what to grow, how to finish it, and how to put it up so as to be most attractive to the European trade. All this has been well learned and now the Canadians have another great market in which they can, by force of this treaty, undersell us from $8 to $22 in the $100, and it is all fixed and ready to go ahead."

And yet we have Conservative politicians and Conservative newspapers declaring that the French treaty is a delusion and a snare. But after all they said the same thing as respects the British preference when it was first introduced, so that it is quite possible that in years to come they will take credit for having aided in the ratification of the treaty with France, just as, in certain quarters, they now take credit for not having opposed the preferential tariff in favour of Great Britain. — Ottawa Free Press.

THE DOCUMENTARY DEADLOCK

If the Conservative Opposition in the Dominion Parliament were as anxious to promote the public interests by contributing to the prompt and proper transaction of public business, as they are to make party capital at the public expense, the duration of the parliamentary session would be greatly lessened. Last session they occupied the time of the House by the discussion of "scandals," for which there was no greater justification than a desire for party advantage. This session there has been a similar attempt of obstruction which has culminated in a comparative deadlock, represented by Opposition refusal to vote supply unless certain requests in regard to access to original documents are complied with. It seems to be a good deal of a tempest in a teapot and at the stage at which the incident has arrived, a brief resume of of the affair might be appropriate.

The member for a St. Antoine Division, Montreal, Mr. Ames, had stated in making his motion for the return, placing upon the table of the House of original papers in connection with certain timber limits, that it had been drafted purely and simply to test the one question as to whether a member of the House was entitled to have originals as an absolute right without giving any reasons. The motion simply could not be granted on these grounds. The other side of the House had tried to convey the impression that the Government wanted to conceal the papers in question. Sir Wilfrid did not know their contents, but he resented the imputation that the Government did not want them brought down because there was something wrong in them. The member for St. Antoine could have the same measure of justice which had always been extended by the Government to any member if he would simply come forward and ask for the papers and state his reasons for wanting them. The usual practice was to grant copies of the original, and it was a long-established precedent that whenever original papers were asked for sufficient reason must be given, or it might so come about that there might be on the tables of the House hundreds of documents from the various departments which would seriously impede the business of the country. When an honourable member came, however, with a club in his hand, insisting on his native right to see the documents, instead of giving his reasons, the Government was bound to resist him. No little acrimony has been imported into the discussion, but the statement promised by Sir Wilfrid Laurier for to-day will doubtless have a modifying effect upon the situation.

A GREAT TRIBUTE TO THE LEMIEUX ACT

A very handsome compliment has just been paid by the reverend president of Harvard University to the Act passed last year by the Canadian Parliament, providing for the investigation of industrial disputes, and the compliment is the more gratifying from the fact that it is no empty formality, but is obviously sincere and well-deserved. President Eliot made the Lemieux Act the subject of an address which he has just delivered before the Twentieth Century Club at Boston, and in that address he described it as the best specific so far presented in any country for the prevention of strikes. It is an undoubted fact that the Act, during the year it has been in operation, has been freely used as an instrument for the settlement of labour disputes, and wherever the principle of conciliation it embodies has been applied it has proved an unqualified success. The basis of settlement has been harder to reach in some cases than in others, but when reached it has been found a true solvent.

What President Eliot seems to admire most about the new law is the wide difference between it and arbitration, inasmuch as at the end of the inquiry neither party is compelled to accept the decision of the Conciliation Board. The employer is left free to lock his men out, and the men are at liberty to strike. But the general experience is that they have not done so. In arbitration, on the other hand, its compulsory features destroy its power for permanent usefulness. "Arbitration," Dr. Eliot declared, "never did settle an industrial warfare, and never will. In fact, arbitration is a positive inducement to strike or lock-out. It is always a compromise between extremes failed." This means that arbitration and unjust demands, and has always leaves friction behind it which produces fresh irritation and a recrudescence of the old sore, as has been the case in more than one railway and industrial dispute that has been arbitrated upon.

It is an interesting fact that while the investigation under Mr. Lemieux's Act may be conducted in public, it has not as a rule been found necessary to throw the doors open. While the sittings have been held in private, there is the dread of publicity which promotes a spirit of reasonableness. President Eliot commenting on this feature, says: "As soon as it is known that there is to be an inquiry both sides begin to talk themselves. 'Have we a case?' and as the fear of publicity is ever before them, the one in the wrong gives in and a settlement is made." One of the chief merits of the law, is doubtless the soothing effect it has upon the contending parties. It prevents strikes or lock-outs until there has been an investigation, and that gives time for excitement to calm down.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Death from freezing in the Northwest must be an euthanasia. The people out there say it is cold, "but you don't feel it."

The most conspicuous feature of the Whitney Government's power policy is to hang on to power by any means, gerrymander or license law juggle.

The new member for South Huron the editor of the Seaforth Expositor, should be a man of foresight. As the Toronto Star in its depravity might say, he can Seaforth into the future.

The Democrats of the United States hold the high tariff responsible for the trusts and the train of evils that follow them, and will make tariff reform a prominent plank in their Presidential election platform. If the people are not party-blind, the Republican party will help the Democrats in their campaign, perhaps, to the point of giving the country a successor to Grover Cleveland.

The "honest farmer" has come to be a proverbial expression which at one time was very largely justified. But some of the fruit farmers are taking a course which not only destroys their reputation as a class, but injures the interest of the whole fraternity and tends to give all Canadian products a bad name in the British market, the farmers' best market. There were last year thirty convictions under the Act against fraudulent packing and marking of apples. The instinct for gain at any price must be very strong when packers will take a course, which while it may give a temporary advantage is easily open to detection and punishment not only in the shape of a fine but in the way injury to the whole class to which they belong and the industry they represent. Such a course of action is without an atom of defence—it is a practical illustration of killing the goose that lays the golden eggs.

CONDITIONS RETURNING

The late panic in the United States like its predecessors, is being succeeded, says Henry Clews & Co., by a period of pronounced ease in money. This is a condition which always follows such financial upheavals as we have recently passed through. At such times large sums locked up in speculative ventures are released; both speculation and business contract; credit is curtailed; and declining prices for securities and commodities have the effect of practically increasing the supply of available funds. This tendency towards easier rates is world wide. The Bank of England once more reduced its rate, this time from 5 to 4 per cent., and the Bank of France from 3 1-2 to 3 per cent., to conform to the lower rates of the open market. It is expected that the Bank of Germany many will shortly follow suit, leaving rates at that centre relatively higher than elsewhere, owing to the recent strained conditions in the Berlin market. The decline in interest rates in the United States has naturally been much more precipitous than abroad for the reason that in the last three months the rates here were abnormally high. Everything points to continued easy rates in the American money markets; not only on account of lessened demand, but also because of the extraordinary expansion which has recently taken place in our circulation. Between the two bank calls of August 22 and December 3, a period of about fifteen weeks it is estimated that there was an expansion of nearly $275,000,000 in our circulating medium, made up of about $60,000,000 in bank notes, $75,000,000 Clearing House certificates, $73,000,000 of additional Government deposits and $75,000,000 in gold imports. This is certainly not an overestimate of the relief extended during the panic; for the total amount of Clearing House certificates issued in various cities was considerably above the amount mentioned, and the entire gold import movement amounted to nearly $100,000,000.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ON THE DEFENSE

A Plea for Fair Treatment—Attitude of Local Ministers

To the Editor of the Examiner

Dear Sir—Because of some reference made to Christian Science by the ministers of both St. Paul's and Knox Churches on Sunday, Jan. 19th, you are asked the favour of allowing the following plea for fair treatment to appear in your paper—

The attitude of certain of the local ministers of the orthodox persuasion Christian Science, as exhibited on numerous occasions of late, both in sermons and published criticisms, has increasingly impressed me, first, with its unfairness toward the members of the Christian Science church who are cautioned by their leader to follow her only as she follows Christ. And yet not an existing religious sect are so ridiculed and denounced as Christian Science is to-day. For my part, I am at a loss to know what they have done to deserve such unkind and unchristian treatment. At the worst they are peaceable and law-abiding citizens, never even attempting to proselyte from other faiths; at the best they are a force for good, positive and active, even though some of their tenets without question with those of the orthodox church: second, that the attitude of the ministers and laymen of likemindedness is defeating the object sought to be accomplished, namely, as I suppose, wholly to discredit the new sect and to caution church members against having anything to do with it, and perhaps, particularly, to warn them against taking up with Christian Science healing, even as a last resort, all other means having failed.

I believe that Christian Science presents some truth, perhaps long-lost and almost forgotten by the Christian church, of which that same church stands in dire need to-day, and that this truth does answer the heart-longings of many who have sought for peace in the orthodox way and found it not.

The results of Christian Science treatment are sometimes instantaneous; that they are not more frequently so is due to the limited knowledge of this Science and the lack of spirituality on the part of the practitioner, but the results are overwhelmingly sufficient to prove the truth and attest the divine origin of this Science. To you who read this article, and necessarily find it limited in its explanation of the healing of Christian Science, I recommend that you read the literature of Christian Science, to be obtained free at their reading rooms and at the public libraries where the authorities have been liberal enough to accept it. You will thus learn that sin, sickness, and death are the outcome of wrong thinking, the wrong thinking of centuries, and Christian Science heals its patients and students by teaching them how to think rightly, namely, to have Mind in them "which was also in Christ Jesus."

Theirs is a gospel of supreme trust and confidence in God, the divine principle, the only force in all the universe. Their trust is alone in the eternal verities, truth, love and life all of which they declare God to be, and all else temporal and unreal. They overcome evil with good, and certainly the result is a fruitage of health, harmony, and happiness and all sense of fear is cast out of thousands of minds. And why not? Is not God love?

Possibly I am not capable of thinking the matter out very far, but it does not seem unreasonable to me, nor yet so very heterodoxical, to believe that as God is Spirit, we, made in His likeness, in our real selves must be spiritual too; that we may, if we will be controlled not by the things which are temporal, but by the things which are eternal, and that we may walk with God in spiritual life here, our lives blending with the divine Life as we more nearly and thus more naturally, approach the "perfect day."

Is it not true that the most of people are laying far too much stress on the temporal and material and too little on the spiritual, although it is only the latter things which abide? The Mind "which was also in Christ Jesus," and which we are admonished to be partakers of, is surely spiritual, since only in spirit and in truth can we approach the Father. It is true that Christian Scientists lay much stress upon the healing of bodily infirmities, and yet that, it seems to me, should be the natural result and outgrowth of the life that is lived in harmony with God. Already there are thousands of people in this country who rely wholly on Christian Science instead of the medical profession for healing, but first and best would be the Christian Scientist cast out the human consciousness of fear and seek for himself and others a spiritual consciousness which, in proportion as it is realized, lifts one out of the mortal and material plane into oneness with God; in its full realization overcoming what we know as sickness, sin and finally even death itself.

Now these are in brief some of the things which appeal to me in Christian Science, my convictions having been brought about partly by means of some of the scholarly articles by Christian Science writers I have been privileged to read, and by the "signs following," as they express it, not to speak of the personal benefits received. Isn't there something in all this that orthodox Christians have not yet laid hold of that is nevertheless worth their while, Isn't there anything here that even the preachers can learn from this doctrine so many of them affect to despise, but which ever exalts the spiritual in man and as far as possible ignores—denies, if you please—the material and temporal? At any rate this spiritual idea is working out to the betterment of thousands of lives, bringing peace and harmony into them and a new thought of God as truly, All-in-all. I know no class of believers ever so ready to tell what God has done for them, and almost every one of them has definite benefits, both spiritual and physical, to talk about, and they never question either God's power or His love.

Sure it must be plain that this is not intended as a defense of Christian Science, for a weak it is a plea for fair treatment of the new cult and its followers; but much more than that, it is a plea for a careful study on the part of the leaders of orthodox thought of the teachings of Christian Science, not primarily to discover its weak points nor to see how far it has departed from the conventional orthodox creeds but to know the truth it contains which may contribute to the betterment of humanity and the "healing of the nations."

Is it to be presumed that the full and final revelation of all truth is in possession of and actively employed by the members of the orthodox church? Even if we have it all, we are so far from its full acceptance that many of us are bound hand and foot:—yes, and body and soul—to the things of earth. Let us, therefore, seek to obtain somewhat of the spiritual point of view of the Christian Scientist, whose thought centres on the declaration that "Spirit is the real and eternal, matter is the unreal and temporal."

ITS MERIT IS PROVED

RECORD OF A GREAT MEDICINE

A Prominent Montreal Woman Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Completely Cure Her.

The great good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is doing among the women of America is attracting the attention of many leading scientists, and thinking people generally.

The following letter is only one of many thousands which are on file in the Pinkham office, and go to prove beyond question that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound must be a remedy of great merit, otherwise it could not produce such marvelous results among sick and ailing women:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"Soon after my marriage my health began to decline. My appetite failed me: I was unable to sleep, and I became very nervous and had shooting pains through the abdomen and pelvic organs, with bearing-down pains and constant headaches, causing me much misery. The monthly periods became more and more painful, and I became a burden and expense to my family instead of a help and pleasure. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cured me within three months. Soon after I began using it I felt a change for the better, and at the time of my next period I noticed a great difference, and the pain gradually diminished until it was well. I am stronger and look better than I did before I was married, and there is great rejoicing in the house over the wonders your medicine worked." Mrs. M. A. C. Letellier, 723 Cadieux St., Montreal, Quebec.

If you have suppressed or painful periods, weakness of the stomach, indigestion, bloating, pelvic catarrh, nervous prostration, dizziness, faintness, "don't-care" and "want-to-be-left-alone" feeling, excitability, backache of the blues, these are sure indications of female weakness, or some derangement of the organs. In such cases there is one tried and true remedy—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

IN THE FOG

Continued fro m last Friday

"From that moment she must have been certain that the cigar-case, in which she knew I carried the diamonds, was in the bag that was fastened to my body, and from that time on she probably was plotting how to get it from me.

"Her anxiety became most apparent. She dropped the great lady manner, and her charming condescension went with it. She ceased talking, and, when I spoke, answered me irritably, or at random. No doubt her mind was entirely occupied with her plan. The end of our journey was drawing rapidly nearer, and her time for action was being cut down with the speed of the express train. Even I, unsuspicious as I was, noticed that something was very wrong with her. I really believe that before we reached Marseilles if I had not, through my own stupidity, given her the chance she wanted, she might have stuck a knife in me and rolled me out on the rails. But as it was, I only thought that the long journey had tired her. I suggested that it was a very trying trip, and asked her if she would allow me to offer her some of my cognac.

"She thanked me and said, 'No,' and then suddenly her eyes lighted, and she exclaimed, 'Yes, thank you, if you will be so kind.'

"My flask was in the hand bag, and I placed it on my lap and with my thumb slipped back the catch. As I keep my tickets and railroad guide in the bag, I am so constantly opening it that I never bother to lock it, and the fact that it is strapped to me has always been sufficient protection. But I can appreciate now what a satisfaction, and what a torment too, it must have been to that woman when she saw that the bag opened without a key.

"While we were crossing the mountains I had felt rather chilly and had been wearing a light racing coat. But after the lamps were lighted the compartment became very hot and stuffy, and I found the coat uncomfortable. So I stood up, and, after first slipping the strap of the bag over my head, I placed the bag in the seat next me and pulled off the racing coat. I don't blame myself for being careless; the bag was still within reach of my hand, and nothing would have happened if at that exact moment the train had not stopped at Arles. It was the combination of my removing the bag and our entering the station at the same instant which gave the Princess Zichy the chance she wanted to rob me.

"I needn't say that she was clever enough to take it. The train ran into the station at full speed and came to a sudden stop I had just thrown my coat into the rack, and had reached out my hand for the bag. In another instant I would have had the strap around my shoulder. But at that moment the Princess threw open the door of the compartment and beckoned wildly at the people on the platform. 'Natalie!' she called, 'Natalie! here I am. Come here! This way!' She turned upon me in the greatest excitement. 'My maid!' she cried. 'She is looking for me. She passed the window without seeing me. Go, please, and bring her back.' She continued pointing out of the door and beckoning me with her other hand. There certainly was something about that woman's tone which made one jump. When she was giving orders you had no chance to think of anything else. So I rushed out on my errand of mercy, and then rushed back again to ask what the maid looked like.

"'In black,' she answered, rising and blocking the door of the compartment. 'All in black, with a bonnet!'

"The train waited three minutes at Arles, and in that time I suppose I must have rushed up to over twenty women and asked, 'Are you Natalie?' The only reason I wasn't punched with an umbrella or handed over to the police was that they probably thought I was crazy.

"When I jumped back into the compartment the Princess was seated where I had left her, but her eyes were burning with happiness. She placed her hand on my arm almost affectionately, and said in a hysterical way, 'You are very kind to me. I am so sorry to have troubled you.'

"I protested that every woman on the platform was dressed in black.

"'Indeed I am so sorry,' she said, laughing; and she continued to laugh until she began to breathe so quickly that I thought she was going to faint.

"I can see now that the last part of that journey must have been a terrible half hour for her. She had the cigar-case safe enough, but she knew that she herself was not safe. She understood if I were to open my bag, even at the last minute, and miss the case, I would know positively that she had taken it. I had placed the diamonds in the bag at the very moment she entered the compartment, and no one but our two selves had occupied it since. She knew that when we reached Marseilles she would either be twenty thousand pounds richer than when she left Paris, or that she would go to jail. That was the situation as she must have read it, and I don't envy her her state of mind during that last half hour. It must have been hell.

"I saw that something was wrong, and in my innocence I even wondered if possibly my cognac had not been a little too strong. For she suddenly developed into a most brilliant conversationalist, and applauded and laughed at everything I said, and fired off questions at me like a machine gun, so that I had no time to think of anything but of what she was saying. Whenever I stirred she stopped her chattering and leaned toward me, and watched me like a cat over a mouse-hole. I wondered how I could have considered her an agreeable travelling companion. I thought I would have preferred to be locked in with a lunatic. I don't like to think how she would have acted if I had made a move to examine the bag, but as I had it safely strapped around me again, I did not open it, and I reached Marseilles alive. As we drew into the station she shook hands with me and grinned at me like a Cheshire cat.

"'I cannot tell you,' she said, 'how much I have to thank you for.' What do you think of that for impudence?

TO CONTROL GRAIN TRADE.

Drastic Bill Introduced in Manitoba Legislature.

Winnipeg, Jan. 27.—Virtual emasculation of the functions of the Winnipeg Grain and Produce Exchange is the intent of a Bill which has been introduced in the Manitoba Legislature as a Government measure by the Hon. R. P. Roblin, the first minister.

It is stated that the bill has been drafted to suit the members of the Manitoba Grain Growers' Association, who last year made an abortive attempt to prove the grain men guilty of an illegal combination in restraint of trade. Last spring a conference of grain men and farmers was held under Government auspices to see if some agreement could not be arrived at regarding amendments to the charter of the exchange asked for by the grain growers. The Government gave its pledge to carry out the recommendations of this conference, and farmers being in the great majority, the recommendations of the conference did not meet with the approval of the grain men. These recommendations are now embodied in the bill which Mr. Roblin is introducing.

The salient features of the bill are the abolition of the one-cent commission rule between members; amendment of the ejxpulsion rule giving any expelled member the right to appeal to a King's Bench judge within twenty days of such expulsion, and to retain his seat and make trades till the judge hands down his decision; any person or firm or corporation which is refused membership on the ground of not being reputable has the right of appeal to a judge.

In addition to the above the amendment contains several other objectionable clauses, including one to the effect that the public may overlook the trading-room and see the price of wheat at any time. The exchange regards this as principle, that it is the owner of its own quotations.

The exchange has protested to the agricultural committee of the Legislature, but there is little chance of the protest being entertained, as farmers constitute the majority of the house.

The members are threatening to close the wheat pit and go out of business temporarily if the bill goes through, for the purpose of proving to the farmers that they cannot realize the highest prices for their products without the aid of the grain exchange.

KITCHEN WAS WRECKED.

Three Persons Injured By Explosion of Natural Gas.

Blenheim, Jan. 27.—Three persons were injured and the house badly wrecked by an explosion of natural gas at the home of Mrs. Thos. Coatsworth, two miles east of here at 10 o'clock yesterday morning. The injured were: Mrs. Coatsworth, her son, Herb. Lott, and a young man named David Hamilton, all of whom were badly burned.

Mr. Lott some time previous to the explosion had disconnected the pipes in order to remove water from them, and in doing so quite a quantity of gas was allowed to escape. When the fire was lighted in the kitchen range it was followed by a terrific explosion, which blew out two of the outside walls of the kitchen and caved in the roof. All three of the injured persons were in the kitchen at the time of the explosion.

Czar's Family Grip-Stricken.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 27.—An epidemic of influenza has attacked the Imperial family.

Grand Duke Alexis Nikolaievitch, the Emperor's only son, and his four sisters, all have been stricken. The condition of the heir apparent is complicated by an inflammation of the ear, and Prof. Simanovsky, a specialist in aural diseases, has been summoned to Tsarskoe-Selo to attend him.

The Grand Duchess Marie Pavlovna, daughter of Grand Duke Paul Alexandrovitch, and fiancee of Prince Wilhelm of Sweden, also is down with the disease.

It is thought the infection was brought to the palace on the occasion of the recent Christmas tree celebration. At this time the children of the Emperor distributed Christmas gifts and mingled freely with the soldiers of the guard.

The Yesterday, To-day And To-morrow of Salvation Army

Vividly and Interestingly Dealt With by Commissioner Coombs, Head of The Army in Canada, In His Lecture at the Opera House Yesterday---Early Struggles of General Booth And The Work He Has Done

An auspicious occasion for the local corps of the Salvation Army was the visit of Commissioner Coombs, and particularly his stirring address in the Grand Opera House yesterday afternoon. It was the second opportunity that the people of Peterborough had of hearing this celebrated Army worker speak, and a large audience braved the mid-winter storm and listened with profound attention to his excellent address. Not only were the local soldiers and their friends present, but the various denominations of the city were also represented.

"The Yesterday, To-day and To-Morrow of the Salvation Army," in itself an interesting subject for consideration was made doubly so by the manner, the expression and the deliverance of Commissioner Coombs. From his long experience as a speaker, and especially as a Salvation Army officer, exhorting sinners to depart from the paths of vice, the Commissioner has learned the best methods of obtaining the attention of his hearers. He has learned the fine points of lecturing on the subjects which he deals with, and he used his ability to splendid advantage yesterday. His voice has a pleasing ring, and he uses every phase of it to effevtively express the emotions he feels. His gestures demand attention, and lend exceeding force to his words. He has an unlimited store of experiences and anecdotes, with which he illustrates his points, and altogether deals with his audience in a skilful and entertaining manner.

Commissioner Coombs is undoubtedly the ablest and most energetic orator that has ever visited the local corps of the Army. His energy and winning manner, with his natural ability, have won for him the highest position in the Army in Canada.

Prior to the address a hymn was sung with the band accompaniment, under the leadership of Bandmaster J. M. Greene. Lt.-Col. Pugmire, Major Morris and Staff-Capt. Morris, sang a special hymn, their voices blending with pleasing harmony. The introductory services were conducted by Brigadier Hargrave. Commissioner Coombs was accompanied by the following members of his staff:—Lt.-Col. Pugmire, Brig. Hargrave, Major Morris, Staff-Capt. Morris, and Adjt. Bloss.

The band in full strength, occupied the rear of the stage, and with the Commissioner, in the centre, were Hon. J. R. Stratton, Mayor Rush, Mr. T. E. Crotheers, M. P. P., Mr R. R. Hall, M.P., Mr. Joseph Batten, Mr. R. F. McWilliams, Mr. E. G. Carruthers, and Mr. J. J. Turner, sr. Mr. Hall capably presided as chairman. He introduced Commissioner Coombs, after first expressing his appreciation of the honour which had been conferred upon him.

The Commissioner's Address

The Commissioner said that it was with a feeling of great pleasure that he had the opportunity of speaking to such a large assemblage regarding the organization to which he had the honour to belong. It had, he said, a very small beginning, in fact, General Booth had founded it. Its beginning was due to the conditions which the General found in the very poor quarters of London, where the people lived in filth and crime, uneducated, and in ignorance of God and His Gospel. Against this flood of corruption and iniquity the General alone bent his energies and amongst the very lowest class of people in the great metropolis he laboured according to his own ideas, and to-day the Salvation Army is a grand memorial of the efforts of his early manhood.

His first meeting place, Commissioner Coombs continued, was a frail tent, which the gales blew down, and finally destroyed. Afterwards his meetings were held in the smaller theatres on Sunday evenings, the General believing that he could get the people to assemble there after spending the other nights of the week witnessing the cheap shows. These early meetings, the first efforts of the General, were remarkable in many respects. The personal magnetism which the General has always possessed, and which has been noticeable throughout his life, won many to his side. His imposing figure and long, black hair, and the grand message which he had to convey to his people, the message of the Gospel, made the people understand that he meant them and that he was determined to save them. This, said the Commissioner, was the foundation of the Army, and a difficult and laborious task it was. However, the General and his small band were happy. They expected opposition, but they knew that it was good for their cause, as the people noticed them and were influenced to a certain extent.

The Commissioner said he remembered the persecutions they had to suffer. They were insulted, reviled and even stoned, but they persevered, and success gradually crowned their efforts. To-day there are eight thousand corps of the Army; forty years ago there was one lone man.

The Commissioner then spoke on the special stand which the Army took in regard to the temperance question, and said that every soldier must be a total abstainer. After vividly portraying the demoralizing effects of intemperance, the Commissioner referred to the sin of impurity and to its awful consequences. Hundreds of ruined women have told him of their shame, and to an Army officer the real conditions are vividly brought to light. He passed on to refer to the social work of the Army and also its efforts in immigration. In regard to the former, he said no man is turned away, but even to the most wretched of human wayfarers are taken and an effort made to give them a fresh start. They are placed at the foot of the ladder again, helped up a little, and then trusted to themselves to regain their standing with the rest of the world.

The Commissioner's reference to the immigration problem is worth a separate article. The Army, he said, has brought out honest, Christian men and women with their fortunes in their moral characters and their muscles. They are the worthy poor of England, not the debased element that large cities are burdened with. Hereafter it will endeavour to bring only agriculturists, be it is there who are needed in the provinces and the great West. He stated that if all the immigrants had accepted and remained with work in the country there would not be one of them out of work this winter. The Army is now located in fifty-three different countries: the War Cry has one million copies issued each week, and in twenty-four different languages. The gospel is preached by the Army in twenty-four different tongues.

It will always advance trusting in God, the Commissioner concluded. It does not depend on material methods, in its bands, officers, nor even the General, great as he is," the Commissioner said, and closed by wishing the city and its people every blessing.

In moving a vote of thanks to Commissioner Coombs, Mayor Rush spoke of the noble work the Salvation Army was doing for Christ. To-day men do not ask what church one belongs to, but "what are you doing for Christ?" He wished the Army every blessing in its work, and expressed his appreciation of the speaker's stirring lecture.

Hon. J. R. Stratton seconded the motion and stated that he had enjoyed Commissioner Coombs' address because of its interesting nature, and in the fact that he had learned more of the efforts and the work of the Army. In Peterborough it had accomplished splendid results, and from Nova Scotia in the East to the far Pacific coast, every city and town in Canada had its local corps helping the poor and accomplishing the good work, for which the Army as an organization has gained universal praise.

Mr. Hall conveyed the thanks of the audience to Commissioner Coombs, who replied in an appropriate manner, thanking them for the attention he had received, and for the offering which they would see fit to give.

"Old Employee" Urges Council To Take Immediate Action

In Connection With the Proposal Made by The A. R. Williams Machinery Company re William Hamilton Works

HE GIVES SOME REASONS

Editor Examiner.

Sir,—I noticed in Tuesday's issue of the evening papers a proposition that has been submitted to our city fathers by the A. R. Williams Machinery Company, Limited, Toronto, with a view to the reorganization of the William Hamilton Manufacturing Company, Limited, and having the works started up again. I fully expected that, in view of the fact that the Legislature has been called for February 3, and in view of the fact that any action by the Council must be confirmed by the Legislature, that the Manufacturing Committee, when the question was opened, would have taken some action to see whether or not the City Council could have made some agreement with the A. R. Williams Machinery Company which would be acceptable to the company and at the same time be acceptable to the citizens, who are indeed particularly anxious that those works should be revived.

It seems to me that it is of the utmost importance to the city that they should be revived, as they stand in a class of manufacturing wholly by themselves. There is not a single boy or girl employed in the works. The mechanics are all highly paid, and those who are not mechanics receive high workingmen's wages.

I understand that the A. R. Williams Company is offering the plant for sale by the piece, and is issuing advertisements with that end in view. Our city fathers have not succeeded during the past two years in adding new industries to Peterborough, therefore the least we might expect would be that the utmost vigilance would be exercised by them to retain, what we have.

For the manufacturing of heavy iron work, Peterborough is not so favourably situated as to be able to attract this class of manufactory without giving some special consideration until, at least, the Trent Canal is completed at both ends. The freight on coke and coal is substantially higher in Peterborough than it is in the Niagara district. The freight on iron and steel is materially less in the Niagara district as compared with Peterborough, and will be so until the canal is completed. The cost of power is quite as low in the Niagara district as here, in view of the fact that electric power is generated at Niagara Falls in such large units.

I notice that Welland in three years added upwards of six or seven new industries. What has Peterborough done during the same time? I hope the proposition that has been submitted by the A. R. Williams Company will receive fair and immediate consideration. I understand they sell about a million and a half dollars' worth of machinery every year, and have large warehouses in Toronto, Montreal, Winnipeg and Vancouver. They are the the class of men to have identified with our growing city.

A large number of the employees of the William Hamilton Company own their own property here and are anxious to remain in Peterborough, and moreover, are anxious that something be done with these works, and are particularly anxious that it be done at once.

Yours, etc.,
"AN OLD EMPLOYEE."

Peterborough, January 27.

TORONTO PREACHER AT Y.M.C.A.

An Excellent Meeting—An Address On "The Best Gifts"

One of the best meetings of the winter was held at the Y.M.C.A., yesterday afternoon. Dr. E N Baker of Toronto gave a most inspiring address especially to young men, and Miss F. Manning sang with good expression "Does Jesus Care?" Dr. Baker spoke on "The Best Gifts," and pointed out that while money was all right to have and to make, yet if we make it we are to use it right, not to let it rule us. The same could be said of fame or position. Many good positions were vacant in almost every line at the present time, he said, and what they wanted was a man that had the qualifications to fill those positions. The name of a person does not count. It is what he can do, so that we must fit ourselves for the best positions to make a success in that line. While these things are all right in their place, yet there were greater gifts in life. Truth was one of the great gifts. God is truth. We could not know Him as we do unless we believed that He was perfect truth, so that if we believe God is truth, no lie can be justifiable. Dr. Baker made this very plain and emphasized the point strongly.

Wisdom was also a great gift. This does not only include knowledge, but brings the mind, heart and being of a man into harmony with God. We should covet wisdom.

Patience and humility were also referred to as among the best gifts. We are to endure hardness, not with thought of gain, but for the sake of the tribulation itself. It costs as much to be a Christian now as it ever did, and these are the gifts a Christian should covet to make him the true Christian.

MORE MONEY NEEDED FOR CHARITY

Funds Are Running Low—Weekly Distributions May Cease

As the minutes were on to 5 o'clock on Saturday night the boot store of Mr. Finch Miller, relief officer, was filled to overcrowding and many others stood outside on Water street to wait their turn. From that time on until 10 o'clock the energetic charity officers was kept on the move. At ten o'clock he had distributed 260 lbs of beef and 10 bags of potatoes.

Only those who were thought to be in need of the beef and potatoes were supplied. Many young single men who were well able to work came around for their share, but their appeals were not listened to.

As was mentioned before in the Examiner that these distributions would take place as long as funds lasted. They are made as the gift of the citizens of Peterborough in sympathy with the movement, and any person who wishes to contribute to this grand cause can make a deposit in the Dominion Bank to the credit of Mr. Finch Miller, relief officer, who is in charge of the work. Mr. Miller wishes to acknowledge the receipt of the following sums:—

Mayor Rush	$100 00
Mr. J D Collins	20 00
Mr. F D Kerr	5 00
Mr. R E Layfield	5 00

LICENSE INSPECTORS TO CONGREGATE

Conference Will Probably be Arranged In The Near Future

The Ontario Government has under consideration the advisability of calling a general conference of the Liquor License Inspectors with a view to obtaining still more efficient service, uniformity of action and clear interpretation of the clauses of the Act. The conference will probably be held in Toronto during the sittings of the Legislature. The inspectors will be addressed by the Provincial Secretary, Hon. W J Hanna, who will probably speak as to the intent and desires of the Government regarding the enforcement of the Act, and by Mr. Eudo Sanders, head of the License Department, and other members of the staff upon the various duties assigned them and their performance. Hon Mr. Hanna has already indicated that there will be no radical changes in the License Act during the coming session.—Toronto News.

AN AGED PHYSICIAN

After Years of Experience Gives The Following Advice

"If you have anything to do with medicines at all be pretty sure you know what you are taking."

Our local druggists, McDermid & Jury, say this is a strong point in favour of the valuable cod liver preparation, Vinol. Everything it contains is plainly printed on the label, therefore it is not a patent medicine.

Vinol contains in a highly concentrated form all of the medicinal, body-building elements of cod liver oil, actually taken from fresh cods' livers, but with the useless, nauseating oil eliminated, and tonic iron, which is a needful constituent for the blood, added.

This is the reason why Vinol accomplished such wonderful results in curing chronic coughs, colds, bronchial and lung troubles, and there is nothing known to medicine that will so quickly build up the run-down, over-worked, tired and debilitated, or give strength and renewed vitality to the aged, as Vinol.

We can only ask every person in Peterborough who needs such a medicine to try Vinol on our offer to return their money if it fails. McDermid & Jury Druggists; also the Market Drug Store.

Missionary Sermons In Three Methodist Churches

Prominent Toronto Ministers in The City Yesterday---Large Congregations in Spite of The Disagreeable Weather---Collections in Aid of Missions

In the three Methodist churches of the city yesterday, missionary sermons were preached by visiting ministers from Toronto, when various phases of missions were presented to large congregations.

DR. BAKER BELIEVES THERE ARE TOO MANY PROTESTANT CHURCHES

Church Union was of the ideas advanced, incidentally in the sermon last night at the George street Methodist church on the occasion of the anniversary missionary service and of the visit there of the Rev. E N Baker, D.D., of the Euclid avenue Methodist church, Toronto. During his address on the importance of missions he referred to the fact that so many towns and villages was overcrowded with churches they could not support and that if only one existed where the Gospel, without any particular form, was preached, the people would be happier and more missionaries would be at liberty to expend their energies for the uplifting of those in need of the Gospel.

The congregation was large considering the disagreeable weather, as it was also in the morning when the Rev. W L Armstrong of Toronto, preached the sermon. The music by the choir in the evening was of a particularly excellent character and greatly appreciated, especially the solo "Galilee" by Adams, splendidly rendered by Miss Reesor. A duet "In His Hands are all the Corners of the Earth," was very effectively sung by Miss Reesor and Mr. Johnston. Miss Reesor also took the solo of the anthem.

The speaker began his discourse by referring to a sermon he had heard in historic George street Methodist church about 22 years ago delivered by Dr. Mellis. It was one of the most wonderful sermons he had ever heard. It had done him good and he hoped that his effort last night would be of a similar help to his hearers. His subject was "Missions First," because he believed that they should have the first place in the thought and activity of the Christian church. Every converted man should feel that he has a call to the mission fields and he should be able to answer why he should stay at home. Missions should be the supreme purpose of all congregations of all the Christian churches. Most Christians would agree with him there, but, he added, that one of the most difficult things is to get the people to believe the very thing they think they believe—they may believe it theoretically but not in practice. In the life of Christ we have the concrete example of what we should be. The church is the pillar and ground of the truth and it is the embodiment of the mind, the spirit and the life Jesus Christ.

Union of Churches

The Methodist church is free to a great extent from heresy. The heretic is the man who does not practise the word of God—unless his actions are commendable what he believes is of little concern. To bring about the larger church union Christ prayed for, we must believe in missions. Too many churches exist in small villages and towns where a larger one would often do more good and which also would allow many more missionaries to be sent to the islands and heathen countries of the Orient.

The speaker believed that, in regard to the doing away with so many churches, there was something to learn from the Roman Catholics.

He was optimistic as to the outlook of the missions which was never brighter but he considered there ought to be a great revival power set in motion, as of old, to convert the masses to God. A century ago there was scarcely a convert in the Oriental countries and to-day a million and a half were converted and 5,000,000 were sympathizers with the Gospel of Christ. Millions of translated copies of the Bible have been distributed in foreign lands for the assistance of the heathen and never yet has come back the word that the missionaries are failing in their great duty—that of the conversion of souls.

SERMON ON MISSIONS IN NORTH WESTERN PORTION OF CANADA

"The Religious Future of the Canadian North-west," was the message brought to the members of the Charlotte street Methodist church last night, by Rev. W. L. Armstrong, of Toronto, who has laboured for ten years in the mission fields of the North-west. A large congregation was present, and the offerings were given for Home and Foreign Missions.

The reverend gentleman chose for his text, the third chapter of Revelations, 8th verse: "I know thy works, behold I have set before thee an open door, and no man can shut it, for thou hast a little strength, and hast kept my word, and hast not denied my words."

The need and call for more workers in the mission field, both at home and abroad was the tenor of the speaker's remarks. He stated that people all over the world, had been praying for the washing away of the gates which held back the flood of religion from rushing in upon the heathen lands. Fifty years ago Japan had published a proclamation that any person making the smallest pretense of the Christian religion, would be beheaded. To-day the doors of this country are open wide to the influx of western civilization, and during the war we sent several of our missionaries to the field of battle as chaplains of regiments of the Emperor's army. No longer do the Chinese rulers hold out against the divine cause, and exalt themselves as the ones to be worshipped. The ancient forms of heathen worship, the passion for the opium den, and the glamour of the gambling resorts, are gradually losing their hold on the mind of the modern Chinese, and art, culture and industry are taking their places. This is due entirely to the influence of mission work.

The eloquent divine pointed out that in sending men to the foreign field, we must not lose sight of the needs at home. Though he was just as anxious as anyone that the foreign field should not be neglected, yet he impressed upon the congregation their responsibility to the great needs of home missions. The Methodist church in Canada was not sending their quota of young men to the mission field, and the Methodist Board was compelled to send to England for the necessary men. This year England's resources have become exhausted, and sixty-seven men are still required to fill the vacancies in that vast expanse of country. With the way the West was going ahead, the outlook in his opinion was tremendous, and the cry of the Methodist church was for "More Men."

In closing his remarks he made a strong appeal for the necessary equipment for the home field, and asked the congregation to be generous in their contributions towards the support of so great a cause.

THE JAPANESE PEOPLE DEALT WITH BY A RETURNED MISSIONARY

At the Mark street Methodist church yesterday sermons were delivered in connection with missions. Rev. Dr. F M Baker, of Toronto, preached a very interesting and educative sermon in the morning.

Missionary contributions were made. The sum received was 60 per cent. in excess of last year, which was most encouraging. In the evening Rev. R. Emberson, returned missionary from Japan, preached.

The lesson was read from 42nd chapter of Isaiah. Mr. Emberson chose as his text the 4th verse of same chapter: "He shall not fail, nor be discouraged till he have set judgment in the earth and the isles shall wait for his law." This verse, he said, outlines the character of the great King, who holds sway in the minds of the people of to-day throughout the world. The example of the Fiji Islands and Terra Del Fuego, gives a splendid example of the power of Christianity, and of missionary work. Fifty years ago the natives of Fiji were cannibals and to-day a greater per cent. of them are Christians than will be found in the United States.

The Recent War

The national side of the character of the Japanese was well exhibited throughout the recent Russo-Japanese war. They are unconquerable, for if the men were all killed, both old and young, the women would step into their places and fight for their country. During the war they captured about 75,000 Russian prisoners, and these prisoners were treated as no other nation in the world has treated her prisoners; not even England was so kind. They were treated as their guests and during their captivity in Japan were given freedom within certain limits of the city. This is a state of affairs which thirty years ago would have been the reverse. They would have killed the enemy. They took example from the western nations and applied what they learned to suit their own purposes. The Red Cross Society was given such a prominence on the battle field, that to-day it is the most noted organization in the country.

Direct Agencies

He claims there are other agencies at work in Japan besides the missionaries. He gives as an example a Samarese, who had worked in San Francisco. The man was converted and when he went home he carried the religion with him. He organized within his company a mission band to help poor boys under their care and employ. Afterwards a mission house was built which was operated on the same plan as the Fred Victor Mission of Toronto, which Mr. Emberson described to him. Mr. Emberson had a Bible class there when he left and also was delivering regular sermons. Thus when Christian work gets hold of the heart of the people a great revival will take place and the country will be won for Christ.

Few Contagious Cases During The Past Year

Medical Health Officer, Dr. Bingham, Presents His Annual Report to the Board of Health—Dr. Burnham is Elected Chairman at Meeting This Morning

LITTLE BUSINESS DONE

The first meeting of the Board of Health for the year was held this morning with all of the new members except Dr. Young present. There was very little business to come up with the exception of the annual report of the Medical Health Officer, which indicated that so far as immunity from contagious diseases is concerned the city has been in good condition during the past year.

Dr. Burnham was unanimously elected chairman for the year.

There were present Dr. Brunham, Mayor Rush, Dr. McNulty, Messrs. Jas. Edgar, Jos. Murty, Geo. Ball, Sanitary Inspector, and Dr. Bingham, Medical Health Officer.

A communication was read from Dr. Chas. A. Hodgetts, of the Provincial Board of Health, approving of the action of the local Board in connection with the smallpox case in East City, and trusting that it would prevent further cases.

A letter was read from the London Board of Health asking for the co-operation of the local Board in securing an amendment to the Health Act to make it possible to apply the tuberculin test to cows supplying milk to the city trade. The matter was left over until the next meeting.

A number of accounts were passed.

Sanitary Inspector Ball asked for instructions from the Board in connection with the Auburn Woollen Mills, where new plumbing connections are being made with the raceway.

Dr. McNulty thought that the work should be allowed to go ahead, in view, of the fact that it was impossible to connect the mills with the sewer. He thought that, in depositing sewage in the river at that point, the company was in the same position as the city in depositing it further down the stream.

On motion, it was decided to allow the company to proceed with the work.

Medical Health Officer Bingham presented the following report, which was adopted:

I have the honour of presenting a brief annual report of the sanitary condition of the city during the year 1907, and it must be highly gratifying to every one to know that during the year this city had comparst ve immunity from infectious diseases which are so much dreaded by the people. Only four cases of diphtheria and six cases of scarlet fever were reported during the year, and one case of smallpox, which was imported in the last week of the year. Six cases of typhoid fever can be traced to the city, which makes it less than one for every 2,500 of the population. This immunity from infectious diseases may be accounted for in many ways. It is generally admitted that the house fly is a carrier of disease. With soft velvety feet it crawls over the bodies of delicate children and innoculates them with carrion poison. Now, the weather last spring was unusually cold and the house fly was nearly annihilated, which in some measure would lessen the danger from that source.

Another contributory cause of the good health of the city was the constant and earnest vigilance of the sanitary inspector in the discharge of his duties, and in this connection it is gratifying to be able to say that the good people of Peterborough have generally assisted the health officers in the discharge of their important duties.

Citizens are well aware that plenty of sunshine and fresh air in the dwelling house, with absolute cleanliness are the best safeguards against sickness. They know that rooms constantly darkened are full of disease germs, and they know that the effects of darkness are bad, and are as destructive upon people as upon plants. People cannot live at their best if they live in a gloomy house, foul with vitiated air. The number of deaths in the city during the past year was 200.

A list of the causes of the deaths was appended. Speaking of tuberculosis, the report describes it as the most widely spread, and the most terrible scourge of the human race.

The most serious question among the medical profession to-day is how to eradicate consumption from the human race. The sanitarium is a feeble attempt in that direction. The result however is limited and temporary. The philanthropist is working on the wrong end of the line. Some good might be done if the state had power to regulate marriages and to subject the contracting parties to a rigid examination, similar to that of an applicant for a life insurance policy, but if such a Spartan law were in force we can readily conceive that many a snappy old bachelor would be piled on the shelf for good.

It may be also noticed that consumption is brought into the country every year through immigration, and every year well-meaning philanthropists import hundreds of unfortunate waifs from the slums of England, with the tainted blood of thieves, and drunkards and consumptives coursing through their veins. From this view of the matter we are forced to the conclusion that the elimination of tuberculosis from the human race is yet far away in the future.

DR. GEORGE BURNHAM
Elected Chairman of the Board of Health This Morning

Mr. R. Dobie, was present, and asked the Board for assistance in securing sewer accommodation. His house is connected with a cess-pool or the street, he was not sure which, and the connection had become blocked.

The following resolution was adopted by the Board: That the Board of Health under Section 668, of the Municipal Act, 1903, recommend the city council to construct a sewer on Rubidge street from Brock street to a point 75 feet north of Kirk street, for the purpose of draining that locality for sanitary purposes, as a local improvement.

The city clerk was authorized to issue milk vendors locenses after having received a report from the Sanitary Inspector that the premises in question are in good condition.

It was decided to adopt the second Tuesday of each month as a date for the regular meeting of the board.

DESTITUTION IN SEVERAL CASES

Reported in Different Parts of The City

The present cold weather increases the discomfort and distress of those who are in straitened circumstances. While there are several charitable societies in the city, they do not meet with all the cases of destitution and want which deserve assistance. Speaking of families and individuals who came under his observation lately, a gentleman referred to them by way of proving that there were many opportunities of helping the poor.

Only this morning he said he saw a man who lives on Edinburgh street trudging through the snow, carrying five slabs of dried pine from the woodyard. He had gone down to order wood, and could not wait until the load came, and therefore set out for home with exactly five slabs. He had no mitts, was poorly clad, and must have suffered from the January storm.

While the subject is not a pleasant one to deal with and bare to the public's view, still it may result in a broader sphere of action of helping those who are unfortunate enough to be in want. Another case is reported from East City, where this gentleman said a family of three was living in absolute want. There was no fire, the husband had no money, and could procure no work, and the only food was a boiled beef's liver.

A different case is that of a family who had no wood, and a neighbour ordered a load of hardwood, which was sent down to the house. The mother, who was a widow, had two boys who were big enough to cut wood, but she refused the load because it was not cut. Rather than see them go without a fire the man had it taken back and cut at the woodyard.

The father of another family received a load of wood from the city, and when it was delivered wanted to know where he could get a man to cut it.

Those who are charitably inclined have ample scope to carry out their good intentions.

Editor Post Card Column,—

Dear Sir. — I would like to correct the impression made by the report in the daily papers of Saturday in reference to the discharging of the Healy boys in connection with the forgery charge against F. Hamilton. The County Magistrate assured Mr. Gordon, their lawyer, that they were honourably discharged, and I think for the future welfare of the boys with the public in genral the city papers should have put it that way. Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for the space, I remain.

Yours respectfully,
JAS. HEALY.

"THE PEARL FISHER"

COMMISSIONER COOMB'S CAREER

Has Risen From The Rank of a Common Soldier to Commissioner

Those who listened to the eloquent and inspiring addresses given by Commissioner Coombs, yesterday afternoon and evening in the Grand Opera House, little thought that thirty-three years ago, this great leader of men was a poor boy. Like many great and powerful men he began life at the lowest rung of the ladder, and through his devotion and sacrifice to the Army, to which he belongs, he has climbed to the exalted position of Commissioner for Canada, Newfoundland and Bermuda. His career has been marked with astounding success and rapid promotion, and he is recognized by his followers as a model pattern of the noble leader—General Booth.

The Commissioner was seen by an Examiner representative as he sat at luncheon in the comfortable quarters of the local barracks, shortly after his arrival. He gave the reporters a cordial welcome, and was very willing to give any information about the Army, but was very modest when asked about his own life.

He said that he had been brought up and educated in one of the smaller towns of England. One night a body of men known as the Christian Mission held a service in his town, and out of curiosity he went to the meeting. He was struck by their peculiar ways and soon afterwards became an active worker. Shortly after he became connected with that body he was made a lieutenant, and was called to London to fill his first appointment. The Salvation Army had then ten corps and has now over eight thousand, all over the civilized world. He was among the first few officers of the army and related some interesting experiences of the early days of his career. He came to Canada twenty-four years ago to organize and push forward the work and after labouring here for nearly six years he was sent to Australia. There he remained for seven years, struggling and fighting for the uplifting of his fellow men. His next appointment was over the whole United Kingdom, and just as Canada was awakening to her immense possibilities, he was sent here as the commissioner and has remained here ever since. While he has been in Canada the Salvation Army has gone forward with leaps and bounds. The older citizens of this city will remember that the commissioner was instrumental in the erection of the local barracks, and the building up of the Petrborough corps.

The Salvation Army has been organized for forty-one years. It was first known as the Christian Mission but its name was changed fourteen years later.

During his service as an Army officer the Commissioner has visited Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Germany, France, Italy, India, Ceylon, Australia, New Zealand, the United States, and his present jurisdiction. During the past year he has covered over 40,000 miles and has visited the majority of the Canadian corps.

He is leaving on the 5th of March for London, Eng., where he will go into conference with the General. He also expects to be able to do some work in the interests of Canadian immigration. The Salvation Army has chartered ten ships to bring immigrants to Canada next year and at least 15,000 people will be brought out.

The Commissioner was greatly pleased with the progress Peterborough has been making since he was first here and thinks it is amongst the most enterprising cities in the Dominion.

Velvet Skin, Soft and Clear

What one or two applications of Dr. Chase's Ointment will do for rough, inflamed and irritated skin is almost as wonderful as the complete cure of eczema by its persistent use. By its healing, soothing and antiseptic influence, Dr. Chase's Ointment quickly cures chafing and skin diseases, and eruptions, and leaves the skin clear, soft and velvety.

WOMEN AS FARM HANDS.

Winnipeg, Man.—Unable to obtain men enough for the harvest fields, Manitoba farmers hired women in their places. They are said to have done just as good work as the former farm hands, and there was much less shirking among them.

That is the way with women. They work too hard—and often overtax their strength. Then the system becomes run down, the liver gets out of order, and constipation and biliousness make life miserable. Mrs. John Cline, of Aylmer, Ont., suffered from these troubles for ten years and found no relief until she tried "Fruit-a-tives." "I want to say a word in regard to Fruit-a-tives," writes Mrs. Cline. "I had liver trouble for ten years and tried different remedies, but Fruit-a-tives cured."

"Fruit-a-tives" are made of fruit juices and tonics and never fail to cure Liver, Kidney, Stomach, Skin and Bowel Troubles. 50c a box.

WILL IT BE AN ARMY FOR INDIA?

War Office Fears For Trouble in the East.

FORCES TO BE MOBILIZED

Auxiliaries Ordered to Hold Themselves In Readiness—Must Not Go Beyond Reach of Telegrams—Treatment of Indian Residents In Transvaal Causing Agitation — Motives Questioned.

London, Jan. 27.—(New York Sun Cable.)—It is by roundabout means that Englishmen usually learn of grave crisis within the Empire.

Such a warning comes now in the shape of orders from the War Office to the officers of the auxiliary forces throughout Great Britain asking that they state whether mobilization is immediately possible.

The recipients are instructed to be prepared to join the forces on receipt of telegraphic orders. They must keep their adjutants informed of their movements and must not go beyond the reach of telegrams.

The ground for this extraordinary action is the fact that the Government is seriously alarmed by the growing unrest in India. The War Office has completed a scheme for throwing a large force into Hindostan amounting, if necessary, to the entire regular army. The auxiliary forces will then be used for garrison duty in all parts of the Empire from which regulars may be withdrawn.

The danger of an uprising in India, which has been promoted by the Transvaal's treatment of its Indian residents, has been fully described in these despatches. It has been growing with alarming rapidity, as was inevitable, and the Government is now compelled to prepare for any eventuality.

A sinister turn has been given to the situation by certain home comments. It has been hinted during the past few days that the action of the Boer majority in the Transvaal has been actuated by a desire to embroil the Home Government in India, with what ultimate object is not suggested. This interpretation of the Boer motives in return for British magnanimity in giving home government to the Transvaal is not widely accepted even by the Government's critics.

INJURED IN EXPLOSION.

Serious Accident In Tunnel at Toronto Island Waterworks.

Toronto, Jan. 27.—In an explosion of unknown cause in the island tunnel at two o'clock Sunday morning. Night Superintendent Steve Bradley had his face severely burned, and Engineer John Thompson was also badly burned about the face and arms. Charles Houston, a workman, escaped.

The injured men were taken to the home of the superintendent of the Haney and Miller firm, which have charge of the construction, at 62 Spadina avenue, and after being examined by Dr. Walter Scott, the company's physician, Thompson was sent to his home, 271 West Wellington street.

The boiler at the opening of the tunnel on the island was not steaming properly and the men went to examine it. A match was lighted and an explosion occurred which threw the three men several yards.

The men were removed by the police ambulance.

Won Fortune But Too Late.

Troy, N.Y., Jan. 27.—Chas. Biedinger, an inventor, was found dead in his room in a cheap lodging house here last night. He had been in extreme want lately, and had just learned that the superior court, at Cincinnati, Ohio, had decided a patent right claim in his favor, awarding him $93,000 and interest upon it for several years.

His invention, a machine for making paper wrappers, was patented while he was in a sanitorium, by his financial backers, who refused an accounting when the inventor was discharged from the sanitorium. The suit followed with the verdict of a fortune, which came too late.

Biedinger was so reduced in circumstances that he was recently employed as a dish washer in the Y. M. C. A. restaurant here.

Countess Was Swindler.

Dresden, Jan. 27.—Countess Von Sturza, a member of the Hungarian nobility, was arrested here Saturday on the charge of having carried out a series of literary swindles.

It was her custom to sign her own name to the works of authors not know in Germany or Austria and then sell the manuscripts for large sums.

For some time past the countess had been a leading figure in the literary worlds of Austria and Germany and she has lived in princely style on money obtained by false pretenses from members of the nobility.

Loss of the Sunbeam.

Boston, Jan. 27.—The loss of the British brigantine Sunbeam, bound in ballast from Pernambuco for St. John's, Nfld., and the rescue of the crew of eight men were reported by Capt. Bullock of the Leyland Line steamship Canadian, which arrived Saturday from Liverpool.

Capt. Hook and his men were taken from the Sunbeam by a lifeboat from the Canadian under dangerous conditions of wind and sea on Jan. 21 in lat. 44.54 north, long. 49.21 [illegible]. The brigantine was disabled by a succession of gales.

PASSENGERS REACH LAND AT LAST

Mount Royal's Passengers Reach Canada After Long Voyage.

NEARLY TWO MONTHS AT SEA

Immigrants Tell of Their Experiences on Atlantic — Lodge Complaints Against Ship's Officer — Allege That They Were Charged Extortionate Prices For Food or Else Had to Go Without.

St. John, N.B., Jan. 27.—The C.P.R. steamer Montrose, carrying the passengers of the Mount Royal, arrived at Partridge Island with all well at 8 p.m. Saturday, from Antwerp, via Queenstown and docked at St. John at 9.40 o'clock Sunday morning.

The belated passengers, all foreigners, were a sorry looking lot, and thankful to land safely on Canadian soil. Asked about their experience on the Mount Royal, a large group of the newcomers crowded forward, eager to tell about it and air their complaints regarding the treatment received at the hands of some of the ship's officers. After describing "huge walls of water, which for days threatened to engulf the ship," one of the more intelligent said that the meat served to them was rotten and smelt so bad it made them sick.

Some of the stewards made them pay extortionate prices for food, beer and cigarettes, and when a delegation was sent to the captain on the bridge he told them he could do nothing. He warned them not to pay extra, as signs were posted about the ship to that effect. Notwithstanding these signs, the passengers claim they would have got nothing if they hadn't paid. An extortionate rate of discount was charged also, they claim, for changing money.

"For instance," said one man, "it cost me 22c. to get a 5 franc ($1) changed into Canadian money." The Jews particularly complained.

A few of the passengers say the ship's officers should not be blamed too much, for they did their best. The newcomers are mostly for Winnipeg and Chicago.

Many Happy Returns.

Berlin, Jan. 27.—The German Emperor was born Jan. 27, 1859.

EMPEROR WILLIAM.

Half a hundred representatives of Germany's highest nobility are here to take part in the celebration of the Emperor's birthday, among them the sovereigns of Baden Hesse, Mecklenburg-Schwerin, Oldenburg and Schaum-Schwerin, Oldenburg and Schaumburg-Lippe, and the regent of Brunswick, who are among those who have come to congratulate the Emperor.

Bank In Difficulty.

New York, Jan. 27.—President W. F. Havemyer of the National Bank of North America announced in a statement issued last night that the directors of the bank have decided to request the comptroller of the currency to assume charge of the affairs of the institution.

President Havemyer said Saturday night that he believed the bank is entirely solvent, and that with a careful liquidation the stockholders will receive par for their stock.

The National Bank of North America has a capital of $2,000,000, and on Aug. 22 last, at which time a report was made to the comptroller of the currency, showed deposits of $19,787,400. This sum has been largely and gradually decreased by withdrawals.

Found Body Beside Track.

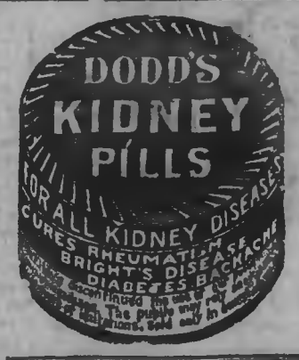
Delhi, Jan. 27.—Saturday night the sectionmen on the Michigan Central Railroad discovered the body of Nelson Schooley lying beside the track, about one-half mile west of Hawtrey. He had evidently been struck by a train, as the body was frightfully mangled. Mr. Schooley was a farmer, unmarried, about 33 years of age, living four miles north of here. An inquest will be held.

Operator Committed For Trial.

MacLeod, Alta., Jan. 27.—W. M. Mullen, the C. P. R. operator at Pincher, who allowed two freight trains to meet in a head-on collision at Brocket on the night of Dec. 22, 1907, by negligence when on duty, was on Saturday committed for trial at the next sitting of the Supreme Court of Alberta for manslaughter.

Lost Life While Hunting.

Inwood, Ont., Jan. 27.—Fred Doan, laborer, 25 years of age, went hunting Saturday and did not come home. A searching party found him dead in the woods yesterday morning, shot in the right knee. He leaves a wife and two small children.



DRUCE PERJURY CHARGE.

Lady Witness Brought Into Court—Important Letters Missing.

London, Jan. 27.—The Druce case, which has been so prolific of sensations, on Saturday offered still another.

The solicitor for George Hollamby Druce, who claimed to be the son of the Duke of Portland in the latter's dual personality of Thomas Charles Druce, and as such to be heir to the title and estate, made public the correspondence he has had with the public prosecutor, in which he asks that official to assist him in locating letters offered him by Miss Mary Patterson of New York, but which have fallen into the hands of a man purporting to be his representative. In a letter to George Hollamby Druce, Miss Patterson said she had a number of letter written by T. C. Druce to her mother, in which Druce referred to himself as the Duke of Portland. George Hollamby Druce sent Miss Patterson money to come to England, but, according to her letters, a man representing himself as an agent of George Hollamby Druce's solicitor, called on her and got the letters. The solicitor is anxious now to find the letters, as he says they are necessary in the defence of Miss Robinson.

Miss Mary Robinson is said to be an American woman, the daughter of a southern planter. She recently testified during the progress of the Druce case that she knew Druce as the Duke of Portland, that Charles Dickens told her that Druce was the Duke of Portland and that Druce himself afterwards confirmed the statement. Miss Robinson was arrested Jan. 17, on a warrant charging her with perjury and she came up for trial Saturday. Her attorney declared that he had been unable to get any coherent story from her, that he believed her of unsound mind, and that the case was one for medical experts. The judge, however, decided that there was no evidence to bear out this contention, and he ordered the trial to proceed.

PRIEST TO BE TRIED.

Former Court Minister Charged With Contemptuous Writing.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 27—Father Gregory Petroff, the most noted priest in the Russian Church, next to Father John of Kronstadt, was deprived of the ecclesiastical rank at the session of the Holy Synod on Saturday, and handed over to the civil authorities for judgment before a civil court.

An alleged contumely to the church and state was contained in a letter which he addressed to Archbishop Antonius, metropolitan of St. Petersburg, and which was widely circulated in Europe and America. Father Petroff's career as a pulpit orator was one of the most brilliant. He exercised sway over all classes, multitudes thronging to hear him.

At one time he was a great favorite at court, and frequently led the family worship of the Emperor. Since the beginning of the revolutionary movement he has fallen into disfavor on account of his liberal political views, and has been kept under surveillance. Finally, on Jan. 24, 1907, he was condemned by the Holy Synod to three months' internment in a monastery on account of the Christian-Socialistic doctrines advocated in his paper, God's Truth. On March 1, however, he was elected by the Constitutional Democrats to the second Douma.

Famous Novelist Dead.

Florence, Italy, Jan. 27.—Ouida (Louise de la Ramee), the novelist, died Saturday at Viareggio, after an illness extending over a long period.

She died in most distressing poverty, her only attendant being an old servant woman, in whose arms she expired. She was completely blind in one eye, and the other eye was badly affected through her having suffered so much from exposure and privation.

During the last few months of her life she was compelled at times to sleep in the open air when unable to pay for a night's lodging.

The immediate cause of death is set down as asthma, complicated by heart disease.

Ouida had a passionate fondness for dogs, and up to the very last was surrounded by many of them, depriving herself of even the necessaries of life in order to feed them.

The Minister of Instruction had sent her on several occasions recently considerable contributions which had been subscribed for her aid.

Barges Driven to Sea.

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 27.—The ocean-going tug Coastwise of the Scully Towing and Transportation Co., New York, which arrived in Norfolk last night, reports the loss at sea of two barges, manned with ten men. Capt. Mangin of the tug reported that in a blinding snowstorm, with the wind blowing seventy miles an hour, off Fenwick Island, Friday morning, the hawsers of the barges parted and the tug was unable to again locate her tows. The tug was forced to put in for coal, and will leave to-day to resume the search. The tug Covington, which also lost two barges in the storm, arrived this afternoon with the barge Idaho, which she later picked up. The other barge is missing. It had a crew of three men.

The wind being off shore the captain is sure that the barges will be able to take care of themselves.

SIR WILFRID LAURIER'S ACTION

Condition of Production of Original Documents.

NO NEED OF CONCEALMENT

Sir Wilfrid Will Show That There Is Nothing to Be Hidden—Mr. Ames May See What He Asks For—The Matter of Western Timber Berths Was Straight Deal—Mr. Borden at Stittsville.

Ottawa, Jan. 27.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier will to-day in the Commons make an announcement with respect to the impasse reached last week in connection with the Opposition's contention that every member of the House has a right to demand the production of any original documents relating to public business on file in any department of the public service. The case in point concerns Mr. Ames' motion for the production of the original documents relating to the granting of certain timber berths by the Department of the Interior.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier will, it is understood, make it quite clear that the Government's main object is to preserve intact and inviolate the public records and prevent the loss to the Departments of valuable and necessary papers through being handed over to members or becoming part of the journals of the House. This has frequently been the case in the past through the loaning of original Departmental documents to members of Parliament for inspection. In some cases they have never been returned, in others they have come back mutilated. While not conceding the right of any individual member to examine the original documents at will, and without first giving good reason therefor, Sir Wilfrid Laurier will remove from the field of controversy any suspicion that documents relating to the timber berths in question are being held back by the Government because of some sinister motive, by frankly announcing that Mr. Ames can see and examine these original documents so long as they remain in the custody of the Department or of some Departmental official.

At the annual meeting of the Carleton Conservative Association at Stittsville on Saturday afternoon Mr. R. L. Borden, member for the riding, in the course of his address, referred to the debate on the above issue now before the Commons, and asserted that unless the Opposition's claim of the right to see any original document was conceded this session would be the longest on record.

May Buy Land In West.

Winnipeg, Man. Jan. 27.—A letter has been received by the Immigration Department from S. Koryyuma, a Japanese gentleman from the town of Ishiyuka, in the Province of Imi. He writes to find out particulars about the various parts of Western Canada, and announces his intention of coming to Canada and purchasing 10,000 acres of land. With him he will bring a number of friends, and will endeavor to put in practice some ideas in regard to intensive cultivation, which are common in Japan.

Russia Fears China.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 27.—The Minister of War has ordered four brigades of infantry, now stationed at Odessa, to proceed to Trans-Baikalia to strengthen the garrison in the neighborhood of the Russo-Chinese frontier. This constitutes the largest transfer of troops in Russia since the war with Japan, and is a plain intimation of the disquieting character of recent military activity on the part of China with reference to the Chino-Japanese relations.

AN EATING ULCER.

Ulcers are a skin disease, and are more or less directly occasioned by a bad state of the blood, which produces acrid humors and corrupts the secretions.

No one can expect to have a skin free from disease when the blood is in a disordered condition and the stomach and bowels acting feebly in consequence.

Through its wonderful cleansing, purifying powers on the blood, and its renovating action on the entire system, Burdock Blood Bitters has made thousands of cures of different skin diseases during the past thirty years it has been on the market.

Mrs. Joseph Robinson, Hallerton, Que., writes: "I had an eating ulcer on my ankle. I took two bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters and it worked like a charm, cleaning out all the impurities from my system and improving my appetite. While taking the B.B.B. internally I used it externally to cleanse the sore, and it helped [illegible]"

Great Ice For To-night's Big Game With Cobourg

Lake Shore Bunch With a Strengthened Line Up Will Be Here in an Effort To Beat The Strathconas---Should Be The Best Game of The Season

The best sheet of ice of the season is ready for the players and the result should be that the Cobourg-Peterborough O.H.A. game which will be played at the Brock street rink tonight will be the fastest exhibition of the year. When the two met earlier in the season it was on soft ice in Cobourg, and the locals who had been practising on good ice up to the last minute were greatly handicapped. With the great sheet tonight, however, the Straths are confident of reversing the score, although Cobourg is strengthened for the game, having moved Crossen up on the forward line, while Moffatt is playing point. This line will take a lot of beating, but the Straths will have a very strong line-up, and are determined to wipe out their previous defeat at the hands of Cobourg. This week will see the list of O. H. A. hockey for the season, so that there will likely be a big crowd on hand for the game. It is expected that either Waghorne or McCord will referee the battle, which, if the previous game between the teams can be taken as a guarantee, will be a bitterly-fought contest from start to finish. Cobourg is following Lindsay in the district championship race, having been defeated in Cobourg by 3-2 in a great game, and they are confident of putting it over the Midgets in the return game.

THE FASTEST GAME IN YEARS IS THE OPINION OF LINDSAY

The Lindsay Post has the following to say of Friday night's game. For some reason, the famous rooster was not in sight. Evidently a visitor to the poultry show has annexed the bird:

The fastest game of the season was played last night between the Peterborough Strathconas and Lindsay Intermediates at Lindsay street rink before a crowd of over a thousand enthusiastic spectators. Too much can not be said of the game put up by the intermediates, every man playing his best, while the new man Taylor, seemed to be all over the ice at once all evening, and wherever the puck went or was likely to go, "Goosie" was sure to be there. He seemed made of iron, and despite the fast and hard game he played, remained quite fresh till the end. Koyle was the centre of all eyes in his spectacular rushes, and the number of hard knocks he took and the attempted tripping he overcame was wonderful. When the Straths saw him starting on one of his magnificent rushes, the whole team practically dropped their positions and bunched themselves together to stop him. The only thing that could do it, however was tripping. Randall also put up a good game, remarkable for the fact that even when a Peterborough man took him by the throat and threw him up in the air he kept his head and didn't get ruled off through fighting. He did some good work with the puck, too. In fact, every man on the team showed in some way that each was the right man in the right place, and put up the game of their lives.

The Strathconas' line-up was: Wagon, goal; Glover point; Parnell, cover; Ray, rover; Morgan, centre; McWilliams, left wing; Rose, right wing. It was a star combination and the hardest Lindsay has run up against this season. They had practised hard since the last brush with Lindsay and had changed almost the entire line-up for faster men—in fact, all but two or three of the line-up in the last game had their places taken by men who played senior last year. Peterborough was bound to win, whether or no, but has found that our boys can put it over the best team it could raise in either intermediate or senior hockey. Our Midgets of the junior series last year whipped their Strathconas, whose men played senior last year.

The Peterborough boys certainly have a great forward line and good men in all their positions, but they met their match when they thought they could down our intermediates. The boys have the goods, and certainly gave them more than they were looking for.

Referee McCord has been a long time in the business, but could not see Peterborough palyers "faking" being tripped last night. If a Lindsay player, in checking, touched his opponent's feet the latter would fall and McCord would penalize Lindsay. It's as old as hockey. There were other things he couldn't see, too, such as a player being skated "off side." Taking him all round, though, he was fair. Lindsay won, and we will forget his faults, but if we had lost—well, we scarcely would like to say what we could feel about his refereeing, had we lost.

BRIDGENORTH HOCKEY SNOWED-IN

Cannot Get Out From Their Camp—Captain Has Blood Poison

Will Mann, captain of the Bridgenorth hockey team has blood poison in his hand, caused by an injury received in the game here on Wednesday night of last week. A couple of the other players are snowed-in up in the lumber camps and cannot get out for the City League game this week, so that, as explained in another column, there will only be one game—but it will be a good one.

ONE LEAGUE GAME THIS WEEK

Bridgenorth Unable to Get Team Together To Meet Strathconas

There will only be one game in the City League series this week owing to the fact that Bridgenorth has not been able to get a team together to meet the Strathconas. The game will be between Norwood and Lakefield and should be a great exhibition, as there is keen rivalry between the two clubs. Both have showed great form in their games in the League this season, playing fast hockey and the game should be brimful of excitement from start to finish.

An effort was made by the City League executive to change the schedule and have Norwood and High Lifes and Lakefield and Strathconas play on Wednesday night. This would have made an ideal evening's sport, but the High Lifes found it impossible to secure a line up for Wednesday, as several of their men are not available for that evening. The Norwood-Lakefield contest will therefore be the only fixture for this week.

WHITBY TEAM HAS DEFAULTED

To-night's Game Will be The Last O.H.A. Contest of Season

The secretary of the Peterborough Strathconas were notified this afternoon by Mr. F. N. Burns, the manager of the Whitby seven, that his team would be unable to get a line-up for Thursday night's game with the Strathconas, and that in view of this they were obliged to default to Peterborough. This means that to-night's game with Cobourg is the last of the season and in view of the fact that there is only one city league game this week, there should be a big crowd.

The Strathconas will have the following line up for to-night's game:
Goal, Derocher.
Point, Meather.
Cover, McWilliams.
Forwards, Parnell, Rose, McMillan, Long.

DISTRICT CUP GAMES TO-MORROW

Two Rinks of Local Curlers Will Go To Lindsay

Two of the Peterborough rinks of curlers will go to Lindsay to play in the District Cup games to-morrow. There will be eight or ten other teams present and with good ice some fine curling should result.

The rinks are as follows:—

No. 1.—
A Regan,
W Long.
H. Foote,
D Hall, skip.

No. 2.—
J Montgomery,
J E A Fitzgerald,
C Frost,
R Hicks, skip.

AN EXPLANATION IS ASKED FOR

What Was the Reason for Neglecting One of the Best of the Party

To the Editor of the Examiner,—

Dear Sir, — As a citizen of Peterborough, I was very much surprised to find that in the list of newly-appointed K. Cs. the name of Mr. John Green did not appear. It is generally recognized that these appointments of K. Cs. are political appointments, and Mr. Green's uncompromising loyalty to the Conservative party, and the services he has rendered, entitled him to the recognition by the Whitney Government in passing around these recent honours.

Yours truly,
A CONSERVATIVE.

DR. ROBERTSON CALLED AWAY

His Brother Who Lives in Tweed is Seriously Ill

Dr. Alex. J. Robertson, the well-known local dentist, received a telegram early on Saturday morning to the effect that his brother in Tweed was dangerously ill, suffering from diabetes. The telegram was sent by the doctor attending his brother, and Dr. Robertson left on the noon C. P. R. train for Tweed. No word has been received to-day as to his condition, and it is hoped that he may soon regain his health.

HOW YOU GET CONSUMPTION.

Most "lungers" allowed their power of resistance to fall very low. Favorable conditions were provided for the development of the baccilli. Consumption was the result.

But in a healthy body Consumption can't take root. The most potent health-maker is Ferrozone. Take it regularly and you needn't fear tuberculosis.

FERROZONE

Supplies exactly what the man verging on Consumption needs. It forms rich, nutritious blood, strengthens the nerves, puts vim and endurance into every organ of the body.

For the tired, weak—anyone in poor health—Ferrozone is worth its weight in gold. Avoid substitutes!

A LARGE TEMPERANCE MOVEMENT

Charlotte Street Methodist Men Make Good Beginning

An important step in the temperance cause was made yesterday at a meeting held in the Charlotte street Sunday School. The temperance committee called the meeting with a view to advancing temperance and with the idea that other churches will take up the work and unite in one large organization. It was held at 4 o'clock and was largely attended. Keene interest was taken in the movement and the speakers were unanimous in their opinion that the time was ripe for concerted action.

The committee is composed of the following: Mr. A B Cunningham, chairman, and Messrs. A Brown, Jas. Goodwin, Geo. Minorgan, H P Kennedy and S Carver.

Next Sunday at 4 o'clock a public meeting will be held in the Charlotte street Sunday School Room when Rev. Mr. Potter will give an address on the "Advance of Local Option in the Province." Mr. H P Kennedy will act as chairman and the choir will assist.

At 4.30 after the public meeting a conference of all the churches in the city will be held in the same room. The purpose is to consider the organization of a temperance union, every church having a branch in it. The action of the License Inspector and the police of the city in enforcing the law was commended. The members pledged themselves to lend their support in having local option carried out in the vicinity of Peterborough.

Mention was made of a recent miscarriage of justice, where convicting evidence was apparently turned aside. This will be investigated.

There's Danger in Every Cold

Once you come to realize the danger of neglecting coughs and colds, you will not run the risk of neglecting your cogh and depending on any cough medicine" the druggist may choose to hand you out, and will insist on getting a medicine with a reputation, such as Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. Croup, bronchitis, asthma and coughs and colds are promptly and thoroughly cured by this treatment.

WORDS OF PRAISE FOR MR. J. A. TULLY

Meets With Success in Waterville So a Sherbrooke Paper States

In Saturday's issue of the Sherbrooke Daily Record of Sherbrooke, Que., is a lengthy accedent of the institution of an Oddfellows' Lodge at Waterville, of which Mr. Jas. A. Tully of Peterborough, the organizer of the Relief Association, was the founder. The record says in part: Some weeks ago Bro. J. A. Tully of Ontario, at the request of the Grand Master of Quebec jurisdiction, came to Waterville to discuss the question of establishing a lodge of the Order here. Bro. R. J. Walsh and other members of the Order residing here assisted Bro. Tully in laying the matter before those who might be interested in the proposition, and within a couple of days a large number of the best young men of the place joined in a request for an I.O.O.F. Lodge.

Those Horrid Bilious Spells

HAVE BECOME A HABIT—BUT YOU CAN BREAK UP THE HABIT BY USING

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

"It is nothing when you get used to it," is a common expression which many seem to apply to attacks of biliousness.

Year after year they suffer from frequent spells of bilious headache, indigestion, constipation followed by looseness of the bowels, dizziness, despondency and ill-temper, and the habit seems to have become so firmly established that they do not think of breaking the chains of bondage.

Why not make a break for liberty, health and happiness. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills stand ready to help you. They have helped thousands under just such circumstances to know again the joys of healthful living.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills cure biliousness by reason of their direct and specific action on the liver, causing the bile to be properly filtered from the blood, where it acts as a poison, and passed into the intestines where it is necessary to aid digestion and regulate the action of the bowels.

By this treatment you not only obtain relief from the attack, but bring about lasting cure, and prevent kidney disease, which is the usual outcome of neglected biliousness.

"I was suffering for years with stomach trouble and terrible headaches, and spent a good many dollars in medicine without receiving any benefit. Hearing Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills highly recommended, I determined to give them a trial and did so with most satisfactory results as I was very greatly benefitted, and do not hesitate to recommend this treatment as the best obtainable for such aliments." — Mrs. Thomas Cowart, Highland Grove, Peterborough Co., Ont.

The New York Stock Market

(Furnished by J. R. Heintz & Co.)

New, York, Jan. 27.—There was a good deal of selling at the opening in view of the Harriman and banking developments, but strong support was early apparent throughout the market, and many of the professionals turned to the bull side, with the result that stocks generally enjoyed a sharp advance.

London did not do much trading here, but most of what was done was on the selling side, especially in Steel common, which was also sold for Pittsburg account. In this latter centre a very bearish attitude prevails regarding the steel stocks, due to the conditions of the industry as appear on the ground there.

There was a sufficiently large short interest, however, and such an absence of important liquidation as to make it comparatively easy for the bulls to advance these stocks along with the rest of the market. In Amn. Smelters the bears have been unsuccessful in their efforts to dislodge large holdings, which it is known are none too strong, having been covering their short lines, and generally at advancing prices.

The general situation is very unsettled and is very likely to remain so until the banking troubles are cleared up. We would not buy any stocks except on the drives for the present, at least. We look for more of the Morse chain of banks to close before many days.

MARRIED

BROWN — RILEY — On Monday, January 20, 1908, at St. Mary's church, Toronto, by Vicar-General McCann, Miss Nellie Brown, daughter of Mr. Frederick Brown, Toronto, to Mr. George Riley, druggist, son of the late Mr. Michael Riley, of Peterborough.

REVOLUTION SUPPRESSED.

Rebel Leader Shot and Quiet Restored In Hayti.

Port au Prince, Jan. 27.—The revolution has been suppressed, Jean Jumeau, the leader of the movement, has been captured at Dessalines, a little hamlet close to Gonaives, and was at once shot to death by the Government troops that made him prisoner.

Gonaives has been occupied by a Government force. The revolutionary movement in Hayti, which has come to an end with the execution of its leading spirit. Jean Jumeau, was of very short duration. It began with the landing on Jan. 15 of an expedition of adventurers on the Haitien coast not far from Gonaives, which was speedily occupied. The Haitien Government at once undertook measures to suppress the movement, and troops were despatched against the invaders.

Had Bombs and Revolvers.

Lisbon, Jan. 27.—The Government issued a statement Saturday night that the conspirators in the recent plot to overthrow the state had procured revolvers, bombs and other weapons and had unsuccessfully tried to win over the officers and soldiers of the army, so that they might bring about a mutiny at the proper moment. Continuing, the statement says the Government has taken all the measures necessary to guarantee order and loyalty in the army.

Advices received here tend to show that all Portugal is calm at present. No further arrests have been made in Lisbon.

FUNERAL OF GREATLY RESPECTED CITIZEN

Remains of William Hall Wrighton Buried Yesterday

The funeral of the late Mr. W H Wrighton was held yesterday afternoon from his late residence, 45 McDonel street, to the Little Lake Cemetery. Among the pall-bearers was one of the deceased's life-long friends, Mr. James Stevenson, who feels the death of Mr. Wrighton very keenly. The popularity of the late Mr. Wrighton was shown by the many floral tributes sent by sorrowing friends and relatives and also by the large attendance at the funeral, notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather. Rev. Mr. Pearson conducted the funeral services.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. Rich. Hall, Geo. W Morrow, John Kincaid, Robt. Fair, William Davidson and James Stevenson.

GREAT INTEREST IN THE HARTLEY CONCERT

An Excellent Programme is Being Arranged For Thursday Evening

The David Hartley benefit concert, on Thursday evening in the Market Hall, promises to be one of the best musical treats of the season. The programme will be of a particularly attractive and interesting character, including some of the best local talent that Mr. R. Gliddon, who has charge of the selection of the contributors, could secure.

An effort is being made to send Hartley to the six day race in Kansas City, Missouri, and all those interested in the success of the "walking wonder" should lend their assistance by attending the concert in the Market Hall on Thursday evening.

A FAMOUS MUSICIAN PASSED AWAY IN LONDON

London, Jan. 27.—August Wilhelmj, the noted violinist, and concert master, died here Thursday. He was born in 1845.

Herr Wilhelmj was the father of Mr. August Wilhelmj Jr., formerly a member of the faculty of the Peterborough Conservatory of Music and was well known here in music circles.

FARMER RECEIVES A DIVINE CALL

In Response Distributes Five Head of Cattle Among the Poor of This City

The cry of the hungry and the divine call came very forcibly to a certain farmer, north of Peterborough, and the circumstances were related yesterday from the pulpit of one of our leading churches.

A poor old man with ragged clothing called at the door of a farm house in quest of work and food. He got his share of the latter, but the farmer thought that he could look after his farm himself. After the old man had gone away, and as the farmer stood alone in the living room of his house, listening to the ticking of the old clock, something seemed to ring in his ear, "Why do you have cattle and these men go without?" The farmer was paralysed with the force and clearness of what he believes to have been a divine call. He went straightway to his barn and slew five of his fattest cattle, and after having them duly dressed, he resolved to give them away. He came to Peterborough on Saturday and went through the streets and gave his beef away indiscriminately and unstintingly. The only way he had of judging the impoverished condition of the people was the humbleness of the cottage in which they lived.

NO ROOM IN TORONTO ASYLUM

Man in County Goal Has no Place to be Taken To

Regarding the disposal of Alonso Phillips, who, according to the doctor's examination, is insane, Magistrate Edmison received a communication from the authorities of the Toronto asylum stating that there is no room for him there. Phillips hails from Norwood, and was first charged with non-support of his family. He will have to be held here in the meantime.

OBITUARY.

MRS. F. FOY

After an illness since the first of December Mrs. F. Foy passed away last night at the Nicholls Hospital about 9.30 o'clock.

The deceased was 32 years of age. She was born in West Brock in 1876 and was a daughter of Mrs. T. Tucker, 87 Hunter street. Besides her sorrowing mother, six sisters and three brothers are left to mourn her loss. The sisters are Mrs. Angus McMullen, Mrs. Jas. Christie and Mrs. John L Tipp, of Sunderland; Mrs. W. Gammie and Miss Bertha, of Toronto; Mrs. W. Mein, Peterborough. The brothers are Thomas and Charles, of Peterborough, and Frederick, of Flesherton, Ont.

The remains will be taken to the G.T.R. station this evening and conveyed to Sunderland on the 5.38 train where interment will take place on Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock.

Much sympathy is extended to the remaining members of the family in their sad bereavement.

TALK ON A RAMBLE IN OLD LONDON TO-NIGHT

At the Knox Presbyterian church to-night Rev. Dr. Langfeldt will give a talk to the young people of the church on "A Ramble in Old London." The address will be illustrated by lantern views and, it is anticipated, will be of a highly interesting character. All are welcome to attend and there will be no admission fee.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

CURE

Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their most remarkable success has been shown in curing

SICK

Headache, yet Carter's Little Liver Pills are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured

HEAD

Ache they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

ACHE

Carter's Little Liver Pills are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them.

TWO HOTEL GIRLS ARE MISSING

Left McCavanah House on Saturday Night —Whereabouts Not Known

The Cavanaugh Hotel was a little short of help yesterday in the dining-room, but managed to get along all right. Two of their female dining room help, who have homes in this city, packed up their clothing effects and have not since been heard of. Both girls were very quiet around the house, and there is no apparent reason for their sudden disappearance. The girls are both 18 years of age, and were never known to go away from home before. The mothers of both these young ladies are doing all in their power to discover their whereabouts, but up to the present no word has been received.

In most cases of this kind when a girl takes French leave and goes away she generally confides in some friend but in this case there is no clue left behind. Both girls were fast friends and kept apart from the other members of the house staff.

They had been employed in the Cavanaugh House for about two years and were very popular among the guests and respected by their employers.

THE TRAINS WERE LATE YESTERDAY

5.30 G.T.R. From Port Hope Did Not Arrive Until After 10 O'Clock

Railway traffic was in pretty bad shape yesterday owing to the blizzard and the lines were blocked so that all the trains were late. The driving wind filled in the cuts quickly and although the snow plows were out it was found almost impossible to combat the snow. One got caught on the G.T.R. this side of Port Hope and as a result the trains from that place which is due here at 5.30 p.m. did not arrive until 10.10, nearly five hours later. The result was that the Cobourg hockey team could not get through to play Peterborough and there was no game last night.

THE LIBRARY BOARD'S OFFICERS

Were Elected at The Inaugural Meeting Last Night

The inaugural meeting of the Board of Directors of the Public Library was held last night when the following were elected to office:

ENGAGED AS DRIVER AT THE FIRE HALL

Mr. Alf. Parker is Expected to Take Mr. Matchetts' Place

The Fire, Water and Light Committee, having disposed of their grey team and the driver, Mr. Matchett, to the Board of Works, held a short meeting to engage a new driver. Mr. Alf. Parker, who was doing extra work last summer was suggested and on motion of Ald. McIntyre and Beller, was hired at the same price as the regular drivers. His duties will begin on February 1st.

BIG INCREASE IN TOTAL TRADE OF CANADA

Increase of More Than $64,000,000—How it is Divided

For the calendar year 1907, the total trade of the Dominion was $658,599,974, an increase of $64,388,685. The increase was made up of about $50,000,000 imports and about $4,000,000 exports.

The imports and exports for December show a gain over December, 1906, although the November returns showed a considerable decline. The imports for December were $24,897,060, an increase of $4,582,000 over December 1906, and the domestic exports $21,479,000, a gain of $348,651. If foreign exports are included, the gain is over two million dollars.

COUPLE EATEN BY ALLIGATORS

Two Young Americans Meet an Awful Fate in Mexico

ON THEIR WEDDING TOUR

New York, Jan. 28.—A special from El Paso, Texas, says: Two Americans, a young man and a young woman, apparently on their bridal tour, were eaten alive by alligators in the Balsas river, a stream forming the boundary between the states of Michoacan and Guerrero, in Mexico. Nobody knows anything of their identity.

H. Gabilorolles, of Guadalajara, returning from his timber lands in Michoacan, reported the matter to Dr. Will B. Davis, American consul in that city. The man, who was about 28 years old, and the girl about 19, appeared at Balsas about a month ago, hired a small boat, stocked it with provisions, arms, camp equipages, and, loading on a trunk filled with clothing, went down the river.

A short way down the trunk fell overboard, and although they stopped and paid the natives to dive for it, it was lost. The natives warned them not to continue the journey as the stream is full of rapids, and in the swampy places is inhabited by myriads of alligators.

The young couple continued, and nothing more was heard of them until ten days ago, when the wrecked boat was found in one of the swampy regions, torn and chewed by alligators, and near by was the body of the young man, partially eaten by the reptiles.

RED HAIR THROUGH ILLNESS

Changed From Raven Colour To a Flaming Hue

Canal Dover, O., Jan. 28.—Following his recovery from an attack of typhoid fever, Calvin Meyers, 28 years of age, is flaunting a crop of vivid Soon his hair, remarkably black, besomed his head.

Meyers recovered two weeks ago. Soon his hair, remarkably black, began to show tinges of red. Now it is brilliant red, and seems to assume a more vivid hue each day.

POLICE COURT NEWS OF TO-DAY

Vagrant Allowed Out Yesterday Was Sent Down This Morning

A young Englishman named Turner who has been out from the Old Country for some time was arrested last night on a charge of vagrancy, and arrangements will be made to deport him. The young fellow is not more than 19 years of age, but is not in full possession of all his mental faculties. Since he has been in Canada he has been unable to properly care for himself and was sent to jail some time ago on a charge of vagrancy when no other charge would fit him.

He has just been let free again and is in just the same condition as before. He went to the Salvation Army Barracks where he was given his meals, but the officers could do nothing more.

He will be sent back to the Old Country at the city's expense.

TONGOLAS HERE NEXT SATURDAY

The Fast Toronto Basket Ball Team is Expected

Next Saturday night the Tongolas of Central Y.M.C.A., Toronto will play the Senior Basketball team in the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium. The Tongolas are a fast team but the locals are in good shape and should be the winners.

A preliminary game between the Collegiate Institute teams will also be put on.

Those interested in basketball may depend on seeing good games. First game called 7.45.

THE DRUGGISTS MUST BE CHARY

They Sell all Kinds of Hair Preparations and Fear to Discriminate

Druggists sell all kinds of hair preparations, and as a rule they are wisely chary of giving preference to any particular one, but many of them come out plainly for Newbro's Herpicide, the new treatment that absolutely kills the dandruff germ. H. Swannell & Son, Champaign, Ill., say: "One customer of ours who did not have a hair on top of his head when he began to use Herpicide, now has a fair start towards a good head of hair. We believe Herpicide to be by far the best preparation of its kind on the market." Hundreds of similar testimonials from everywhere. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Two sizes—50c and $1. The Market Drug Store and McDermid & Jury, Special Agents.

RED HOT IRON DROPS FIFTEEN STORIES

Fell on Head of a Mason's Helper Who is in Dying Condition

New York, Jan. 28.—Dropping from the forty-second story of the new Singer building, on lower Broadway, a red hot five-pound soldering iron landed on the head of a mason's helper who was at work on the twenty-seventh floor of the adjoining City Investment building, burning and fracturing his skull. The victim, John Boyle 36 years old was taken to a hospital in a dying condition. It was not learned who dropped the iron.

SNOW STORM COSTS NEW YORK LARGE SUM

$150,000 To Remove Snow Than Fell in Recent Storm

New York, Jan. 28.—That it will cost $150,000 to clean the streets of New York of the fall of snow which fell in the storm of Thursday night and yesterday is the estimate of the snow removal bureau. In addition to this direct outlay by the municipality, it is figured that in injuries to horses and vehicles, delays in transportation of goods and the increased cost of coal, which jumped fifty cents a ton yesterday on account of the increased cost of handling, the loss to citizens through the storm will be at least as much more.

Throughout yesterday 500 [illegible] and 3,500 men were kept busy clearing the streets of snow, while all night in the lower part of the city 1,200 men and 150 teams were occupied with the work. The snow removal bureau hopes to have at least 5,000 shovelers and drivers employed to-day. With all this force, however, Snow Inspector Worth expresses himself as fearful, that barring the speedy advent of a thaw or a warm rain, New Yorkers will have to encounter considerable amounts of snow on city streets for five or six days to come.

Zutoo

Regarding your Zutoo Tablets I beg to say: I have been a sufferer from headache since childhood and have used all, or nearly all, of the so-called "cures" on the market, till warned by my physician to discontinue their use on account of their bad effects on the heart. Some months since my attention was called to your Zutoo Tablets and I have been using them ever since with the most gratifying results. I find they cure a "sick" or "nervous" headache in a few minutes and leave no bad effect. My family use them whenever needed with equally good results. I have frequently given them to friends who were suffering from headache and they never fail to give quick relief. I find them a good remedy for "sour" stomach as well as headache. I always carry them in my grip on the road and would not be without them at any cost.

IN THE FOG

Richard Harding Davis.

COPYRIGHT, 1901, BY ROBERT HOWARD RUSSELL.

"I offered to put her in a carriage, but she said she must find Natalie, and that she hoped we would meet again at the hotel. So I drove off by myself, wondering who she was, and whether Natalie was not her keeper.

"I had to wait several hours for the train to Nice, and as I wanted to stroll around the city I thought I had better put the diamonds in the safe of the hotel. As soon as I reached my room I locked the door, placed the hand bag on the table and opened it. I felt among the things at the top of it, but failed to touch the cigar-case. I shoved my hand in deeper, and stirred the things about, but still I did not reach it. A cold wave swept down my spine, and a sort of emptiness came to the pit of my stomach. Then I turned red-hot, and the sweat sprung out all over me. I wet my lips with my tongue, and said to myself, 'Don't be an ass. Pull yourself together, pull yourself together. Take the things out, one at a time. It's there, of course it's there. Don't be an ass.'

"So I put a brake on my nerves and began very carefully to pick out the things one by one, but after another second I could not stand it, and I rushed across the room and threw out everything on the bed. But the diamonds were not among them. I pulled the things about and tore them open and shuffled and rearranged and sorted them, but it was no use. The cigar-case was gone. I threw everything in the dressing-case out on the floor, although I knew it was useless to look for it there. I knew that I had put it in the bag. I sat down and tried to think. I remembered I had put it in the satchel at Paris just as that woman had entered the compartment, and I had been alone with her ever since, so it was she who had robbed me. But how? It had never left my shoulder. And then I remembered that it had—that I had taken it off when I had changed my coat, and for the few moments that I was searching for Natalie. I remembered that the woman had sent me on that goose-chase, and that at every other station she had tried to get rid of me on some fool errand.

"I gave a roar like a mad bull, and I jumped down the stairs six steps at a time.

"I demanded at the office if a distinguished lady of title, possibly a Russian, had just entered the hotel.

"As I expected, she had not. I sprang into a cab and inquired at two other hotels, and then I saw the folly of trying to catch her without outside help, and I ordered the fellow to gallop to the office of the Chief of Police. I told my story, and the ass in charge asked me to calm myself, and wanted to take notes. I told him this was no time for taking notes, but for doing something. He got wrathy at that, and I demanded to be taken at once to his Chief. The Chief, he said, was very busy, and could not see me. So I showed him my silver greyhound. In eleven years I had never used it but once before. I stated in pretty vigorous language that I was a Queen's Messenger, and that if the Chief of Police did not see me instantly he would lose his official head. At that the fellow jumped off his high horse and ran with me to his chief,—a smart young chap, a colonel in the army, and a very intelligent man.

"I THREW EVERYTHING IN THE DRESSING CASE OUT ON THE FLOOR."

"I explained that I had been robbed in a French railway carriage of a diamond necklace belonging to the Queen of England, which her Majesty was sending as a present to the Czarina of Russia. I pointed out to him that if he succeeded in capturing the thief he would be made for life, and that he would receive the gratitude of three great powers.

"He wasn't the sort that thinks second thoughts are best. He saw Russian and French decorations sprouting all over his chest, and he hit a bell, and pressed buttons, and yelled out orders like the captain of a penny steamer in a fog. He sent her description to all the city gates, and ordered all cabmen and railway porters to search all trains leaving Marseilles. He ordered all passengers on outgoing vessels to be examined, and telegraphed the proprietors of every hotel and pension to send him a complete list of their guests within the hour. While I was standing there he must have given at least a hundred orders, and sent out enough commissaires, sergeants de ville, gendarmes, bicycle police, and plain-clothes Johnnies to have captured the entire German army. When they had gone he assured me that the woman was as good as arrested already. Indeed, officially, she was arrested; for she had no more chance of escape from Marseilles than from the Chateau D'If.

"He told me to return to my hotel and possess my soul in peace. Within an hour he assured me he would acquaint me with her arrest.

"I thanked him, and complimented him on his energy, and left him. But I didn't share in his confidence. I felt that she was a very clever woman, and a match for any and all of us. It was all very well for him to be jubilant. He had not lost the diamonds, and had everything to gain if he found them; while I, even if he did recover the necklace, would only be where I was before I lost them, and if he did not recover it I was a ruined man. It was an awful facer for me. I had always prided myself on my record. In eleven years I had never mislaid an envelope, nor missed taking the first train. And now I had failed in the most important mission that had ever been intrusted to me. And it wasn't a thing that could be hushed up, either. It was too conspicuous, too spectacular. It was sure to invite the widest notoriety. I saw myself ridiculed all over the Continent, and perhaps dismissed, even suspected of having taken the thing myself.

"I was walking in front of a lighted cafe, and I felt so sick and miserable that I stopped for a pick-me-up. Then I considered that if I took one drink I would probably, in my present state of mind, not want to stop under twenty, and I decided I had better leave it alone. But my nerves were jumping, like a frightened rabbit, and I felt I must have something to quiet them, or I would go crazy. I reached for my cigarette-case, but a cigarette seemed hardly adequate, so I put it back again and took out this cigar-case, in which I keep only the strongest and blackest cigars. I opened it and stuck in my fingers, but instead of a cigar they touched on a thin leather envelope. My heart stood perfectly still. I did not dare to look, but I dug my finger nails into the leather and I felt layers of thin paper, then a layer of cotton, and then they scratched on the facets of the Czarina's diamonds!

"I stumbled as though I had been hit in the face, and fell back into one of the chairs on the sidewalk. I tore off the wrappings and spread out the diamonds on the cafe table; I could not believe they were real. I twisted the necklace between my fingers and crushed it between my palms and tossed it up in the air. I believe I almost kissed it. The women in the cafe stood up on the chairs to see better, and laughed and screamed, and the people crowded so close around me that the waiters had to form a bodyguard. The proprietor thought there was a fight, and called for the police. I was so happy I didn't care. I laughed, too, and gave the proprietor a five-pound note and told him to stand every one a drink. Then I tumbled into a fiacre and galloped off to my friend the Chief of Police. I felt very sorry for him. He had been so happy at the chance I gave him, and he was sure to be disappointed when he learned I had sent him off on a false alarm.

"But now that I had found the necklace, I did not want him to find the woman. Indeed, I was most anxious that she should get clear away, for if she were caught the truth would come out, and I was likely to get a sharp reprimand, and sure to be laughed at.

"I could see now how it had happened. In my haste to hide the diamonds when the woman was hustled into the carriage, I had shoved the cigars into the satchel, and the diamonds into the pocket of my coat. Now that I had the diamonds safe again, it seemed a very natural mistake. But I doubted if the Foreign Office would think so. I was afraid it might not appreciate the beautiful simplicity of my secret hiding-place. So, when I reached the police station, and found that the woman was still at large, I was more than relieved.

"As I expected, the Chief was extremely chagrined when he learned of my mistake, and that there was nothing for him to do. But I was feeling so happy myself that I hated to have any one else miserable, so I suggested that this attempt to steal the Czarina's necklace might be only the first of a series of such attempts by an unscrupulous gang, and that I might still be in danger.

"I winked at the Chief and the Chief smiled at me, and we went to Nice together in a saloon car with a guard of twelve carabineers and twelve plain-clothes men, and the Chief and I drank champagne all the way. We marched together up to the hotel where the Russian Ambassador was stopping, closely surrounded by our escort of carabineers, and delivered the necklace with the most profound ceremony. The old Ambassador was immensely impressed, and when we hinted that already I had been made the object of an attack by robbers, he assured us that his Imperial Majesty would not prove ungrateful.

"I wrote a swinging personal letter about the invaluable services of the Chief to the French Minister of Foreign Affairs, and they gave him enough Russian and French medals to satisfy even a French soldier. So, though he never caught the woman, he received his just reward."

The Queen's Messenger paused and surveyed the faces of those about him in some embarrassment.

"But the worst of it is," he added, "that the story must have got about; for, while the Princess obtained nothing from me but a cigar-case and five excellent cigars, a few weeks after the coronation the Czar sent me a gold cigar-case with his monogram in diamonds. And I don't know yet whether that was a coincidence, or whether the Czar wanted me to know that he knew that I had been carrying the Czarina's diamonds in my pigskin cigar-case. What do you fellows think?"

CHAPTER III.

SIR ANDREW rose with disapproval written in every lineament.

"I thought your story would bear upon the murder," he said. "Had I imagined it would have nothing whatsoever to do with it I would not have remained." He pushed back his chair and bowed stiffly. "I wish you good night," he said.

There was a chorus of remonstrance, and under cover of this and the Baronet's answering protests a servant for the second time slipped a piece of paper into the hand of the gentleman with the pearl stud. He read the lines written upon it and tore it into tiny fragments.

The youngest member, who had remained an interested but silent listener to the tale of the Queen's Messenger, raised his hand commandingly.

"Sir Andrew," he cried, "in justice to Lord Arthur Chetney I must ask you to be seated. He has been accused in our hearing of a most serious crime, and I insist that you remain until you have heard me clear his character."

"You!" cried the Baronet.

THE COLD KEY.

A Popular and an Ancient Remedy For Nosebleed.

In case of hemorrhage, especially in that of bleeding from the nose, our forefathers applied to the forehead and to the nose ointments and even the patient's own blood. They practiced ligation of the limbs, a means devised by Apollonius in the reign of Nero, ligating the great toe of the side corresponding to the bleeding nostril, and they resorted to derivation by bloodletting. They plugged the ears with tow, a procedure recommended by Galen. But, above all, they sought to produce fainting. Locally the haemastatic most employed was spider's web with which they filled the nasal fossa. Of all these empirical procedures the most widespread and the one still most employed in popular medicine is the application of cold. The most available source of cold, because it is everywhere procurable, is water. Consequently it has oftenest been employed in epistaxis the ancient physicians advised bathing the face with very cold water and causing it to be held in the mouth. They also soaked the hands and feet in cold water.

On the theory that cold things restrain hemorrhage many persons replaced water by solid cold objects and hung about the neck of the patients attacked with epistaxis coral, jasper, yellow amber, marble or articles of iron. Physicians pointed out, indeed, certain regions with which it was preferable to make the contact. They realized that it was the coldness of the object, not its nature, that did the work. No special property must be attributed to the iron, said Guyon-Dolois, for chains of gold, silver or lead would serve the same purpose. In popular medicine, however, iron has remained the material most employed in nasal hemorrhages, and the application of the key to the back is largely resorted to in the household. Dr. Heiot possesses an enormous key which he uses only as a paperweight. One day a patient, pointing to this massive key, exclaimed, "It is to stop hemorrhages." It was a key of the eighteenth century.

We may laugh, says M. Heiot, at the charm attributed to the key in epistaxis, but we must admit that cold has a certain action in cases of hemorrhage. It contracts the capillary vessels. When it is applied at a distance from the site of hemorrhage its efficiency may be a matter for discussion, but its effect is certain when it is applied to the actual seat of the bleeding, and rhinologists know the value of causing the patient to swallow ice. Possibly the cold key has no other hemastatic power than what is connected with the sensation of cold which it produces. A cold compress would probably act with more certainty, but it would be difficult to dethrone the key, which one always has in one's pocket. There is certainly some wisdom in the resources of our ancestors and of the common people, even as the alchemists of old were no fools, as is shown by our modern chemistry.—New York Medical Journal.

Dodging a Problem.

Little Gracie was very much interested in her arithmetic, and some of the examples which she brought home to work out during the evening hours were puzzling to her parents, who many years ago had forgotten even the rudimentary rules. The other evening the little girl had one about carpeting a room, and this she handed out to her father as the family sat about the table after supper.

"Papa," said Gracie, "if you had a room thirty-seven and a half feet long and forty-two and three-quarter feet wide, how many yards of carpet three-quarters of a yard wide would it take to carpet this room?"

Papa thought a minute and then said: "I think I should leave it to the man in the carpet store. He is paid to figure those things out."

"But, papa," said Gracie, "I've got to do this example. Suppose you were the man in the carpet store. How would you get the number of yards?"

"Well," said papa, "I guess I would have to throw up my job."

"How would you do it, mamma?" said the little girl, turning to her mother.

"Well, Gracie," said mamma, "I don't think I would carpet the room at all. I believe I would buy a rug. It is easier to take care of and a great deal more sanitary."

And Gracie had to struggle through the example all by her lonesome.

"Yes," answered the young man briskly. "I would have spoken sooner," he explained, "but that I thought this gentleman"—he inclined his head toward the Queen's Messenger—"was about to contribute some facts of which I was ignorant. He, however, has told us nothing, and so I will take up the tale at the point where Lieutenant Sears laid it down and give you those details of which Lieutenant Sears is ignorant. It seems strange to you that I should be able to add the sequel to this story. But the coincidence is easily explained. I am the junior member of the law firm of Chudleigh & Chudleigh. We have been solicitors for the Chetneys for the last two hundred years. Nothing, no matter how unimportant, which concerns Lord Edam and his two sons is unknown to us, and naturally we are acquainted with every detail of the terrible catastrophe of last night."

The Baronet, bewildered but eager, sank back into his chair.

"Will you be long, sir?" he demanded.

"I shall endeavor to be brief," said the young solicitor; "and," he added, in a tone which gave his words almost the weight of a threat, "I promise to be interesting."

"There is no need to promise that," said Sir Andrew, "I find it much too interesting as it is." He glanced ruefully at the clock and turned his eyes quickly from it.

"Tell the driver of that hansom," he called to the servant, "that I take him by the hour."

"For the last three days," began young Mr. Chudleigh, "as you have probably read in the daily papers, the Marquis of Edam has been at the point of death, and his physicians have never left his house. Every hour he seemed to grow weaker; but although his bodily strength is apparently leaving him forever, his mind has remained clear and active. Late yesterday evening word was received at our office that he wished my father to come at once to Chetney House and to bring with him certain papers. What these papers were is not essential; I mention them only to explain how it was that last night I happened to be at Lord Edam's bedside. I accompanied my father to Chetney House, but at the time we reached there Lord Edam was sleeping, and his physicians refused to have him awakened. My father urged that he should be allowed to receive Lord Edam's instructions concerning the documents, but the physicians would not disturb him, and we all gathered in the library to wait until he should awake of his own accord. It was about one o'clock in the morning, while we were still there, that Inspector Lyle and the officers from Scotland Yard came to arrest Lord Arthur on the charge of murdering his brother. You can imagine our dismay and distress. Like every one else, I had learned from the afternoon papers that Lord Chetney was not dead, but that he had returned to England, and on arriving at Chetney House I had been told that Lord Arthur had gone to the Bath Hotel to look for his brother and to inform him that if he wished to see their father alive he must come to him at once. Although it was now past one o'clock, Arthur had not returned. None of us knew where Madame Zichy lived, so we could not go to recover Lord Chetney's body. We spent a most miserable night, hastening to the window whenever a cab came into the square, in the hope that it was Arthur returning, and endeavoring to explain away the facts that pointed to him as the murderer. I am a friend of Arthur's, I was with him at Harrow and at Oxford, and I refused to believe for an instant that he was capable of such a crime; but as a lawyer I could not help but see that the circumstantial evidence was strongly against him.

"Toward early morning Lord Edam awoke, and in so much better a state of health that he refused to make the changes in the papers which he had intended, declaring that he was no nearer death than ourselves. Under other circumstances, this happy change in him would have relieved us greatly, but none of us could think of anything save the death of his older son and of the charge which hung over Arthur.

"As long as Inspector Lyle remained in the house my father decided that I, as one of the legal advisers of the family, should also remain there. But there was little for either of us to do. Arthur did not return, and nothing occurred until late this morning, when Lyle received word that the Russian servant had been arrested. He at once drove to Scotland Yard to question him. He came back to us in an hour, and informed me that the servant had refused to tell anything of what had happened the night before, or of himself, or of the Princess Zicky. He would not even give them the address of her house.

"'He is in abject terror,' Lyle said. 'I assured him that he was not suspected of the crime, but he would tell me nothing.'

"There were no other developments until two o'clock this afternoon, when word was brought to us that Arthur had been found, and that he was lying in the accident ward of St. George's Hospital. Lyle and I drove there together, and found him propped up in bed with his head bound in a bandage. He had been brought to the hospital the night before by the driver of a hansom that had run over him in the fog. The cab-horse had kicked him on the head, and he had been carried in unconscious. There was nothing on him to tell who he was, and it was not until he came to his senses this afternoon that the hospital authorities had been able to send word to his people. Lyle at once informed him that he was under arrest, and with what he was charged, and though the inspector warned him to say nothing which might be used against him, I, as his solicitor, instructed him to speak freely and to tell us all he knew of the occurrences of last night. It was evident to any one that the fact of his brother's death was of much greater concern to him, than that he was accused of his murder.

"'That,' Arthur said contemptuously, 'that is damned nonsense. It is monstrous and cruel. We parted better friends than we have been in years. I will tell you all that happened—not to clear myself, but to help you to find out the truth.' His story is as follows: Yesterday afternoon, owing to his constant attendance on his father, he did not look at the evening papers, and it was not until after dinner, when the butler brought him one and told him of its contents, that he learned that his brother was alive and at the Bath Hotel. He drove there at once, but was told that about eight o'clock his brother had gone out, but without giving any clew to his destination. As Chetney had not at once come to see his father, Arthur decided that he was still angry with him, and his mind, turning naturally to the cause of their quarrel, determined him to look for Chetney at the home of the Princess Zichy.

"Her house had been pointed out to him, and though he had never visited it, he had passed it many times and knew its exact location. He accordingly drove in that direction, as far as the fog would permit the hansom to go, and walked the rest of the way, reaching the house about nine o'clock. He rang, and was admitted by the Russian servant. The man took his card into the drawing-room, and at once his brother ran out and welcomed him. He was followed by the Princess Zichy, who also received Arthur most cordially.

"'You brothers will have much to talk about,' she said. 'I am going to the dining-room. When you have finished, let me know.'

"As soon as she had left them, Arthur told his brother that their father was not expected to outlive the night, and that he must come to him at once.

"'This is not the moment to remember your quarrel,' Arthur said to him; 'you have come back from the dead only in time to make your peace with him before he dies.'

"Arthur says that at this Chetney was greatly moved.

"'You entirely misunderstand me, Arthur,' he returned. 'I did not know the governor was ill, or I would have gone to him the instant I arrived. My only reason for not doing so was because I thought he was still angry with me. I shall return with you immediately, as soon as I have said good-by to the Princess. It is a final good-by. After to-night, I shall never see her again.'

"'Do you mean that?' Arthur cried.

"'Yes,' Chetney answered. 'When I returned to London I had no intention of seeking her again, and I am here only through a mistake.' He then told Arthur that he had separated from the Princess even before he went to Central Africa, and that, moreover, while at Cairo on his way south, he had learned certain facts concerning her life there during the previous season, which made it impossible for him to ever wish to see her again. Their separation was final and complete.

"'She deceived me cruelly,' he said; 'I cannot tell you how cruelly. During the two years when I was trying to obtain my father's consent to our marriage she was in love with a Russian diplomat. During all that time he was secretly visiting her here in London, and her trip to Cairo was only an excuse to meet him there.'

"'Yet you are here with her to-night,' Arthur protested, 'only a few hours after your return.'

"'That is easily explained,' Chetney answered. 'As I finished dinner to-night at the hotel, I received a note from her from this address. In it she said she had but just learned of my arrival, and begged me to come to her at once. She wrote that she was in great and present trouble, dying of an incurable illness, and without friends or money. She begged me, for the sake of old times, to come to her assistance. During the last two years in the jungle all my former feeling for Zicky has utterly passed away, but no one could have dismissed the appeal she made in that letter. So I came here, and found her, as you have seen her, quite as beautiful as she ever was, in very good health, and, from the look of the house, in no need of money.

"'I asked her what she meant by writing me that she was dying in a garret, and she laughed, and said she had done so because she was afraid, unless I thought she needed help, I would not try to see her. That was where we were when you arrived. And now,' Chetney added, 'I will say good-by to her, and you had better return home. No, you can trust me, I shall follow you at once. She has no influence over me now, but I believe, in spite of the way she has used me, that she is, after her queer fashion, still fond of me, and when she learns that this good-by is final there may be a scene, and it is not fair to her that you should be here. So, go home at once, and tell the governor that I am following you in ten minutes.'

"'That,' said Arthur, 'is the way we parted. I never left him on more friendly terms. I was happy to see him alive again, I was happy to think he had returned in time to make up his quarrel with my father, and I was happy that at last he was shut of that woman. I was never better pleased with him in my life.' He turned to Inspector Lyle, who was sitting at the foot of the bed taking notes of all he told us.

"'Why in the name of common sense,' he cried, 'should I have chosen that moment of all others to send my brother back to the grave?' For a moment the inspector did not answer him. I do not know if any of you gentlemen are acquainted with Inspector Lyle, but if you are not, I can assure you that he is a very remarkable man. Our firm often applies to him for aid, and he has never failed us; my father has the greatest possible respect for him. Where he has the advantage over the ordinary police official is in the fact that he possesses imagination. He imagines himself to be the criminal, imagines how he would act under the same circumstances, and he imagines to such purpose that he generally finds the man he wants. I have often told Lyle that if he had not been a detective he would have made a great success as a poet, or a playwright.

"When Arthur turned on him Lyle hesitated for a moment, and then told him exactly what was the case against him.

"'Ever since your brother was reported as having died in Africa,' he said, 'your Lordship has been collecting money on post obits. Lord Chetney's arrival last night turned them into waste paper. You were suddenly in debt for thousands of pounds—for much more than you could ever possibly pay. No one knew that you and your brother had met at Madame Zichy's. But you knew that your father was not expected to outlive the night, and that if your brother were dead also,

HIS COURSE IN LOVE.

By LULU JOHNSON.

Copyright, 1907, by M. M. Cunningham.

On the whole, Treadway thought it rather nice of him to be willing to marry Marion Hitesman. He was possessed of an income of half a million a year, the income from his mother's estate, and when his father died—well, it required the services of two men to keep track of the Treadway investments.

Marion was a dainty little country woman, but she would need a lot of social training, of course. Perhaps a year in a finishing school might be a good thing to fit her for the place in society she was destined to fill. It might be a bother to wait a year before marriage, though, so on second thoughts perhaps a social secretary would be a better plan. Treadway decided upon the social secretary as the lesser of two necessary evils.

Marion Hitesman was only a little country girl, the belle of Wichfield, a village of a few thousand persons. Treadway had been forced to stop over there for repairs to his automobile, and before these were made he had seen Marion. After that the automobile was called upon only for little trips to nearby points of interest, and Treadway paid his easy going court to the girl.

Perkins, his father's lawyer, made his summer home in Wichfield, and the introduction was easily accomplished, but Treadway found courtship according to Wichfield notions rather complicated. In town he would have left a standing order with the florist and confectioner. There would have been an occasional motor excursion and finally a proposal of marriage in the conservatory at some one's dance and a note in the society columns of the papers.

Here it was all different, and, while he enjoyed the novelty of it, he found it rather awkward at times. In town mammas with marriageable daughters were willing to do more than half the courtship for him. Here he found himself on the same level of equality in the Hitesman home as Ben Taylor, who clerked in Luscomb's grocery.

TREADWAY WATCHED HER WISTFULLY.

Even this fact did not serve to warn him, however, and his declaration was entirely characteristic. The two were returning from a ride in the country. A score of couples had gone out to the home of a farmer host, and the road was dotted with buggies. At Marion's command Treadway had not thrown on speed to outstrip the others, as he usually did, and the car rolled along as quietly as though it were under the observation of a string of traffic police.

Marion, leaning back against the upholstered cushions, gave a luxurious little sigh.

"I love automobiling," she said, "when the car does not run too fast."

"You shall have an automobile for your own," he promised, "when we are married."

"Are we to be married?" she asked, with a touch of coldness in her voice.

"I hope so," was the prompt reply. "I've got a lot of money, and in time I shall have a lot more. I can give you everything you want and introduce you into society. Of course you'll have to cough up a little, but you'll make it all right. Is it a go?"

"No, thank you," said Marion very quietly. "I admit that the proposition you make is glittering in the extreme, but I must decline."

"Decline!" he gasped in amazement. "Why, I know a hundred girls in New York who would just jump at the chance!"

"In that case," was the quiet retort, "I shall omit the customary expressions of regret. No doubt you will find quick consolation."

Treadway was too stunned to argue. He busied himself with the steering wheel until the big black car drew up in front of the Hitesman home. He helped her out and opened the gate for her.

"It is goodby as well as good night," he said as she held out her hand. "I shall be gone in the morning."

She stammered something he could not catch and hurried up the walk to the house. Treadway watched her wistfully until the door closed behind her; then he went away, carrying in his heart the memory of a slender figure silhouetted against the light from the open door.

In the early dawn the big touring car slipped down the dusty road. There was the usual gossip, and then Wichfield forgot Treadway in the excitement of a revival meeting at which a famous evangelist exhorted. But Treadway did not forget, even though he put the width of the Atlantic between himself and the little town where he had met defeat. He dawdled in London and loafed miserably in Paris, but he could not forget the girl with the big brown eyes, and he was glad when at last he turned his steps homeward.

The summer had passed, but the brisk autumnal air made touring a delight, and presently for a second time the big black car rolled into Wichfield. Perkins, the Treadway lawyer, had closed his house and gone back to town, but there was an excellent hotel, and presently Treadway found himself installed in a comfortable room. Once settled he sallied forth to find Marion.

She was not at home, they told him at the house, but Mrs. Hitesman added minute directions by which he found the patch of woods where Marion had gone in search of nuts.

Evidently her nutting was but an excuse for a walk in the woods, for he came upon her day dreaming at the foot of a huge chestnut. As he approached the looked up wonderingly; then, after a moment's pause, she sprang to her feet with outstretched hands.

"For a moment I thought you must be a vision," she cried as he hurried toward her. "Mr. Perkins told me just before he left that you had gone abroad for the winter."

"I did go across," he confirmed, "but I couldn't stay. I wanted to come back and ask you if your decision was final."

"My decision?" she echoed.

"Yes," he explained. "I know you told me that you would not marry me, but I could not be content until I asked again. I went to London and Paris to try to forget you, but the farther from home I got the more I seemed to want you, and so here I am."

"But the hundred or more who were ready to accept you and your millions?" she reminded.

"There might be a million or more who would be ready to accept my hundreds," he replied impatiently, "but the whole million in one big seraglio would not be you, dear. It was a silly, braggart speech that I am heartily ashamed of now. It was that which brought me back. I wanted to tell you how well I realized what a fool I had been. I love you too much to give up without another appeal. I've a whole lot to learn, Marion, but will you be the teacher, dear, and show me that the cursed money is not everything?"

"I think I should like to try," she whispered as he caught her hand.

"And I came over here prepared for the argument of my life," he said wonderingly.

"You said this time what you should have said before," she replied. "The last time you offered me wealth and position. This time you have offered me your love. It is love that a girl wants, Tom. It's not always the money she seeks. I liked you before, but I could not be bought."

"But I loved you then," he cried.

"Not in the same way," she explained, "or you would have told me so. You wanted me to teach you. That was the first lesson."

"Then here endeth the first lesson," cried Treadway, with a laugh, as he bent to touch the soft brown hair with his lips. "Let's hope the others will not be so drastic. You've been pretty hard on your pupil, sweetheart."

THE SHOEMAKER'S ART.

It Has Been Known Since the Earliest Days of Civilization.

A few winters ago I passed a day among the wonderfully decorated tombs in the cemetery of what was once Memphis, upon the western bank of the Nile, writes Julius Chambers in the Brooklyn Eagle. One of the show places is the remarkable underground palace that the illustrious Queen Ti of the fifth dynasty (i. e., about 4,500 years ago) constructed for her final resting place. It consists of a great court 40 by 60 feet, as I remember, and several other apartments, besides the mummy chamber, which is reached by a stairway leading down from the largest room. Upon the walls of this tomb are the best preserved pictures to be found in all Egypt, and among them are the figures of two artisans working upon coverings for the feet.

Therefore, makers of shoes, I salute you! More than 4,000 years before the art of printing had practical existence, although you will admit that the decorator of Queen Ti's tomb was almost a publisher, your art was recognized, respected and immortalized.

The natural impulse of mankind is to go barefoot. Every reader can remember youthful days in which the greatest possible pleasure was embodied in a run through the woods or along the shore unshod. Very well can I recall the secret spot in the barn in which I was wont to hide my shoes and stockings in order that I might be in the competition for the first stone bruise of the summer. That was the primitive man, speaking up for the faraway days "before we were women and men."

AN OLD TIME ASCENT.

London's First Balloon and the Great Excitement It Raised.

Tremendous excitement was caused when London's first balloon went up. The balloon, manned by a young Italian named Vincent Lunardi, ascended from Moorfields, then an open space of ground, on Sept. 15, 1784, in the presence of more than 100,000 spectators. All business was suspended, the king himself setting the example by adjourning a cabinet council that happened to be sitting. Vast crowds followed the balloon's course, some on horseback, in carts, in chaises, but mostly on foot. The Great North road, above which the aeronaut sailed for some distance, was a roaring river of humanity.

Many were hurt in the crush, but the only fatality recorded was the death from fright of an old country woman, who, coming out of her cottage to see what the excitement was about, beheld the balloon just above her head. On the other hand, Lunardi undoubtedly saved one man's life, a jury bringing in a verdict of not guilty on a notorious highwayman in order that they, the prisoner and the judge who was trying the case might rush out of court to see the balloon.

The aeronaut descended eventually near Ware, in Hertfordshire, where his sudden drop from the clouds was the cause of more astonishment and excitement. Many of the spectators swooned with fear, while others urged the putting of Lunardi to death there and then on the ground that he must needs be a sorcerer and in league with the evil one.

Dried Elderberry Leaves in Asthma.

"If you will gather leaves from an elderberry bush when they are green and let them dry and then put them into a pillow and sleep upon them nightly for about three months," said a Petersburg (Tenn.) man, "they will cure the worst case of asthma. After they are dried the leaves have a peculiar but pleasing odor. By inhaling this odor the asthma is cured. I know a number of people who cured themselves of asthma by sleeping on dried elderberry leaves."—Nashville Tennessean.

Heaven's Secrets.

The following is a true story, vouched for by a correspondent: Her little boy of seven years of age said to her one day: "Mother, I know why it is that babies cannot speak until they are twelve months old. It is because they come straight from heaven, and if they were able to talk as soon as they were born they would tell the secrets, and so God doesn't let them speak until they have almost forgotten them."—London Methodist Times.

A COUGH COLD IS DANGEROUS.

There are different kinds of colds, and various ways in which they affect different people. Some constitutions will throw off a light cold, while to others it will stick tenaciously. There is one kind—the kind accompanied by a cough, the kind that turns to bronchitis, the kind that ends in consumption — that should never be neglected.

Many a life history would read different if, on the first appearance of a cough, it had been remedied with

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

This syrup contains all the virtues of the "Norway Pine Tree," combined with Wild Cherry Bark, and the soothing, healing and expectorant properties of other excellent herbs and barks.

Mrs. E. S. Akerly, Akerly, N.B., writes: "My little boy had such a bad cough he could not sleep at nights. I tried several remedies but nothing seemed to relieve him until I got Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. From the first few doses he commenced to improve, and when he had taken one bottle he was completely cured."

Be careful in purchasing to see that you get the genuine Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. Put up in a yellow wrapper, three pine trees the trade mark. Price 25 cts.

POINTS OF VIEW.

(Gwendolyn de Stile.)

Oh, Madge, the Roxbys' dinner dance last eve
Was quite the sweetest thing we've had this year.
Too bad you couldn't come. . . . I helped receive, . . .
And—well, the seventh waltz was simply dear!
I sat it out with Jack and, on the whole,
Managed to get poor mamma so enraged.
Madge, promise not to breathe it to a soul,
But he and I—that is—oh, we're engaged!
I am so happy, dear, and you must be
My maid of honor, won't you? Here's the ring—
From Biffany's, of course, you see,
And isn't it too sweet for anything?

(Mamye O'Rourke.)

Aw, Mag, Bill Clancy's ball las' night was gran'!
Youse should have came—youse never seen such fun.
An' it's a cinch dere ain't no odder ban'
Could spiel dat sevent' waltz like Casey's done.
I whirled it wit' me Jim, an' it wus swell.
Say, dat wus w'en he get ter talkin' sof',
An' swear ter Gawd youse ain't a-gunter tell,
But I an' him is gunter hit it off.
Youse betcher life I'm glad I'm livin', Mag.
An' youse kin be me bridesmaid w'en we splice.
Say, pipe de ring—an' I don't want ter brag,
But ain't dat just de cutest piece of ice?

Unkind.

"We thought we had a pretty good joke on one of our leading Louisville physicians not long ago," a representative from the blue grass country recently remarked in Washington. "There was a little celebration on hand, and a number of banners had been hung in the streets, most of them bearing the coat of arms of Kentucky, the motto on which, you know, is 'United We Stand, Divided We Fall.'

"Well, the doctor had consented to have one end of the rope supporting a banner attached to his house, the other end being fastened to a building across the street. To his astonishment, he observed that whenever a person passed by he would break into a roar of laughter, point out the banner to some one else and go on, still laughing.

"This worried the doctor for some time, and finally he undertook an investigation.

"Imagine his feelings, if you can, when he discovered that the other end of the rope was made fast to an undertaking establishment!" — Harper's Weekly.

Named For Her.

"What does Libby call her new baby, Mandy?" a southern woman asked one of her old servants who had recently become a grandmother.

"She names her 'Gabrielle,' miss, after you."

"Why, the idea, Mandy! You know my name isn't Gabrielle. You've called me 'Miss Katie' all my life."

"Yas'm; Miss Katie, dat I does. But when hit come to namin' babies after folks hit ain't what dey is called; hit is what dey is like dat you names 'em foh. You sholy is mo' like 'Miss Gabrielle' dan you is like 'Miss Katie,' jes' like Libby says."—Youth's Companion.

At the Top of the Ladder.

A man who from pinching poverty had grown to aspiring affluence had a wife with social ambition. She had arranged to give a dinner party on one occasion, and when her husband came downstairs in his evening clothes she observed his attire with critical eye.

"Why, George," she exclaimed, "where are your diamond studs?"

"What's the use of wearin' 'em?" he protested. "My napkin 'll hide 'em anyhow."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Dangerous.

The aeronaut was sitting looking anxiously over the edge of his car. The ocean was below him, and the breeze seemed seaward.

"Heavens!" he groaned. "This voyage will ruin my already depleted treasury. The more I blow out the more I'll have to blow in."

Here his assistant fell overboard, thus saving a valuable sand bag.—Chicago News.

Under ordinary circumstances the trip across the Atlantic would have been quiet indeed. The eastbound traffic was light, and most of it went to the newer and faster boats. There were less than fourscore passengers in the first cabin, and Dorsey Adams looked forward to a long, quiet week with Nell Sommers.

For more than a year Dorsey had sought to win Nell's hand and with fair prospect of eventual success. When he heard that the family was going to Europe for the winter he planned to take the same boat, and the evident pleasure with which Nell greeted the announcement greatly cheered the anxious Adams.

But the boat had not reached the banks before the course of true love showed its customary unwillingness to move smoothly. They had, in fact, been out less than twenty-four hours when the love course began to resemble the serpentine windings of the Mississippi and evince a far greater roughness than the November seas.

Miss Sommers had spent her first night aboard in the agonies of seasickness, and it was late the next morning when a careful steward and a sympathetic stewardess helped the exhausted girl to the deck and comfortably installed her in a deck chair, where Dorsey presently found her.

Dorsey seated himself on a stool beside her chair and prepared to make himself diverting, but it was Miss Sommers who found the diversion. Against Dorsey's dark coat her sharp eyes spied a golden strand. She leaned forward to remove it, and the next moment she was holding it accusingly before his eyes, while her glance sought the sunny haired soubrette who was crossing to play the London music halls.

"You must have missed me last night, as you say," said Miss Sommers bitterly.

"But look here, Nell," declared Dorsey miserably. "I swear to you that I spent the whole evening in the smoking room except for a few minutes on deck just before I turned in. I was alone all the evening."

SHE WAS HOLDING IT ACCUSINGLY BEFORE HIS EYES.

"Do not add perjury to your other offenses," said Miss Sommers coldly. "I hate a man who does not tell the truth. Therefore I hate you. Please go away."

Dorsey went, miserably enough, while Nell Sommers sank back in her steamer chair lost in her bitter thoughts. She liked Dorsey, and it cut her to the quick that he should have spent the evening flirting with the little soubrette, while she herself lay in her berth vainly wishing the ship would run aground if only the awful rolling of the vessel might stop.

WAS A TOTAL WRECK FROM HEART FAILURE.

Heart disease is characterized by its stealthy approach and its variety of forms, yet in all its forms nature gives unmistakable signals which warn us of its presence.

One of the first danger signals announcing something wrong with the heart is the irregular beat or violent throb. Often there is only a fluttering sensation, or an "all gone" sinking feeling; or, again there may be the most violent beating, with flushings of the skin and visible palsations of the arteries. You may experience a smothering sensation, gasp for breath and feel as though about to die. In such cases the action of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills in quieting the heart, restoring its normal beat and imparting tone to the nerve centres, is, beyond all question, marvellous. They give such prompt relief, such speedy restoration to health that no one need suffer.

Mr. Darius Carr, Geary, N.B., writes: "It is with the greatest of pleasure I write you a few lines to let you know the great blessing your Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have been to me. I was a total wreck from heart failure, my wife advised me to take your pills, and, after using two boxes I was restored to perfect health. I am now sixty-two years old and feel almost as well as I did at twenty."

Price 50 cents per box or 3 for $1.25 at all dealers, or mailed direct on receips of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Dorsey, manuke, made for the solace of the smoking room. At the head of the companionway lounged one of the men who had been engaged in a poker game the night before. Now his face was wreathed in smiles as he followed the miserable lover to the deck below.

"I see you were caught with the goods," he said, with a laugh, as he took a seat at Dorsey's table. Adams looked at him savagely.

"I wish you'd mind your own blamed business!" he growled. The stranger only smiled pleasantly.

"Don't be nasty, old man," he counseled. "I'm not trying to rub it in. I want to help you out."

There was real friendliness in the tone, and Dorsey colored as he held out his hand.

"You might go and tell her that I was here in the smoking room all last evening," he suggested. "That was the row."

"A lot of good it would do to say that," said the intruder, with a smile. "She would simply declare that I was bolstering you up in an untruth. You've got to do better than that, old chap. By the way, my name's Greyson—Ben Greyson. What's yours?"

Dorsey made reply, and over the highballs they planned a campaign. The first gun was fired at luncheon when Greyson leaned across the table and advised Dorsey that there was a hair on his coat. Dorsey carefully removed a long golden strand while he made the retort courteous and pointed out to Greyson the fact that there was a hair upon his own coat. The little soubrette at the end of the table beamed mirthfully upon the abashed men.

"I'm glad they are so long," she declared. "If it wasn't such a long one, folks might think it was one of mine. Ain't it funny that I'm the only blond on board?" she ran on. "It's real blond, too," she said proudly as she shook her yellow curls.

Greyson passed her the hair he had removed from his coat. "If your hair was that long," he said, with a smile, "you could work in a museum instead of on the stage."

"Gee!" said the small soubrette admiringly. "I guess one of the 'hair tonic' sisters must be aboard. That hair's five feet if it's an inch."

"Let's ask the purser," suggested Greyson. "He knows the passenger list, and I guess he knows the blond too. There's a hair on his coat."

The purser, who was flirtatiously inclined and who had been making himself very attractive to the little soubrette, blushingly denied that there was any such person as a blond with long hair aboard, but the others at his table refused to believe his statement and kept up the joke.

The joke became a mystery when ong golden hairs continued to be found on the coats of the men passengers and even occasionally on the dresses of the women. Even the gruff old captain swore softly under his breath when one of the incriminating hairs was found on his coat to the great glee of his officers, who knew him to be a woman hater of the most pronounced type.

As the days progressed the mystery deepened and in default of matters of greater moment became the chief topic of talk. Through it all Dorsey was coldly courteous to Nell, and she returned the coldness with interest.

It was not until the last day of the run that he ventured to reopen his case for a second pleading. Miss Sommers had come on deck after dinner and had sought a place in the bow where she could watch the swirling waters slip past all afoam from the impact with the prow. The clouds were breaking up after a storm, and great billows of vapor filled the sky, which rode serenely in the heavens.

So engrossed was she with her thoughts that she did not hear footsteps until a form loomed beside her and a hand lightly clasped her own.

"Am I forgiven yet for what I did not do?" asked Dorsey softly. "Believe me, Nell, I did not spend that first evening with Miss Clarence. I don't know how that hair got on my coat; honestly I don't. There seems to be some mystery to the whole affair."

"I was wrong," confessed Miss Sommers. "Do you know, Dorsey, I believe that this boat is bewitched by a blond?"

"That's it," cried Dorsey. "It must be witchcraft, and you will have to help me exorcise the spirit."

"How?" asked Miss Sommers wonderingly. "I am not versed in the casting out of spirits."

"Make me proof against their charms by marrying me," he explained. "Will you, dear?"

"I think I shall have to," said Nell softly as the moon discreetly went behind a cloud.

It was late that evening that Adams and Greyson sat together in a corner of the smoking room.

"Here's to the spirit of the blond bewitcher," said Greyson as he lifted his glass, "and here's long life and happiness to the happy pair. I'm glad that I helped to straighten out the trouble even though it did cost me my very best sample of the wonderful effects of Hairy's hair healer. It's wonderful stuff, grows hair on the baldest pate and heals wounded feelings. It was a hard job, though, to plant all those hairs without the victims finding out the trick and spoiling it all."

A Broken Vow.

By JANE LUDLUM LEE.

Copyright, 1908, by C. H. Sutcliffe.

"Shall I put this gray dress in the trunk, Alice, or do you think it will be too thin?"

This remark was addressed to a disconsolate looking girl who sat huddled up in a big armchair at the window day dreaming. Her dark, red brown hair had not been combed, and her dress consisted of a pink silk wrapper carelessly tied around the waist. No answer was forthcoming to the question.

"Alice, do you hear me?"

"Yes—that is, no, auntie—that is, I don't care. I don't want any clothes."

"But, my child, you can't go to a hotel without clothes. Come; you must help me with the packing. I'll attend to the body of the trunk, and you pack the tray."

Alice moved leisurely from her corner and languidly threw some trifles

"THIS IS NOT MY TRUNK AT ALL!"

in the trunk. She went over to her desk and scratched off a hasty note while her aunt finished her part of the packing. Finally the task was finished, and Alice offered to lock the trunk. This she did, putting the key in her purse.

"Thank you, auntie. I'll be ready promptly at 2, and ask Mary to mail this letter, please."

At about the same hour Willard Kean was walking the floor of his handsome bachelor apartment in a fashionable district of the city.

"I'll be darned if it was my fault, and I'll be darned if I apologize. She can just sulk it out, and I'll leave town where I'll not be tempted. Perry, Perry!" he called, and a little Japanese servant appeared.

"Throw a few of my duds into a trunk, will you? I'm off for a few days at Hot Springs. You know what I'll need—dress suit, dinner coat and a few togs for loafing on the piazza. And, Perry, be quick about it, for I'm going on the first train out."

Perry began his task, bobbing in and out of the room, his arms laden with linen, fancy vests, suits, etc. When the packing was finished he asked for the key.

"I'll lock it," replied his master. "You call a cab. That train leaves about 2 o'clock, and if I miss it there will be just one less Jap in this town tomorrow."

Kean walked to the mantelpiece, picked up something, threw it in the trunk and locked the latter. He caught the 2 o'clock train and settled himself in his section.

Alice and her aunt made the same train and were soon comfortably fixed in the stateroom of the adjoining car. Orders were given that meals should be served to them there, while Kean ate in the regular diner.

After a half hour of absolute silence auntie opened the conversation.

"Alice, dear, you must pull yourself together. Willard Kean is not the only man in the world. We really cannot afford this trip, and you must try to get some benefit from it. Hot Springs is full of young people, and I simply cannot have you going about with that long face."

"I didn't want to take the trip. I didn't want anything except to be let alone. I don't want to get any benefit, and I simply will not try to be pleasant to anybody, so there now."

Auntie dropped the conversation for a time more propitious. The next day brought them to Hot Springs, where they got off and drove to the hotel. The clerk assigned them to a room, and they asked that their trunks be sent up at once. Two trunks were soon delivered, and Alice stopped to unlock hers. The key went in rather hard, it turned harder, but finally it gave to the strength of her hand. She opened the lid, and her own photograph stared her in the face.

"Auntie, did you put that picture in here?"

"Certainly not, my dear. Why should I? Besides, I have none like that."

"Auntie, this is most peculiar. This is not my trunk at all! Why, see, it is full of men's shirts, vests, ties, etc. It's all a mistake except the picture. There's no mistake about that. It's mine, all right enough. But what is it doing in a strange man's trunk?"

"Maybe the photographer sold it to him."

"Maybe he did, auntie, but look on the back: 'To the dearest sweetheart in the world—Alice.' That picture I gave to Jack, just after we were engaged. The owner of this trunk is a common thief, and I'll report him to the hotel management. Help me fix my hair, auntie. I am going right to the office and have this matter adjusted at once."

* * * * * * *

Kean dropped off the car at Hot Springs, sauntered up to the hotel and went to his room, where he lit his pipe and began walking the floor. A knock at the door interrupted his thoughts, and he opened it to let in the men with his trunk.

"That's not my trunk, you muttonhead! Get out of here with it!"

"Marked with your name, sir, on the tag. Just try your key and see if you are sure it's wrong."

Kean took out his key ring, all the while talking as he fitted the key in the lock.

"Sure it's wrong! Why, you thick headed chump, don't a man know his own baggage? What is this—a hotel or a batty house? Holy Moses!" he exclaimed as the key fitted and the trunk opened upon a large photograph of himself in a leather frame.

"All right, boys, my mistake," he added as he handed each man a dollar bill.

Left alone, he picked up the photograph and walked with it to the window, pinched himself to see if he was alive, then laughed, then swore. Examining the trunk, he realized it was not his, as he had no use for silk petticoats and lingerie dresses.

"I'll keep this photo, all right, all right, but the lady can have her trunk," he mused as he made his way to the office. The clerk smiled as he made the complaint.

"Come right with me, will you, Mr. Kean? A lady just came down from room 411 who, I think, can explain this mistake and give you your rightful belongings."

"All I want is my trunk. I'm not anxious to see the lady."

"But I'd rather you came along to make it easier for me," and Kean followed in silence.

The clerk's knock at the door of 411 was answered by "Come in," and they entered.

"Here is the gentleman whose trunk you have and who can return yours, Miss Buckingham, and"—

"Billy!"

"Alice!"

"Mr. Kean!"

"Miss Buckingham!"

Auntie seemed to have something private to say to the clerk, for she asked him to step into the hall for a moment with her, thus leaving the two culprits alone.

Alice looked like a wilted flower, and tears came to her eyes. What could a man do, even if it was not his fault, even if he had taken a solemn oath not to apologize? He reached out his arms, and she slipped into their embrace and cried just a few happy tears on a shoulder very dear to her.

"Please don't cry, Alice. Of course I was to blame. It was nasty of me to tease you about that Benton girl; but, really, dear, I only did it just to see how much you cared."

"And I cared so much. But, Billy, dear, how can you explain about those trunks? My key opened yours."

"Easy enough, darling. We bought those two trunks on that shopping expedition when auntie chaperoned us in Paris at the Bon Marche, and evidently the locks were the same. We won't have that trouble again, Alice, for the next time we take a trip there will only be one trunk for both of us. Where is your ring, dear—consigned to the ocean or the ash barrel?"

"Oh, Billy, you're horrid to find me out! Here it is around my neck. You see, I wrote you saying the engagement was all off, but I kept the ring just for a day or two, you understand, thinking maybe—oh, don't be so mean!"

"Well, I'll forgive you this time, but don't take it off again until the plain gold one goes on under it."

And she promised to do as he said.

Narration of Thaw's Queer Actions Comes to an Aid.

INSANITY IS ONLY ISSUE

English Doctor Tells of Crazy Demands In London Hospital—Asked For Tons of Ice—Behaved Like a Maniac—Defence Frames 16,000 Word Question—Judge Dowling's Significant Query.

New York, Jan. 28.—The Thaw defence closed its case yesterday with "manic-depressive" insanity as the explanation of the death of Stanford White, at the hands of the young Pittsburg millionaire. To-day the prosecution will begin its evidence in rebuttal, and the case should go to the jury by Wednesday night or Thursday noon. District Attorney Jerome will apply for the appointment of a commission to take the testimony of Abraham Hummel, the disbarred and convicted lawyer, who is confined in the penitentiary on Blackwell's Island, and who is said to be too ill to appear in court. Mr. Littleton, of the defence, said he would oppose any such action, whereupon Justice Dowling announced that if necessary he would go to the island himself in company with the defendant and his counsel, to preside at the taking of Hummel's testimony.

The jury, it was stated, would not be compelled to take the night trip across the river. Thaw seemed delighted at the prospect of the outing—even to the grim shores of New York City's penal colony — and smiled broadly at the court's suggestion.

District Attorney Jerome disappointed a crowded court room when he refrained from his tactics of last year in baiting the expert witnesses for the defence, three of whom—Drs. Wagner, Evans and Jelliffe—declared that Thaw at the time he killed Stanford White was suffering from such a defect of reason as not to know the nature or quality of his act, or that the act was wrong. The prosecutor contented himself with drawing from the alienists the fact that last year they swore it was during a "brain storm" that Thaw committed the homicide. He also read from the affidavit made by Dr. Wagner before the lunacy commission last year, giving conversations he had with Thaw in court, which tended to show that the defendant had a distinct recollection of occurrences on the roof garden immediately preceding the tragedy.

Justice Dowling's Questions.

It was left to Justice Dowling to make a most important enquiry of the alienists. He desired to know the exact nature of "manic-depressive" insanity, and if the attacks were likely to recur. He also asked if a person suffering from this form of insanity would be likely to commit assaults. He learned that it was a recurrent form of mental disorder, the attacks coming suddenly and without warning, a period of insanity being followed by a maniacal outburst, then by a period of complete depression, and then by another lucid interval. It seemed that the presiding judge was securing information upon which to prejudicate judicial action in the event of a verdict of acquittal, on the ground of insanity, or of a straight acquittal. Even in the latter event, it was pointed out, Justice Dowling would have the right to have Thaw committed for examination.

New Term From Over the Water.

An English physician, one of the three foreign men of medicine who testified yesterday, first gave the name of "manic-depressive" or "sub-acute mania" to Thaw's mental condition. Dr. Sydney Russell Wells of London, made the diagnosis during an outbreak by Thaw in London in 1899, when, with a normal temperature, Thaw demanded that the walls of his rooms in a nursing home, be torn down so that he might have air and that 20 tons of ice be put in the apartment to cool it.

Mr. Littleton's question, which was answered by the three experts, was a complete resume of the evidence, with the exception, as District Attorney Jerome pointed out, of the testimony of James Clinch Smith, brother-in-law of Stanford White, who talked with Thaw for 15 minutes just before the shooting on the roof garden of Madison square. The question contained some 16,000 words.

Judge Raps Jerome.

New York, Jan. 28.—Paul D. Cravath, personal attorney for Thomas F. Ryan, will be compelled to testify before the grand jury which has been investigating alleged irregularities in the sale of the Wall and Cortandt Streets Ferries Railway Co. franchises to the Metropolitan Securities Co. Judge Rosalsky declared that the district attorney was attempting to hold an illegal investigation before a grand jury. The application had been opposed by the National Bar Association, and also by the New York State Bar Association.

Transvaal and Asiatics.

Johannesburg, Jan. 28.—The Transvaal has decided to tone down its attitude towards Asiatics, with a view to finding a less objectionable registration system. It is understood that the judicial investigation of the subject will be instituted, pending which all prosecutions for violation of the present law will drop.

Indian Boy Confessed.

London, Jan. 28.—Clifford Fisher, a 16-year-old Indian boy of Muncie Reservation, confessed yesterday to firing the barns Saturday night of the Mount Elgin Institute, a local reform school, hoping to escape in the excitement. Several cattle, horses and calves perished in the blaze.

Lineman Saved By Tree.

St. Catharines, Jan. 28—What might have proved a fatal accident befell two telephone linemen who were working on the Ontario street line at the corner of Midland street, yesterday morning. The men were hanging from a cable stretched from one pole to another, and owing to heavy winds blowing and great strain of the cables on the pole, the cross-arm at the top was broken off. The men on the cable, Clark and Hamilton, were luckily thrown into a tree beneath, from which they escaped with only a few bruises.

Presented Alleged Bogus Note.

Belleville, Jan. 28.—Maurice Longe, alias Vanblaricom, was up before Magistrate Mason yesterday charged with attempting to fraudulently obtaining $818 from the Farmers' Bank in this city by means of a bogus note. It seems that the prisoner tried to deposit the note on Jan. 18, but Manager Thompson was suspicious and declined to accept it till he had made enquiries. When the accused returned on Saturday last he was arrested. The magistrate remanded him to jail for a week, bail being refused.

Bank Suspends In California.

Long Beach, Cal., Jan. 28.—The Citizens' Savings Bank of this city yesterday announced its suspension. About three months ago the bank took advantage of the 90-day requirement rule for depositors, and since the expiration of that time, it is understood, the withdrawals have been greater than the bank has been able to meet.

Lover's Quarrel, Then Suicide.

London, Jan. 28.—Miss Annette Levin of 369 Glebe street died yesterday morning from the effects of an overdose of opium taken last night after a lover's quarrel. It is understood the young man said he could not marry her at present, whereupon she took a big dose of opium. Medical men were sent for at once, but failed to save her life.

Ground Under "L" Train.

New York, Jan. 28.—Mrs. Florence Caliche threw herself in front of a moving train at the 66th street station of the Ninth Avenue Elevated Road yesterday and was ground to pieces. The dead woman's daughter said Mrs. Caliche had lost $2,000 in a venture within the past few weeks.

SHOWS THE BENEFITS OF THE CANAL

Georgian Bay Scheme Urged by Mr. McCool in House.

WOULD CUT GRAIN RATES

Sir Wilfrid Laurier Deals Fairly With Opposition—Nothing to Conceal In Original Documents — Cruiser to Protect Fisheries — Will Patrol Pacific Coast — Government Loans to the Farmers.

Ottawa, Jan. 28.—The Georgian Bay Canal project was discussed in the House yesterday afternoon, on motion of Mr. McCool (Nipissing) asking for papers. Mr. McCool began by giving an interesting history of Upper Ottawa, from the time of Champlain. The routes used by the early voyagers of the Hudson Bay Co. and similar concerns had in most cases turned out to be the ones suitable for commercial purposes. Proceeding, he recited a record of previous surveys of the Georgian Bay Canal route, including the surveys of Smith, McLeod, Coulter, Fraser and Wisner, the latter estimating the cost of a 20-foot waterway at $80,000,000, and strongly urged the commercial possibilities of the undertaking.

In 1904 the Government instituted the survey of a portion of the route, the result of which was that that referring to the French River section had just been laid before the House. Among the eminent men who had given support to the scheme were: Sir William Van Horne, J. J. Hill, Hon. John Haggart, Hon. N. A. Belcourt and Mr. Pripore, ex-M. P.

Mostly Open Navigation.

Mr. McCool gave figures derived from the report already published showing that the canal from Georgian Bay to Montreal, 440 miles, was made up of 357 miles of open navigation, 55 miles of improved channel and 27 miles of canal. As far as saving in time in the Georgian Bay route over the present St. Lawrence, it was calculated that a vessel using the former route could make the round trip from Fort William to Montreal, discharge, reload and return in 12 days. The actual time of the voyage each way would be five days, with one day each for discharging and loading return cargo. Against this the round trip via St. Lawrence takes 21 days, with similar despatch of loading and unloading. The intention was to have a canal 22 feet deep, with locks capable of passing vessels 650 feet long, 60 feet beam and drawing 21 feet. As for safety of route, it was incomparably greater than the present route of navigation from the head of Lake Superior to the head of ocean navigation.

Such was the progress of development in Manitoba and the Northwest that in ten years, notwithstanding the existence of three transcontinental railways and a possible railway from Winnipeg to Hudson Bay, the quantity of grain and other farm products to be carried would overtax the transportation facilities of the country. The Grand Trunk Pacific would open up in Ontario alone, he said, sixteen million acres of excellent wheat lands. The Township of Temiskaming, which at the last census contained 13,000 souls, had a population to-day of 30,000; nor was this altogether due to mining development. Settlement was proceeding apace. The fact that Sir Thomas Shaughnessy and Sir William Van Horne advocated the Georgian Bay Canal showed its necessity, to move by rail the cargo offering. Another proof was the establishment by the Canada Atlantic Railway of a line of steamships on the lakes. Under most favorable conditions, the freight by the all-rail route was double the cost by water route.

A Financial Assumption.

Assuming that the export of grain of Canada and the United States was $200,000,000 a year and that $100,000,000 went through the Georgian Bay Canal, it would mean a saving of $3,200,000 annually as compared with the cost of export by present routes. As a factor in reducing rates, by railways through competition the value of waterways was admittedly great and the increase of exports of wheat via Montreal was due to increased carriage by the water route, as carriage by rail was decreasing.

Mr McCool produced statistics showing the large proportion of Canadian foodstuffs going to the seaboard by the United States. The railways were not making anything like adequate provision for the transportation of our increased productions. The question for the last few years has been, not what rates can we get, but what accommodation, and all excessive rates came out of the pockets of the farmers. Cheap transportation was a great factor in development.

Banks Responsible.

Mr. Lake (Saskatchewan) asked for a statement as to what steps the Government proposed to take in regard to advances to farmers of the Northwest by the banks.

Mr. Fielding said, as the banks became liable for money advanced by the Government they had to be judges of the persons to whom loans should be made. The transaction between the Government and the banks in this matter was still unfinished, and it had not been deemed expedient to make it public. A measure dealing with the subject would shortly be submitted to the House, and information would then be furnished.

Mr. Pugsley, answering Mr. Sloan's enquiry regarding the service by Yukon telegraph to Prince Rupert, said the line had been wrecked by a gale, and the subject of permanently improving the service was under consideration by the Government.

Mr. Pugsley told Mr. Roche (Marquette) that there was an order-in-council permitting a contractor to deduct 50 cents per month per man from employes on public works. This applied to the eastern division of the national transcontinental railway, but the Government had no knowledge of what deductions are being made on each of the portion of that railway.

Junior Judge For Essex.

To Mr. Clements the Minister of Justice said it was the intention of the Government to appoint a junior judge in Essex, Ont. The question whether there was sufficient work for two judges was one for consideration primarily by provincial authorities, who were responsible for the administration of justice.

Mr. Borden drew attention to the incompleteness of the files respecting the Japanese negotiations. The return referred to another document which was missing.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier replied that the missing document was a despatch from the Colonial Office, which was secret and could not be made public without the consent of the Imperial authorities. He would, however, communicate the contents to the Opposition leader privately.

Mr. Turriff took exception to remarks made about him in the House the other night, adding that he was neither, as insinuated, a pauper when he entered the Government service ten years ago, nor was he now a millionaire, or posing as such. If any hon. member had a charge to make against him it could be made in the usual way and he would meet it.

Fast Canadian Cruiser.

Replying to Mr. Sloan (Comox Atlin), Hon. L. P. Brodeur said it was proposed to build a new 20-knot seagoing cruiser, properly armed and manned, to effectively patrol the deep sea fisheries of the Pacific coast. Plans and specifications were ready, and tenders would be called for very shortly. Mr. Talbot interpellated the Government as to the participation of Sir Alexander Lacoste, ex-chief Justice of Quebec, in politics on behalf of the Conservative party. He wanted to know what Sir Alexander Lacoste was drawing annually from the country, and if the Government considered it proper on the part of state pensioners to meddle in politics.

Hon. A. B. Aylesworth replied that the annuity of Sir Alexander Lacoste was $5,333.33. The Government was not in possession of information as to the office held by the ex-chief justice in the Conservative party, and rules of the House precluded the offering of an opinion as to the propriety of his doing so.

To the question: "If the sensibility of these pensioners is not sufficient to prevent them from interfering in political matters, does the Government intend to make up for the deficiency."

Mr. Aylesworth said: "The suggestion seems beyond Governmental power."

Canada's Diplomatic Status.

Mr. Thompson asked: "What is the status of Canada in negotiations of Imperial treaties with foreign nations with reference to subjects not purely Canadian, but which, directly or indirectly, affect Canada? Is Canada consulted during such negotiations? Does Canada have a representative present during such negotiations?"

Sir Wilfrid Laurier replied: "In this matter, as in many others under the British constitution, changes have taken place from time to time to meet new conditions as new conditions arise. The rule which has been followed of late years, has been that in all matters, treaties with the foreign countries with reference to subjects not purely Canadian, but which directly or indirectly affected Canada, the Imperial Government has caused a provision to be invested that the treaty shall not apply to Canada unless and until ratified by the Canadian Parliament.

Original Documents Tabled.

The original documents in respect to the granting of certain timber limits in the Northwest were laid on the table of the House yesterday afternoon.

After routine proceedings, Sir Wilfrid rose to make the statement he promised he would give "after the House shall have cooled down." The Prime Minister said:

"I stated the other day that I would make to-day a statement to the House with regard to the question which occupied its attention for some time last week. I have not to go back upon the position which has been taken by the Government with regard to members of the House obtaining original documents.

"The motion of the hon. member for St. Antoine (Mr. Ames) having been disposed of, it has been observed the hon. member could not renew his motion except by unanimous consent of the House. Perhaps the point of order would not have been taken, but I think it is better always to adhere to the rules of the House, and under the circumstances I have asked the Miniater of the Interior to place upon the table of the House the originals sought for.

"It has been represented to me that it would be inconvenient to break up the file; therefore, I now lay it on the table of the House for inspection by the hon. member, or other members to be returned by the Clerk of the House to the Department of the Interior as soon as it is disposed of."

The announcement of the Premier was greeted with Opposition applause, and the incident was then closed.

BISCUIT CO'Y COMING?

Traveller of The Woodville Biscuit Co'y Informs Local Merchant of Intention to Come Here

PROPOSITION IN EMBRYO

A prominent merchant is authority for the statement that the Woodville Biscuit Company intends to locate in Peterborough. A traveller for the firm called on him this morning for an order, and in the course of his conversation stated that the company was considering the advisabiltiy of bringing their plant to Peterborough. He believed there was a good opening for a biscuit factory in this city, and if satisfactory arrangements could be made the company would bring its factory here.

The Woodville Biscuit Company, it is understood, is a comparatively new concern and the stock has been but recently put on the market. If the proposal which the representative made is to be carried out, this factory will be a new line of manufacturers. The proposition is only in its embryo form, in fact, the traveller stated that the company was only considering the matter, but with suitable arrangements it would like to locate here.

PRISON IS GLUTTED WITH CRIMINALS

Celebrated Tombs of New York Have Two Prisoners in One Cell In Many Cases

THE CRIME WAVE EXISTS

New York, Jan. 28.—(Special). — The records of the District-Attorney's office reflect the great wave of crime sweeping over the city.

The Tombs prison is overcrowded. When Justice Dowling, of the criminal branch of the Supreme Court, accompanied by Mr. Jerome and his assistant, Mr. Nott, visited the prison Friday evening they were astounded to learn that Warden Flynn was compelled in many instances to place two prisoners in one cell. There are only 630 cells for more than 700 prisoners, among them twenty-seven awaiting trial on charges of murder in the first degree.

"We have more prisoners here to-day than ever before in the history of the Tombs," said Warden Flynn yesterday. "I should not be surprised if we would not be compelled to house 1,000 prisoners before many weeks, so great seems to be the increase in crime in this city just now."

"What is needed more than anything else to stop the wave of crime are a few heavier sentences than have been handed out of late," said Assistant District-Attorney Nott. "A good stiff sentence and a speedy disposition of a case is a greater deterrent to crime than anything else I can recommend."

Judge Otto A. Rosalsky had occasion the other day to call public attention to the state of affairs in this city. He was told in open court that a witness had been threatened with bodily harm if he testified against a notorious criminal. Judge Rosalsky then stated that Commissioner Bingham would do well to pay a little more attention to criminals rather than to heap abuse upon detectives like Reardon and Wasserman, who, the judge said, had done excellent work.

MR. WARDEN THOMPSON

Mr. James Thompson, Reeve of Havelock, was to-day elected warden of the County Council, the first time the honour has gone to the eastern most village of the county, and both himself and his constituent village have reason to be proud of the distinction. Mr. Thompson has had a length of municipal experience that should qualify him for satisfactorily fulfilling the duties of the position. He is a native of Lanark county, born near Smith's Falls, and has spent the greater part of his life in Leeds county. He came to Havelock nine years ago, entering into business as a lumberman and general merchant, developing a successful business. He soon won a place in municipal life, having been a member of the village Council for seven years—three as councillor, four as reeve, and now an incumbent of the highest municipal position in the county.

OBITUARY

CHARLES BOGAN

Mrs. Jas. Spellman, of Campbellford, passed through the city last night on her way to Toronto where her brother, Mr. Charles Bogan, died of typhoid-pneumonia. The deceased was well known in Peterborough, having formerly lived in the city. He was a carpenter and at the time of his decease would be about 35 years old. He was born here but his parents afterwards moved to Cleveland, Ohio, where his remains will be taken for interment.

OLD COUPLE WITHOUT MEANS AND IN DECLINING YEARS ARE SENT TO PROTESTANT HOME

Have Received Attention From The King's Daughters Who Finally Hand Them Over to The Charity Board

RESIDENTS OF MONTREAL

The Charity Board last night had to deal with a case which was called to their attention by the King's Daughters. An old man named Armshaw, aged 84 years, with his wife, has been receiving assistance from the ladies, who as a last resort, considered that the Board should assume the responsibility of them.

Mr. Armshaw and his wife came from Montreal to Belleville, about three years ago, and after a short stay in the lake town came on to Peterborough, and have lived here ever since. The King's Daughters took up their case, when they were first heard of, and have been giving them charity ever since.

They weree living with their daughter who was married and had a family of six children. The daughter herself was not in the best of circumstances, and to add to their misfortunes the daughter's husband died. The King's Daughter's cared for the old people for a long time, but they became so decrepit that they needed the daughter's attendance. The mother was a cripple and unable to help hrself. The King's Daughters related all the circumstances to the Board and asked them to assume the care of the old people.

Had the case been reported to the Board in the first place the old couple would have been sent back to Belleville, but it was too late to do that when finally reported.

The Board decided to place Mr. and Mrs. Armshaw in the Protstant Home where they can spend the rest of their days. Mr. and Mrs. Armshaw have lately been living on Townsend street.

PETERBORO'S GREAT WALKER WHO MAY GO TO KANSAS CITY

Mr. David Hartley, Whose Representation at the Great Six Day Match Depends Upon Success Of Thursday Night's Concert

FIXED ASSESSMENT DOES NOT INCLUDE THE SCHOOL TAXES

Mr. Jas. Kendry appeared before the joint meeting of the Board of Works and the Fire, Water and Light Committee, last night regarding the fixed assessment of the Auburn Woollen Mills. At the last meeting of the Council the assessment was fixed at $40,000 but Mr. Kendry said the bylaw that had been prepared did not include the taxes on the school property and he wished to point out that the Council's concession was not of any particular advantage when this was not included. Although it was not a regular council meeting Mr. Kendry was assured that he would be given fair consideration.

Mr. Kendry was asked to present his appeal which referred to the assessment which was fixed at the last meeting. The bylaw as prepared included the buildings, equipment, etc., east of the Otonabee as far as the G.T.R. tracks. Mr. Kendry said that he had considered that the $40,000 was the total assessment which was placed on the plant including school taxes and everything. The bylaw stated that the school taxes would be added to the $40,000. Mr. Kendry said that he thought that lacking the city improvements which the Auburn Mills are deprived of, a flat assessment of $40,000 was itself high enough. Mr. Armstrong said that the school assessment on the property last year was about one-third of the whole. Under the conditions Mr. Kendry said the company was receiving no favours. The bylaw should have included all the land east of the Otonabee and he said that a flat assessment of $40,000 would be satisfactory to the company. He did not want the council to give the company anything more than was just and would assist the company in a slight degree. Mr. Kendry explained what lands he wished to come under the fixed assessment and said that other property which had houses on it were not to be included. He would leave it with the council for fair dealing.

THE FINANCIAL STATEMENT OF ST. PAUL'S CHURCH FOR YEAR

The annual meeting of St. Paul's church will be held to-morrow night. Tea will be served by the ladies of the congregation from 6 to 8 o'clock, after which the annual business meeting will be held. Copies of the financial statement were issued on Sunday and showed that the collections—open contributions and envelopes—for 1907 amounted to $4,527.32. The total receipts for the year were $12,261.42, the different items being:

Open contributions	$ 632.60
Envelope contributions	3894.72
Donations for honourarium to Rev. Dr. Torrance	2287.20
Donated on account of debt fund	430.51
Special collection for poor paid over	25.20
Open collection paid to Session fund	58.19
Amount raised by mortgage	5000.00

The total expenditure was $3,023 for salaries; honorarium for Rev. Dr. Torrance, $2,500; special repairs and renovations, $1,906.47, and various other smaller items, leaving a balance on hand of $126.28 on January 1, 1908.

There is no debt on current account, while the mortgage indebtedness of the church is only $5,000, which includes all outstanding liabilities.

THURSDAY'S CONCERT TO BE MUSICAL EVENT OF THE SEASON

The David Hartley benefit concert Thursday night promises to be the success of the season. By kind permission of Lt.-Col. Stevenson and the officers of the regiment, the 57th Band will render a special programme in which they will be assisted by the best of local talent. It will be the musical event of the season, and should be greeted by a crowded house if only for the excellence of the programme, while the worthy object for which the concert is being held should result in a most liberal patronage. Mr. Jas. Reynolds of Port Hope, whom Mr. Hartley defeated in the memorable walking match in Toronto a short time ago, has been invited to be present, and he will be presented for the first time to a Peterborough audience.

An effort is being made to have Mr. Hartley be a contestant at the six-day walking match to take place in Kansas City in February. This match will attract the attention of sportsmen all over the world, and such noted walkers as Edward Payson Weston, who recently completed a walk from Portland, Me., to Chicago, and Dan O'Leary of Chicago, will take part. If Thursday's concert is well patronized it is likely Mr. Hartley will go to Kansas City. His presence there would be one of the best advertisements that Peterborough has ever had, and the name of this city would be heard all over the continent.

NEW CURE IS FOUND

London, Ont. Physician Announces After Two Month's Study new Consumption Cure

STARTLES THE SCIENTISTS

One of London's (Ont.) best known physicians, after experimenting for more than two months with a new treatment for tuberculosis, which recently startled the scientific world, stated to the Advertiser this morning that it was beyond any doubt a sure and certain cure for that disease.

Cures Have Been Complete

"I have made a special study of twelve cases," he said, "and in every one of them the treatment has effected a cure that has been complete. The method of treatment has been the result of long and careful work with the microscope, and there is no doubt that in future tuberculosis can be treated with the certainty of effecting a cure. Last year two English physicains in experimenting with the bacillus that causes tuberculosis noticed that another bacillus, known to bacteriologists as an amoebus, devoured all of the tuberculosis germs in the serum as fast as they were replenished. Here was the new theory, and they set to work to prove it. Taking a patient who had suffered for years with consumption, they injected the serum containing the amoebus bacilli into his system. An improvement in his condition was noticeable in a few days, and from that time on he commenced to recover, and in a few weeks was pronounced completely cured.

Germ Feeds on Germ

"The principle of the new theory is that the amoebus germ feeds upon the tuberculosis germ as long as it can get it, and will devour all of them that are in the blood. The Amoebus is one of the largest and most ferocious of the microbes, and its actions are plainly discernible under the microscope. In structure it is of the same nature as a jellyfish and develops very rapidly in rotten eggs. When placed in the blood under the microscope it immediately envelops the tuberculosis germs, which are much smaller, and in a short time has completely devoured them. Scientific tests show exactly the capacity of these germs, and doctors can tell very nearly from the patient's condition when they examine the blood how long it will take to effect a cure.

"Of course, once the patient is cured he may not remain cured if he stays in a place where he is liable to infection. For instance, in the homes of some consumptive persons tuberculosis germs are very plentiful. If after a patient has been cured he returns to these surroundings he is very likely to receive a new supply of germs, and after a time develop tuberculosis again. Then he would have to undergo the treatment again and have his blood cleansed."

The physician who made these experiments and statements is recognized as one of the cleverest bacteriologists in Canada, and intends reading a paper on the subject before the next meeting of the Medical Association.—London (Ont.) Advertiser.

GIRL STOPPED LIVELY RUNAWAY

Thrilling Incident On Dickson Street Last Night

The unusual spectacle of a fifteen-year-old girl making a sensational stop of a team of runaway horses was seen on Dickson street, yesterday. A team of horses attached to one of Noble's express rigs, which had been left standing in front of a residence while the driver was inside, became frightened at something and broke into a run. The little girl saw them coming and without hesitation sprang into the middle of the road in front of the flying horses, attempting to stop them in that way. The team although they swerved did not stop but the brave girl was not daunted. She stepped to one side and as the sleigh passed she jumped for it and catching hold of the seat, pulled herself up and seizing the reins brought the runaway team to a walk. The few spectators of the feat held their breath until it was all safely over.

THE WEATHER.

One peculiarity of the weather this winter is the changes that so frequently and suddenly occur. Usually in other winters we would would three days or so of genuinely cold weather, followed by about the same number of days of more moderate conditions. This winter, however, we have a change about every 24 hours. The lowest temperature last night was 9 degrees below zero; at 7 o'clock it was 6 below zero, while at noon it had risen to 10 degrees above, with a light snowfall. Stormy conditions will be followed by decidedly colder weather again.

MR. JAMES THOMPSON, REEVE OF HAVELOCK ELECTED WARDEN OF COUNTY ON SECOND BALLOT

THE SECRETARY AND SOLICITOR OF THE CHILDREN'S SOCIETY

MR. E.L. GOODWILL

Mr. Robert Scott, Reeve of Smith Was The Only Other Nominee—First Session Quietly Opened

WHOLE COUNCIL PRESENT

The warden's chair in the County Council will this year be occupied by Mr. Jas. Thompson, reeve of Havelock. The opening meeting of the first session of the year began at 2 o'clock this afternoon, when the initial business was the election of the warden. Mr. R. N. Scott was the only other councillor nominated. The election was done by open voting, and on the second vote Mr. Thompson was declared the successful candidate by 9 to 6, the candidates themselves alone refraining from voting.

Mr. Thompson was born in Lanark county, but spent the greater part of his life in Leeds. He moved to Havelock nine years ago, and for seven consecutive years has been identified with municipal politics in that village. He was councillor for three years and reeve for four.

Mr. Thompson is a lumber merchant in Havelock and proprietor of a general store there.

The councillors present were:—Messrs. Wm. Oakman, Asphodel; Jas. Russell, Belmont and Methuen; C. R. D. Booth, Apsley; Wm. Hales, Chrandes; D. Moloney, Douro; C. J. Darling, Dummer; S. Killen, Ennismore; Chas. Coben, Galway and Kinmount; Jas. Ingram, Harvey; John Brown, North Monaghan; J. H. Fife and W. J. Porter, Otonabee; R. N. Scott and T. H. Graham, Smith; F. J. Moore, Lakefield; A. Breault, Norwood; Jas. Thompson, Havelock. Among the others present were:—County Solicitor E. A. Peck, County Clerk Ed. M. Elliott, and ex-Warden McNulty.

Mr. Samuel Killen moved that Mr R. N. Scott be warden of Peterborough county for the present year. He referred to the fact that it is some time since West Peterborough was represented by a warden, and he thought it was entitled to the honour this time.

His motion was seconded by Mr. F. J. Moore.

Moved by Messrs. Darling and Brown, that Mr. Jas. Thompson be the warden for 1908.

On the first motion six votes were given for Mr. Scott and seven for Mr. Thompson. As neither received a majority of the votes of the whole council the clerk declared no election.

Moved by Messrs. Darling and Brown, that Mr. Thompson be the warden.

Moved by Messrs Killen and Moore that Mr. Scott be warden.

On the second vote Mr. Thompson was elected by nine votes to six. The council then adjourned to permit the warden-elect to take the declaration of office.

Velvet Skin, Soft and Clear

What one or two applications of Dr. Chase's Ointment will do for rough inflamed and irritated skin is almost as wonderful as the complete cure of eczema by its persistent use. By its healing, soothing and antiseptic influence, Dr. Chase's Ointment quickly cures chafing and skin diseases, and eruptions, and leaves the skin clear, soft and velvety.

LOCAL BUSINESS MEN COME TO AID OF RELIEF OFFICER

In respons to the appeal in last night's issue of the Examiner, for financial aid to assist in buying the necessary beef and potatoes for the weekly distribution, two prominent business men have contributed substantially. Mr. Miller was greatly pleased to-day by the receipt of the money and handed the following over to the Examiner for publication:

Mr. Finch Miller, Relief Officer, City.—

Dear Sir, — We beg to hand you a cheque for $25 for the Relief Fund, and trust that it may in some small measure assist you in relieving the distress of the poor of our city.

Yours truly,

WELL KNOWN PETERBORO' LADY HAS LEG BROKEN TWO PLACES

About 5.30 o'clock last night Miss Brown, who resides with Mrs. Cyril Currier at 3 Fleming Place, was the victim of a very painful accident.

She was passing the post office when she slipped on the icy sidewalk and fell. The lady was unable to walk and was taken home in a cab. Dr. Halliday was called and it was found that Miss Brown's left leg had been broken in two places.

TAKEN SERIOUSLY ILL ON TRAIN SATURDAY

Mr. John Jones on His Way Home From Kamloops, B.C., is in Hospital

A very sad case is reported from the Nicholls Hospital, where a young man lies suffering from a very serious and generally fatal disease. Mr. John Jones of Kamloops, B. C., is the unfortunate individual. He was on his way home to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Jones, Glen Orchard, Muskoka, but became so ill on the train that when he reached here on Saturday it was thought advisable to have him removed to the hospital, where his condition is reported as very serious, and his parents have been notified. Mr. Jones was taken ill at Kamloops and determined to return to his home.

There's Danger in Every Cold

Once you come to realize the danger of neglecting coughs and colds, you will not run the risk of neglecting your cough and depending on any cough medicine" the druggist may choose to hand you out, and will insist on getting a medicine with a reputation, such as Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. Croup, bronchitis, asthma and coughs and colds are promptly and thoroughly cured by this treatment.

MAY USE THE SHELTER

Children's Aid Society May Offer To Receive Children of The Very Poor At Shelter

THE SUFFERING RELIEVED

If the present conditions among the poorer classes continues the Children's Aid Society will probably come to the rescue and relieve as many families as possible. It is understood that the society has considerable room at its shelter which might be well used for children of families who are in actual want. Mr. George Cochrane has been investigating the situation, and knows of at least 25 children who would benefit by being taken in charge during the critical stage of winter.

While the porposition has not been made public, the society will find plenty of little ones to receive at its shelter, and in this way can increase the good work it has carried on in its own way.

DEATH OF MR. THOMAS GLADMAN IN EXETER

Passed Away Suddenly This Afternoon—Well Known Peterboro' Man

The news of the death of Thomas Gladman will be learned with regret by many Peterborough citizens. A telegram received in the city this afternoon from Exeter, where he has resided with his son, Mr. F W Gladman for the past two months, brought the sad news to his family and friends here of his rather sudden decease. At 11.30 this morning he became perilously ill and at 1.30 he passed away.

Mr. Gladman was 8 6 years of age. He was born in Port Hope on May 28, 1822 and had resided in Peterborough for 35 years. He was known during his life as a traveller promin ent in shipping circles and has journeyed in almost every country of the globe.

His sons and daughters surviving are, Mrs. P A Kerr, G G Gladman, and Chas. Gladman, of Peterborough; David, of Niagara Falls; Mrs. J (illegible) Morrow, Parry Sound; and F W Gladman, Exeter.

The body will be brought to Peterborough for burial and will arrive here on the noon C.P.R. train on Thursday. Interment will take place on Thursday afternoon.

WASTE OF ENERGY

There is a world of truth in the contention of Rev. E. N. Baker, who preached in the George street Methodist church on Sunday in the interests of Missions. He pointed out what religious energy is wasted in small communities where several religious demonstrations are struggling to maintain a foothold. In these places half a dozen ministers receive salaries to minister to distinct handsful of congregations which, collectively might be effectively ministered to by one minister with the same salary he received for necessarily perfunctory performance of his sacred duties. This would leave four or five ministers free to be sent into fields white unto the harvest but without labourers. In the newer parts of the country there are numerous settlements where the Gospel is not preached. Thus we have thousands starving for the Gospel and religious services and privileges while in other communities the people are surfeited with superfluous spiritual food—contrasting conditions of famine and feast. These conditions argue a plentiful lack of consecrated common sense on the part of religious denominations, an abundant lack of business-like interest in the promotion of the "Master's business." Nearly all the religious denominations agree on the essentials of the Christian religion, the only dividings lines consisting in insignificant and comparatively trival forms of worship or church government — no differences which might not, with united desire to do the greatest good to the greatest number, be readily reconciled. In regard to the principle involved in wasteful diffusion of evangelical energy, the children of this world are wiser in their generation than the children of light. One does not find in a little community of 1,000 or 1,500, half a dozen drygoods or druggists' shops, but just enough to meet its requirements. Even Mammon knows better and does better then practice ruinous competition. A railway doesn't run a dozen trains a day when one is amply sufficient. In worldly matters the law of supply and demand governs. The churches in these latter days are inflamed with the fire of an awakened missionary spirit. How much more effective will be the fruit of this spirit if the zeal it arouses is quickened with a touch of the worldy prudence which obtains in the world—which forbids ruinous competition in worldly business. In the last analysis there is really no greater incongruity in concentrating the schools of a township in its chief village than in planting half a dozen expensively manned churches in a community where, if the right spirit prevailed, one would serve, especially when in this far-flung Dominion there are hundreds of places where the sound of the church bell is not heard, nor the message of the Gospel delivered.

INSPECTION OF PUBLIC PAPERS

(Toronto Star.)

It seems strange that there should be a long and acrimonious debate in Parliament over the question of producing original documents. Ordinarily, the production of the copy is not only sufficient, but is more convenient for all concerned than the production of the original. Copies can be handed out freely and without any fear of the consequences of loss or accident, for they can be easily replaced, while originals must always be under careful custody if the public records are to be kept intact. Complete publicity, the right not only of members of Parliament, but of all citizens of Canada to inspect public documents, cannot be preserved unless the documents are kept in their proper places.

There are special cases in which the inspection of the originals is necessary, in which the hand-writing, the signatures and other peculiarities of the originals are of importance, or in which the meaning might be altered by the error of a copyist. In these cases there can be no objection to an examination of the originals by a member of Parliament or anyone else who is interested in the matter. When the original is required the member could state his reasons as he now states his reasons for the production of copies. And we think the House should be satisfied with a general statement, not impugning the member's motives, or subjecting him to an examination as to his aim. It would not do to allow him to lock the document up in his desk or carry it away in his pocket. It should not be difficult to devise a method that will insure the safety of the document and at the same time allow of perfect freedom of inspection.

PROMPT ACTION CALLED FOR

In yesterday's issue was printed a letter from "An Old Employee" (of the William Hamilton works.) which refers to a matter deserving the immediate attention of the City Council. At the last meeting of the council a proposition was presented by the A. R. Williams Company, involving arrangements for the resumption of operations of the William Hamilton Company, an industry which has occupied a very prominent and important place in the industrial assets of Peterborough. The proposition submitted may not be acceptable, in its entirety, but it is certainly worthy of the courtesy of an answer. The proposal was submitted to the council on January 20th, and at this date no known attention has been given it. The Manufacturers Committee might have dealt with the matter, and, if it was not thought advisable to accept the proposal made, the committee might, as suggested by an "Old Employee," have submitted an alternative proposition, which would meet with the approval of the public, and the company. It is pointed out that whatever action the council might take, would have to be ratified by the Legislature, which meets on Feb. 5th. It is probable that any reasonable proposition submitted by the council would be accepted by the A. R. Williams Company, and the resumption of the works, which means so much to Peterborough, and a large number of house-holders, and freehold ratepayers, would be accomplished. It, therefore, seems to be the duty of the Manufacturers Committee to take prompt action. It would be, at least, a pity, if the affair should go wrong by default. In these matters promptitude is the prime essential. Within the last year or two the town of Welland gained seven or eight important new industries. It is the habit of the Board of Works of that town—which represents the spirit of the council—when it knows of some industry seeking a location to send — not wait the slow process of letter writing—two or three men at once to close the deal and bring back the industry. It is by such prompt action that that live town has been able to add seven or eight large new industries in a year or two. We are not pronouncing upon the merits of the Williams proposition, but as a proposition looking to the resumption of the works, it is worthy of attention—should not be ignored. The matter might well engage the attention of the Board of Trade at to-night's meeting. It is to be hoped that the authorities will take the prompt action the circumstances demand. If the original proposition cannot be accepted, a modification might well be presented, and if no arrangement is arrived at, the city council will, at least, have done its duty—done its best to retain to the city the great advantages to be derived from the existence in active operation, of an industrial enterprise that represents the employment, at high wages, of from 140 to 150 adult, skilled mechanics, and directly affects a population of some 400 or 500 souls. No citizen asks that the original proposition be entertained—but a modification may easily be accepted, for in no business proposition is all that is asked, as a rule, expected to be gained—it is a basis of negotiation. But if the "parties of the second part," do not enter into negotiations, it is hopeless to expect results. There should be no more delay.

A MISCHIEVOUS BYLAW

The accident of last night, by which a lady, slipping on the icy pavement near the post office, sustained a double fracture of her leg, emphasizes the unwisdom of the action of the old council in insisting upon the granolithic pavements, within the fire limits, being cleaned thoroughly of snow. The enforcement of the bylaw requiring this, creates most dangerous conditions, conditions which menace the life and limbs of citizens without conferring any countravaling advantage. Where the pavements have a float, or rough, finish, the danger is not so great; but in the area mentioned all the pavements have a smooth finish, and when they are cleaned they are more dangerous and treacherous than ice, for they have a certain slope which taken in connection with the snow adhering to the heels of boots, makes them veritable traps. Some laws and bylaws are more honoured in their breach than in their observance, and the bylaw requiring the thorough clearing of the pavements is one of these. The pavements are made for the convenience and comfort of the people and if they are made, by absurdly literal enforcement of a mischievous bylaw, unsafe and dangerous, the people are paying good money for the purpose of having their legs broken or suffering other and, perhaps more serious, injury. If all the laws and bylaws on the statute books were as rigidly enforced a great many of us would be in jail. Here is a case where enforcement of the law can very well be diluted with a little common sense and a little regard for the safety and comfort of citizens whose money has been spent to provide pavements to serve their comfort and convenience, not to endanger life and limb.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Saturday Night has been painting the lily by increasing its capital by $50,000. It always is, and has been, a capital journal.

An Englishman has claimed an insurance company by pretending to be dead. Some persons get into this class by pretending to be alive.

All the Hurons went Conservative in the last general elections through a temporary aberration. Mr. McLean's election indicates, thinks the London Advertiser, that a complete cure may be looked for in all three cases.

A WAVE OF PROHIBITION

It is Now Spreading Over the Southern States

Referring to the wave of prohibition that was now spreading over the southern States, Rev. Dr. E. L. Eaton, of Wisconsin, addressing the Canadian Temperance League yesterday afternoon, said this might be looked upon simply as a wave, and that, like other waves, in time it would recede. A glance at the history of the temperance reform since 1840 would show that in the United States, as in Canada, substantial and permanent gains had been secured. Following the wonderful pledge-signing movement of 1840 came the Maine prohibition law of 1851, which to this date had never been revoked. It had been firmly established by law that there were no vested rights in the liquor traffic. It simply existed under license from year to year. High judicial decisions had been given that in the passing of prohibitory laws indemnity to the liquor seller was out of the question. The liquor system was inherently wrong. It was the duty as it was the privilege of the people to vote against the existence of the saloon.

FORGER WAS INSANE.

Jury Reverse Verdict and Send Young Barrister to Asylum.

Charlottetown, P. E. I., Jan. 28.—The trial of Edwin O. Brown, the young barrister charged with forgeries running into tens of thousands, took a surprising turn on Saturday. All the week the court was trying the issue raised by his counsel at the opening of the case on Monday, that the prisoner by reason of insanity could not conduct his defence. On Friday, after evidence by eight doctors who had been subject to searching examinations and cross-examinations, the jury brought in a verdict that Brown was sane. The trial on the main charge was therefore brought on on Saturday morning.

The prisoner pleaded not guilty and conducted his own defence. He went to the stand and proceeded to give a long story of his life, claiming that getting financially embarrassed when a student, he took to stock speculating and lost heavily. The trouble started by a certain law firm refusing money legally due him. He gave as his defence uncontrollable impulses and hypnotic effect, causing insanity at the time. Now he is quite sane.

The chief justice, interrupting his long harangue, stated that he had grave doubts as to his sanity, and stayed the proceedings, submitting the issue to the jury as to his sanity. The jury, after two hours, found a verdict of insanity.

Brown will be kept in a lunatic asylum.

CLAY BURIES TRACK.

Landslide on C. P. R.—Trains Have Narrow Escape.

Goderich, Jan. 28.—A couple of hundred tons of clay became separated from the bank above the C. P. R. track on the Colborne side of the mainland, and crashed down the hill.

The tongue of the great mass fell across the rails fifty yards east of the bridge. The occurrence was first discovered at 1 o'clock by two young men out for a walk. Finding the train crews in the yard were not aware of the accident, they reported to Roadmaster Shipley.

The section men were turned out, and as many other men as could be secured on Sunday and worked all night to such good effect that the train due to leave at 7 yesterday morning was less than an hour late in going. The cutting made is 60 feet long. A freight went over the track at 10.30.

Te laborers and a foreman relieved the night gang and have still a lot of work ahead of them. A big shovel on the edge of the bank narrowly escaped being carried over, and the main line rails were moved slightly out of place by the weight. The bank at this point is 80 feet high.

A landslide of small proportions occurred a few weeks ago on almost the same place. A watchman is kept on the spot by the railway. Trains proceed cautiously, and every care is taken to secure the safety of passengers.

Laundry Lines.

Silk handkerchiefs washed in clear water with pure castile soap look like new.

Many washerwomen, in order to prevent the iron from sticking to a starched article when pressing it, take the precaution to add a little soapy water to the starch.

In boiling clothes, especially fine linens and lingerie materials, in a wash boiler always put them in a bag. This prevents the possibility of rust stains. The best bag for this purpose may be made from unbleached muslin.

Not a Crank.

He—I notice you call a good many of your acquaintances cranks. I hope you do not consider me a crank? She—Certainly not! A crank is a person with one idea, and I never heard anybody accuse you of having one!—Pearson's Weekly.

MANY OF THE FIREMEN WERE HURT

Went Down With Collapsing Building in Chicago Hotel.

BIG BLAZE AT PORTLAND

Whole Business Block Wiped Out by Flames — Damage Amounts Nearly Million Dollars — One Firemen Missing—Believed to Be Buried In Ruins—Fire Lasted For Ten Hours — Other Accidents.

Portland, Me., Jan. 28.—The second fire in three days, which several times threatened seriously to wipe out the business district of this city, and which caused a damage estimated at $900,000, before it was finally controlled, was kept confined to the block in which it started, yesterday morning, after almost ten hours' fighting by Portland's almost exhausted firemen, aided by men and apparatus from several outside cities. The fire burned in the block occupied by Milliken, Cousens & Co., and A. F. Cox & Son, and a score of firms suffer.

Chicago, Jan. 28.—One fireman was killed, more than a score of others were injured and property valued at half a million dollars was destroyed in a fire which devasted the Mayor Building, a seven-storey brick building, and the Hotel Florence, 163-167 Adams street, early yesterday.

The walls and roofs of both structures collapsed, carrying down with them an entire company of firemen.

Oil Tanks Ablaze.

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 28.—A fire, which started in a huge oil tank of the Standard Oil Co. at Canton, Baltimore County, yesterday, communicated to two others. Much of the oil in the tanks was drawn off.

Burns Self and Child.

New York, Jan. 28.—Carmino Remardone, a barber, and his 17-months-old son, Antonio, were burned to death on the top floor of a tenement house in Mulberry street early yesterday. Remardone had been separated from his wife since last Thursday. A brother believes he set fire to the flat with the intention of killing himself and the child. Twenty-five other families rushed to the street.

MR. BOWSER'S CHALLENGE.

Wants Discussion With Mr. Duncan Ross, M. P.

Vancouver, B.C., Jan. 28.—Attorney-General Bowser has issued a challenge to Duncan Ross to meet him in Vancouver at any time to discuss the charges against Mr. Bowser regarding the Natal Act. Bowser says if Ross does not meet him within reasonable time he (Bowser) will go to Greenwood, Ross' home town, and deliver a speech when Ross runs again in Yale-Cariboo for the Federal House. He says he will go to meetings during the federal campaign and insist on speaking.

Mr. Bowser is arranging to put the Natal Act into force when the governor assents. Special officers are now being appointed throughout the country. For 10 days, which is the soonest the act can be disallowed, it will be rigidly enforced.

Cutter Struck by Train.

Alvinston, Jan. 28.—While crossing the Grand Trunk Railway tracks in a cutter yesterday afternoon near the C. P. R. crossing, Solomon Parish and wife were struck by the Glencoe-Kingscourt express train. The horse was killed and the occupants of the cutter were badly injured. They were taken on board the train to Alvinston. Mr. Parish died after arriving here. The doctors have hopes of Mrs. Parish's recovery. Mr. Parish was a well-to-do farmer of the Township of Mosa, and leaves two daughters and one son.

Denies Overcharges.

Montreal, Jan. 28.—In regard to the charge that exorbitant prices ruled on the Mount Royal, M. McD. Duff, assistant to Mr. Piers, manager of the C.P.R. steamships, said yesterday: "It is entirely false. There is a regular schedule of rates on these boats, and these are never varied. There were provisions for many weeks and there could be no famine prices. It is absurd to believe a big shipping line guilty of such petty overcharging."

Trolley Jumps Track.

Salem, O. Jan. 28.—A limited inter-urban car on the Youngstown & Ohio Electric Railway jumped the track three miles east of here yesterday and plunged down a 30-foot embankment. Fifteen passengers of the twenty-five aboard were injured, but none fatally.

Cardinal Richards Critically Ill.

Paris, Jan. 28.—Cardinal Richards, the archbishop of Paris, is critically ill with congestion of the lungs. Extreme unction had been administered and the blessing of the Pope has been telegraphed from Rome.

Lost Eye In Hockey Practice.

Nelson, B.C., Jan. 28.—Frank Nott, an employe of the Hudson Bay Co., was struck on the left eye by the puck at a hockey practice late Saturday night, and the injured eye will have to be taken out.

Heavy Snow In Manitoba.

Winnipeg, Jan. 28.—The first heavy snow of the season is falling throughout Manitoba. Thus far little timber or ice has been moved in the Northwest on account of the mild weather.

Vote In South Huron.

Seaforth, Jan. 28.—D. D. Wilson, returning officer for South Huron, delivered his official declaration yesterday. The Liberal majority is 117. There was a very large vote polled.

Justice Cameron Takes the Oath.

Winnipeg, Jan. 28.—J. D. Cameron, K. C., was yesterday sworn in as a judge of the King's bench.

Another Boyertown Victim.

Boyertown, Pa., Jan. 28.—Death yesterday claimed its 168th victim of the holocaust in the Rhoades Opera House two weeks ago, when Mrs. Rosie Kline, wife of Charles Kline, succumbed to burns received during the panic.

Big Orange Crop.

San Francisco, Jan. 28.—The orange crop harvest of California, now in full season, in quantity and in quality, promises to break all previous records.

Beer Party In Control.

London, Jan. 28.—(C.A.P.)—By the Cape Legislative Council elections the present position is: South Africa party 11, Unionists 5, Independents 1.

Ice Broke, Three Drown.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Jan. 28.—Five boys, ranging in years from 9 to 13, on their way to school in the northern part of the city yesterday, went on a frozen pond to slide, when they broke through the ice and all fell into the 12 feet of water. Three were drowned and the other two were rescued after a hard struggle. Those drowned were John Swanson, Philip Jager and John Shellock. Their bodies were recovered.

Too Anxious to Marry.

Arcola, Sask., Jan. 28.—A young French-Canadian of Wauchope has been summoned on a charge of perjury, the offence, it is alleged, having been committed in securing a license by means of which he was wedded to his own niece. Both parties to the marriage are 17 years of age.

Frozen Meat a Danger.

London, Jan. 28.—The medical inspector of the Local Government Board has recommended the prohibition of imports of boneless frozen meats, on the ground that its unchecked admission might constitute a danger to public health.

May Have Been Murdered.

Humbolt, Sask., Jan. 28.—J. Schuster of Perth, Ont., was found dead near Fulda yesterday. The body was frozen, but a gash on the head causes suspicions of murder. The mounted police are investigating. The victim was 50 years old.

Conservatives to Protest.

Montreal, Jan. 28.—The election of Charles Lovell, Liberal, who was last week elected to the Dominion House for Stanstead, will be protested on the ground of irregularities in the voting lists.

TWO GAMES FOR CITY LEAGUE PATRONS TO-MORROW NIGHT

Although Bridgenorth has postponed to-morrow night's game with the Strathconas, the patrons of the weekly City League bill will see two games as usual as an exhibition game has been secured to fill in. The league fixture will be between Norwood and Lakefield, and promises to be one of the best of the season. There is considerable speculation over the result locally, and the fans are backing their opinions as to the respective merits of the two teams. Norwood seems to be the favourite in the betting, but Lakefield has not a few backers. Both teams will have a big delegation with them to cheer them on to victory, and there will be all kinds of excitement. Norwood claims to have the best team in the City League. To help maintain this claim they will have to defeat Lakefield, and it looks as if they would have their work cut out for them, as Lakefield will have its strongest line-up of the season. The game will be called at 8 o'clock sharp with George Lynch as referee.

As a curtain-raiser the Strathcona City League team will play the Knockers, the game commencing at 8 o'clock. The Hammer team will have a good seven together and will be strengthened by several of the Straths for the occasion, so that a fast game should result, and the patrons will see two lively exhibitions. The Straths will line up as follows against the Knockers. It will be seen that they are taking no chances and are using the best of their available City League men:

Goal—Wilson.
Point—Meagher.
Cover—Dusty.
Rover—Ray.
Centre—Long.
Right—McMillan.
Left—Weatherston.

THE HOCKEY SITUATION AS IT LOOKS AT PRESENT DATE

After the argument the 14th Regiment team of Kingston gave the St. George's on the latter's ice on Saturday, there are many who call them to win the championship of Group No. 1 in the senior O.R.A. series. However, the Saints have one game to the good, and if they beat Parkdale Canoe Club in their return match on Wednesday night, they will go to Kingston with a margin that will give them a whole lot of confidence. A victory in Kingston would give them the group championship, but the Soldiers will be the hardest kind of a proposition to beat on their own ice. It looks from here as if there would have to be a play-off for district honours.

Stratford is the choice in Group No. 2, though the Toronto A.A.C. players have a royal chance, especially if they can win in Berlin to-morrow night. A victory there would put them right in the running. Stratford has yet to beat Galt, and the latter will be hard to down at home, though the champions should land to-night's game on their own long rink.

The intermediate series is gradually assuming definite shape, and winners are in sight in most of the groups, or will be this week. Brockville, Lindsay, Port Perry, London, Collingwood, Midland, Sudbury, and St. Catharines will likely win their districts. The second round will commence next week, and winning clubs must be ready to go on when called upon.

The junior series shows some signs of group winners. Port Hope has the leap on Picton in No. 2, but they may reverse things at home to-morrow night. The winners will play off with the winners of the Kingston series. The city groups are uncertain, but this week's games will clear the atmosphere. St. Michael's and Eurekas look like the winners. Stratford is reasonably sure of winning in No. 5, and the same can be said of Paris in No. 6. In the fourth Midland and Gravenhurst are picked to win, but they are not yet out of the woods by any means.

PETERBOROUGH CURLERS IN TORONTO

Two Rinks Playing in The Tankard Games

Last night two rinks of Peterborough curlers went to Toronto where they are playing to-day in the Ontario Tankard games. The skips chosen were Messrs. R. Neill and Dickson Davidson. The rinks are composed as follows:

Rink No. 1—
W. E. Talbot.
A. Moore.
Geo. Morrow.
Robt. Neill.

Rink No. 2—
O. Dumble.
Wm. Mellroy.
W. Thompson.
D. Davidson.

The draws were made last night and the games are being held to-day.

Peterborough plays in Group 5 along with about eight other teams, and if the games are as closely contested as those already played, the locals should be put on their best mettle. Lindsay has played a fine, steady game so far, Skip Flavelle winning out in Group 1. Most of the Peterborough curlers will participate in the Tankard matches for the first time, although several of them have played in them before.

SAVED FROM SHUT OUT IN LAST MINUTE

Peterborough B. A. C. Defeated in Toronto by a Narrow Margin

The two sections of the B. A. C. again clashed together for the second time this season on the Varsity rink in Toronto last night, when the Toronto bunch won by a very narrow margin, the score being 3-2 at the finish. The Peterborough boys did little scoring in the first half, when their opponents rammed in all their counters. They, however, came very strong towards the finish, and in the last few minutes of play scored two goals. The Toronto boys were confident of an easy victory, but Captain McKay and Jenkson, as well as Melville J. Hutchinson, the manager, and Norman Hamilton, junior, were nonplussed with the corner by the effective work of the visitors' defence almost every time they became aggressive. The game was free from all intentional rough-house work, the only sufferer being Mr. D. B. McRae of Glengarry, whose nose seemed to have a particular affinity for the rubber. Mr. McRae, needless to say, is one of the last wing men off the alleged Rawlaw aggregation.

The Peterborough boys were pleased to see Sim Moore and M. J. Hutchinson playing for the first time in history on the same team. They made a great defence—with the assistance of their rover and centre, who usually went back to relieve. Ernest Jolliffe refereed the contest, and although he had a difficult proposition, he certainly outrivalled Waghorne. The teams lined up on Varsity rink, with a bumper crowd adorning the fence, in the following style:

For Diseases Of The Skin

THERE IS NO TREATMENT SO CERTAIN TO RELIEVE THE ITCHING AND HEAL THE SORES AS

Dr. Chase's Ointment

The one common feature of nearly all skin diseases is itching, annoying and oftentimes almost unendurable itching.

The strong point about Dr. Chase's Ointment is that by reason of its remarkable soothing qualities it relieves itching the moment it is applied.

But Dr. Chase's Ointment does more than this. It is composed of the greatest healing ingredients known to science, and its healing powers are often described as magical.

Allaying the inflammation, relieving the itching and gradually and naturally healing the raw, flaming flesh, Dr. Chase's Ointment is the most effective treatment for eczema and salt rheum that was ever discovered.

There are many kinds of eczema, and nearly all itching skin diseases come under this head. In children it is known as teething eczema, and many a fond mother will tell you heartfelt gratitude of how her little one was rescued from torturing, itching eczema by the use of this great ointment.

Wherever there is itching skin or a sore that refuses to heal, Dr. Chase's Ointment will positively prove effective as a relief and cure.

Miss C. Stanley-Jones, professional masseuse and nurse, 283 Simcoe street, Toronto, Ont., writes:—"In my occupation as a nurse I have come across many cases in which Dr. Chase's Ointment has been used with extraordinary results. One case I recall was that of a child of sixteen months who was in a bad way with scaly head. It was a real nasty case causing the child to suffer very much and to be very troublesome. I persuaded the mother to use Dr. Chase's Ointment and in ten days the cure was entirely effected.

"Another case was that of a lady who was greatly troubled with eczema on the face. The doctor was dosing her with medicine which was doing no good. In this case cure was effected in seven days with only one box of Dr. Chase's Ointment. Both of these cures were lasting."

Dr. Chase's Ointment has an unparalleled record of cures; 60c a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. 18

FRED M'GRATH IN THE SPRINTS

Local Runner Will Take Part at Buffalo and Toronto

Riverdale Rink was thrown open last night to the many local athletes who intend entering in the Royal Canadians' indoor meet on Monday night next, and a large number took advantage of the opportunity to become acquainted with the new track, which has been installed at big expense by the east enders. All those present were strongly taken with the conditions, and it was the common opinion that the track would be exceedingly fast and that some indoor records would be broken.

The committee in charge is highly pleased with the way in which the entries are coming in, although disappointed over the fact that the Peterborough Harriers will not be represented by Fred Simpson, Longboat's rival, and Ernie Wilson. The Peterborough boys, with the exception of Freddie McGrath, have all gone out of training, but McGrath will be on hand for the sprints, returning from Buffalo, where he is running on Saturday, in time to perform at the local meet. McGrath is spoken of as the most dangerous opponent Bobby Kerr will have in the sprint trials for the Olympic team, and if the Peterborough runner is in anything like his old-time form he will give the Hamilton boy the battle of his life.

McGrath will have as side partners on the relay team to visit Buffalo, McMurray of the Irish-Canadians, Hitchen of the Garrison A. A., Harry Smith and Jimmie Brydon of the Central Y.M.C.A., and all these men will compete in the R.C.B.C. meet on Monday.—Toronto Globe.

COBOURG GAME WAS POSTPONED

Visitors Were Snow Bound at Port Hope And Could Not Get Through

Owing to an injunction taken out by the weather man there was no game between the Strathconas and Cobourg last night. The blizzard that was raging all day played havoc with the railway lines, and the Cobourg team was stalled at Port Hope. A snow plow was snowed-in on the G.T.R. near Port Hope, and it was impossible for the team to reach Peterborough in time for a game last night. Cobourg telephoned at eight o'clock to the effect that they were still at Port Hope, and it was decided to postpone the game. It was very disappointing owing to the fact that there was a great sheet of ice and a big crowd was assured for the contest.

Two members of the Cobourg team were here for the game, Bond, who came down from Toronto, where he is attending school, and White, who left on the morning train. Bond turned out at practise with the Strathconas last night and there was a lively workout, enough players being out to form two teams, and a great practise was held. Among those out in addition to Bond were Derocher, Wilson, Meagher, Barbor, Dusty, McWilliams, Ray, Long, Weatherston, McMillan, Parnell, Dobson Clarke.

JACK MILLER IS WITH EDMONTON

Former Trent Valley League Player Has Joined Fred Whitcroft's All Stars

The Edmonton inter-provincial hockey league team, will soon be a Peterborough county aggregation. In addition to Bill Crowley and Fred Whitcroft, Jack Miller, formerly of Norwood, and an old Trent Valley League player, is on the line up. In a letter received by the Examiner sporting editor from Manager Whitcroft, some information is given concerning the team. Speaking of Miller, the letter says: "Jack Miller is on the right wing. He comes from Norwood and used to play with the Midland team when I did. He is one of our best men. Several changes have been made in the Edmonton team recently. The goal keeper and Dick Wilson, formerly of Orillia's, and Campbell, both of the forward line, have been let go. Warran, the goal keeper of the Winnipeg Vics., and Boulton of the Winnipeg team, with Miller, will fill the vacancies, and the team which is already talking of a trip eastward, in search of the Stanley Cup, lines up as follows: Goal, Warran, (Winnipeg Vics.); point, Banford, (Edmonton); cover, Crowley, (Peterborough); rover, Whitcroft, (Peterborough); centre, Boulton, (Winnipeg;) right wing, Miller, (Norwood, Midland;) left wing, Dutton, (Galt, Winnipeg.)

SPORTING NEWS AND VIEWS.....

The delay in putting on Friday night's Peterborough-Lindsay hockey game was not occasioned through any fault of the management but because the train on which Referee McCord arrived was 40 minutes late, while the Peterborough train was 30 minutes behind time. In a Trent Valley League game between Keene and Norwood at Norwood on Saturday night, 25th inst., the victory was won by the latter, the score being seven to three. The play from start to finish was much closer than the score would indicate. The score at half time was 4—3 in favour of Norwood. The Keene boys were accompanied by a large number of supporters and were loyally entertained by the opposing team.

The return game will be played in Keene on the 21st of February, and the boys hope to turn the tables on their naughty opponents.

Her Poor Memory.

A woman who belonged to an ancient but penniless family married a rich plebeian, but she never forgot the misalliance nor allowed any one else to do so. One day, attended by a servant, she went into a store and gave an order.

"And where shall I send it, madam?" said the shopkeeper.

"Jean," said the woman, turning to her servant, "tell the man your master's name. I never can remember it."

To Move the Dead.

There appear to have been in the Old Dominion during early colonial days a great number of dogs of a mongrel breed, the chief use of which was to destroy the smaller kind of animals running wild in the woods and fields. How valuable they were considered to be by their owners is shown in a case which occurred in Northampton county about 1691 and is recorded by P. A. Bruce in "The Social Life of Virginia in the Seventeenth Century."

A complaint was lodged in the county court against Mike Dixon on the ground that he permitted his dogs to rush out and bark at persons passing along the highway, which was situated immediately in front of his door.

Instead of proposing to kill or restrain the dogs, Dixon simply petitioned the court to have the public road removed some distance back from his dwelling house, "because it was necessary," he declared, "to keep dogs for the preservation of creatures from vermin."

The "creatures" he referred to were poultry and young pigs, and the "vermin" were wolves, foxes, minks, polecats and the like.

It is not stated whether or not his petition was granted.

A Man to Be Envied.

"Do you know," remarked a visitor to a Broadway hostelry, "I'm always inclined to envy the clerk in a hotel like this. He is always well groomed and smiling, has a wider acquaintance among the wealthy or well to do than I can ever hope to have and is always so aggressively at peace with the world and himself; also he wears, more often than not, a diamond scarfpin or ring which is certainly beyond me. It's a pretty comfortable berth."

Several hours later the hotel clerk reached for his coat and hat. As he left the office he turned to a comrade: "Say, Ned, can you let me have $10 till the first? Rent due at home tomorrow, and I'm shy. Doctor's bills hit me pretty hard this month, and I don't want to lie awake tonight if I can help it."

Settlement of Differences Between The Two Committees

Amicable Relations Should Exist in The Future at The Fire Hall —Board of Works Buys Team of Horses And Hires a Driver

CELLAR FOR STORE-ROOM

The Fire, Water and Light Committee, and the Board of Works, held a joint meeting last night, to thresh out a little difficulty that has existed at the fire hall.

The trouble, while trifling in its nature, has been a drawback to the existence of amicable relations between the employees of the Fire Department and those of the Board of Works. The former had told their foreman, Mr. Pakenham, to conduct the fire hall to the best of his ability, and especially to keep men away who had no business there.

The Board of Works had to use several of the horses, and besides stored their ploughs, sand, etc., behind the hall, and Mr. Evans had frequently to be present there. Consequently men wanting work sought him there, waited until he came, and those who did work in unloading sand and carrying it to the streets to place on the sidewalks, did not meet with the entire approval of Mr. Pakenham in the way they worked.

This was one item. Another was the disposal of one of the teams, and a driver to do work for the Board of Works. Two men wre at the hall during the day and two at night. Those who were wanted to drive the watering cart in the summer, or the snow ploughs in the winter, could not get out to work until 8 o'clock in the morning, which was not satisfactory to Mr. Evans. The two Boards met, therefore, to adjust the two systems in a manner which would be of the most service to the city.

Ald. Phelan, chairman of the Board of Works, presided, with the following present; Ald. Tovey, Morgan, Turner, Buller, Johnston, Elliott and McIntyre, and Mayor Rush.

A communication was received from Dennistoun, Peck and Kerr, on behalf of Miss McMahon, requesting that the time for the removal of fences, trees, etc., which have to be removed in the extension of Lake street, be lengthened until June 1st. This was granted.

Ald. Johnston in explaining the matter, and offering a suggestion to remedy the difficulty, said that he thought the Board of Works could take over the last team of horses that were purchased, and take the driver with them, to be permanently engaged. The Fire Department could then secure another permanent driver, and the result would be that the Board of Works would then have charge of one man and a team of horses. Other detail arrangements could be afterwards settled.

Mr. Pakenham said that there were seven horses in the stalls, and one of the teams was used nearly all the time by the Board of Works. He claimed the right of keeping two teams all the time for the two wagons, and that to provide alternative drivers to be on duty in pairs, four men were required. There is the necessity during the winter for an extra man for snow ploughing. The Board of Works cannot get either of the men who sleep at night, as they do not have breakfast until 7 o'clock, and cannot get to work before 8 o'clock.

Ald. Buller said that this hour was not satisfactory.

Mr. H. Evans told his side of the story, saying that the system never appealed to him since it was instituted. In the summer time the watering carts were not put on the streets before 8 o'clock. Since the first snow fell these ploughs have been turned out at the same hour. The extra team that the Board of Works may use for this reason cannot be used until after eight o'clock, when the driver comes on duty.

Ald. Morgan said that Ald. Johnston in running the Fire, Water and Light Committee, was doing so in too cheap a manner. When a driver is on the street and an alarm is sent in such a system would prove disastrous.

Ald. Johnston said that his aim was not cheapness, but effectiveness, at a fair cost.

Ald. Morgan said that four drivers were necessary, two for night, and two for day.

Ald. McIntyre suggested that the hours be so arranged that two men be on all the time, and only one off duty.

A Settlement

Referring back to the proposal to assuming control by the Board of Works of one of the teams, Ald. Buller moved, seconded by Ald. Turner, that one team be taken over by the board, arrangements to be made with the Fire, Water and Light Committee for the board of the horses at regular livery stable rates.

After considerable discussion the motion was carried.

To settle the question of who should be the driver of the Board of Works' team, Ald. Buller moved, seconded by Ald. McIntyre, that Mr Mitchell, the present driver of the team, be engaged by the Board.—Carried.

Ald. Buller moved, seconded by Ald. Tovey, that the north half of the cellar under the fire hall be retained for the Board of Works, for storage and general purposes.

Music and Drama

The Van Den Berg Opera Company which playes here at the Grand, Saturday, February 1st, comes from Montreal with the most laudatory praise from the press and public. The cities of New York, Atlantic City and Baltimore, have praised that organization to the skies. In the latter city, where they have just closed a more than successful engagement, the Free Press said:

"This company has been giving such uniformly good renditions of the operas, that much was expected of them, but every night they surpassed even their previous performances."

The Montreal Star said in an earlier edition, "The Van Den Berg Company gave a splendid performance of 'Carmen' last night. The excellence of this organization is thoroughly appreciated by Montreal, as was evident last night from the crowded house that greeted their first performance of 'Carmen' in this city." The performance was even better than those of 'Il Trovatore' and 'Faust,' and the chorus orchestra showed Mr. Van den Berg's skill as an artist and musician, by their fine rendition of the beautiful and spirited ensemble numbers of 'Carmen.'"

The company numbers among its artists Mme. Mondi Baldini, who is reputed to be one of the greatest "Carmens" in Europe and who set the Metropolitan press aflame when she sang "Carmen" at the Academy of Music in New York, last season.

This company appears at the Grand Opera House next Saturday, matinee and night.

JESSE AYRES IS OFF TO COBOURG

Is Charged With Stealing Money From Boarding House

After spending a month in jail Arthur Turner, must go back again for another like term. The young fellow was sent diwn for a month on a charge of vagrancy. He was allowed out yesterday morning, and last night he was pulled in on the same charge.

This morning he appeared before Magistrate Dumble and was sentenced to a month in the county jail.

Jesse Airress, who was arrested in the small hours of Sunday morning, on the strength of a telegram from Cobourg, was taken down to that town this morning. Chief Constable Ruse arrived here last night about 10.30 o'clock to take charge of his prisoner. The charge against the prisoner is for the theft of some money from the boarding house he was staying at while in Cobourg last summer. He will be tried to-day.

THE EPWORTH LEAGUE HOLDS A MEETING

Reports of Delegates Who Went to Lindsay Were Read

The regular meeting of the George street Methodist church Epworth League took place last night in the schoolroom. The meeting was largely attended and deep interest was taken in the proceedings. The reports of the two delegates to the convention at Lindsay, Miss E. Chasty and Miss E. Craft, were read. Miss Chasty spoke on mission work and Miss Craft dealt with the general work of the league. During the evening Mr. Harry Miles sang.

Popular Cure for Croup

Anyone who has tested Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, as a cure for croup, will not hesitate to pronounce it an unqualified success. It is wonderfully prompt in relieving the cough, clearing the air passages and soothing the excited nerves. Many mothers who realize the suddenness with which croup comes on keep this great medicine promptly on hand for use in case of emergency.

YANKEES WANT TO SEE PEAT MADE

The Fame of the Discovery Has Reached the United States Government

Dr. McWilliams of this city, whose name again sprang into prominance recently through his discovery of the secret of successful peatmaking, an announcement of which was made exclusively in the Advertiser, has been approached by the United States Government, which has requested him to make a trip to Jamestown, Va., for the purpose of demonstrating the feasibility of his discovery for practical purposes.

Dr. McWilliams is considering the proposition.

Should he determine to accept the invitation it means the expense of taking with him a number of skilled mechanics, models of all his working machinery, and several tons of prepared peat.

Government Will Pay

Of course, the Government would doubtless pay at least a fair share if not all of the expenses of the trip, but just now Dr. McWilliams is a very busy man at his plant in Dorchester, and to leave at the present time would mean a big loss in time and money, outside of the incidental expenses of the journey to the southern city.

Plant to be Enlarged

It was stated to-day that the Dorchester plant may be enlarged shortly, and that other plants would be established in various parts of Canada in the very near future. At present the Dorchester works is capable of only turning out ten tons of the brick peat a day, and this is bought up by regular customers before it is made.

The Jarvis brick works is still using the peat dust in the place of coal dust for the forming of heating gas in the kilns, and it is said have a contract for a supply for several years.

A number of prominent businessmen of the city, too, are using the prepared peat in brick form in their houses, and are said to be highly satisfied with it as a fuel.

Five Dollars a ton

Peat bricks at present are sold at $5 a ton, but are unobtainable just now except to those who got on the inside first.

It has been intimated that the Canadian Government is considering the idea of asking Dr. McWilliams to give them the preference of the peat demonstrations, but this report has not yet been confirmed.

In for a Fortune

The United States Government has been spending upwards of a million dollars a year in peat experimenting, and should Dr. McWilliams' demonstrations prove up to expectations, which they almost undoubtedly will, the discoverer of the much coveted secret may find himself in the way of a big piece of money for the secret providing he would sell, which is improbable.

THE BOARD OF TRADE MEETING

W. H. Moore Will Deliver an Address To-night

A cordial invitation is extended to the public to be present at the meeting of the Board of Trade to-night in the Council Chamber. Mr. W H Moore, an acknowledged authority upon such subjects, will give an address on "Municipal Government by Commission," and his remarks will be found interesting and profitable. General business will also be taken up at this meeting, and among the questions that will come up for discussion will be the public library problem. A large attendance is looked for.

C.P.R. CO. INCREASE EMPLOYEES' PENSIONS

G.T.R. Has Begun to Pension Their Men According to Their Intentions

Mr. Geo. Nottingham, gateman at the G.T.R. crossing on Simcoe street, has received a letter from his son, Mr. Geo. Nottingham, Jr., of Port Huron, Mich., stating that some of the old employees of the G. T. R. in that city have received their pensions and asked if any of the Peterborough employees have yet been pensioned.

In regard to the railways pensioning their employees, the C.P.R. has raised its lowest pension to $20 per month, thus exceeding the lowest pension of the G.T.R. by $40 per year. A recent despatch to the Globe explains the matter:

The Canadian Pacific Railway Company has raised the minimum retiring allowance to employees entitled by length of service to a pension, so that no one shall have less than twenty dollars per month on leaving the company's service to participate in the pension fund. President Sir Thos. Shaughnessy has just issued a circular to the employees intimating that the regulations governing pensions have been revised, as it had been found that in some cases the amount of pension was not sufficient to support the recipient in his declining years.

ANNUAL MEETING OF SUNDAY SCHOOL

Reports of St. Paul's Sunday School Were Read Last Night

WAS A LARGE ATTENDANCE

Much business of importance was transacted last night at the annual meeting of the teachers of St. Paul's Sunday School. There were fifty in attendance, twenty-five teachers, ten officers and fifteen elders, the latter being present to confer with the teachers and officers on measures of mutual interest. Mr. Wm. Madill, the superintendent of the Sunday School, occupied the chair.

Preceding the meeting tea was served by the members of the Ladies' Aid Society from 6.30 to 8 o'clock. The ladies catered to the requirements of their guests in an admirable manner. A hearty vote of thanks was passed to them at the conclusion of the tea for the ample supply of good things they provided.

Superintendent's Report

The meeting was held in the Guild Room of the church, and commenced shortly after eight o'clock. The superintendent, Mr. Madill, presented his annual report which was as follows:—

The work of the Sunday School during the year 1907, has been carried on without any special features to report. Our teachers and officers have been fairly regular in attendance, a few changes in teachers having taken place during the year. Our work has some marks of encouragement as a goodly number of the older pupils have identified themselves as members of the church, and others are seriously considering the taking of this step.

Total number on roll is 328, with total average attendance of 237.

Average attendance of each department is as follows: — Primary 32, Kindergarten 26, Intermediates 97, Adult Bible class 39, Young Men's Bible class 14, teachers and officers 29.

Total contributions for missions $300.

We have to note some important changes during 1907. Rev. Mr. Bright our assistant pastor, who has been with us one year, left us early in April, accepting a call to Ingersoll, he had charge of the Young Men's Bible class and succeeded in gathering around him a goodly number of young men. Rev. Dr. Torrance our pastor, who had been identified with our Sunday School for thirty-one years and most of that time had charge of the adult Bible class, resigned his pastorate and left on June 30th, 1907.

In the autumn Rev. Dr. Talling, who was with us for some four months took charge of the united Bible classes and proved a most acceptable teacher.

Early in December Rev. R. Pegus, our present pastor was inducted, and we trust he will be the instrument in God's hands to kindle a new interest in our Sunday School work. We therefore look for marked improvement in this department of our church work for 1908.

Our school sustained a great loss when Mr. Wm. Pringle, our secretary-treasurer, was suddenly called from our midst by the hand of death, he had filled most acceptable, this position for many years, he was ever faithful in his attendance and diligent in the discharge of his duties, having always the best interest of the Sunday School at heart, his cheerful and friendly spirit and high type of Christian character was ever an influence for good upon all with whom he came into contact, and his loss leaves a vacancy in our staff which will be exceedingly difficult to fill.

Our orchestra under the leadership of Mr. W F Nelson, have contributed much to the interest and success of the school in leading the singing.

Our annual picnic to Idyl Wyld on July 5th, was most enjoyable, many of both teachers and scholars took advantage of the days outing.

A very successful Christmas entertainment was held this year. Every teacher and scholar of the school giving some useful article of clothing or provisions for the poor in the city. These gifts were distributed to the needy, thereby bringing comfort and good cheer to many a home.

Our Home Department with Mrs. Church as superintendent, has done better work this year; but for this department we are looking for greater and better things during 1908.

The following scholars attended every Sunday during the year: — Ethel Goodenough, Mary White, Leighton Anderson, Fred Sharpe, Max Davidson, Nana Clark.

We feel we cannot close this report without again making a strong appeal to all parents for your heartfelt sympathy and co-operation. We ask an interest in your prayers that the year 1908 may be one full of blessing for every boy and girl connected with St. St. Paul's Sunday School.

WM. MADILL,
Superintendent.

The Officers for 1908

The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows:

Superintendent—W. Madill.
Cor. Sec. and Treas.—H O Fisk.
Rec. Sec. and Treas. — W J Stacey.
Leader of Song W F Nelson.
Pianiste—Miss Gladys Crane.
Librarians—Messrs. J. H. Connal, Jas. Carey, Roy Turner, Harry Carey.

The election of the assistant superintendent was left in the hands of the superintendent.

THE OFFICIALS WERE ELECTED

At the Regular Meeting of St. John's A.Y.P.A.

The regular meeting of the members of St. John's A.Y.P.A. and election of officers, for the coming year, was held last night in the Guild Room. There was a large number of the members present, and the meeting was a most enthusiastic one.

The reports of the different officers of the society were read, and showed very encouraging results. Many new propositions for the coming year were brought up before the society, and discussed.

After the general business was transacted the following officers were elected):

President, Mr. N. Greenhaugh.
Vice-Pres., Mr. C. Coleman.
Secretary, Mr. J. Hogan.
Treasurer, ———.

The convenors for the different committees, were elected as follows:
Visiting, Miss Wesley.
Musical, Mr. W. Coleman.
Dramatic, Mr. M. Drysdale.
Biblical, Mr. J. Bell.

The next meeting will take place on Monday night next and will take a literary form. An excellent programme has been arranged, and it is hoped to have a full attendance of all the members. The society has started forward with a new set of officers, and all those interested in the work of the A. Y. P. A., will be warmly welcomed at the meetings.

LAKEFIELD LADY WINS A GOLD MEDAL

Miss Florence Simpson of Lakefield was the winner of the gold medal for the Sunday school teachers' honour paper, on "How to Study the Life of Christ," in connection with the Church of England Sunday school Association. The Globe in referring to the meeting said:

"The twenty-seventh annual report of the Toronto Church of England Sunay School Association, presented by the Hon. Secretary, Mr. J. S. Barber, at the meeting in Holy Trinity school house, last night, showed that the eleven meetings of the association through the year had been attended by representatives of the thirty Sunday schools in the Deanery of Toronto. His Grace the Archbishop, presided, and presented the medals, prizes, and diplomas.

A Ramble in London The Subject Of An Address

Rev. Dr. Langfeldt Delighted a Large Audience at Knox Church —Spoke of the Many Points of Interest in the World's Greatest City

VOTE OF THANKS PASSED

A large number of people, young and old, attended the Young People's meeting last night at Knox church. About 200 were present, and the evening was spent in a most entertaining manner. An informal address had been arranged, on the subject of "A Ramble Through London," and Rev. Dr. Langfeldt, Rector of St. Luke's church, was the speaker. Several views of London were thrown on the canvas by means of an electric lantern which was operated by Mr. Menzies. The President, Mr. McKee, was in the chair. The opening devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. H. J. Keith and Mr. Campbell . The president, in introducing Dr. Langfeldt, said that he and the Young People gave him a hearty welcome to Knox church, and they hoped it would not be the last visit.

Dr. Langfeldt acknowledged the kind words of welcome, and expressed his pleasure at being present and to see such a large audience. He laid no claim to being a lecturer, and he could not do justice to the subject, for to lecture on London efficiently would require a longer stay in the world's great metropolis than he had privilege of having there. At any rate since it was only to be "a ramble" he would try to give some of his impressions which London gave him and to speak on some of the scenes and places which he had seen and visited. Parts of Dr. Langfeldt's address were illustrated by views. Several members of the society read short papers on "Westminster Abbey," "St. Paul's Cathedral," "The Tower," "London Bridge," "Windsor Castle," and the "House of Parliament."

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to the speaker of the evening. The gathering then dispersed, after prayer and benediction by Dr. Langfeldt.

AGAINST THE DECOLETTE GOWNS

A Crusade Has Been Started Among the Women in New York

New York, Jan. 28.—(Special). — Believing many young women are being led astray by following what they conceive to be the practices of women in fashionable life, Dr. Adelaide Wallerstein, of 306 West Eightieth street and twenty-three other women have founded the Philocalian club to wage a crusade against girls who ride from the theatre in hansom cabs, drink highballs and wear decolette gowns and openwork waists.

Dr. Wallerstein is enthusiastic over the movement, but while she and her associates are anxious it shall accomplish much good she does not want to be called a reformer.

"Say anything you please about the club, but please do not call me a reformer," she said in speaking of the new organization.

"Our club is an exclusive one, and is limited to twenty-four members," she added. "No one else can get in until some member dies or gets tired of carrying out the principles of the club and quits."

"How, then, do you intend to carry out your ideas if you do not preach them?" she was asked.

"Why, by force of example, of course. We have all pledged ourselves not to wear decolette gowns—that is, as decolette that the neck will be cut lower than the collar bone. You know that is not low. Then we have pledged ourselves not to drink highballs or cocktails. And about hansom cabs, it is wrong for two young people to ride about in hansom cabs at night.

"A couple should go straight home from the theatre, instead of seeking the bright lights of restaurants. A young woman should prepare a dainty little supper at home. She should be able to prepare a dainty feast, I think. I know she would if she did not expect to be taken out somewhere.

"It is not that we lack confidence in the girls of to-day. I know that hansom cabs, after theatre suppers, the highball and the cocktail are considered perfectly conventional but we are pledged to do our best to change these customs of the world.

"Young people see fashionable folk in the theatres, and in cabs, eating and drinking cocktails and highballs, and they go to dance halls and do likewise."

Mrs. Wallerstein is a graduate of the New York Medical College for Women, having taken her degree in 1906.

AN OLD PICTURE OF SATAN

One is Discovered in the Badwater River in Wyoming

Washington, Jan. 28.—(Special).—The oldest picture of Satan has been found on the Badwater River, in the Shoshone Valley, Wyoming. It is known to have been made 10,000 years ago, at least, and it is probable that it was fashioned fully 10,000 years ago.

The picture—or the pictograph, as it is called by the discoverer—was unearthed by Assistant Curator H. L. Smith, of the American Museum of Natural History.

It is a wonderful find, for it shows that the men who existed on this continent long before the history of the Jews began, had a conception of an evil spirit, and this leads to the thought that the same men had an idea of a good spirit and meditated upon the influence there had upon human beings.

ARCHDEACON CASEY ON A VACATION

Left Lindsay To-day for Virginia Hot Springs

Yesterday at High Mass, Ven. Archdeacon Casey, St. Mary's beloved pastor, informed his parishioners of his intention to make a sojourn of some weeks at Virginia Hot Springs, on the advice of his physician in an effort to get rid of a severe attack of rheumatism from which he has been suffering since winter set in. The reverend gentleman will leave to-morrow morning for the springs, which are located near the foothills of the Virginia Mountains, about a night's journey from Washington, D. C. The Archdeacon's many friends will join us in hoping that he will return fully cured.—Lindsay Post.

HOW TO SAY "BOVRIL"

Recently in England the mind of the public has been much exercised as to the correct pronunciation of the word 'Bovril" the name of the well known preparation of beef. A consensus of opinion has been obtained by the proprietors of the preparation. As many as 90,640 voted for "Bovril" and that seems to have been the favourite pronunciation. A Mrs. Brain of Shirehampton near Bristol secured a prize of £100, by giving the exact number of the majority of persons voting for "Bov-ril."

Whether pronounced "Bo-vril" or "Bov-ril" the preparation is very acceptable at this time of year.

TO CELEBRATE CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOUR DAY FEB. 2ND

At St. Andrew's Church—Special Address Arranged

At the meeting of the Young People's Society in St. Andrew's church last night it was decided to celebrate Christian Endeavour Day, February 2 by a public service. Rev. J G Potter will arrange a special address for Sunday evening, February 2, at 7 o'clock.

On the Monday following, February 3, the society will drive to Keene and celebrate the occasion with the Endeavourers of that village. 'Busses will leave at 5 o'clock.

FORESTERS TO CELEBRATE THEIR 29TH ANNIVERSARY

They Will Also Hold a Carnival on St. Valentine's Day

Court Peterborough, C. O. F., No. 29, will on February 27 celebrate its 29th anniversary by holding an "at-home," including a concert and dance, in the Foresters' Hall, Simcoe street. This was decided upon at a committee meeting held last night. A committee was appointed to take charge of the "at-home," the chairman being Mr. H. Nesbitt, and the secretary, Mr. Chas. Stenton.

It was also decided to hold a carnival again this year, on February 14, St. Valentine's Day.

THE OPEN AIR CARNIVAL TO-NIGHT

Rink is in Grand Condition—Full Band Will Be Present

The Street Railway Company's fancy dress carnival, which will be held to-night on the open air rink, air rink at Jackson Park, promises to be one of the most enjoyable functions of the kind ever held in this city. This is the first carnival ever held by the street railway company and the success of the event is assured. Costumes have been ordered from Toronto and Montreal for the occasion and all the local costumiers had their garments rented weeks ago. The company is doing all in its power to make the carnival a success. A large bon-fire will be built in the park so as to light up the surrounding woods. One hundred more coloured, incandescent lamps, and several new arc lamps have been added to make the park as brilliant as possible.

The rink will be thrown open, exclusively to those in costume, between eight and nine o'clock, during which the celebrated Grand March will take place, and the elegant prizes now on exhibition in Schneider's jewelry store, will be presented to the winners. After nine p.m. the rink will be thrown open to the public.

The 57th Band in full strength has been engaged to supply music and special accommodation has been arranged for all spectators. Every available car will be placed on the Jackson Park line to carry the people to and from the park.

Husband Finds Wife in The Embrace of Another Man

Domestic Infelicity Aired in The Police Court—Husband Threatened to Shoot His Wife

THEY ARE PARTED FOREVER

On a charge of vagrancy and non-support of his wife and two children, Colborne Losey who was arrested yesterday afternoon by P C Meharry, appeared in the police court this morning. The families of both prisoner and complainant appeared in court and a lively wrangle ensued throughout the whole sitting.

When Maragaret Losey, the wife of the prisoner, was sworn, Losey promised to contradict her if she made mistakes. They had been married seven years and had two children. Five years ago they went to Toronto to live. Her husband began to get abusive and she applied for an order of protection. He quieted down, joined the church and became very good. This soon wore off with time and the old trouble began. One day he brought home a revolver and threatened to shoot her and the next day he tried to choke her. She took her two children to Peterborough; the followed, giving her considerable trouble. During her stay here she has lived with her father and mother and supported herself and children. She did not want her husband's support, she only wanted the protection of the court.

The father of the last witness, Mr. Robt. Hamilton, an old man with long beard, said his daughter had been living with him for six weeks and he was not able to support her. He knew his son-in-law could work but said he had an awful bad temper and was subject to be profane and quarrelsome.

"When did you see me drunk, old man?" said Losey.

"What kind of a state were you in" said Mr. Hamilton, "when you tore up the marriage license, smashed the windows of the house, broke pictures on the wall and cast the Holy Bible into the stove?"

"The same time I was stuffing you and your wife, wasn't I?"

"Who was stuffing hay at Jaskeag Park?" retorted the old gentleman. "And I would like to know who kept your wife while you were eight months in Manitoba?"

"That doesn't affect you any, old man." And here the Magistrate put a stop to the wrangle.

Losey after considerable spitting and rubbing of the hands, began his testimony. He went to Welland one time and while away his wife was going around with other men. He come home and saw a man named Thompson hugging his wife. While his wife and sister were in Toronto they were going around with other men while he was at work. He told his wife that if he ever found her with Thompson he would shoot her. When he came back to Peterborough he met his wife on the street and she told him to go to h—. He was willing to keep one of the children, the boy, but the girl was not his child. She had been training both the children to call him a liar and he strongly asserted that this woman had cloaked him all along.

His Worship after hearing the evidence asked Losey would he keep away from his wife, and he consented. Mrs. Losey stated that she could support herself. Henceforth Mr. and Mrs. Losey are parted, was the decision arrived at.

INSTALLED OFFICERS IN COBOURG

Mr. J. J. Turner, Sr., Conducted The Installation Ceremony

Mr. J. J. Turner, Sr., was in Cobourg yesterday where he officiated last night as installing officer at the meeting of the Ancient Order of United Workmen. The Cobourg Order is in a flourishing condition financially and in point of numbers, and is doing good work. Mr. Turner was well received and the duties of the evening were carried out without a hitch. After the meeting Mr. Turner was entertained as guest of honour at an oyster supper at Park's restaurant by the officers of the Order.

Of The First Board of Management—Photo By Roy

Last year's Board of Management of the County House of Refuge has presented the House with a picture of the Board, taken by Mr. Roy. The picture, which is framed ready for hanging up, is at the Roy Studio and will be taken to Lakefield this week. The members of the committee are personally bearing the expense.

Velvet Skin, Soft and Clear

What one or two applications of Dr. Chase's Ointment will do for rough inflamed and irritated skin is almost as ownderful as the complete cure of eczema by its persistent use. By its healing, soothing and antiseptic influence, Dr. Chase's Ointment quickly cures chafing and skin diseases, and eruptions, and leaves the skin clear, soft and velvety.

GUESTS AWAKENED BY FIRE

Mr. J. J. Turner, Sr., in Cobourg Hotel —Fire in Adjoining Store

The guests at the British Hotel, Cobourg, were suddenly awakened from sleep last night about twelve o'clock, and told to dress hurriedly, on account of a fire in an adjoining hotel. It was on Main street, and next to the hotel is Gordon's shoe store, which was burning in the upper story. The hotel was thought to be in danger, and thee management awakened everyone to be in readiness. Among the guests was Mr. J. J. Turnerr, sr., who states that all the top portion of the shoe store was burned but the hotel was undamaged.

AUDITOR'S REPORT TO BE PRESENTED

At Meeting of I.O.F. To-morrow Night At Eight O'Clock

MR. JOHN DIXON IS GOVERNOR

Brother of Local Gentleman is Honored in Saskatchewan

The Maple Creek, Sask., Signal, has the following to say of Mr. John Dixon, a brother of Mr. A. E. Dixon, of this city:

At the first convention of the Saskatchewan University, held by the Senate at Regina, on Thursday, Jan. 9th, our worthy and esteemed townsman, Mr. John Dixon, was chosen by that honourable body as a member of the first Board of Governors.

Mr. John Dixon has always taken a deep interest in the educational affairs of the three prairie provinces, and well deserves the honourable position now conferred upon him. This portion of the province is to be congratulated by having so capable a representative on the Board of Governors. We feel that the best interests of the Saskatchewan University, will be promoted by having such men as Mr. John Dixon at its head.

Nobody's Business Whether She Goes or Stays—She Wasn't Born Here, Anyway

Editor Examiner.

Dear Sir,—I would like to inform you that whoever told you about that piece in your paper about the girls disappearing from the Cavanagh Hotel so mysteriously made a big mistaken. I went away on Saturday night, but everybody knew I was going. My home is not in Peterborough. I only come to the city last summer and have only worked two months at the Cavanagh House. I go and come back to Peterborough when it suits me. It is nobody's business. I think the party who took the trouble to have it put in the paper has more money than brains.

There's Danger in Every Cold

Once you come to realise the danger of neglecting coughs and colds, you will not run the risk of neglecting your cough and depending on any cough medicine" the druggist may choose to hand you out, and will insist on getting a medicine with a reputation, such as Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. Croup, bronchitis, asthma and coughs and colds are promptly and thoroughly cured by this treatment.

MR. BLAKE TO LECTURE FRIDAY

Will Appear Before the Local Branch of The Royal Astronomical Society

The Peterborough members of the Roys' Astronomical Society will have the pleasure on Friday night of listening to a lecture from Mr. S. L. Blake, O.L.S.; C.L.S.; the Goverament astronomer at the Toronto observatory, who will speak on the subject, "The Taking of Time, and the Use of the Transit Instruments." The meeting will be held in the Y. W. C. A., and should be largely attended. Mr. Blake is one of the foremost astronomers in Canada, being in charge of the astronomical work of the Toronto observatory, and his lecture should be a great treat. A cordial invitation is extended to the public to be present. There will be no admission fee, but a collection will be taken up to defray the expenses of Mr. Blake's visit, which will be quite heavy.

Two other notable visitors to Peterborough in the course of eight or ten days will be Dr. King of Ottawa, the chief astronomer of Canada, who, with the assistant chief astronomer at Ottawa, Mr. Plaskett, will be the guests of the Peterborough Astronomers.

THE WEATHER.

Very cold weather has again arrived, and the prospects are for still colder. This forenoon the temperature was 14 below zero; at noon it was 8 below. The lowest last night was 18 degrees below zero. The present cold wave is more extensive and severe than any we have had lately.

THE MUNICIPAL COMMISSION IDEA

The Board of Trade, at last night's meeting, endorsed an important extension of the principle involved in the question of government by commission. The success which has attended the work of the Town Trust Commissioners, had, no doubt, an important effect in bringing about the spirit that led to the adoption of the resolution. The admirable paper on "Municipal Government by Commission," read by Mr. Moore, emphasized the success of the principle, as applied to Galveston, Texas. Our own experience with the successful application of business methods to the administration of the water works system, strengthens the contention that an extension of the principle to include the Board of Works, and the functions it is charged with, would not only relieve the city council of a responsibility which, from the nature of things, is somewhat beyond their capacity, but would also result in a vast improvement in conditions — a better return for the large amount of money used by our greatest spending department. The duties required of the Board of Works, are such as require the special ability, knowledge and attention, which the average Board of Works cannot command and give. Will anyone for a moment, argue that if the city council or the Board of Works, changing from year to year, had had the administration of our water works system, the results would have been as exceedingly satisfactory as they are? Reasoning from this point, will anyone argue that if the duties assigned to the Board of Works — the care of our streets and bridges—were assigned to a commission of as good composition as the Board of Water Commissioners, similar results — in regard to sound and satisfactory administration—would not be achieved? The action of the Board warrants the earnest discussion of the proposition involved in their resolution. In order to assist in the expression of public opinion, the columns of the Examiner will be open for communications—preferably brief—dealing with the advantages and disadvantages of the proposition.

JUSTICE AND JUSTICE

The fact of New York's notorious prison, the Toombs, being crowded to overflowing—there having to be placed two prisoners in one cell—is quoted as an evidence of unusual prevalence of crime. This may well be true. But it is an evidence of something else, of the fact that the course of justice in New York is slow, and further obstructed by delays. It is safe to say that under similar conditions in Canada the prisons would not be crowded. In, say, Toronto, with the same proportion of crime to the population, with the same relative prison capacity, there would be no congestion of criminal population. Justice would have been at work, and prompt and decisive trial would either have convicted the accused or set them free. Canada is noted for her swift justice. We recollect in Peterborough the case of pickpockets arrested—and within a month the trio sentenced and entered upon their punishment in the penitentiary. They were not trifled with and left to contribute to the congestion of jail population. Justice promptly done, without delays and legal subterfuges for defeating its ends, is a most effective means of "general jail delivery." If the Canadian system of administering justice had prevailed in New York for the past year there would have been no overflowing Toombs prison—a large part of the present population would have been tried and hanged or imprisoned in a penitentiary, as their cases deserved, or found innocent and set free. There are justice and justices. In Canada we have "justice."

ANTI-DRINK ACTIVITY

The fight against strong drink is becoming vigorous. Whether it is a spasmodic movement, which will lose intensity, or one that will go on with increasing momentum, time will tell. But it certainly is rather active at present. The local option net is spreading its meshes widely, and license restriction, by various means, is an active element. Collingwood has certainly taken drastic measures. That town has passed a by-law fixing the fee for tavern licenses at $2,500. Collingwood, with a population of about, 8,000, fixes a license fee at about double the fee in Toronto, with a population of 300,000, which is $1,2000, a fee fixed by statute, and one that cannot be increased by the city council. In Toronto, the crusade against licenses takes the form of a reduction in numbers. The city council on Monday night fixed the number of licenses to be issued at 110, a reduction of 34. All these things have a significance, which need not be specified, to show its importance in relation to the contrasting interests concerned.

TRUANT OFFICER IS BUSY

Mr. Geo. Cochrane Rounding up Boys Who Are Not at School

Mr. George Cochrane, in his duties of Truant Officer, which have been made more comprehensive since the annual meeting of the Children's Aid Society, is exercising the rights of his office to the very letter. He has been seeking out the children who should be at school, and already has warned a number of parents that their children must be sent to school.

The people of to-day should not have to be told their duty, as they surely must realize that their children have no chance to succeed in the world without a fair education. Those who persist in allowing their children to absent themselves from school, will find that the law will compel them to send the children to school, if a warning from the officer is not heeded.

THE JUDGMENT WAS QUASHED

Judge Weller Nullified The Police Court Judgment in Liquor Case

The police court judgment against Mr. Walter Head of Brennan's liquor store, Simcoe street, was quashed yesterday afternoon by His Honour Judge Weller. The original charge was of having sold liquor to an Indian named John George of Chemong, and being found guilty, Mr. Head was fined $50 ort wo months in jail.

George, with another Indian named Dow, were in the city on December 20, secured some fire-water, and when they arrived home in Chemong began a little pow-wow, which ended up in a regular war dance with the two jolly braves the centre of attraction. In the investigation that was made the Indians told Inspector Stewart that they got the liquor from Mr. Head.

Before Judge Weller the evidence given did not agree in many points with that received in the police court and was quite contradictory. Mr. D. O'Connell of O'Connell & Gordon represented Mr. Head, and Mr. W. H. Moore appeared in behalf of the prosecution.

FURTHER EXPLANATION

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Dear Sir,—In your issue of Monday, January 20, I saw, an attempt made by Mr. Mober to deny what he said at the Douro nomination. This is uncalled for. What the ratepayers of the county want is an explanation from Mr. Belcher regarding those serious charges made by Mr. Mober. For any attempt of the latter to deny what he said would be useless, as there were scores of people present who are ready to testify that Mr. Mober did make the charges claimed against the county engineer. In his denial he says (we) "farmers cannot always find words to express what we mean." If this be the case with Mr. Mober I would advise his friends to keep him off all public platforms in future for his own benefit. Mr. Mober also stated that he procured blue paper and copied the specifications, so he (the engineer) "could not fool him," and when asked if he meant Mr. Belcher, he replied that he did, for whom, he says in his letter to the Review, he has the greatest respect.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for space in your valuable paper.

Yours truly,
COUNTY RATEPAYER.

OMEMEE AND LOCAL OPTION VIEWS

Writer Deduces That no Supporter of The License System Can be in The Right

REFERS TO FORMER LETTER

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—A quotation from a magazine having recently appeared in the Peterborough press regarding the late local option campaign in Omemee, a few words in reply may not be out of place. The statement made is in brief: that the local bonifacer, a quiet, inoffensive man, in his endeavour to keep the law strictly, refused liquor to certain persons, and they in revenge circulated a local option petition with the final result of having the bylaw carried at the polls; that in consequence of this, the hotelkeeper will have his living taken away, and that the temperance people ought to be ashamed of themselves.

The remarks might pass but that an impression may get abroad; (1) that a considerable number of Omemee citizens dislike the present licensee; (2) that the temperance people have done something of which they should be ashamed. But to one word exception must be taken and that is "inoffensive." Any bar is an offence against right, if not against the law. As to the personal question I believe it is the general opinion that no person has anything to say against the hotelkeeper in question as a citizen, and that it is also the opinion of the majority that the personal popularity of himself and family and the way the law has been kept, has done more to hinder local option coming to Omemee than anything else for ten years back, and that the citizens would be pleased to see him remain. So much for the personal.

The remaining facts stated are by all accounts correct. But some facts are not stated which might be stated. For instance it is not mentioned that the question was in local politics already, but the issue was clouded by other issues and did not get a chance to show itself. The temperance sentiment of the district is well known to those who are familiar with it, attesting its strength in Omemee, and at three or four other polls by a combined majority of nearly 150 out of a vote of 175. Again, things have been happening in Omemee, for a number of years, which have culminated in the present bylaw. It was certain to come shortly and when the opportunity arrived it was taken. When Peterborough gets a fine, one we hope it will see in the same way. (Local papers please copy.) Lastly, while these supposed to be seeking revenge were active, the work was mainly carried on by a large number of persons with no axes to grind and hardly a vote which could have been polled, remained out when the returns were read.

The writer, whoever he may be, does not appear to be a professing Christian who reads his Bible or he would have known that the Word of God places itself on record at all points as utterly opposed to the traffic in strong drink. It points out the dangers of even moderate drinking, pictures the wretchedness of those who indulge in intoxicants, and warns all, that mind overcome by it shall enter the heavenly city. The liberty of the individual clashes here with liberty of conscience. If temperance people feel that their conscience will not permit them to be partners in the liquor traffic, what right has anyone to make them violate these consciences? So that the duty of the man who is a professing Christian; if he is one, it may be more obscure, but as most Omemee citizens are attached to some denomination or other the number of those on whom the Bible claim might not be binding is not large enough as Omemee to enable a candidate for Parliament to recover his deposit.

The position of the supporter of the license system may be mathmatically demonstrated thus:—

If it be possible, for a supporter of the license system to also in the right. Then as a supporter he is also a partner in the business. (Report of revenue received by Government.) Also because he is in the right the Word of God agrees with his position, (Westminster Confession, Rule of Faith and Practice.) Therefore the Word of God agrees with the position of the liquor traffic. (Hyp.)

But the Word of God expressly forbids anyone to have any partnership in the traffic whatever. (Eph. 5, 11.)

Therefore the Word of God both agrees with and opposes the traffic, which is impossible.

The supporter of license is not in the right. Hence no supporter of the license system can be in the right. (Q.E.D.)

So the temperance people can say with Peter:—"Whether we ought to obey God rather than men, judge ye;" and with Luther: "Here I stand, I can do no other, so help me God."

Yours truly,
"LOCAL OPTION."

Omemee, Jan. 23, 1908.

STREET CARS WERE KEPT BUSY

2500 People Used the Cars Last Night—Toboggan Slide and Check Room Also Busy

The street railway carnival last night was an all-round financial success. The cars were crowded from 7 until after 11 o'clock and the toboggans at the park were all rented. A large revenue was also derived from the checking stand, which did a rushing business. According to the statement made by the railway company this morning to the Examiner there were 3,500 fares collected during the evening. The receipts for last night almost doubled those of any other evening this winter.

Health of Canadian Women

A Subject Much Discussed At Women's Clubs—The Future of a Country Depends on the Health of Its Women.

Miss Helena Mc Kinnon Mrs. Anne McKay

At the New York State Assembly of Mothers a prominent New York doctor told the 500 women present that healthy women were so rare as to be almost extinct.

This seems to be a sweeping statement of the condition of women. Yet how many do you know who are perfectly well and do not have some trouble arising from a derangement of the female organism which manifests itself in headaches, backaches, nervousness, that bearing-down feeling, painful or irregular periods, pelvic catarrh, displacement of the female organs, indigestion or sleeplessness? There is a tried and true remedy for all these ailments. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored more Canadian women to health than all other remedies in the world. It regulates, strengthens and cures diseases of the female organism as nothing else can. For thirty years it has been curing the worst forms of female complaints.

Such testimony as the following should be convincing.

Mrs. Anna McKay of 326 Spadina Avenue, Toronto, Ont., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"Being a mother of five children, I had had experience with the general troubles of my sex. I was lacerated when one of my children was born, and from that hour I date all of my afflictions. I found that within a few months my health was impaired, I had female weakness and serious inflammation. I became weak and dizzy, but kept on my feet, dragging through my work without life or pleasure. A neighbor who had been helped by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound insisted that I take at least one bottle. I did so and felt so much better that I kept on the treatment and it made me a strong and well woman. The few dollars I spent for the medicine cannot begin to pay what it was worth to me."

Miss Helena McKinnon of Sand Bay, Ont., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I consider Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound the best medicine in the world for a woman sick and weak from exhaustion, irregularities and overwork. I have found from personal experience that it is all and more than it is recommended to be. I only wish that every sick woman would try it, for it cured me of suppressed periods and irregularity, and has cured many of my friends of the same difficulty, in fact all who have used it have nothing but good to say of its efficacy. Please accept a grateful woman's thanks for all it has accomplished in my case."

When women are troubled with irregular, suppressed or painful periods, weakness, pelvic catarrh, displacements, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation, backache, bloating, (or flatulency), general debility, indigestion, and nervous prostration, or are beset with such symptoms as dizziness, faintness, lassitude, excitability, irritability, nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, "all-gone" and "want-to-be-left-alone" feelings, blues, and hopelessness, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles. No other medicine in the world has received such unqualified endorsement. No other medicine has such a record of cures of female troubles. Refuse to buy any other medicine, for you need the best.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. The present Mrs. Pinkham is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, her assistant before her decease, and for twenty-five years since her advice has been freely given to sick women. Her advice and medicine have restored thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Succeeds where Others Fail.

UTMOST PUBLICITY

In again sending out to some of the policyholders and others, the Annual Report as made by this Company, as at the 31st of December, 1906, I wish to refer to the Investments, and to draw public attention to them as being Wide Spread, instead of benefitting a special section. The premium income being from the whole country, likewise the funds have been and are Available for the Various Parts of Canada, and not simply for an isolated section or a particular portion, and while abnormal rates of interest are not demanded, the investments must be conceeded to be eminently remunerative and satisfactory.

The Report for 1907, with list of investments made, and securities held, will follow the holding of the Annual Meeting the last Wednesday in February, and will be well distributed.

Pe-ru-na Promptly Relieves Severe Cold and La Grippe.

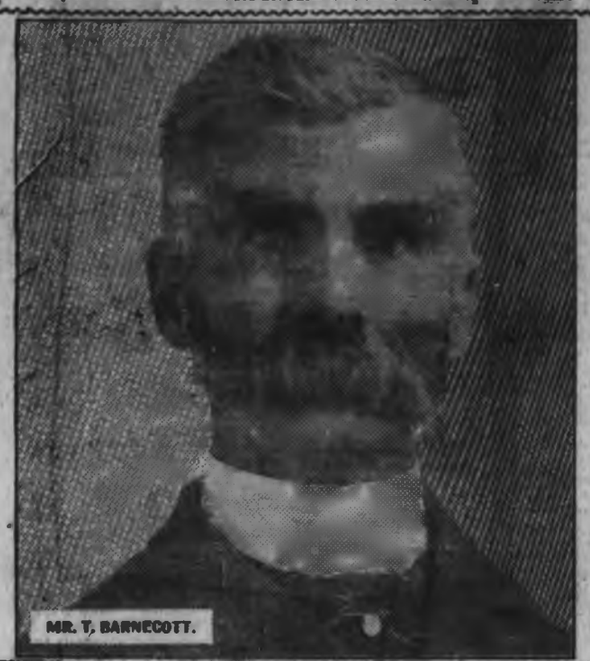
Mr. T. Barnecott, West Aylmer, Ontario, Can., writes:

"Last winter I was ill with pneumonia after having la grippe. I took Peruna for two months, when I became quite well, and I can say that any one can be cured by it in a reasonable time and at little expense. Every time I take a cold, I take some Peruna, which makes me well again.

"I also advised it for my daughter who was so ill with prostration that she could not follow her trade of dressmaking. A bottle of Peruna made such a change in her that she has been able to follow her business ever since.

"I also induced a young lady, who was all rundown and confined to the house, to take Peruna, and after taking Peruna for three months she is able to follow her trade of tailoring.

"I can recommend Peruna for all such who are ill and require a tonic."



MR. T. BARNECOTT.

EVERY year, during the inclement weather of winter, there is an epidemic of catarrh. The disease is really catarrhal in nature, but from the form it assumes, has been commonly termed the 'grip.'

Splendid Remedy For La Grippe.

Mr. Frank H. Fielder, 213 Pleasant Ave., Montgomery, Ala., formerly principal of Haynesville High School, writes:

"I can truthfully say that Peruna is a splendid remedy for la grippe and a good tonic for building up the system."

La grippe is very tenacious when it once gets a firm hold upon the system, and in addition to a thorough, systemic catarrh remedy, a great deal of patience and persistence in the treatment are required to eradicate the disease.

Peruna, an internal catarrh remedy, is one of the best medicines ever devised to meet the exigencies of these cases. The large number of commendatory letters received by Dr. Hartman, the inventor of Peruna, in behalf of his remedy is proof sufficient of its value as a reliable medicine for the 'grip.'

Prompt Relief.

Mr. Frank Bauer, Minneiska, Minn., writes: "I suffered with la grippe. I took Peruna and in four days I was able to go out."

HAVELOCK CARNIVAL A SUCCESS

Many Skaters in Uniform—The Council Meeting and Other News

TO INCREASE THE LICENSES

Havelock, January 28th. — Council met on Monday at 8 p.m. Present, the reeve, councillors Campney, Knox, Woods and Phillips.

Mr Graham presented a petition signed by R J Graham and 99 others, asking to have a bylaw submitted to the electors to raise the hotel license fee $500 more than the present fee, or more.

Moved by Messrs Campney and Wood that the petition be received and a bylaw submitted to the ratepayers to raise the license to the figure asked for by the petitioners.—Carried.

The council then adjourned to meet at the call of the clerk.

A very successful masquerade carnival was held in the skating rink on Friday evening, January 24. There was a good attendance and a great number of excellent costumes. The judging commenced at 8.30. The judges were as follows: Mrs C A Gheat, Miss Margaret Mayor, Mr C A Gheat and Mr T Dineen.

The following were some of those in costume and what they represented—

Miss E Lancaster, Japanese.
Miss M Kelly, Union Jack.
Mrs Cross, A Bride.
Maud Campney, Calendar Girl.
Irene McWilliams, Indian Girl.
Bertha Bryans, Queen of Cards.
Grace McDermitt, Flower Girl.
Catharine McNicholl, Fairy Queen.
Lilian McNicholl, Rainbow.
Maggie Kneiwasser, Ghost.
Mrs McMullen, Canada.
Gentlemen.
Mr. Cameron, The Man in Overalls.
Mr. McMullen, " "
Mr C Harrington, Young Lady.
Mr A Haig, Washerwoman.
Mr Morris, Sailor Boy.
Ralph Fairman, Indian.

There was also a number of others in costume.

Those taking prizes were:

Fancy dressed lady, Eva Lancaster.
Comic dressed lady, Maud Campney.
Best dressed girl, Bertha Bryans.
Best dressed boy, Ralph Fairman.
Fancy dressed gentleman, W. Foster.
Comic dress, gentleman, S Barlow.

After judging, a number of races was run, off. The prizes were very costly and beautiful and were given by the business men of the town.

A hockey match will be played on Monday night between the town team and Madoc. The puck will be faced at eight o'clock sharp. Madoc has a pretty swift team and an interesting game may be expected. Havelock seems very unfortunate this year, having lost one of their best players, Mr. Norman Stibbs, who has gone to Montreal.

Among those who attended the Trainman's Ball in the Temple building, Toronto, on Wednesday, January 22nd, were Mr and Mrs Ed Chapman, Mr and Mrs Wm Webb, Mr and Mrs Alex Innis, Miss A Bryans, Mr T Dineen, Mr F Chapman and Mrs E Bennett.

Miss Emily Swan of Warsaw was the guest of the Misses Bryans, Saturday.

Mr Oscar Bracken was in town on Saturday.

A number of trainmen attended the funeral of Mr. Martin Doyle, at Toronto Junction, on Thursday, Jan. 23rd. Mr. Doyle was a former resident of Havelock. He leaves to mourn his loss a wife and son.

REEVE WAS UNABLE TO ATTEND

Burleigh and Anstruther Council Meeting Was Held Without Him

Burleigh and Anstruther, Jan. 28—As Reeve Booth was confined to his bed through illness, the members of the council decided to adjourn the meeting called for the 13th until Saturday, January 18. The reeve being still unable to attend, the members, after taking the necessary declarations, moved J. W. Lean to the chair, Mr. R. Hales, who had been elected at the top of the poll, found that he could not qualify, so placed a disclaimer to his seat in the clerk's hands, thus giving the seat to Mr. B. Windsor.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted.

A bylaw appointing Messrs. I. Lean, and Wm. Spence as auditors, one appointing Mr. B. Coonan assessor, and one appointing Mr. N. Lean a member of the Board of Health, received their several readings, were passed, sealed and signed by the chairman and clerk.

Moved by Coun. McCauley, seconded by Coun. Stone, that the following accounts be paid:

H G Fitzgerald, supplies for engine	$ 5.55
T G Eastland, postage	3.00
John McCauley, work on road
Mount Julian	4.00
J C Stone, holding election and returning box No. 1	6.50
Thos. Stevens, holding election and returning box No. 2	5.00
Dr. Bell, expense	.60
Phillip Elmhirst, road work, J. Elmhirst	3.00
Robt. Potter, road work, T. Peters	2.00
	$29.95

Moved by Coun. McCauley, seconded by Coun. Stone, that the Peterborough Times receive the contract for 1908 printing on the same terms as last year.—Carried.

Council adjourned to meet at call of the reeve.

British Premier's Health.

London, Jan. 29.—The condition of the Premier, Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, was improved yesterday, and he was able to preside at a meeting of the Cabinet council. He gave a banquet last night to his followers, as is customary on the eve of the reassembling of Parliament, but he did not risk attending the reception given by Lady Beauchamp in his behalf. He will still observe all precautions, but it is expected that he will be present at the state opening of Parliament.

Gave Life For Boy.

New York, Jan. 29.—John Gladys, a machinist, lost his life at Great Kills, S. I., yesterday, in saving that of his 11-year-old son. The boy and his father were walking along the tracks of the Staten Island Rapid Transit Co. when the little fellow stepped directly in front of a moving train. Seeing the peril in which the boy had placed himself Gladys pushed him out of danger, but slipped on the icy track.

Pale, Anaemic, Sickly Girls

REGAIN COLOR, HEALTH, AND VIGOR WHEN THE BLOOD IS ENRICHED BY

Your mirror will tell you if you are anaemic, for the unnatural pallor of your gums, lips and eyelids will indicate the thinness and weakness of the blood.

Anaemia is most common among young women and is marked by pallor weakness, indigestion, irritability, spells of dizziness and fainting, heart palpitation, severe headaches and feelings of extreme exhaustion.

The blood is lacking in the elements which go to form energy, vigour and strength and demands such assistance as is best supplied by Dr Chase's Nerve Food.

This great food cure sharpens the appetite, invigorates the nerves which control the digestive fluids, strengthens the heart's action and naturally and gradually restores the sufferer from weak blood to health, strength and vigour.

The headaches and eyeaches of pale nervous school girls, of office girls, and of factory employees, are largely the result of thin, watery blood, and will disappear when the blood is enriched and the system built up by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Mrs. D. Hobbins, 429 Charlotte street, Peterborough, Ont., writes:—"My daughter was troubled with a weak fluttering heart. The least excitement seemed to aggravate her trouble, and at times she had severe racking headaches. She became so bad that it affected her nervous system and she felt miserable most of the time. Through the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food her condition is entirely changed. Her nerves are steady, the headaches are gone and the action of the heart is strong and regular. We have every reason to give the credit to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food."

Put this great restorative to the test by noting your increase in weight while using it.

Dr Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

WHAT CAUSED COLLISION?

Inquest Fails to Bring Out How Campbell Met Death.

St. Catharines, Jan. 29.—The cause of the fatality on the Grand Trunk at Merritton Monday night seems to be rather mysterious. At the inquest by Coroner Merritt evidence was given by two of the crew of the wrecked train, A. E. Von Buswick, brakeman, and L. S. Ward, conductor. The train left for Fort Erie at 4.15, with orders to run to Merritton. Near the station the train stopped and the witnesses left the caboose to find several cars overturned and stretched across the main line with a fast train approaching from the Falls.

Von Buswick harried to flag the train, which was running 15 to 20 miles an hour, but the engineer could not possibly have stopped the train and avoid disaster.

What happened to the deceased man, Harvey Campbell, is not known. He was last seen alive standing on top of coal cars near those which overturned, and when the wreck was partially cleared the dead body was found beneath a box-car. Ward said he personally examined every car before leaving Welland and could not explain why the mishap had occurred, unless there was a flaw in one of the castings. In order to secure evidence of the crew of the other train, the enquiry adjourned till Thursday. Last night the coroner gave a permit for the burial and the body of deceased was taken to Camlachie by Brakeman Von Buswick.

SEVERAL WOMEN INJURED.

Fainted and Were Trampled Upon on Brooklyn Bridge.

New York, Jan. 29.—The new "through to Manhattan" service on the Brooklyn bridge went into morning and evening rush-hour operation for the first time.

Two hundred and fifty thousand persons were squeezed from Brooklyn to Manhattan and back in about seven and one-half total hours. It was admitted by officials of the B. R. T., and by Bridge Commissioner Stevenson, that nothing like such a crush has ever been seen.

Hundreds of women fainted and were trampled where they fell, hundreds of others were picked up and passed bodily over the heads of the crowds to fresh air, and still other hundreds were revived by heel prods and rib kicks, and were able to struggle to their feet and get to platforms and on trains somehow.

Hats, cravats, pieces of fur and breadths of skirts were lost in the melee, and after the tumult platform men cleaned up thousands of rubber overshoes that had been torn off.

At no time during the rush hours were there cars on hand to receive the passengers on the crowded platforms.

MEN BLOWN TO PIECES.

Terrible Results of Dynamite Explosion on Railway Construction.

Kenora, Jan. 29.—Two distressing dynamite accidents occurred Monday causing loss of life, the first at the railway gravel pit at Arwood, where an Italian, Cesseli, employed as powder man thawing sticks, was blown to pieces. The trunk of the body was found a hundred yards away among the bushes. An inquest is being held.

The second accident happened to a Norwegian named Johnson at McDougall's Camp, Hawk. He was tamping a hot hole when the explosion followed. The body was frightfully mangled, the heart being blown out, and the head and limbs torn off. The remains are awaiting the inquest.

An old western pioneer named William Major was found dead in bed Monday. He was 74 years a resident of Kenora, and formerly employed by the railway as foreman.

Bryce to Resign?

New York, Jan. 29.—The Berlin correspondent of The Herald cables:

"I hear that for a cause which I am unable to ascertain Mr. James Bryce has the intention of resigning his position as ambassador. A diplomate whom I saw yesterday and who knows the conditions at Washington, prophesied that in the event of Mr. Bryce going Sir Cecil Arthur Spring-Rice, the British Minister to Persia, would surely be his successor; that is to say, if President Roosevelt's inclinations are in any way consulted."

Will Sustain Moroccan Policy.

Paris, Jan. 29.—The debate on the interpellation regarding Morocco was concluded in the Chamber of Deputies yesterday.

The discussion was devoid of interest, save for M. Jaures' insistence that a rapprochement between France and Germany was necessary for the peace of Europe.

The majority in favor of sustaining the policy of the Government in Morocco was 336, the vote being 429 to 93.

Japan Should Protect Citizens.

Tokio, Jan. 29.—Replying to interpellations in the lower House of the Diet, Foreign Minister Viscount Hayashi said it was the duty of the central Government to conserve the interests of Japanese subjects resident in other countries by preventing a further exodus of their countrymen, which might be prejudical to those already residing abroad, and the restrictions therefore would be extremely rigid

SPLENDID FOR THE OLD FOLKS

Prescription To Relieve Bladder Trouble Which Anyone Can Mix

IT ACTS ON THE KIDNEYS

Cut this out and put it in some safe place, for it is valuable and worth more than anything else in the world if you should have an attack of rheumatism or bladder trouble or any derangement of the kidneys whatever. The preparation is simple, and can be made up by anyone at home. The ingredients can be had at any good prescription pharmacy and all that is necessary is to shake them well in a bottle.

Here it is: Fluid extract dandelion, one-half ounce; compound Kargon, one ounce; compound syrup of sarsaparilla, three ounces.

Take a teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime. A few doses is said to relieve almost any case of bladder trouble, frequent urination, pain and scalding, weakness and backache, pain above the kidneys, etc. It is now claimed to be the method of curing chronic rheumatism, because of its direct and positive action upon the eliminative tissues of the kidneys. It cleanses these sponge-like organs and gives them life and power to sift and strain the poisonous waste matter and uric acid from the blood relieving the worst forms of Rheumatism and kidney and bladder troubles. The extract dandelion acts upon the stomach and liver and is used also extensively for relieving constipation and indigestion. Compound sarsaparilla cleans and enriches the blood.

As you or anyone of your family, especially the old folks, may be attacked at any time it would be wise to cut this out and save it.

A well known local druggist is authority that this prescription is safe to use at any time.

Mix it yourself.

BACK FROM O. A. C. AT GUELPH

Bridgenorth Young Men are Home Again —Some Accidents

Examiner Special.

Bridgenorth, Jan. 28.—The Sunday storm has blocked the roads up badly and will delay traffic to a considerable extent for some time to come.

Messrs. Clayton Telford, Allen Mann, Joseph Mann, Wm. Scott and Charles Moore returned Monday from a short course term at the O.A.C., Guelph, well pleased with the results. No doubt they will be better prepared to follow their usual occupation as farmers.

The concert in the Methodist church has been postponed until Feb. 6th on account of Mr. Gliddon having an engagement in the city.

Mr. Wm. Mann is suffering from blood poisoning, having got a graze on the hand from a hockey stick while playing hockey.

Lyman Ball is suffering from a sprained wrist as a result of a fall on the ice while engaged in a game of hockey.

Government Of City By Commissioners Discussed By The Board Of Trade

Interesting and Profitable Session Was Held Last Night--Mr. W. H. Moore, K.C. Presented a Well Prepared Instructive Paper on The Subject Which Formed The Basis For a Lively and Intelligent Discussion Of Municipal Government

BOARD OF WORKS UNDER COMMISSION WAS APPROVED OF

"Municipal Government by Commission" was the principal subject discussed at a largely attended meeting of the Board of Trade last night, and the piece de resistance was provided by Mr. W. H. Moore, who read a comprehensive, well-prepared and interesting paper on the subject. His remarks were listened to with close attention, as the members showed by their intelligent discussion of the problem. The topic was discussed by a large number of those present, and the consensus of opinion was in favour of the commission system of government. Two resolutions were passed, one providing for the assumption of the duties of the Board of Works by a commission, and the other for a reduction of the number of aldermen and for their election for two years.

Dr. Morrison occupied the chair, and there was a large representation of members and visitors.

A number of communication were read and left in the hands of a committee to deal with.

Ald. J. J. Turner, Jr., wrote the Board, regretting the fact that he was unable to be present.

After the preliminary business was finished, Mr. Moore was called upon to read his paper, which was as follows:—

The existence of a ruling power of some character in political society, that existed for a period beyond the records of History. For ages it has been taken for granted that in every collective body of persons, there is a determinative body, whether consisting of one individual or a few or many individuals, whose command the rest of those having common interests, obey. The origin of government arose from what is called social compact, for the protection of person and property. All societies of men, however low they may be in the scale of humanity, exhibit the germs of government, the primitive type of ruler being King, Judge, Priest and General. Of the forms of government, past and present, the chief have been and are unlimited and limited monarchy and republican. All good or bad is not centered in any one of the forms. Each has points of advantage or the The unlimited form sometimes called despotic, and which some persons of eminence have pronounced the best of all, if properly administered, (emphasis on last two words) is frequently deformed by the apparent necessity of conducting its affairs under commissions, commonly called bureaus, with their irresistible temptations and inevitable corruption; the Republican, claimed to be wholly of and for the people, but marred by a want of continuity of office and action, and in many other desirable essentials, generally provided in a limited monarchy with representative institutions. The latter form, as illustrated in Great Britain, is conceded as pre-eminent to every other form of government, the world has known. In this case by reason of the Chief Magistrate holding office for life, there is given a more uninterrupted sequel of governmental and administrative action. The combined governing body in Great Britain, King Lords and Commons, known to the world as Parliament and the mother of parliaments, is uncontrolled by a written constitution, conservative in conduct, flexible in all parts, with freedom broadening down from precedent to precedent. Yet there exists a democratic spirit in the constitution, to a degree unknown in the Republic of North America, in this, that the people through their representatives can make their opinions, more readily felt in Parliament, than can electors in the Republic. The party in power in Great Britain only remains in office, so long as it reflects the people's sentiment, but in the United States it continues four years certain, and no matter to what extent the Executive opposes its views to the view of the country, it is supreme and can defy public opinion The government of Canada is founded on and corresponds in great measure, to that of Great Britain, but, by reason of its having a written constitution, is too rigid and not always ready to fit into the varied and growing problems and exigencies of the government of a great community. At the present day in all advanced civilized societies of the human race, government largely, if not wholly, emanates from the people and their submission to the executive authority of government, which they themselves have created, is a simple compliance with the laws which they themselves have enacted." In nations merely supplementary in character, government by commission may with advantage be admitted and applied, but in relation to the main problems of political or municipal import, and in a free country, the body of persons composing the state or the city, and possessed of civil rights and suffrages will, I believe, never show themselves of the privilege of selecting those who are to represent them and make or administer their laws. It is unlikely in the extreme, that municipal bodies with their wide and various powers will ever be dissolved. Home rule thus has at times and in certain localities inspired distrust, without reality, is something to which the whole body of people of this country will in local affairs as in the larger interests, cling with increasing tenacity.

A municipality in Ontario is a combination for the self government of a city, town, etc., by means of a corporation empowered to maintain order and manage its affairs. It consists of a mayor, warden, etc., with aldermen or councillors. It acts as a person by its common seal, has perpetual succession, and may hold lands to a limited extent without permission of Parliament. Every such body has power to make bylaws, provided they are not unjust or unreasonable, or inconsistent with the Municipal Act, and to enforce them by penalties.

In England, until recently, franchises were granted to cities and towns, only by special charter from the reigning monarch, under which common council were elected to perform functions as such, but very restricted in their powers as compared with what we possess. In Ontario a municipal act of any value, was first passed about seventy years ago. It then occupied less than thirty pages of the statute book. Today it requires four hundred pages to contain it, and has become a law, far-reaching, manifold and useful, yet so obscure and involved in many of its 759 sections, with a great number of sub-sections, that many a solicitor and layman, most parient and reverent in searching for the meaning, has been known to declare that forbearance had ceased to be a virtue, and an emphatic interjection become excusable. It often places the enquirer in the condition of the lady who declared the sermon, she had heard, was indeed very fine, but she had not the presumption to understand it.

It took a long time to bring the English and the Canadian Constitution, into their present superb form and comprehension, and it is the hope that the law, relating to our local institutions, may be resolved in its provisions to the ready understanding of all, and that tinkering by the Legislature may cease, at least for a year or two thereafter.

Probably the most distinguished commission government in the proper acceptance of the term, of a municipality or district, in its proper acceptance of the term, is that of the District of Columbia with ing the life of the commission, the tax a population of over 250,000, and an assessed value of $250,000,000, seventy square miles in extent, in which is situate the capital of the United States. This district is governed by three commissioners, appointed by the President of the United States, they perform the executive duties, the various departments of the civic government being apportioned amongst them. Legislation is enacted by Congress. The district has courts of its own, the judges being appointed by the President. The people have no votes in the management of affairs. Thus is presented the singular republic, governed by an absolar condition of the capital of a United States, probably in the world. The debt of the city is about $24,000,000, and the rate of taxation 15 mills in the dollar. One-half of the interest on the debt, and one-half of the current expenses of management, of this city is borne by the Government. The district has an excellent common school system, managed by the Commissioners. If autocratic conduct for good has ever been exercised, to excel this, I have not discovered it; and those who have contended that despotic government by an honest, capable head, is the very best of governments, will refer to this example of Washington in proof of their theory.

Galveston, in the State of Texas, with a population at about 50,000, is a city often referred to as being under government by a board of commissioners. Having heard of this fact I last September wrote the Mayor for information, on the subject. On 4th of October I received a copy of the city's charter, empowering it to adopt this so-called form of government in place of the ordinary council, and a very full and interesting letter from this Mayor-President, which for the words of wisdom it contains, deserves and will repay the careful perusal of it all. This is what he says:

Dear Sir:—

The Galveston commission government is the result of conditions forced upon her by distress and calamity.

After this disastrous storm of September 8th, 1900, had cleared away, our people realized that the then existing city government was totally unequal to the occasion. Previous to this our city government had been conducted not unlike that of hundreds of other cities in the United States, in an unsatisfactory manner, expenditures exceeding receipts and the corporation getting the worst in many of its transactions.

However, such conditions are well known and understood by every one who has given municipal government and thought, hence I will touch briefly on the changes and results of our new government, which has been for better, though in other places and conditions it might have been a failure.

No particular form of government in itself guarantees satisfactory results, and the same thing may be accomplished under any form or system, when the municipal officers and employees are all united in an honest, efficient effort for the public good.

I believe satisfactory results are more likely to be obtained under our present form of government, where the duties and responsibilities are placed directly at the door of each officer and employee.

Our city government was inaugurated and called a commission government, having originally a majority of its officers were appointed and commissioned by the Governor of take four municipal government our State. How that particular feature of our character has been repealed, it having been held unconstitutional by one of our State courts, on the ground that the voter was wrongfully deprived of his franchise though otherwise our city government remains unchanged, and our Commissioners are elected by popular vote.

Efficient administration, especially County and Municipal, must emanate

MR. W. H. MOORE
Who Read Paper On Municipal Government by Commission at Board of Trade Last Night

from, and be supported by, the people. Matters would be very much simplified if the old adage of letting "the office seek the man rather than the man seek the office," could be carried out. Every community has its quota of citizens who will sacrifice a part of their time and talent for the public good, but unless they have a majority of the voters at the polls on election day, to assist them, their efforts and labor, in inducing good and capable men to run for and accept office will be lost, hence the responsibility of good government reverts back and rests with the ordinary citizen at the polls on election day.

The voters have not failed to do their duty in Galveston since the commission was inaugurated, and results have been highly satisfactory. It has been clearly demonstrated that a municipal government can be operated and conducted upon a strictly business basis, and that harmony can replace political bickerings, which so often exist in the councils. Good government does not come by accident in the present day and time, when the place hunter and demagogue is abroad in the land, but can be accomplished only by the earnest effort of every citizen who loves and takes a pride in the welfare and good government of his own town and home.

Municipal government comes nearer home and affects more directly the interest of the people than that of any other, yet in many localities it is the most neglected. The question is asked: What has your reform government accomplished? The result can be more briefly stated by reviewing and comparing conditions. On taking charge in September, 1901, the Commissioners found the City government

Practically without credit.

A large floating debt in the shape of scrip or due bills given in settlement of services and labor performed, and supplies bought, at prices largely above their market value.

Refusal of many good citizens to pay their taxes on account of want of confidence.

No permanent public improvement under construction or contemplated.

Under a harmonious business business administration the exact opposite of the above conditions prevails to-day in our city government, and all has been accomplished without borrowing one dollar, or issuing a bond, although our resources were cur- over twenty-five per cent, caused by storm losses.

Our tax levy in 1900 was 1.57, while for the present year it is 1.60. During the life of the commission, the tax levy has not exceeded the present amount, except by a few points, and besides paying current expenses, the City has paid off over $190,000.00 of floating indebtedness in shape of scrip, judgments and interest, and paid cash for all permanent improvements amounting to over $100,000.00.

Our city government has undergone no change since its organization, the same Commissioners being elected for the third time, except the Mayor-President who died not quite two years since.

I have endeavoured to give you, as per your request, a few outlines of our city government.

Yours very truly,
H. A. LAUDER,
Mayor-President."

It will be observed that when this commission was installed in 1900, Galveston was suffering from distress and a terrible calamity, and its affairs were being very badly managed.

Desperate diseases are said to require extreme remedies, which probably accounts for the citizens having seemingly given up control to five members, for it will be noticed after all it was more a form and name, than a reality, which they parted with. From the charter I find the government of the city is vested in a Mayor and four Commissioners who are elected by the popular vote, and hold office for two years; that they have, exercise and enjoy all the rights, powers and duties of Mayor and Aldermen in cities of the State. Each Commissioner receives a salary of $1,200, and the Mayor $2,000; and each must qualify to the extent of $5,000. Some special features are that city property of every kind is vested in the Commissioners, and is exempt from execution for debt which means that if debt should arise for which funds are not in hand, the debt will be provided for by special rate; and that the funds of the city cannot be garnished. No demand for payment of taxes is necessary, but all ratepayers must attend the collector's office and pay their taxes. No Commissioner must be interested in any contract in relation to the city. Eight hours shall constitute a day's labour, and not less than $2.00 per day shall be paid for public work done either by the day or on contract let by the city. The city's charter is a very extensive and complicated document, but I have given some of its features. It is yet too early to form an opinion that would justify other municipalities in adopting the experiment of Galveston, and I think it might be plausibly and indeed well argued, that in the end, the provisions of this charter are not materially different from our own, were our Aldermen elected for more than one year; and I also think the provisions of our Municipal Act are generally otherwise equal or superior to those of this charter. The Mayor's remark that "no particular form of government in itself guarantees satisfactory results, and the same thing may be accomplished under any form of system, when the municipal officers and employees are all united in an honest, efficient effort for the public good," touches the true chord.

It may safely be asserted that up to the present it has not been shown that government by commission (an expression not by any means well defined) has established itself of that successful use, as to replace City Councils with Commissioners for special purposes, notwithstanding the facts in relation to Washington, which is scarcely a fair illustration. But where it has been applied as an accessory to the chief municipal body, the members of which have been elected to office by the free choice of the people I am, confident it may so used with unquestionable advantage. Two local examples are well known, the Water Commissioners and the City Trust. The former, elected for three years, have control and management of the water system of the city, and all the plant in connection therewith, also the providing of all extensions that may be called for from time to time. They may spend in each year $10,000 in mains, without the assent of the ratepayers, and they can fix such rates for the use of water as are in their judgment proper and reasonable, out of such rates providing the sinking fund and interest of all debentures issued for water works. By the passage of the Commissioners' by-law, at the late election, they may assess frontage rates on vacant property adjoining a main, which will enable them to make a substantial increase of discount to water users. They also can make by-laws and rules for their own government, and for the government of all water takers. Their conduct since entering upon office has been generally approved, and it is conceded that this department can be better managed by Commission than it is retained by the City Council.

The City Trust was created by Act of Parliament passed in 1861. It consists of five members, the first members having been appointed under the Act. They were Charles Bradfield, Samuel Dickson, James Stevenson, Edmund Chamberlen and William Hall, all men of probity, and undoubted character. Since that date, vacancies that have from time to time occurred, have been filled by the City Council, under the powers given by the Act. It is an institution unique in this, that in no other municipality in Ontario, does such a body exist. In it is vested the real estate of the city, charged with the letting, care, management and maintenance of such real estate, the net revenue derived, being applied by the Commissioners, towards payment of the sinking funds, and interest of the city debenture liability. But the chief reason for the creation of the body, was the determination of the wise citizens of forty-seven years ago that there should be a continuing authority, in one respect, superior to the Council, which latter, it was recognized was of a yearly changing complexion, and did not always perform those acts which preserved the safety and security of debenture holders, and therefore the credit of the city in its highest form. By the sixth section of the Act, the Commissioners are required in each year to deliver to the Council a statement of receipts and expenditures, and a demand to provide by special rate, and pay to them, a sum sufficient to meet the necessary interest of all debentures of the city, also the necessary yearly sinking funds, which are invested and re-invested by the Commissioners during the period the debentures have to run, so that there shall, as debentures mature, be present in Bank, to their credit, a sum sufficient to pay every debenture.

It is regrettable to remark that to-day a large proportion of the cities and towns of Ontario neglect their duty in relation to sinking funds, and some are applying to the next session of the Legislature, for relief, because of their imprudence, that will place them in the discredited list, and whose debentures will be looked at unfavourably by the investing public. By exercise of their past yearly demands, the Commissioners have at present the funds and securities deposited in Bank, which, with those to accrue, will be sufficient to meet every outstanding debenture of the city, and a substantial sum in excess, such excess arising by reason of their investments having earned, and likely to earn, more than anticipated by the Council. On the 30th of June, next, debentures, totalling $20,000, will be due, and the Commissioners have in Bank, the full required amount to redeem them on presentation.

For the reasons given, it is clearly essential to the continuance of the highest order of credit for the City, that the City Trust be made as efficient as possible, and that the latter body on their part keep the Council in full possession of their transactions. To obtain this efficiency, the membership of the Trust and the Council, should be kept wholly separate and apart from each other. A conflict of interest and duty may otherwise arise. The appearance, or possibility, of evil, is only a little better than evil itself. The correctness of this doctrine of separation was recognized in relation to the School Board and the Water Commissioners, and there are obvious and greater reasons why it should be observed here. The City Auditors audit the City Trust accounts, the same as they do the accounts of the city council, so the latter body has official knowledge of the Trust's proceedings. Neglect to observe this primary duty in preventing a dual membership of the two Boards, occurred some years ago. The result was not at all satisfactory, and will serve to make plain how injudicious it would be to permit it again. I therefore humbly suggest that provision be made to meet this desirable situation, as the law is silent on the subject.

It will be noticed that in this paper most attention has been devoted to home affairs, accounted for by the fact that the writer is more conversant with them, and because of the extreme difficulty of procuring information on the special subject under consideration, as applied to larger affairs, of which little experience has yet been had, or practical wisdom gained. The subject is debated at intervals, and occasionally with just cause when ratepayers are in a grumbling mood, often from interested motives, or want of knowledge of the real or fancied neglect, extravagance, imprudence, or whatever it may be, or seem to be, that is charged against Councils. At such periods there comes the assertion that the existing order of things must be ended or amended. Confident prediction may, notwithstanding, be safely made, that the abolishment of municipal Councils, elected by popular voice, will not occur in this era. Agitations, when conducted with moderation, will ever be productive of good. Public discussion of events is always profitable, and when persisted in intelligently, remedy is sure to be found for existing grievances. Without changing the mode of electing Councils, it is humanly certain that at no distant date there will be discovered a means of making them more adequate to the large responsibilities cast upon them. For the prevailing complaints as to the composition of Councils, the people at large are alone answerable, yet this body has never been wholly bad, as it will never be wholly good, in all its parts, the predominating quality being, however, almost always representative of the people, and this year's occupy that desirable position. The members of our Council may err, that is human, but if they do, they err honestly. Ratepayers should be deeply grateful that twelve good men can be found who are willing to give such practical proof of worthy citizenship as to serve without reward in the interests of 16,000 fellow citizens.

Experience gained in performance of duty is vital to wise execution of office, and continuity of purpose and design in the carrying out of public works can only be assured by a lengthening of the term of service for aldermen. The relation of mayor and aldermen to the ratepayers corresponds most strikingly to that of managers and directors of an incorporated company to the shareholders. These directors are invariably compensated for their labour, and no person can advance one valid reason why aldermen should not be indemnified in their sacrifice of time, for the general good, to say nothing of unjust censure they have to bear, too frequently indulged in, and proceeding mostly from those who refuse to accept office or serve the city in any capacity.

Three reforms are urgently needed and should be demanded from the Legislature: First, the number of aldermen reduced; second, the term of office lengthened to three years (the same as Water Commissioners), to assure a continuance of policy, freed from the oscillation that has too frequently marked and marred the conduct of Councils in the past; and, third, reasonable remuneration for services. Agitation must be continued for amendment of the law in these respects, and when they are attained, as attained they will be, the labours of municipal bodies will be attended with vastly improved results.

There was an interesting and profitable discussion on the subject at the conclusion of Mr. Moore's paper, in which a large number of the members took part.

Mr. D. W. Dumble was of the opinion that the present system of municipal government in Peterborough could be greatly improved, and went on to point out some of the defects, saying that it was impossible for a crowd of amateurs to conduct the business of the city in a proper manner. The same methods should be applied to the city's business as that of a private concern.

Rev. Canon Davidson thought that better results might be brought about by a system of commission. He suggested that it might be possible to secure the services of a municipal expert to assist the Council in its work. Such men could be found in many cities in the United States, and were giving good service.

City Clerk Armstrong was called upon to express an opinion. He believed that the plan being discussed by the Council of electing members for two years was a good one. He thought that, so far as possible, the administrative duties of the Council should be dealt with by commission, while the Council should attend to the legislation.

Ald. Johnston spoke of the good service done by the City Trust Commissioners and the Water Commissioners. He was in favour of the remuneration of the Council as suggested, and also of extending their term of service to two years. Ald. Johnston paid a tribute to City Clerk Armstrong in concluding his remarks.

Rev. J. R. Webb, in a neat speech, supported the suggestion of government by commission, and thought the number of the Council could, with profit, be reduced. He expressed surprise that the members of the Council were not elected by the ward system, believing it better to have each one represent a different section of the city.

The next speaker, Mr. F. W. Garvin, spoke briefly on the subject. His opinion was that some parts of the Council work could be done better by commission, suggesting that the Board of Works department be put under the control of a commissioner, in which case he was sure better work would be done.

Rev. J. G. Potter was called upon and expressed his pleasure at being present and having heard Mr. Moore's excellent paper. He dealt with several features of the paper in an interesting manner.

Mr. F. R. Yokome strongly supported the idea of having the Board of Works duties taken over by a commission, expressing the opinion that it would be possible to have much better work done under such a system. In this connection, he moved the resolution given below, which was subsequently carried.

Mr. Wm. Langford asked Mr. Moore of what use were the City Trust Commissioners if the city's debentures were not sold at a better rate than those of other places.

Mr. Moore explained that the selling of debentures had been taken out of the hands of the Commissioners many years ago, and that the members of the Trust Commission were not responsible for the price received.

Mr. H. B. H. Keener complimented Mr. Moore on his instructive and profitable address.

Mr. Yokome's motion, which was seconded by Mr. Moore, and which carried, was as follows:

"That this Board of Trade declare its approval of the extended application of the principle of government by commission to the point of intrusting the functions performed by the Board of Works to a commission of three members elected by the people, to hold office for three years, subject to retirement in the same order as the Water Commissioners, or that this appointment be made in a manner similar to that of the City Trust Commissioners."

It was moved by Mr. Dumble, seconded by Mr. Stevenson, "That the Board of Trade of Peterborough approve of an amendment to the municipal law to permit municipalities to elect a smaller number of councillors than at present, such councillors to hold office for two years, one-half to retire each year."—Carried.

Before the meeting adjourned, a vote of thanks was passed to Mr. Moore for his splendid paper, on motion of Ald. Johnston, seconded by Mr. G. W. Grem[illegible]

BRITISH DAIRYMEN MAY VISIT CITY NEXT SUMMER

Canada will be visited next summer by a party of about sixty dairymen from England and Scotland, and an effort will be made to have spent a portion of their sojourn in Canada in this city. The matter was brought up at the meeting of the Board of Trade last night by Mr. W S Dodds, who stated that he had received a communication from the head office in Scotland in regard to the proposed visit of the British dairymen.

The members of the Board were unanimous in their opinion that it was highly important that a visit of the dairymen to Peterborough should be secured if possible. Mr. D W Dumble in speaking of the matter said that the opinion of the British agriculturists would have great weight in the mother country and it was therefore highly important that they should be most favourably impressed with the agricultural possibilities offered by Canada. Other members of the Board expressed the same views and a resolution suggesting that the Board of Trade, the City Council, the County Council and local Dairy Association, co-operate in extending an invitation to the British dairymen to come to Peterborough on the occasion of their visit here next summer.

Mr. Dodd stated that he would lay the matter before the Council at its present meeting and it would also be presented to the City Council and an early reply will be sent to Glasgow.

WEDDING BELLS

MORGAN—RUTHERFORD

A very pretty January wedding was that celebrated at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Rutherford, Union street, this afternoon, when their youngest daughter, Miss Sadie Naomi Rutherford, was united in marriage to Mr. Harry Powell Morgan, son of Mrs. A. P. Morgan, Reid street. The ceremony was performed at 2.30 o'clock by Rev. E. A Pearson, of the George street Methodist church, in the presence of a large number of guests friends of both of the young people.

The ceremony took place in the drawing room beneath a very pretty arch of evergreens illuminated with coloured incandescent lights. The bride was given away by her father, while Mendelssohn's wedding march was played by Mrs. Geo. Hardill, the bride's sister.

The bride looked charming in a pretty gown of white mulle, with a bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid was the bride's cousin, Miss Mamie Anderson, whose gown was an attractive one of cream crepe de chine and who carried a bouquet of pink roses. Miss Norma Cox, the little niece of the groom made a very pretty flower girl, carrying a basket of lillies of the valley and wearing a handsome dress of pale blue mulle. Mr. R M Glover supported the groom.

At the conclusion of the ceremony, Mrs. E H Fegarty, of Port Hope, sang in excellent voice, the solo "Oh Fair, Oh Sweet, and Holy."

A recherche weddding repast was served, after which Mr. and Mrs. Morgan left on the 4.48 C. P. R. train for New York where the honeymoon will be spent. The bride's going away gown was of navy blue with an Alice blue hat to match.

Both of the contracting parties are very well known and very popular in Peterborough. The groom is a very successful young business man, being a vice-president of the Peterborough Hardware Company, and stands high in the estimation of the commercial men of the city, while his prowess in athletics particularly hockey, has made him known to almost every one in the city. The bride is a popular young lady, with a host of friends, and the best wishes of a very large circle will follow them in their wedded life.

Many costly and beautiful wedding presents were received by the young people, indicating the esteem in which they are held.

On their return to the city Mr. and Mrs. Morgan will reside on Reid street.

LEAHY-GARVEY

The marriage of Miss Katherine Garvey, eldest daughter of Mr. Michael Garvey, to Mr. Edward Leahy, son of Mr. Jas. Leahy, took place in St. Joseph Church, Douro, on Tuesday morning last at 10 o'clock. The nuptial mass was sung by Rev. W. J. Kailty, parish priest of Douro. A large number of friends of the contracting parties attended the ceremony. The bride, who was given away by her father, was attired in white satin with an overdress of marquisette, with filet prince lace and bands of satin, and wearing a veil and carrying a bouquet of white roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Agnes, who was attired in a dainty dress of pink crepe salina with white hat. The groom was supported by his brother, Michael James.

A reception was afterwards held at the residence of the bride's father, where about one hundred persons assembled. The bride, who is one of Douro's most popular young ladies, received about one hundred dollars in cash besides a large number of useful presents. A most enjoyable afternoon and evening was spent, and all join in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Leahy a long and happy wedded life.

Mr. and Mrs. Leahy will reside on lot six in the first concession of Dummer, where Mr. Leahy purchased a 200-acre farm a few years ago.

CHRONIC COUGHS AND COLDS

Often Lead to More Serious Troubles, Suggestions on Their Treatment

A prominent New England scientist recently made the statement that nine-tenths of the more serious lung-troubles are caused by neglected coughs and colds.

For benefit of Peterborough people we want to say: "Don't dose the stomach with cough syrups, they only soothe a little, upset the stomach, and do not build up the system.

The best remedy is our delicious cod liver preparation, Vinol, which contains in a highly concentrated form all of the medicinal, healing, body-building elements of cod liver oil, actually extracted from fresh cods' livers, but no oil.

Vinol heals and strengthens the sore lungs and bronchial tubes, and removes the cause of the cough. Permanent health is what you are after. Vinol makes rich, red blood, builds up the appetite and creates strength. We ask Peterborough people, suffering from chronic colds, coughs, bronchial troubles, or weak lungs, to try Vinol on our offer to return money if it fails. Street Railway Carnival Was a Splendid Success

Over Twenty-five Hundred Spectators, Two Hundred Persons in Costume — Mayor And Mrs. Rush Were the Judges

ICE IN GOOD CONDITION

One of the most successful fancy dress carnivals ever held in Peterborough, was that of last night on the open air rink at Jackson Park, under the auspices of the Street Railway Company. There were over 2,500 people at the rink and those in costume numbered up to the sum of 200. Never before was there such an aggregation of different costumes, no two costumes were alike. The judges, Mayor and Mrs. Rush, found their task a very difficult one in choosing among the number the costumes which appealed to them as most artistic and comical. During the grand march in which every person in costume took part, the judging was done and the results were as follows:

Fancy dress, won by Miss R. Logan, as Queen of the Fairy Wand, and Mr. E A Packert, as Grey Eagle. The comic prizes were awarded to Miss Nora Fitzgerald, and Mr. Harry O'Brien who both appeared as coloured people in the Trip to Coontown.

Regarding the winners it is fair to say that Miss Logan and Mr. E A Packert were very conspicuous among the number of contestants. Miss Logan looked exceedingly beautiful as the Queen, and Mr. Packert, both his make-up and costume corresponded identically with the photo of the great chief he represented.

One of the prettiest sights ever witnessed at any carnival was that seen during the playing of the Grand March. As the different characters, ranging from the noble figure of Charles I. to the raw recruit of the 16th Battery, swung around to the tune of the band, the spectators were impressed with the beautiful scene presented. The comic costumes were exceedingly comical. "Teddie" Daly, in his tramp make-up was the centre of attraction. One couple dressed in darky costume held a black doll between them and the sight caused much amusement among those on the bank.

The band was out in full force and played several selections during the evening which were much enjoyed. The booth did a good business. The dressing rooms and checking booths were open and special apartments were reserved for those in costume.

The rink was beautifully lighted with coloured lamps and this added to the effect of the costumes. A large bonfire was blazing in the Park which made a splendid back ground and illuminated the surrounding woods. A special platform was erected for the judges and a few of the prominent citizens.

The toboggan slide was in the best condition possible and every toboggan for rent was kept going. The rush began about 7 o'clock and it was long after ten o'clock before the last toboggan left the slide.

The rink was in excellent shape and during the evening it snowed slightly but it did not mar the progress of the carnival in the least.

Too much praise cannot be offered to Mr. J H Larmonth, the manager of the railway for the splendid manner in which the carnival was carried out. He was at the park from 7 o'clock until after 11, and was the last man to leave. The Railway System never before performed such satisfactory servoice and every car, both going and coming from the park was loaded with passengers.

From the way in which this carnival turned out, it is the unanimous wish of all those present at the function last night that the Street Railway Company will lose no time in getting another such carnival under way.

CONSERVING OF THE WATERS APPROVED OF BY THE BOARD

At the meeting of the Board of Trade last night, some discussion took place on the subject of the conserving of the waters of the Trent Canal system, and the policy adopted by the Dominion Government in this connection was approved of by the Board in a hearty manner.

Messrs. D. W. Dumble, W. H. Moore and J. Coyle Brown, spoke briefly, referring to the importance of preserving an even flow of water.

The following resolution, moved by Mr. D. W. Dumble, seconded by Mr. W. H. Moore, was carried unanimously:

"That the members of the Board of Trade, of the city of Peterborough, desire to place on record their sincere appreciation of the manner in which the water in the Trent Canal above Peterborough, has been regulated and conserved under the direction of the capable Deputy Minister and Chief Engineer, Mr. M. J. Butler, C. E., affording as it has a regular flow at all times during the year, thereby enabling the various companies to supply electrical energy to the manufacturers in such a satisfactory manner as to enable them to operate their factories and mills without interruption for want of power.

"We also approve of the policy of the department in building new dams and renewing old dams on the Gull River, Burnt River, Mississaugua Creek, and other tributary waters recently taken over from the Ontario Government, by the Dominion Government, and we hope it may be the determination of the Government to continue this satisfactory policy of conserving the waters."

THE COUNTY COUNCIL STRIKE THE STANDING COMMITTEES

Council Resumed Business This Morning — Deputation Re The Chemong Bridge — Report on House of Refuge

MAKING GOOD PROGRESS

When Mr. Jas. Thompson, the new warden, had taken the declaration of office yesterday at the County Council meeting he donned the official warden's robes, and in a few appropriate words, addressed the Council, thanking the members for the honour they had conferred upon him in electing him as their leader for 1908. He hoped that the Council would work as harmoniously this year as last, and that the same support would be given him as had been proffered to the warden of 1907. He also outlined briefly the course that the County Council for this year would follow, after which the business of the year was begun.

A committee to strike the standing committees was appointed, with Mr. Booth as chairman, which this morning at 9 o'clock presented its report as follows:

Your committee recommends that the standing committees for the year 1908 be as follows:

County Property

Messrs. Porter, Breault, Moloney, Darling, Scott, Moore, Killen, Hales and Brown, and that Mr. Porter be chairman.

Appointments

Messrs. Scott, Ingram, Hales, Darling, Coben, Booth, Fife and Graham, (and that Mr. Scott be chairman.

Roads and Bridges

All the members of the Council, and that Mr. Brown be chairman.

Schools

Messrs. Killen, Russel, Booth, Darling, Ingram, Hales, Graham and Oakman, and that Mr. Killen be chairman.

Petitions

Messrs. Fife, Killen, Booth, Porter Coben, Moore, Russel, and Oakman and that Mr. Fife be chairman.

Printing

Messrs. Moloney, Fife, Coben, Ingram, Breault, Oakman, Brown, Scott and Graham, and that Mr. Moloney be chairman.

Finance

All the members of the Council, and that Mr. Breault be chairman.

Equalization and Assessment

All the members of the Council, and that Mr. Moore be chairman

Joint Committee

Messrs. Darling, Brown, Porter, Scott, Moore, Breault, Moloney, and Russel, and that Mr. Darling be chairman.

Respectfully submitted,
C. R. D. BOOTH,
Chairman.

Moved by Messrs. Breault and Coben that this report be adopted. — Carried.

House of Refuge

The Board of Management of the House of Refuge reported as follows: We, the Board of Management for the year 1907, respectfully submit to you this, the first annual report:

There were admitted to the institution during 1907, 28 inmates from the following municipalities: Otonabee 6, Smith 4, Dummer 4, Belmont 1, Harvey 2, Lakefield 2, Norwood 2, Ennismore 1, Chandos 1, Galway 1, Douro 1. Total—28; females 12, males 16.

The causes assigned for indigence are various and not necessary to classify, all being, in the estimation of the Board, worthy of protection, and care, in the said institution.

In accordance with the provision of the rules and regulations of the institution, we checked the inventory of the personal property belonging to the institution, and valued the amount of the produce, etc., on hand. There is one inmate, who, we are informed, has some personal estate, and the county solicitor, in accordance with the act, is now looking into the matter.

The following is a statement of the capital expenditure and receipts from the inception of the movement.

Receipts.

Debentures issue of $30,000; proceeds, 1906...	$29,214 00
Debenture issue of $2,000; proceeds, 1907	1,950 00
Government grant Prov	4,000 00
Rent of farm during ten months of 1906...	166 05
Current money used for purpose, 1907...	901 75
	$36,232 40

Expenditures.

Expended in 1906...	$23,812 38
Expended in 1907...	11,218 32
Expended in 1907 (current money)...	508 71
Liability provided for 1907	692 99
	$36,232 40

An abstract statement for the year 1907, will be sent to you from the treasurer's financial statement, which is not necessary to bring in here.

This being the initial year, is not a year to draw an inference of the annual cost of institution from, the fact that feed for stock, etc., had to be purchased, together with other expenses, the amount of course, is somewhat abnormal. We have always advised and urged that God's old people be kindly treated, and properly cared for, and in so far as we have been able to see, such has been the case.

We would recommend that a stock book and a furnishing book be provided, so that the superintendent and matron could keep correct records in the respective departments.

R. N. SCOTT,
Chairman.
P. McNULTY.

It was moved by Messrs. Brown and Hales, that the report be adopted.—Carried.

Request for a Bridge

Mr. Andrew McFarlane, Indian agent for the Indian bands, was present and addressed the council on the necessity of a new bridge at Chemong Indian Village, which, it will be remembered, was spoken of at the closing meeting last year. The Indians built a new church at Chemong last year, which placed them at an expenditure of $11,000. They earn a good deal of money themselves hunting, etc., and he thought as much as the greater number of white men in that district. They are industrious and hard-working. He thought that the county council should consider this, and provide a bridge for them. Mr. McFarlane presented a financial statement, which was read by the Warden, showing the receipts and expenditures of the Chemong Band of Indians. The statement showed that almost $9,000 was expended on churches, buildings, etc.

Mr. McFarlane also stated that the Indians would be willing to assist in the building of the bridge. A floating bridge is desired, which would have a length of about 700 feet.

It was moved by Messrs. Scott and Moloney, that the question be left to the Committee on Roads and Bridges for consideration.—Carried.

County Clerk, Ed. M. Elliott then presented the financial statement for the year showing the receipts and expenditures for 1907.

MOUNT ROYAL PASSENGERS PASS THROUGH THE CITY

They Were Tired Too—Many Babies in The Party

The much-delayed passengers who experienced such a terrible time on the storm-tossed "Mount Royal," while attempting to cross from Antwerp, passed through Peterborough early yesterday morning. They were brought through from the east on a C.P.R. special upon the arrival of the "Montrose" at St. John.

Most of the passengers were foreigners, including Italians, Bulgarians and others, and they looked a very much tired-out lot.

Quite a number of babies were with the party and the mothers were busy caring for them. The majority left Toronto in the afternoon for Chicago.

THE PROPOSED POULTRY ASSOCIATION

Prospects Look Bright For One Being Formed

The proposal to form a Poultry Association in this city is meeting with great favour with the poultry men, and it is believed that a good, live association will be launched before many weeks. Quite a number have promised their active support, and as there are between seventy-five and one hundred in the city and vicinity, who are poultry fanciers, there seems no good reason why a good organization should not be formed. Arrangements are already being made to call a meeting in the council chamber, the date of which will be announced later.

VALUABLE FIND ON INTERCOLONIAL RAILWAY

While travelling on the I. C. R., Mr. Harvey W. Towers, residing at No. 9, St. Paul street, N. B., made a valuable discovery. Some one had left a small box of Zam-Buk, the great Skin Healer, in the car, and as Mr. Towers suffered with badly chapped hands, he applied same. To his surprise it healed him rapidly. He says—"It is an excellent remedy, the best I have ever used for chapped hands, cuts, sores or burns, and I would not be without it."

Mr. Towers is only one of many thousands, who, are glad that they heard of Zam-Buk. There is no skin disease it will not relieve and cure. Zam-Buk is everywhere regarded as Nature's great "First Aid." No traveller should be without it for it is a splendid preventive against Barber's Itch and other skin diseases they are so liable to contract. A little Zam-Buk rubbed regularly on the hands and face, before retiring each night will keep the skin soft and free from disease.

Zam-Buk as a healer of skin diseases is without equal. It cures ulcers, festering sores, ringworm, cuts, bruises, chapped hands, boils, eczema, piles, rheumatism, etc.

Sold by all druggists andd stores at 50 cents a box, or post paid from the Zam-Buk Co., Toronto.

SAVED FROM HERSELF.

Mason, Que.—Just two years ago, the residents of this pretty village viewed, with alarm, the change that crept over Florence, the daughter of Mr. Jamison. From a bright, carefree child, she emerged into young womanhood, worn and wasted. It became a "nine-days wonder." There was no radical trouble and yet her health perceptibly failed. Finally, physicians were consulted. They prescribed—failed to do any good—and were discharged. All at once, Florence began to improve. Her eyes brightened, the color returned, and today, there is not a brighter, happier, healthier girl in Canada.

"I was a martyr to constipation," writes Miss Jamison. "I had every symptom of kidney irritation and had been told by physicians that my kidneys were affected. I consulted a number of physicians and took various remedies, but received very little benefit. Then I was advised to try 'Fruit-a-tives.' After I had taken half a box, the constipation was relieved—headaches left me—pain in the back was better—and I could sleep."

"Fruit-a-tives" always cure kidney trouble, because they cure the cause. They stimulate the liver and kidneys to increased action. Get a box—take them properly—and cure yourself to stay cured. Made of fruit juices and tonics. 50c a box; 6 for $2.50. At druggists or sent on receipt of price. Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa, Ont.

YOUTH KILLED AN AGED WOMAN

Woodville Youth Confesses Murder of Mrs. Welch in Detroit.

ROBBERY WAS THE MOTIVE

Boy of Eighteen Tells Police How He Slew the Woman—Beat Her With His Fist Until Unconscious—Then Kicked Her In the Face and Head Until She Was Dead—Then Took Trip to Buffalo.

Detroit, Jan. 29.—Percy Boyne, a youth of Woodville, Ont., last night confessed to murdering Mrs. Cornelia Welch, who was found dead in her home in this city on Jan. 7. Boyne was arrested in Woodville on Jan. 17, and brought to Detroit, where he was locked up. Since then the police have been giving him sessions in the sweatbox daily, but it was not until yesterday afternoon that he showed any signs of weakening.

Boyne says he beat Mrs. Welch with his fist until she was unconscious, and then he kicked her on the face and head until she was dead. Then he dragged her body into her bedroom and tied her hands and feet, tore her diamond earrings out of her ears, ransacked the house, stole $14 in money and escaped.

He went to Buaffilo, where he sold the earrings, and then went to his home in Woodville, where he was arrested.

Although Mrs Welch was murdered, according to Boyne's confession, on Jan. 3, her body was not found until Jan. 7.

BOY'S HAND BITTEN OFF.

Ten-Year-Old Lad Victim of Ferocious Mastiff.

Quebec, Jan. 29.—In full view of perhaps a dozen spectators, a 10-year-old boy named Ernest Larose was attacked and fearfully lacerated by a huge mastiff at the Palais in this city about 10 o'clock yesterday morning.

The unfortunate youth is in a very critical state, and at noon was still insensible. That he was not killed outright was due to the owner of the enraged canine rushing to the rescue himself and battering the brute's head with a stick of wood, which he took from a sleigh in which he was driving, until the dog was rendered unconscious. It was ultimately slain.

The boy, who lay bleeding from several serious wounds, one of his hands having been completely bitten off, was removed to the hospital, where the physicians set to work upon him.

The owner of the dog, who is a farmer from one of the lower parishes, claimed that the boy made a kick at the brute while he was passing, and that this provoked the attack.

Loss of the Baden-Powell.

London, Jan. 29.—Nineteen Nova Scotia sealers from the schooner Baden-Powell landed at Liverpool. They left Nova Scotia Sept. 6, 1907, for the South Shetlands, where they were wrecked. The crew rowed to Peeble Island, 70 miles, where they remained three weeks, enduring great privation, then they were observed by a schooner, which conveyed them to the Falklands, thence they went to Montevideo. Four men married and settled down in the Falklands.

Prof. Osler has been appointed to the council of the National Association for the Prevention of Consumption.

Mrs. Parish May Die.

Glencoe, Jan. 29.—Mrs. Solomon Parish, the lady so seriously injured while in company with her husband, who was killed while crossing the track at the Kingscourt branch of the G. T. R., lies in a very serious condition. Yesterday morning she was unconscious, and only regained consciousness sufficiently long to speak a few words, and again relapsed. Very little hope is entertained for her recovery. It has been decided to hold an inquest—presumably at Glencoe.

COMING OF THE JAPS DISCUSSED

Government Censured For Neglect in Making Treaty.

NO RESTRICTIVE CLAUSE

Mr. Borden Moves an Amendment—Sir Wilfrid Laurier Show the Wisest Course Was Followed — Friendly Arrangement Better Than Hostile Legislation—Mr. Lemieux's Mission Criticized — Canada Should Control Emigration.

Ottawa, Jan. 29.—In a lengthy contribution to the discussion on the Oriental immigration question, R. L. Borden yesterday afternoon declared that the Government had absolutely disregarded the warnings of the Secretary of the British colonies to secure a protocol to the British Japanese treaty on the lines of Queensland, which would retain the control of the immigration of laborers from Japan.

Mr. Borden said: The Postmaster-General, in giving an account of his mission to Japan, had taken occasion to justify the good faith of that Government, and with his remarks in that regard he was bound to concur. The Government of Japan was not asked to accompany the treaty with any stipulation which would leave the control of the immigration in the hands of the Government of the Dominion. The Government of Canada asked Japan to conclude that convention without reserve, giving full liberty to citizens of Japan to enter and travel in this country.

Mr. Lemieux had spoken of assurances given by the Government of Japan regarding the prohibition of emigration, and had declared that the tacit understanding on that point had been absolutely and freely carried out in good faith by that Government. Having regard to the events of the past year, Mr. Borden declared that in justifying that action of Japan Mr. Lemieux had condemned the Government.

Had it not been for whole-hearted support of the British Government and British ambassador at Tokio continued Mr. Borden, the mission of Mr. Lemieux would have been an absolute failure. This circumstances was rather an amusing commentary upon the gentlemen who occupied the treasury benches, who had boasted that there had been a departure in respect to negotiations of treaties by the Government of Canada alone. The course of the Postmaster-General was the correct one. Having got this country into a serious difficulty he was compelled to invoke the assistance of the British Government in getting out of it, and any success which attended his mission was due in a large measure to the Home authorities.

United States' Wise Policy.

The United States had reserved the right to control emigration to her shores. The British treaty, however, contained no such stipulation, because the same difficulty which confronted the United States in respect to the unrestricted immigration of Japanese was not present in respect to Great Britain.

Mr. Borden referred to the correspondence with respect to the ratification to treaty, and showed that Canada had been warned by the British authorities of the necessity of Canada restricting, suspending or prohibiting the immigration of Japanese. It was urged that there should be a protocol inserted retaining control over the immigration, similar to that inserted in the United States treaty.

Mr. Borden proceeded to show that in 1894 treaties were negotiated by Japan with various countries, including Great Britain. That treaty did not bind the self-governing colonies, but by article 19 it was competent for any of them to accede to it, and to be bound by its terms. The United States reserved to itself the right to control the emigration of laborers from Japan, but the British treaty contained no such provision, because the possible danger which confronted the United States did not confront Great Britain.

Mr. Borden referred to an order-in-council passed by the Conservative Government of that day (on Aug. 3, 1895), which stated the desire of the Canadian Government to insert a stipulation with regard to immigration similar to that inserted in the United States treaty and a further definition of word laborer by adding the words "including artisans."

Left "Artisans" Out.

On Feb. 7, 1896, the Japanese Government acceded to that request, except so far as the word artisans was concerned, and a draft protocal was then agreed upon between Britain and Japan, embodying terms to which Japan would give consent.

The Colonial Secretary, continued Mr. Borden, had before him the attitude of this Government in 1895, that the Canadian Government would restrict Japanese immigration to Canada, and he had the consent of Japan to the insertion of a protocol containing an express provision restricting immigrations, and he addressed a despatch to the Governor-General on July 14, 1905, pressing upon this.

On July 15, 1896, after the change of Government, Colonial Secretary Chamberlain asked the Canadian Government if it was willing to adhere to a treaty on the terms agreed to by Japan, and Sir Richard Cartwright reported to council against adhesion on the grounds that there would be complications in respect to the question of the favored-nation treatment.

On Sept. 18, 1896, Mr. Chamberlain informed the Government that Queensland had refused to adhere except with limitations in regard to laborers and artisans, and in October, 1897, the British ambassador at Tokio reported to the British Government that Japan agreed to the terms stipulated by Queensland.

Assurance Not Great.

Coming to the letter of Foreign Minister Hayashi, written to Mr. Lemieux at Tokio on Dec. 26, Mr. Borden observed that while it was a polite and courteous letter, it gave no great assurance to Canada. Why should "special conditions in Canada," which should be the case of the Parliament of Canada, be subject to appeal from this Government to the Government of Japan? asked Mr. Borden. Yet that was the position to which the affairs of this country had been brought by the acceptance of the treaty without the proviso.

Japan also undertook to give "careful consideration to local conditions in Canada," which rather should be the function of the Canadian Government. So, too, Japan retained control of emigration to Canada, and the only remedy outside of denunciation of the treaty would be an appeal to Japan by the Canadian Government. There might be a new Government in Japan at any time, which would sweep all present regulations. Japan's previous assurances had proved of no avail to prevent an influx of her people.

Mr. Borden was willing, as Mr. Lemieux had suggested, to give the arrangement a fair trial, and he hoped that the assurances given by Japan would result as satisfactorily as Mr. Lemieux had hoped it would. That, however, did not alter the situation, nor did it affect the principle involved, the principle for which we ought to stand, namely, that Canada should not enter into any treaty engagement which would prevent our control of immigration to ths country.

Mr. Borden concluded by movng his amendment.

B. C. Wants Restriction.

Mr. Gallagher (Liberal, Kootenay) impressed upon the House the necessity of British Columbia being maintained as a white man's country. Without minimizing the impertance of the commercial advantages of the treaty with Japan, the flooding of British Columbia with Orientals would be too great a price to pay for those advantages. The closer the restriction of the immigration the better pleased would the people be.

Edmund Bristol (Con., Toronto) pointed to the spectacle of the British Columbia members trying to square themselves with the Government that sacrificed the rights of the people of that province and of all Canada, namely, the right to control immigration. He would like to know what reason existed in 1897 that did not exist in 1907, why Japan would agree to our restricting immigration. Not only had the Government the record of negotiations of 1907, and in 1900 the people of British Columbia had protested against the influx of Japanese, yet disregarding the warnings, the Government neglected to include in the new treaty stipulations to which Japan had already expressed her willingness to agree. It was patent, therefore, that the Government was derelict in its duty, not only to the people of British Columbia, but to the people of the whole of Canada.

W. F. Cockshutt (Brantford) gave credit to Mr. Kennedy (New Westminster) for warning Parliament of the danger of ratifying the treaty. He was willing to assume his share of responsibility for the action of Parliament. The treaty was not worth the small amount of trade we get from Japan. He believed that if we could improve conditions of the past few months we should go the length of giving notice of abrogation.

The Prime Minister.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier followed. He said he welcomed both the speech and resolution of Mr. Borden's, because they drew distinctly the line of cleavage between the policies of the two parties. There was no difference between the parties as to the object sought. The difference lay in the method. The Opposition would accomplish the object by hostile legislation and with a friendly power; the Government would secure it by the friendly action of the Japanese themselves. Sir Wilfrid then went on to speak of the inherent race antagonism between the Caucasian and Mongolian and the well-grounded apprehension of British Columbia that an influx of Asiatics might upset the balance of power. This problem had been before a succession of Governments ever since British Columbia came into Confederation, and the difficulty of the problem had been tenfold intensified by the sudden rise of Japan to the position of a first-class power.

The offensive and defensive treaty between England and Japan followed under that treaty it was possible, should unfortunately a war occur, the British and Japanese fleets might be seen acting in concert in the North Pacific, indeed the spectacle might be presented of a Japanese fleet weighing anchor in Vancouver harbor to go to the defence of the British interest owing to the alliance.

The Dominion Government had refused to assent to the Natal Act passed by British Columbia, recognizing that it would be a slap in the face to Japan. Instead the Government negotiated with Mr. Nosse, consul-general of Japan at Ottawa, to secure restriction of Japanese immigration by the Government at Tokio, with the result that between 1902 and 1906 there was scarcely any immigration from Japan to British Columbia.

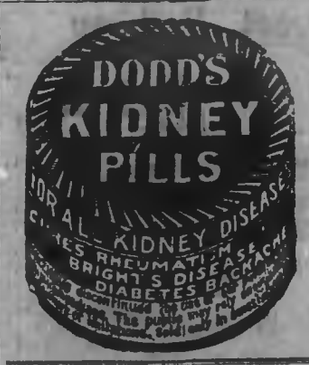
Canada, without a restriction clause in the treaty with Japan, was in a better position than the United States with such a clause in their treaty.

At midnight Hon. Sydney Fisher continued the debate. Dr. Sproule, Armand Lavergne and Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, Mr. Herron and Mr. Sloan also spoke.

The Borden amendment was defeated by straight party vote of 100 to 35.

Guards Accused.

Ottawa, Jan. 29.—James Tracey, a prisoner, makes the statement that James Callaghan, who died in the prison Saturday night, was abused and practically choked to death by the turnkeys. His statement is backed up by Joseph Hudson, another prisoner.



THE STATE CLOSES THEIR CASE

Jerome Will Call No Experts as to Thaw's Sanity.

SUMMING UP BEGINS TO-DAY

Forensic Combat Between District Attorney Jerome and Mr. Littleton —Big Feature of Case Is Eagerly Looked For—Thaw's Fate Will Likely Be Known by the End of Week—Jerome's Tactics.

New York, Jan. 29.—With no attempt on the part of the state to combat with scientific testimony the claim of insanity urged n behalf, of Harry Thaw, the taking of evidence in the second hearing of the famous Madison Square Garden murder trial ended yesterday. This morning Martin W. Littleton will begin his plea for the defendant, and is expected to occupy both morning and afternoon sessions with his summing up argument. District Attorney Jerome will speak on Thursday. He had promised to be brief, and if so his address should not exceed beyond the morning session, Justice Dowling will hand the case over to the jury on Thursday afternoon. The court announced, however, that he probably would not deliver his charge until Friday morning.

Ignored Scientific Phase.

Contrary to his policy of last year, when he called nine experts in insanity to the witness chair, Mr. Jerome this year utterly ignored the scientific phase of the rebuttal case. He produced several eye-witnesses to the tragedy and several police officers who handled Thaw the night of the homicide, and placed on record their opinion that the defendant's acts and manner were rational. Under agreement of counsel the testimony given by Abraham Hummel at the last trial was read to the jury and the Thaw will was admitted in evidence without further proof as to its custody during the six months following the shooting of Stanford White. The affidavit alleged to have been made by Evelyn Nesbitt in Hummel's office, charging Thaw with cruelty and attempting falsely to place the blame for the Nesbitt girl's downfall upon Stanford White, also was admitted by Justice Dowling, and then the case, so far as testimony was concerned, was at an end.

Mr. Jerome's elimination of expert testimony from the rebuttal case occasioned much talk. Based upon his assertions of last year that Thaw was an incurable paranoiac, rumor had it that the prosecution might not be displeased with a verdict of not guilty on the ground of insanity, with an ensuing committal of Harry Thaw to the asylum for the criminal insane at Mattewan. Throughout the trial, however, Mr. Jerome has attempted to belittle and discredit all testimony having to do with Thaw's irrationality. He has attempted to show that the youthful outbursts of the defendant were fits of temper which deserved a "spanking," as he expressed it, rather than scientific discussion. He has attempted to discredit the outbreaks in later life with the suggestion that they were the result of too much drink and nothing more. That the prosecutor will ridicule the expert testimony is generally agreed. Having no experts of his own, he has a free hand in that direction this year. Mr. Jerome's move also frustrated a plan of the defence to call in surrebuttal several of the experts who testified against Thaw in his last trial, but whom, when Mr. Jerome switched to the appointment of a lunacy commission, made affidavits setting forth the opinion that Thaw was so insane as to be incapable of understanding the nature of the proceedings against him or of intelligently advising with counsel.

Argument of Defence.

Mr. Littleton, in his argument, which is expected to be an eloquent but straightforward presentation of the facts, will contend that the prosecution failed to shake the case of insanity built up by the defence. He will again call attention to the law and the burden of proof it places upon the state in a case where insanity is pleaded as a bar of responsibility for a criminal act. He will contend, and will ask Justice Dowling to carefully instruct the jury on the point, that once the defence has produced evidence of insanity, it becomes the duty of the prosecution to remove every reasonable doubt of insanity. In other words, Mr. Littleton will ask for an acquittal unless the jurors are convinced that every reasonable doubt as to Thaw being insane at the time of committing the homicide has been removed by the state's case. Mr. Littleton has made no claim of present sanity for Thaw. In fact, the experts for the defence have testified that in 'manic-depressive' insanity, the diagnosis now applied to Thaw's condition of mind, the patient is very apt to have attacks of increasing frequency and violence."

Phillips Under Arrest.

London, Jan. 29.—Leonard Phillips was charged in a Police Court here yesterday with the theft of the three miniatures belonging to Queen Alexandra, which were stolen recently from her engraver and which were recover Sunday night. Phillips was apprehended by the aid of a saloon-keeper, to whom he sold the pictures for $100. They are worth $1,000.

A Confession of Murder.

Detroit, Jan. 29.—Captain of Detectives McDonell says that Percy Boyne, the 18-year-old boy brought back to Detroit from Woodville, Ont., has made statements, yesterday, which the police believe are a practical confession of the murder by him of Mrs. Welch.

BOWLING BASKETBALL CURLING

COBOURG WILL BE HERE FOR BIG GAME ON FRIDAY NIGHT

The postponed game between Cobourg and Peterborough will take place on Friday night of this week and will be the last O.H.A. game of the season. Cobourg will have its strongest line-up and expects a victory, after which the team proposes to clean up Lindsay on the latter's ice. The programme is a good one, but the Straths say that at least the first part will go wrong and that they will fall before the local seven on Friday. The High Commissioners are in better shape now than at any other time this season, and will make Cobourg go the limit. The game promises to be one of the hardest fought battles ever seen at Brock street rink, as both teams are determined to win. Another such contest as was seen in Lindsay last week will no doubt be the result as the teams are evenly matched. The Straths were beaten in Cobourg on soft ice by 5 goals to 1, but the weather conditions will be different this time. It may be that Cobourg will be equally at home on hard ice and that they will be able to defeat Peterborough here on Friday. In any case the game will be a ding-dong battle, and lovers of hockey should not miss the last intermediate game of the winter. The reserved seat tickets are on sale at the rink.

LAKEFIELD AND NORWOOD MEET TO-NIGHT IN CITY LEAGUE GAME

Norwood and Lakefield will play their city league game to-night, at 8 o'clock, instead of 9, as announced last night. The Lakefield team generally figure on the last game, but, under the circumstances, were willing to come down for the eight o'clock contest to-night. The game should be one of the best in the league series so far this season. Both teams claim to be at their best on fast ice, so that the footing to-night will just suit them, and the pace will be fast from start to finish. There has been a great deal of discussion among local fans as to whether Norwood or Lakefield has the better team, and to-night will afford an opportunity of settling the problem. Both teams will have the strongest line up possible and as the losing seven will be hopelessly out of the race, there will be doings all the way. It is likely that Ernie Wasson will referee the contest.

The Strathconas will meet the Knockers in an exhibition game at 9 o'clock, and another lively game may be expected. All the Strathconas are expected to be at the rink to-night.

CHIEFTAINS ARE AFTER LAKEFIELD

Will Play Them Here On Saturday Afternoon

On Saturday afternoon a junior team from Lakefield will meet Jack Thirnbeck's young stalwarts, the Chieftains, at Brock street rink between 1 and 2 o'clock. The local team expects to turn the tables on Lakefield, who defeated them, thanks to the assistance of several of the northerners' City Leaguers.

PLAY EXTRA END TO DECIDE WINNERS

Peterborough Curlers Hard to Defeat in Toronto—Play Great Game

The Peterborough rinks had a great struggle in Toronto yesterday in the Ontario Tankard games. The Toronto Star says in reporting them:

In the primaries of Group 5, Ontario Tankard, at Queen City Rink, Scarboro' Maple Leafs defeated Oshawa 38 to 12, while Queen City got away with Parkdale 32 to 31. The game between the Parkdales and the Queen Citys was a clinker. Rice and Peaker played a tie game, 18-18, and it was left to Halsley and Scott to fight it out. The Queen City Rink was three down to the 17th end, but they pulled together, and in the midst of great excitement pulled out the game and a victory for the club, with a grand four end.

At Granite Rink, East Toronto defeated Brampton 30 to 26, but the Caledonia—Peterborough contest was a bitter one, Caledonians winning out by two shots on extra ends. When the regulation 18 ends were completed, T. Rennie of the Caledonians was one up on Neill of Peterborough, the card reading 15-14. On the other rink the Caledonians under R. Rennie were one down. On the extra end T. Rennie was two up, and R. Rennie tied R. Neill, making the final total 30 to 28.

The scores in the Peterborough-Caledonia contest were:

FRED SIMPSON WANTED FOR THE RACE

Jack Tait Ill and Will be Unable to go To Buffalo

Examiner Special.

Toronto, Jan. 29.—It is very probable that Jack Tait the West End crack middle distance runner, will not be able to take on T. Bellars, of New York, in the special four mile race which the 74th Regimental Athletic Association of Buffalo, were endeavouring to pull off at their indoor meet on Feb. 29th, as the Toronto boy has had several weeks' illness, and is not yet in the best of shape with the result that he does not feel confident of getting into proper condition to meet such a runner as Bellars. Failing to secure Tait it is very probable that Fred Simpson the Peterborough Indian, who finished second to Tom Coley in the Hamilton Herald Race last fall and was the greatest surprise of the year, will be matched with the New Yorker. Simpson is out of training at present, but always in fair shape, he could easily get in running condition in a month's time. An effort is being made to-day to secure him and if he is able to make connections he should prove a worthy successor to Tait, and an exceedingly hard nut for Bellars to crack. Around Peterborough Simpson is regarded as the coming runner of 1908 and his ability to defeat Longboat is fully acknowledged in the Quaker Oats burg.

SPORTING NEWS AND VIEWS.....

At Knox rink last night All Saints and St. Andrew's Brigade played game of hockey in which the score stood two all at the end of the game. Ten minutes overtime was played but neither side could score so the game was left a tie. For St. Andrew's, Wilson and Fortye shone, and for All Saints', Layfield, Armstrong and Tovey played a great game. Killenback refereed to the satisfaction of both teams.

TO WELCOME GRAND ORGANIZER

Discussion of The A. O. U. W. at Meeting Last Night

The A.O.U.W. met last night. The newly installed officers were in their places. After the routine business an address was given by Rev. A. H. Bruce on the welfare of the Order. It was decided that an open meeting with social and programme be arranged to welcome the Grand Organizer about the end of February.

Dogs Her Mourners.

Florence, Jan. 29.—The funeral of "Ouida" was a most pitiful epilogue to her pitiful end. She died amid squalor and poverty and her body was followed to the grave only by a dozen dogs she had starved herself to feed, and her faithful maid, to whom she left her last manuscripts. The body was buried in the English cemetery at Bagni Di Lucca, and the spot is marked only by a wooden cross.

Niagara In Winter Dress.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Jan. 29.—Niagara gorge has an ice jam of large proportions. It began forming Saturday, and its size and firmness is now such that several parties have ventured across it. The bridge extends from in front of the American falls, down to the tunnel stream.

Men were busy yesterday opening a path across the ice structure, in order that travel over it may be easier.

Boy Shot Sister Dead.

Rochester, N. Y., Jan. 29.—In the absence of his mother from home yesterday afternoon, William McBride, a 12-year-old boy of Egypt, a little place east of here, put on a belt of his father's, loaded a shotgun with cartridges of buckshot and blew the head off his four-year-old sister, Viola, who had been left by her mother strapped in a high chair.

Reform Mayor Defeated.

Montreal, Jan. 29.—The so-called Reform mayor of St. Lous de Mile End, Mr. Gelinais, was defeated yesterday by Mr. Turcotte by 275.

The claim that Gelinais would not spend money turned the working people against him, although he was supported by the proprietors.

SAW OPERATOR KNOCKED UNCONSCIOUS

Piece of a Board Flew Back and Struck Him in The Stomach

While at his work yesterday morning at the Peterborough Furniture Company's factory, East City, Ernest Oke was seriously injured.

The accident occurred between 10 and 11 o'clock. The young lad was pushing a board through a saw when a piece of the board shot back and struck him a severe blow in the stomach. The boy dropped to the floor and remained unconscious for some time. The other employees dropped their work and hurried to his aid. After he regained consciousness he was taken to his home on Mark street in a cab. The boy spent a very restless night but is feeling much better to-day.

WEDDING BELLS.

FITZGERALD-HAYES

A quiet wedding was colemnized at St. Peter's cathedral at 6 o'clock this morning, when Mr. Herbert Fitzgerald, son of Mr. M. Fitzgerald, East City, was united in marriage to Miss Annie Maud Hayes, daughter of Mr. H. Hayes, Cobourg. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. O'Brien, in the presence of a few friends. Miss May Crowley was bridesmaid, and Mr. John Fitzgerald, the groom's brother, was best man. Mr. and Mrs. Fitgerald will reside in East City.

CAVANAGH-McMARTIN

A very pretty wedding was celebrated in St. Peter's Cathedral this morning at 9 o'clock when Miss Maggie McMrtin, third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick McMartin of Cold Springs, Otonabee, was married by Rev. Father O'Leary to Mr. Patrick Cavanagh, son of Mr. Thos. Cavanagh of Otonabee News, Indians River. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore an empty gown of Brussels lace over chiffon and liberty satin and a flowing veil held in pacel with a wreath of white roses, and carried a bouquet of white roses. Her jewellery was a pearl-studded bracelet, the gift of the groom. Miss Gertrude Faux, of Hastings, cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid. She wore pink silk crystaline with hat to match and also carried a bouquet of white roses and wore a gold pyramid bracelet, the gift of the groom. The groom was supported by Mr. Maurice O'Leary of Indian River. The wedding march was played by Miss Doherty. After the ceremony the wedding party returned to the residence of the bride, where the newly-married couple received the congratulations of their friends and where the drawing-room was beautifully decorated with palms and white roses. About fifty guests sat down to the wedding dinner. A number of those who attended the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Dwyer, Peterborough; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Faux, Hastings; Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Lynch, Hastings; Mr. and Mrs. P. Powers, Monaghan; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Walsh, Hastings; Mr. and Mrs. John Cavanagh, Buffalo; Mr. and Mrs. A. Whibbs, Indian River; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Cavanagh and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Cavanagh, Asphodel. Music was furnished in the afternoon by Mr. Geo. Whibbs, violinist, and the Misses McMartin presided at the piano. Mr. and Mrs. Cavanagh intend moving on Thursday to their home in Otonabee on the first concession. They have the good wishes of a host of friends, who all join in wishing them a long and happy wedded life.

WATCH THE STOMACH.

HAVE YOU ANY OF THESE SYMPTOMS?

If you have either variable appetite, a faint gnawing feeling at the pit of the stomach, unsatisfied hunger, a loathing of food, rising and souring of food, a painful load at the pit of the stomach, choking sensations in the throat, headache and dullness of spirits, constipated bowels with alternate diarrhoea, are you gloomy and miserable?

THEN YOU ARE A DYSPEPTIC.

The cure is careful diet, slow eating, thoroughly chewing the food; avoid drinking at meals.

Keep regular habits, shun stimulants, tone the digestive powers and regulate the stomach and bowels with Burdock Blood Bitters. It has cured the worst forms of dyspepsia, even of twenty-five years duration. Mrs. Geo. Parks, Cooper, Ont., was cured; she writes: "I have used Burdock Blood Bitters and find that few medicines can give such great relief in dyspepsia and stomach troubles. I was troubled for a number of years with dyspepsia and could get no relief until I tried B.B.B. It helped me right away and I think it a wonderful remedy. I would recommend it to all sufferers from dyspepsia.

FOUND DEAD IN BED AT HAVELOCK

Sudden Death of Well Known Resident of The Railway Town

Examiner Special:

Havelock, Jan. 28. — A sudden death occurred in the Armstrong House here to-night, when Mr. Wm. Montgomery, a well known resident, of this town, was found dead in bed.

The deceased had been ill earlier in the evening, and between 7 and 8 o'clock Dr. Crawford was called in, and administered some medicine after which Mr. Montgomery retired to his room. About ten o'clock a gentleman who went to inquire about his condition, was shocked to find that he had passed away.

Coroner Dr. Gray, of Peterborough, was notified of the circumstances but decided that an inquest was unnecessary. Death was due, it is thought, to heart disease.

The deceased was about 35 years of age and had been a resident of Havelock for some years. He was a widower and is survived by one child.

BURKE TO BE TRIED TO-MORROW

For the Robbery of The Buckhorn Store

The trial of Chas. Burke, whose name is connected with the Buckhorn robbery of November 5, will be held to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock before County Magistrate Edmison. It is expected there will be some difficulty in getting a number of the witnesses down from Buckhorn on account of the bad roads.

The deceased passed away yesterday afternoon. The funeral took place this afternoon from the family residence, Indian River, to Douro cemetery.

County Schools Not In A Satisfactory Condition

So Claims Inspector Lees in His Report to County Council—Too Many Changes in Teachers—Attendance is Irregular

PUBLIC SCHOOL GRANTS

At the meeting of the County Council this morning the reports of Messrs. J. Coyle Brown and Richard Lees, County Public School inspectors, were received and referred to the Committee on Schools. Mr. Lees' report is as follows, Mr. Brown's to appear in to-morrow's issue:—

To the Warden and Council of the County of Peterborough:

Gentlemen,—I beg to present my report for the fall term of 1907. During that term, I visited the schools of the eastern division of the county, making seventy visits including three to the County Model School at Norwood. Four schools I found closed on account of inability to get teachers. These were Nos. 10 and 11, Methuen, 14, Belmont, and the south school in No. 2 Anstruther. No. 10 Methuen and No. 2, Anstruther, subsequently secured teachers.

Of the 51 teachers employed in the rural schools, 9 held second class, 19 third class, 5 extended third, 8 district, and 10 temporary certificates. Of these 51 teachers, only 17 were in the same positions at the time of my visit a year previous, and of these, 4 have since changed.

Under such circumstances, it is unnecessary for me to say that the schools are not in a satisfactory condition. Frequent changes of teachers, and irregularity of attendance on the part of the pupils, are the most serious obstacles to satisfactory progress that we have to contend with.

Great difficulty was experienced in getting teachers, especially at midsummer. At the time of the opening of the fall term, there were 13 schools in the county, without teachers, some of which remained vacant for the whole term. The graduation of a large class from the Model School, relieved the situation at the beginning of this year, but there is likely to be a similar scarcity next summer, so that trustees requiring teachers then, would do well to take action early.

For last year, a change was introduced in the mode of distribution of the Legislative and County grants, and the former was greatly increased. The grants received by the county for the past two years are as follows:—

For 1906.—
General Grant	$ 2,095 00
Special grant	1,062 00
Continuation schools	322 50
Libraries	20 00
Assisted schools	940 00
For 1907.—
General grant	$ 6,339 80
Special	1,103 66
Continuation schools	599 00
Libraries	139 24
Assisted schools	405 00
	$9,485 90

The grants to the village schools are paid directly to the treasurers of the School Boards and are not included in this, except the grants for continuation work.

The general grant was based on the salary and qualification of the teacher. The special grant, which was about equal to half the total grant previous to 1906, was distributed on the basis of accommodation and equipment. To this grant the County pays an equivalent, making it equal to the whole of the old grant. The sums received from this by the different schools varied very much. The highest sum paid to a one-roomed school, was $34.90, which went to No. 1 Asphodel, (Westwood,) and the lowest was $11.55. I understand that it is the intention of the Government to materially increase this grant for the present year, if the funds at the disposal of the Department of Education will permit.

The payment of the grants for 1907 was made conditional on the fulfilment of certain requirements in regard to equipment. Some of the schools have been slow in meeting these conditions, chiefly owing to an imperfect understanding of the matter. However, at the present time, there are only six of the ninety-seven sections in the county that have not conformed to the regulations, and some of these have the matter under consideration, and will fall into line as soon as they have things a little more fully explained.

During the past season, a great deal was done in way of improving school premises. In a number of sections, the grounds have been enlarged, new out-buildings have been erected, or old ones repaired. Several schools have been more or less thoroughly repaired and cleaned up. Of these, special mention should be made of No. 4, Asphodel, where the work was most thoroughly done, and an efficient ventilating system installed. The building there is now comfortable and healthy for the children and a credit to the section. While much has been done in this line, there is yet room for improvement, and I have no doubt that the coming season will see further progress in this direction.

The beautiful new school in Section No. 6, Asphodel, was opened in December, and is fully up to the expectations of the people there, who are justly proud of it. An addition has been built to No. 2, North Monaghan. The new building is modern in design, well built, and will prove an exceedingly bright and comfortable class room. A number of other sections are contemplating building, and the probability is that during the next few years several schools will abandon their old buildings for new ones of more modern type.

Great progress was made during the year in the matter of equipment. About $1,500 was spent in the purchase of libraries. There are only five schools in the county that have not made a beginning in the establishment of a school library. The books have been chosen with a view to their educational value, and will prove of much benefit to the schools. The best and most progressive teachers all over the county report that they are in constant use and are a great help.

The Continuation Schools still continue to do excellent work. The attendance has largely increased at Havelock and Ennismore, and both schools have been raised to the rank of Grade A. Much credit is due to the School Board of Havelock for the enterprise they have shown in this matter under the circumstances in which they are placed as regards school accommodation.

During the autumn term I had the honour of addressing several public meetings of ratepayers and others, on the new regulations and other educational questions. I think these meetings resulted in benefit, both to those who attended and to myself. The only regrettable thing about them is that so few of those who might attend, and who ought to be interested, think it worth while to attend any meeting which is concerned with the schools. It is my intention to continue these meetings during the present half year as opportunity offers.

A class of 39 students attended the Model School, all of whom were successful at the final examination. There will not be another session of the Model School as it present constituted, but a number of them will be retained in a re-organized form. There will be one for the district of which Peterborough constitutes an important part. A deputation waited on the Minister of Education on January 3, with a view to having that school located at Norwood. The deputation was given a cordial reception and a patient hearing, and was assured that when the question came to be decided, the claims of Norwood and the county of Peterborough would receive full consideration. I commend this matter to your consideration, with the assurance that anything that you can do, individually or as a body, to secure the continuance of the Model School at Norwood, will be in the interests of educational progress in the county.

I have the honour to be
Your Obedient Servant,
RICHARD LEES.
Peterborough, January 23, 1908.

Popular Cure for Croup

Anyone who has tested Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, as a cure for croup, will not hesitate to pronounce it an unqualified success. It is wonderfully prompt in relieving the cough, clearing the air passages and soothing the excited nerves. Many mothers who realize the suddenness with which croup comes on keep this great medicine promptly on hand for use in case of emergency.

TWELFTH HOUR WITNESS GIVES STRONG EVIDENCE AGAINST BURKE AND ASSISTS THE PROSECUTION

Miss Purser Recognizes Burke as The Man Who Robbed The Store And Pointed Revolver at Her—Committed For Trial

BY MAGISTRATE EDMISON

Mr. Geo. Taylor of Chemong Believed That He Saw Burke Five Miles From Buckhorn

Charles Burke was committed for trial this morning when he appeared before Magistrate Edmison on the charge of robbing Purser's store at Buckhorn of between $25 and $30 on Nov. 5th. There was a large crowd present and considerable interest was taken in the proceedings. Burke occupied the centre of the amphitheatre, the prisoner's dock, and was not at all moved by the result. The chief witnesses were Miss Eliza Purser and Miss Lucretia Higgins, who were in the store when the robbery took place and Mr. Geo. Taylor, from Chemong, who was practically positive that he had passed Burke on the road about five miles from Buckhorn. Miss Purser's and Mr. Taylor's identification impressed the crowd that they were confident of Burke being the man they had seen. Miss Higgins, while believeing him to be the same man was not quite so sure.

The prosecution did not bring out all their evidence to-day, but there was a corroboration of the evidence given by these three witnesses which was quite noticeable. Mr. Taylor, who in an Indian from Chemong, said the man he passed wore a long black coat which was similar to that described by the two young ladies. There were also other resemblances mentioned.

Mr. Gordon represented the prisoner and Mr. R E Wood appeared for the Crown.

Burke will have to appear for trial before His Honour Judge Weller.

Details of Robbery

Miss Purser was sworn and stated that she was in her brother, John Purser's store on Nov. 5th, when a stranger came in. Witness was sitting beside a stove with Miss Higgins. The man asked for a plug of tobacco and handed over a dollar bill. Witness gave the man the tobacco and 90 cents in change. Witness went back to the rear of the shop but was suddenly called back by Miss Higgins, who said there was some one at the till. Miss Purser said that as she turned she just saw the man close the till. She followed him around the counter and reached the door at about the same time as the man. Witness tried to prevent him opening the door.

Drew a Revolver

As she did so the man drew a revolver and witness at sight of it drew back and allowed him pass outside. To Mr. Gordon witness said she had not seen the revolver until that moment and did not know he was carrying one.

Miss Purser was asked by Mr. Wood if she had seen the man since the night of the robbery and she replied that she had seen him two weeks ago in the gaol.

"Do you see him now?"

Miss Purser said yes, and motioned towards the prisoner in the dock.

"Have you any doubt as to Burke being the man?" Mr. Wood asked.

"No, none whatever."

Witness said that the amount taken from the till was between $25 and $35. In cross examination Mr. Gordon asked as to the appearance of the man who robbed the store. Witness did not remember his exact appearance, but he was clean shaven and about the height of the prisoner and a little taller than herself.

The robbery took place between 8 o'clock and 8.30.

Miss Purser said that she had seen the man in the gaol when with Mr. Cochrane, Miss Higgins, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Conroy and Mr. Dave Conroy, she had come down to the gaol for the purpose of identification if her were the man.

Miss Higgins

Miss Lucretia Higgins, city, was visiting Miss Purser at the time. Her evidence corroborated that given by the preceding witness. When the man got the tobacco Miss Higgins said she noticed he did not go out. When the man went behind the counter towards the till witness got up and went over to see what he wanted. Miss Purser had walked away. The stranger was taking a number of bills from the till, and when witness came up beside him he drew a revolver and pointed it at her head. She drew back and hurried into the house to call Miss Purser, who returned to the store. Witness called up Mr. J. Eastwood over the 'phone and asked him to come over to the store as there was some trouble. When witness returned she saw Miss Purser at the store door and the robber was pointing a revolver at her.

The man opened the door and went out.

All the lamps were lighted and the store was well illuminated. The man

Charles Burke, Who Was To-day Sent Up For Trial on a Charge of Robbing Buckhorn Store was just taking the money from the till when he drew the revolver.

To Mr. Gordon witness said the night was cloudy and dark and rain had fallen some time previously.

Witness said she had pointed out Burke as the man from among quite a number of prisoners who were in the jail.

Was not the Man

Helena Conroy, wife of Mr. Ed. Conroy, said she went to Buckhorn on November 4 with Miss Kelly. She said she had seen a stranger, but he did not look like Burke. Witness had a camera and was doing a little amateur photographing. There was one man, witness said, who apparently did not wish to be "shot" by the camera. He did not look like the prisoner at the bar.

A Clear Story

Geo. Taylor, a Chemong Indian, said he was in Lakefield on November 5. About five miles from Buckhorn between 4 and 5 o'clock witness caught up with a man, stopped his horses and offered to give him a "lift." Witness was then on his way home to Chemong. The man did not accept the offer of a drive. He was dressed in a long black overcoat, was of medium build and closely resembled the prisoner. He did not have a beard at the time.

Mr. Taylor was asked if Burke was the man and replied in a positive tone that he believed he was. Witness had not seen Burke since November 5 nor had he seen his picture. He had received a subpoena last night about 8 o'clock from the Chemong constable.

Witness said when he had heard of the robbery he had his suspicions of the stranger who refused the ride and had an idea he was responsible for the robbery. Witness gave his testimony in a straightforward manner that was of considerable weight to the prosecution.

Mr. Taylor said he had a good look at the man who would rather "walk than ride."

This concluded the evidence for the prosecution.

Mr. Gordon did not offer any defence.

Magistrate Edmison committed Burke for trial before the next court of competent jurisdiction.

The Mercury Travelled Downward at Rapid Pace

Temperature Was 29° Below Zero At Daybreak—One of Coldest Night Since 1882 and Coldest in 12 Years

SOME STATISTICS ARE GIVEN

One of the coldest snaps for a number of years arrived last night, and continues with us. The temperature gradually grow colder last evening, and through the night. About 9 last evening the thermometer marked 13 degrees below zero, and was going down fast. This morning about daybreak the mercury stood at 29 degrees below zero; no lower was registered during the night. At noon to-day the figure was 12 degrees below. It will probably be very cold again to-night, as the barometer stands at a high figure and shows no signs of falling, although the cold dip will likely end up with a snowstorm, as usual. With one exception last night was about the coldest night since 1882. On Jan 19, 1904, (the date of the disastrous fire at Roy's studio), the thermometer went down to 30 degrees below zero, but moderated somewhat during the day. Some other low figures and the dates, are as follows:

Feb. 16, 1905	32 below
Jan. 11, 1903	32 below
Feb. 27, 1900	29 below
Jan. 30, 1898	22 below
Jan. 25, 1897	18 below
Feb. 17, 1896	38 below
Feb. 18, 1882	34 below

Monday, Feb. 17, 1896, had the lowest temperature ever registered in Peterborough.

THE WOMEN CLAMOUR AT THE DOOR

The Members Would Not Hear Them—Several Were Arrested

Examiner Special.

London, Eng., Jan. 30.—The military members of the Woman's Suffragist Organization formed themselves into several committees at the same hour to-day and visited the homes of the various members of the cabinet for the purpose of asking them to use their influence to have the question of female suffrage settled at this session. As none of the ministers would see them the women demonstrated their presence by ringing door bells and delivering addresses from doorsteps. The police were unprepared for this course of action and noisy scenes were witnessed on the fashionable thoroughfare of London. The women eventually were dispersed after several arrests were made.

THIS WOMAN HANDLED HER FISTS

Struck a Youth in The Street Car Squarely in the Mouth

An amusing incident occurred on one of the street cars on Tuesday evening as the crowds were travelling towards the street railway rink at Jackson Park, which will be a reminder to the youth who was one of the principal actors in the brief drama. The young man was, of course accompanied by a lady friend and on account of the crowded character of the cars they both had to stand. On turning a corner the escort was forced to perform several athletic stunts, and in order to prevent himself from a somersault, fell against a feminine occupant of the car. The latter resented the move, and instantly struck the youth squarely on the mouth with her clenched fist—it was a straight jab—and evidently knocked him out, as he made no further attempt to get even.

THE PETERBORO' PRIZE PONIES

Going to The Stock Judging Competition at Lindsay

Lindsay, Jan. 30. — (Special). — The attendance at the Stock and Seed Judging Course this morning was very encouraging, being in the neighbourhood of two hundred. Such a large attendance proves the lively interest taken by the farmers of Victoria County in matters calculated for their benefit, and shows a very progressive spirit.

The animals at the Stock Judging Competition held at the Academy of Music on Saturday, will be photographed and likely placed before the public in the newspapers in the near future. Some fine animals will be shown.

The prize horses of Peterborough and vicinity will be here as well as Victoria County's best and top-notchers from other parts of the province.

The Wasting Process of Disease

Disease is a tearing down, wasting away and a destroying of the tissues of the body and a shrivelling up of the nerve cells and blood corpuscles. Nature demands assistance to overcome this dreadful wasting process and the needed help is best supplied by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the great blood builder and nerve restorative.

Frost and Woods Company Suffer—Firemen Were Frostbitten

Examiner Special.

Montreal, Jan. 30.—A disastrous fire broke out this morning among the wholesale houses of the west side of McGill street, south of St. Maurice street. The damage done will probably exceed $100,000. The firms most seriously affected were P. Beddis and Company, wholesale paints, and E. F. Walters' and two wholesale hardware and felts. The Frost and Woods' agricultural implement agency and Herman H. Wolf and Company dry goods, adjoining on the north and south respectively, sustained some damage by smoke and water. The firemen suffered severely during their three hours' fight, the temperature being about 20 below zero, and several of them had to be sent to their homes and to hospitals with severe frostbites.

CONSERVATIVE NOMINATIONS

At a well-attended convention of West Peterborough Conservative delegates, held last night in the old Opera House, Mr. T. E. Bradburn, M.P.P., was nominated as candidate to contest the riding for representation in the Local Legislature, and Mr. J. H. Burnham was chosen as the House of Commons candidate. For the present, these nominations call for no particular comment other than to ask the electors to suspend judgment and not commit themselves to any course of action till the Liberal candidates for the West Riding are selected, so that opportunity will be presented for comparison of claims for support.

ANOTHER BUBBLE BURST

The Conservatives have a great nose for scandals—even scent them by some intuitive olfactory operation. Mr. Ames, Conservative member of Parliament for a Montreal division, and his confreres kept the business of the House at a standstill for days to impress their demand to see the originals of certain documents in connection with the leasing of certain timber berths by the Department of the Interior. Mr. Ames claimed that if he could get sight of the handwriting of the original documents he could disclose something startling. He was allowed to see the originals, and at once he pounced upon a discovery which the Opposition papers declared disclosed a "colossal graft," and, especially the Mail and Empire, proceeded to blow up a tremendous scandal bubble which is easily pricked.

Here is what Mr. Ames and his "pals" discovered in the way of a plot. In the autumn of 1903 the Department of the Interior advertised for tenders for a western timber berth of about seventy square miles area. Three tenders were received. One was put in by Mr. C. W. Fraser, K.C., of Ottawa, for $1,640; a second was for $6,420, put in by James Curry of the Saskatchewan Lumber Company, and a third tender, in the name of W. H. Nolan of Montreal, was submitted, offering $7,000, or $580 more than Mr. Curry's offer. The timber berth was awarded to the highest tenderer, who afterwards transferred the lease to the Imperial Pulp Company, of which Sir Daniel McMillan, Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba, is President. Mr. Ames, as soon as he saw the original papers, at once pounced on the fact that the handwriting on the first and third tenders was the same, and that Mr. Nolan's signature on the transfer of the lease to Sir Daniel McMillan was different from the signature attached to the tender for $7,000. "Caught red-handed," was the cry of Mr. Ames, and through the rejoicing Opposition ranks ran the thrill of another discovered "scandal," though the scandal and "brazen graft" cannot be detected by the naked eye. The explanation of the circumstance, which aroused the sleeplessly susceptible suspicions of Mr. Ames, et alii, is palpably easy, if not self-evident. Mr. Fraser, who acted in his capacity of solicitor for the two so-called grafting tenderers, thus explains the matter, and nobody who reads with the faintest freedom from political prejudice can detect the slightest approach to "graft." Mr. Fraser says: "Certainly the two tenders were in the same hand-writing, for both were made out in the office of my firm. Instructions were received from clients to put in a tender at the lowest amount for the berths. Subsequently instructions were received to put in a tender for another client at a higher amount. These instructions we were, of course, bound to carry out, and did so in the usual way. There was nothing irregular about the transaction. I had a power of attorney, from Mr. Nolan, and signed his name to his tender."

This is all there is to the Conservative "colossal land scandal." Another bubble has been burst. The exposure of Opposition tactics is worth the waste of time of the House to the tune of hundreds of dollars, if it emphasizes the nature of their desperate attempts to create scandals where no scandals exist—as has been repeatedly shown.

ONLY INCOMPETENCE

There is a disposition to charge irregularities in the polling of votes and the general conduct of elections to political corruption and the desire to gain sinister party advantage; yet recent recounts in municipal elections, where no political issue is concerned, reveals the greatest carelessness, inefficiency and irregularities, due, no doubt, not to evil intent, but to a cause, often more potent for evil—ignorance. For instance, the recount of votes cast in the municipal election in London reveals the fact that in one division there were some remarkable discrepancies. One candidate for alderman was credited with 24 votes more than were actually polled for him, and eleven candidates received among them 77 votes more than they were entitled to. On the other hand, ten candidates for aldermanic honours were credited in the returns with no less than 105 votes fewer than were polled for them, an average loss of ten. If such irregularities in a parliamentary election, conducted under Liberal auspices, had occurred, the Mail and Empire and the rest of the pack would have been howling, "corruption," "graft," "outrage" and all sorts of cries of this character.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The Brantford Expositor calls attention to a condition that either reflects upon the completeness of our educational facilities or represents the failure of the people to take advantage of the opportunities presented. At a meeting of the committee of the Toronto Board of Trade on technical education, the statement was made that in Ontario 20,000 students patronized correspondence schools, while 2,000 students attended the shabbily-equipped technical high school in Toronto. This state of affairs indicates that a great want exists in this province which is not being supplied, and that a large amount of money is being sent out of Canada that ought to be kept at home. Or it may be regarded as showing that the dominant get-rich-quick spirit develops also a get-wise-quick spirit. These correspondence schools are "touted" for all, and much more, than they are worth and many persons are tempted by the flattering presentation of the greenness of far-away fields, ignoring the fact that we have at home Business Colleges excellently equipped for teaching, day or night, nearly all that is taught in the much vaunted correspondence schools. Still it is to be admitted that the facilities provided for acquiring technical education and training are far from being adequate or satisfactory.

HYPNOTIZED INTO MARRIAGE.

Joseph Leslie Sent to Joliet Penitentiary For Bigamy.

Chicago, Jan. 30.—Joseph E. Leslie, an alleged hypnotist and bigamist, was convicted in Judge Kersten's court of bigamy and was sentenced to a term in Joliet penitentiary of from one to five years. Miss Nina Wright, wife No. 2, testified. She said:

"I was chambermaid in a Toronto house where Leslie was attending bar. He made love to me by those horrid eyes, and I could not resist him. He threatened my life several times." The couple had met at Grimsby.

Prosecuting Attorney Short produced the duplicate of a marriage license to Bessie Cronin, the first wife.

Leslie said: "I never married that woman in Canada, but I admit that the two children are mine. I have provided for them up to ten years ago. Nina was such a pretty girl and good singer that I could not refrain from marrying her."

Mrs. Kestners, sister of the first wife, said, pointing her finger at the defendant, who quivered: "You legally married my sister, and how dare you defame her name and the name of the children? You told me you were married to her the day of the ceremony, Dec. 19, 1889."

Leslie's attorney was appointed by the court, as he is penniless. The defence based its case on the statement of Leslie that there was no first marriage. They admit he legally married Nina Wright.

Policeman as Burglar.

New York, Jan. 30.—Patrolman Geo. Dawkins, attached to the Adams Street Police Station, Brooklyn, was arrested yesterday when he reported for duty by Capt. Max Steinbruck on a charge of robbery. His case will come before the grand jury and sensational developments are expected.

Scott Ryan, a confessed thief, is the man who told the story upon which Dawkins was arrested, charging that he was privy and a confederate to at least one robbery, and declaring that Dawkins was concerned in a hold-up a year ago, for which he was brought to trial but discharged for lack of evidence.

Von Buelow to Retire.

Berlin, Jan. 30.—It is current gossip among officials and diplomats here that Chancellor von Buelow will soon retire from office. He has held his post seven years despite the machinations of a strong party at court composed of disappointed office-seekers and men and women of the old nobility, whose lax principles he has censured. Without a following among his own class and constantly menaced by court intrigue, he has now aroused a fury of hatred among the Socialists, who hold him responsible for all their wrongs.

Arm Drawn Into Chopper.

Smith's Falls, Jan. 30.—Willian Gorlough, a young farmer residing near Cornwall, was operating a fodder chopper a few days ago at the farm of W. Woods, when by some means his arm was drawn into the machine and was severed at the elbow. Garlough has been particularly unfortunate. Two years ago he was badly scalded in the mill of the Toronto Paper Co.

SAME OLD QUESTION, WAS THAW INSANE?

Counsel For Defence Claims to Have Proved His Case.

NOT A TRUMPED-UP PLEA

Littleton Asks Jury For an Acquittal on That Ground—Scores Jerome For His Sneers—Condemns His Furious Attack on Evelyn Nesbitt—Says the State Has Offered No Serious Evidence.

New York, Jan. 30.—Martin W. Littleton, chief counsel in the defence of Harry K. Thaw, yesterday asked for the acquittal of his client upon the ground of insanity, declaring he could not conceive how, in the face of the evidence, the jury could render any other verdict. The serious and sincere evidence of the defence, tending to establish the insanity of the defendant. Mr. Littleton declared that he has been answered only by the sneers and insinuations of District Attorney Jerome. These sneers and insinuations, the advocate asserted, were not the competent proof that the law required the prosecuting authorities to produce once the insanity of the accused person was brought into dispute. He repeatedly urged upon the jury to remember that in a case of this kind the burden of proof is wholly upon the State to prove the sanity of the defendant beyond all reasonable doubt.

Mr. Littleton warmly defended Evelyn Nesbit Thaw against the attacks of District Attorney Jerome. He said he could not understand what she had done, what crime she had committed, considered in the light of all she had confessed herself to be, that the prosecutor should transcend all the rules of propriety and decency and attempt to destroy her, when in the next breath he was ready to coddle and hug and vouch for the testimony of such a scoundrel as Abraham Hummel—the very vermin of the New York bar.

The address of the defending attorney occupied all the day's session, and District Attorney Jerome is expected to reply to-day. If he should conclude at the morning session, Justice Dowling will charge the jury during the afternoon. If Mr. Jerome's address should extend well into the afternoon, however, the case will not go to the jury until to-morrow morning. Mr. Littleton urged that there should be no compromise. He asserted that if any doubt existed in the minds of the jurors they should resolve it in favor of the defendant and acquit him. He begged that they be not misled by the district attorney into voting for a verdict of conviction in some lesser degree than that of primary murder.

Any verdict of not guilty in the case, it is said, will carry with it the assumption that it was rendered on the ground of the insanity of the defendant, whether on not the insanity clause is added. The plea of not guilty entered in the case and carried with it the specification that the defendant was insane at the time the crime was committed.

Forceful and Impressive.

Mr. Littleton's argument was forceful and impressive. He refrained from appealing to the passions of the jurymen and devoted himself to a logical, earnest and serious consideration of the facts as adduced in evidence. He attempted to place no crown of glory upon the brow of Harry Thaw, and said he asked for him no more consideration than the average American boy had a right to demand of the average American jury. The speech was crisp in epigram, and the short sentences were filled with the pith of logic and the quality of appeal. The jury followed it with interest, and it was generally conceded that Mr. Littleton had left District Attorney Jerome a difficult task.

"I confess to you, gentlemen," he said, "that I do not know what the district attorney had meant in this case. I cannot fathom how he feels he has discharged his burden under the law, and I am waiting with much impatience to hear what facts, what evidence, what circumstances he will suggest to you as having been presented by him to show you that this defendant is sane beyond all reasonable doubt.

A Word For Evelyn.

Mr. Littleton, in speaking of Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, said:

"I do not know what the judgment of you gentlemen may be as to her morals or as to any reprehensibility of conduct either with Stanford White or Mr. Thaw, but the district attorney's manner towards her, in my judgment, exceeded anything she deserved. It amounted to unofficial antipathy—an antipathy which I believe exceeded by far the necessities or duties of his office. There always were the notes of savagery and bitterness in his examination of her, and in his comments upon her before this jury, which were not justified by the facts of this case. I don't know how you gentlemen feel about it, but it generally has been understood that a woman when she takes the witness stand in this court is at least entitled to have her testimony elicited with as much gentility, care, tenderness and regard for the ordinary proprieties as ordinarily governs the intercourse of men and women.

No Word Against White.

"I have no word to offer against Stanford White. If all his works and charities were set up here, I would be the last to tear them down; but the fact that he joined hands with Abe Hummel gave this girl no chance to protect herself. Over Hummel's office should have hung the sign, 'All hope abandon ye, who enter here.' This Hummel affidavit is all they have against her. Yet they make her the eternal mark for all the savagery all the bitterness and antipathy they can heap upon her.

Mr. Littleton finished at 4.45 p.m. and adjournment was taken.

Receiving a new truth is adding a new sense.—Liebig.

THE UTMOST PUBLICITY

In again sending out to some of the policyholders and others, the Annual Report as made by this Company, as at the 31st of December, 1906, I wish to refer to the investments, and to draw public attention to them as being Wide Spread, instead of benefitting a special section. The premium income being from the whole country, likewise the funds have been and are Available for the Various Parts of Canada, and not simply for an isolated section or a particular portion, and while abnormal rates of interest are not demanded, the investments must be conceeded to be eminently remunerative and satisfactory.

The Report for 1907, with list of investments made, and securities held, will follow the holding of the Annual Meeting the last Wednesday in February, and will be well distributed.

Better Than the Best

Policy No. 203260, held by Mr. A. C. Frost, Chicago, in the Sun Life Assurance Co., of Canada, issued March 1902, for $50,000, calling for an annual premium of $1,907.50, has had the following results declared at the end of the first five-year division of profits:

Cash Profits,..... .....$1,660.28
Or a Bonus Addition to the sum assured, of..... 3,382.00

The Assured accepted the cash profits, being a return on all premiums paid of 17.3 per cent.

Mr. Frost has written a letter of thanks to the Company, which contains the following sentence:—

The Bridgenorth Athletes Back To Their Old Love

They Will Play Football Next Year Again—Newsy News From The Village at Chemong

THE PITCH-HOLES IN SMITH

Examiner Special.

Bridgenorth, January 29. — The man with the snow shovel is not troubled very much with indigestion these days through lack of exercise.

Although the Bridgenorth hockey team occupies the cellar position in the city league, they are not discouraged and will bravely finish the schedule. As this is the first season for this team they could not hope to trim those with experience, but they are out to learn the game in good company and already show a great improvements on their first efforts.

"The supply of milk to the Central Smith butter factory, is up to the usual standard as to quantity and quality;" so says Mr A Campbell, the capable manager.

The Bridgenorth Methodist church has selected February 6th as the date for a grand social at which those in attendance will be entertained by Peterborough's most popular orchestra, led by Mr Gilddon.

At a hockey practice on Friday afternoon Lyman Hall had the misfortune to have his arm badly strained and the injury is quite painful.

Mr. J. Conway, who has charge of the open-air rink, admits that he has no "cinch," as the snow continues to give him plenty of work; but he says that he will fight the weather as long as there is frost enough to make ice. The rink patrons wish him every success.

It is the intention of Gilmour Memorial church, to hold its anniversary services on Sunday, Feb. 9 at 11 a.m., and at 7 p.m., at which Rev J R Webb of the Murray street Baptist church, will be the speaker. On the following Wednesday, Feb. 12th, the good old fashioned church tea will be supplemented by a Shredded Wheat banquet supplied by the Shredded Wheat Co., of Niagara Falls, Ont., which assures that it will be appropriate, bountiful, choice, delicious, and so on—to the end of the alphabet. This is a new feature in this district and should prove attractive.

Three years ago when the pitch holes on the main roads made travel so unpleasant and dangerous, the Smith township council had constructed a pitch-hole eradicator, which receives the pleasing appellation of "Minnie M." and proved a real success. A few days ago this implement had the fine points of its mechanicism so changed that it is now a snow plough. On the trial trip it did the business all right, but no records were attempted.

Even though the hockey smoke has not cleared away, there looms up on the local athletic horizon the bright possibility of a strong football team here next summer, when such material as Bellegham, Creugh, Adams and Scott is so near at hand and eager for the fray.

As in nearly all lines of human endeavour the old methods pass away and new ones are adopted, so it is with the tillers of the soil. Agricultural colleges are maintained for the purpose of conducting experiments, and educating the farmers in what is profitable and progressive. During the winter short courses are given at Guelph in the various departments. Availing themselves of this opportunity to become more efficient in their calling, five of our energetic young men, Messrs C Telford, J Mann, W Scott, A Mann and C Moore have spent two weeks at the O. A. C. They are highly pleased with the trip, which formed a vacation of an educative nature.

Milk is a peculiar product, although it is the natural food of babies and young stock. It may also be converted into butter or cheese according to the process adopted but can now be really said to produce both at once, as butter is being made from whey, which is a by-product in the manufacture of cheese. The Central Smith Dairy Co., is at present erecting a large building to store the ice necessary in the new enterprise of preparing whey butter. Surely in a year hence the talk about butter at 35c a pound, will be considereed as ancient history.

TO USERS OF CANNED GOODS

Pains and Aches Of The Aged

LARGELY DUE TO DERANGEMENTS OF THE LIVER, KIDNEYS AND BOWELS, WHICH ARE OVERCOME BY

You do not feel so young as you used to. The joints are a bit stiff. And you have dull, heavy pains in the back and limbs, with attacks of rheumatism, it may be.

It is possible you have found out that the cause of trouble rests with the sluggish action of the kidneys, liver and bowels, but if you have not used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills you have not tested the effective treatment for those conditions.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are a comfort to the aged largely because of their unique combined action on the whole excretory system.

Constipation and biliousness can no longer exist when the liver is enlivened to action by the use of this great medicine.

Kidney derangements and backache likewise disappear when the kidneys are invigorated, and an occasional dose of these pills ensures the elimination of uric acid from the system.

Almost daily we hear of aged people whose pains and aches have been overcome and whose lives have been made more comfortable and more happy by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Mr. James Simpson, Newcomb Mills, Northumberland County, Ont., writes: "This is to certify that I was sick in bed the most of the time for three years with kidney disease. I took several boxes of pills—different kinds—and a great many other kinds of patent medicines; besides that I was under treatment by four different doctors during the time, and not able to work. I began to take Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and since that time have been working every day, although a man nearly 76 years of age. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have cured me."

In every family there is need of just such a medicine as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to cure constipation, backache, biliousness, indigestion, and prevent dangerous and fatal diseases of the kidneys and bowels. One pill a dose; 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.—5.

FAREWELL BANQUET AT LAKEFIELD

Mr. F. A. Kilbourn Leaving for Montreal —Hockey Matches in Village

BROTHERHOOD MEETING

Examiner Special.

Lakefield, Jan. 29.—Mr. W A Beall, of Peterborough was the guest of Rev. S S Burns at the manse for a few days last week.

Mr. Chas. Cumberland, who has been paying a short visit to his sister-in-law, Mrs. Cumberland, returned to Toronto on Monday last.

Mrs. Clark, of Montreal, is in the village, the guest of her sister, Mrs. J R Fraser.

Mrs. H G Fitzgerald, who has been visiting friends in New York, returned home on Friday last.

Mesdames McKee and Driscoll, of Campbellford, were the guests of Miss McKibbon for a few days last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy, of North Smith, moved into the village last week and are residing in the house lately occupied by Mr. W F Trude, who has moved to the country to take up farming.

A meeting in connection with St. Andrew's Brotherhood was held at St. John's Rectory, on Saturday afternoon. Mr. Thomas, travelling secretary of the Brotherhood, gave a very inspiring and impressive address on the objects of the Brotherhood and of the work done by its members all over Canada. The result was the formation of a Chapter, having as its officers: Rev. W J Creighton, Director, and Mr. Dela Fosse as secretary. Another meeting will be held on Tuesday evening to make final arrangements for the working of the Chapter.

Mrs. E Norrish was visiting friends in Lindsay and Woodville last week.

Mrs. Wm. Andrews and child, of Peterborough, are in the village the guests of Mrs. Z White.

The marriage of Mr. J A Walker, of Winnipeg, formerly of Lakefield, to Miss Reiffestein, of Montreal, took place recently in Montreal.

Mr. Walter Pearson, of Lyman, N. Y., who has been visiting his sister, Mrs. I. Peak, returned home last week.

Mr. Cope Cotton, of Niagara Falls, is in the village the guest of his grandfather, Mr. Wm. Adams.

Miss Ray entertained a number of her friends on Monday night at her residence on Regent street.

Miss Lila Webber, of Peterborough, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W M Graham for a few days last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Watson, who have been spending the last three or four weeks visiting friends in Peterborough and Smith Townships, returned home on Thursday last.

Mr. and Mrs. W M Graham gave a large house-warming at their residence on Tuesday night. A large number of their friends were present and all spent a very enjoyable evening.

Master Harry Atwood returned on Tuesday from Peterborough where he had been spending a few days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. Evans Atwood.

Two junior hockey matches were played on Saturday between teams from the Public school and the Peterborough and Grove hockey teams. The match between the Public school and Peterborough resulted in a win for Lakefield, the score being 7-2. The other between the Public school and the Grove resulted in a score of 8-6 in favour of Lakefield.

A farewell banquet was given at the Lakefield House Monday evening to Mr. F A Kilbourn, who leaves in a few days to take charge of the cement works in Montreal. A large number of gentlemen was present, the chair being occupied by Rev. W. J. Creighton, and the vice chair by Mr. F. J. Moore, reeve of the village. During the evening Mr. Kilbourn was presented with a case of pipes which gift he acknowledged in a few appropriate words. After supper the remainder of the evening was spent in playing cards and in various other amusements. Expressions of regret at his departure are general, as Mr. Kilbourn has always shown himself a man of progressive and liberal spirit.

Mr. O E Pratt returned on Tuesday from Port Hope where he had been on a short visit.

NORWOOD WINS FROM KEENE

The Trent Valley League Games Are Fast

Examiner Special.

Norwood, Jan. 29.—The Trent Valley League game here Saturday night between Keene and Norwood resulted in a victory for the home team by 7-3. The half-time score was 4-3 in favour of Norwood. The home team consisted mainly of juniors, Doherty and Huyck being the only seniors on the line-up. The last half was a far better exhibition than the first. If Kempt and Hendren's two-man combinations were a feature and were strongly supported by Doherty and Morrow at rover and right wing. Edwards and Huyck at cover and point were a stone wall, while J Doherty in the nets picked off many dangerous shots. Dixon, Short and McCarty all showed up on the visitors' seven. The teams:—

HERPICIDE NOT A FAKE

Unsolicited Testimonials Tell of its Superiority

Alf. R. Kelley, residing at 2195 Devisadero street, San Francisco Cal., writes the following: "When I first purchased Herpicide I thought, like the majority of hair preparations, it would prove a fake. I am happy to state that, on the contrary, it is all, and even more, than you claim for it. Quite a number of barbers throughout the section in which I travel called attention to the new hair sprouting out on my scalp, and inquired of me what I have been using. I tell them 'Herpicide,' and also give them your name and address." Sold by leading druggists. Send 10 cents in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Two sizes — 50c and $1. LATEST NEWS FROM INDIAN RIVER

Indian River, Jan. 28.—The recent snow storm has blocked the lines running north and south considerably.

Miss Frances Crowley is the guest of the Misses Heffernan.

Mr. Wm. Paw and Miss Pansy Paw of Keene, visited friends here last week.

Miss Minnie Hogan, Peterborough, spent a day here last week with her friend, Miss Devlin.

Mr. J. Heffernan and the Misses Heffernan, of Westwood, were visiting friends here last week.

Mr. John Heffernan left on Tuesday last for Edmonton where he has been teaching school for the past three years.

Mrs. Michael Heffernan, of Chemong, is visiting at Mr. Michael Gurvey's.

The Bachelors held a meeting on Monday evening last and paid a call by the president, Mr. Patrick Cavenaugh.

The meeting was held for the purpose of electing a president, as Mr. Cavenaugh is about to sever his connection with the society. Mr. John Sullivan was in the chair and called upon the president to give his farewell speech. The president on rising was cheered for some time. He said he was sorry to sever connection with such a flourishing society. He said he had always lived up to the rules that were laid down and had his hands full in keeping a keen eye after his brother friends. He lastly admitted that he did not believe in such a society and thought that bachelors would soon have to abandon. It was proven soon afterwards that such would not be the case, as it was moved by Wm. Breakenridge, seconded by Arthur Fife, that John Sullivan be the newly appointed president. Mr. Sullivan was unanimously elected and asked to make a few remarks. Mr. Sullivan thanked the audience in general. He said he was sorry that there were no ladies admitted as he had always holden a warm spot in his heart for the gentler sex. He said he was proud of his position and that he would do his utmost to carry on the good name of his society as his predecessors did.

The Annual Meeting Of St. Paul's Congregation

Very Encouraging Reports Were Presented—Long Discussion On Financial Report

COLLECTIONS ARE SMALL

The annual meeting of St. Paul's church congregation was held last night in the schoolroom. There was a large representation of the members present, and between the hours of 6 and 8 o'clock supper was served, after which, Sheriff Hall, on motion of Mr. W. G. Ferguson, seconded by Mr. R. Innis, was elected to the chair.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read by Mr. H E Wood.

During the evening a long discussion took place on the subject of church contributions, but the matter was left over until another time. During the year two prominent members of the church—Miss Rogers and Mr. Wm. Pringle—had passed away, and the efficient working staff had been weakened. According to the statements of the Board of Managers, the membership has greatly increased since the arrival of Rev. Robt. Pogue.

The reports were as follows:

Report of Session

Mr. J. C. Shook presented the report of the session. The session desired to express their high esteem for the admirable qualities possessed by the former pastor, Rev. Dr. E F Torrance, D.D., whose resignation marked an important period in the history of St. Paul's church. The members and office-bearers were very fortunate in securing the efficient services of Rev. Dr. Talling.

Some time ago the system of contributing by envelope was instituted both for current expenses and the schemes of the church, and it has been found that a very considerable number has not as yet adopted the system, there being for current expenses only 240 out of a membership of 770 using envelopes, and for the schemes of the church only 149. It was also recommended that an organized effort be adopted by the congregation in the interests of home missions on account of the ever-increasing demand for help.

The membership at the close of the year 1906 was 780; loss by certificates and death, 38, leaving a balance of 742. Received by certificate, 19, and by profession of faith, 9, making a total membership at the close of 1907 of 740.

Financial Report

The financial report of St. Paul's Missionary Association was read by Mr. Robt. Harrison, treasurer, and is as follows:

Contributions to the schemes of the church—

Weekly offerings by envelope	$1538.95
Stewart's Settlement, Otonabee	4.00
Total	$1542.95

This sum has been expended as follows:

Printing, envelopes	$ 12.00
Weekly collection books	4.10
Express, postage, stationery and salary	102.92
Transfers to current expense account	22.05
Remitted to Rev. Dr. Somerville, Toronto	1400.00
In bank, required for postage	1.88
	$1542.95

To the Congregation of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Peterborough.

Your Board of Managers beg to submit their annual statement of receipts and expenditures for the year ending December 31, 1907, which have been audited and certified.

The revenue for current expenses shows a reduction from that of the previous year, due doubtless to the recent disorganized state of the congregation, and also the disturbance caused by repairs to the church.

As authorized by the congregation your Board have obtained a loan of $5,000, secured by mortgage upon the church property, which has provided the necessary funds for the renovation of the church, the wiping out of the floating indebtedness, as well as payment of the balance on $1,000 owing upon the former mortgage.

In like manner the organ has been re-built through a donation from Mr. Richard Hall, trustee of the estate of Mrs. Nicholls, and now we have an instrument thoroughly modern in every respect, and in tone quality and volume surpassing many larger instruments.

Through the kindness of warm friends of the church, the interior decorations were amplified so that the general effect is most artistic and pleasing.

The Ladies' Aid Society, with their usual enthusiasm, have carpeted the church anew, which adds to the general effect.

Your Board feel that the congregation have reason to be proud of their church and its equipments at the present time. It is at once inviting and comfortable, and if each member of the congregation will do his or her part, we feel that a great future is in store for St. Paul's.

The question of raising sufficient funds for carrying on the ordinances of the Church has for some time been the subject of considerable thought and anxiety on the part of the Board, who feel that as representatives of a congregation like St. Paul's they should not be called upon to face deficits year after year and to devise ways and means to meet the congregation's obligations.

Recently, with a view to obtain the best possible results, your Board, after due consideration, decided to cancel the entire pew allotment of the church and then asked for new applications from all desiring sittings together with an indication of the amounts they would contribute towards the current expenses of the church. Your Board regret to report that while a number have increased their subscriptions and are doing a fair share towards the support of the work, a large number have failed to realize their obligations and duty in the matter, with the result that the entire amount promised will not provide more than two-thirds of what is required to support the Church under a conservative estimate of expenses.

Under the circumstances your Board feel it their duty to lay these facts before the congregation and ask for definite instructions as to future procedure.

The present expenses of the church are not excessive when compared with that of other churches but the general average of contributions by its members is not flattering to their loyalty to the cause.

Sunday School Report

Mr. Wm. Madill, superintendent of the Sunday school presented a detailed report of the work being done. It has been previously published at the time of the annual meeting of the school which was held on Monday night.

Faithful Workers

This report was read by Miss Aletha Davidson, and showed an increase in membership; attendance contributions. Meetings were held regularly except in July and August. A ball was sent to the Northwest. Two lectures were held, one given by Rev. Mr. Pedley and another by Rev. Mr. Keith. The proceeds amounted to $72.90. The contributions at the thank-offering meeting amounted to $7.37. The number on roll is 33 with average attendance of 18.

Fraser Mission Band

This report was presented by Miss A M Thompson. The average attendance of the year was 16. The band took up the study of the Islands of the Pacific.

The band undertook to clothe a little girl in the west. There is at present $84.40 in the treasury.

Women's Foreign Missionary Society

This report was presented by Miss Martha Dickson. It has previously been published at the time of the annual meeting of the Society in December.

Ladies' Aid Report

This report was read by Mr. W F Nelson on behalf of Mrs. A Gibson. During the year ten regular meetings were held. The monthly collections amounted to $114.70, and $400.00 has already been paid on account for the new carpet for the church. At the Thanksgiving prayer meeting a collection for the poor was taken up amounting to $26.20. The receipts for the year were $702.34 and the expenditure $580.58, leaving a balance of $110.11.

Young Men's Guild

Mr. A P McLean reported for the Young Men's Guild. The year had been one of progress and prosperity. The meetings have been regular each month. At the last meeting over 20 men were present when Rev. Mr. Pogue gave a stirring and impressive address on John Wanamaker. The Guild attend to the ushering and taking of collection on Sunday. This Society look forward to a very prosperous future.

After the different reports were read the election of officers took place with the following results:—

Managers—Messrs. C Brown, P McLean, W F Nelson and R E Wood. Mr. H Gillespie will take the place of Mr. Wm. Pringle, who passed away during the past term.

Messrs. W H Hill and Wm. Madill were appointed representatives to the Nicholls Hospital Board.

HAVE CITY REPRESENTED AT THE BIG WALKING MATCH

If the citizens of Peterborough want this city to be represented at the world's championship six-day walking match in Kansas City in February, they should patronize the benefit concert to be tendered Mr. David Hartley in the market hall to-night. Mr. Hartley is the only Canadian who has been honoured with an invitation to be present and if he takes part in the great walk, the eyes of all Canada will be on him and of course on Peterborough and no more far-reaching or better advertisement could be secured. If to-night's concert is a financial success, Mr. Hartley will be sent to Kansas City to represent Canada against Weston, Dan O'Leary and the other American cracks. With such a worthy object in view the capacity of the market building should be taxed to its utmost to accommodate the crowd.

From the view point of the programme there is no doubt of the success of the concert. The 57th Band will render a choice programme and will be assisted by Miss Reesor, soprano soloist of the George street Methodist church choir, Miss Julia Choate, teacher of violin at the Peterborough Conservatory of Music, and other well known local talents. The seats are going fast and there will be a record crowd on hand.

Uniform Examinations Are Recommended By Inspector

Mr. J. C. Brown Thinks Pupils Are Promoted Prematurely—Schools Living up to The Requirements

THE MONIES RECEIVED

At yesterday's session of the County Council Mr. J Coyle Brown, County Public School Inspector presented the following report:—

To the Warden and Members of the Council of the County of Peterborough:

Gentlemen,—I have the honour to report on the Public Schools of the County for the year 1907 as follows:

Of rural schools I inspected 98, all the schools in the county, except one in Chandos, which was not in operation the week of my inspection in that neighbourhood. In these schools on the dates of my visits there were 56 pupils in the fifth class or above; 340 in the fourth class; 430 in the third class; 451 in the second class; 285 in the second part of the first book, and 475 in the first part of the first book. In not a few cases there were pupils in classes for which they were not fit. They had been promoted prematurely. Now there are few things more likely to retard the real progress of a school than premature position. On account of the frequent change of teachers, and the inexperience of most of them, the introduction of uniform promotion examinations would be a great improvement. I hope you will pass a resolution in its favour at this session, so that a uniform promotion examination may be held in June next.

During the year much was done in the way of improved accommodation and equipment. About 90 per cent. of the schools have taken considerable steps to comply with the requirements of the Education Department in this regard, and many may be said to have complied fully. My colleague, Mr. Lees, deserves much credit in this matter. He took great pains to bring the subject fully before trustees and others, and, I think, was very successful. When the accommodation and equipment are ample, we may look for very much better teaching and more satisfactory general results than hitherto.

The headings under which apportionment of grants for equipment and accommodation were made were as follows:—

1 Value of equipment.
2 Closets.
3 Water supply.
4 Grounds.
5 Buildings.
6 Class rooms.
7 Cap rooms.
8 Private rooms.
9 Desks.
10 Blackboards.
11 Lighting.
12 Heating.
13 Ventilation.

Amounts received by townships:—

Asphodel 7 schools	$189 40
Belmont 14	293 80
Burleigh, 6	108 50
Chandos 8	144 22
Douro 10	200 00
Dummer 8	158 90
Ennismore 4	99 20
Galway 5	70 05
Harvey 8	157 45
North Monaghan 3	80 95
Otonabee 14	357 95
Smith 12	319 40
Outside County	27 65
Total	$2,207 72

Half of the above amounts were legislative grants; the other half county equivalents.

Perhaps the greatest opposition to complying with equipment requirements was manifested regarding libraries. The use of these was not fully understood and appreciated. In some cases they were regarded as an injury. The ordinary school books were considered quite sufficient for reading purposes. When the effect of school libraries becomes apparent I have no doubt that opposition to them will cease. Under the head of equipment are embraced globes, maps, gazetter or atlas, standard dictionary, numeral frame, set of mensuration surfaces forms and geometrical solids, blackboard set, pair of scales, with weights, set of measures, a library, and a suitable case for all these that need such. Ten per cent of the value of this equipment yearly is promised by the Education Department to every school. If proper care be taken of the various parts much of it will last for a generation, bringing to the section 10 per cent. of its value yearly. The teacher should be responsible for its careful use and keeping. A teacher in a school where this equipment is not provided is handicapped. Such a teacher is not able to do his work as well or as easily as one who is in a school where all these are at his hand.

The village schools are those of Havelock, Lakefield and Norwood. As to Havelock, the lack of accommodation is sadly felt. The school building is not sufficiently large, but is considered by many too valuable to be discarded, considering the financial position of the village. The site is not such that proper playgrounds can be obtained. This leads to divided opinion as to what ought to be done. Some desire a new site and a new building. Others are in favour of enlarging the present building. The school suffers much from the frequent change of teachers. A teacher has recently been engaged for continuation work only. In a village such as Havelock there should be a sufficient number of pupils beyond the ordinary Public School course to occupy fully the time of one or more teachers. The young people of the village and neighbourhood should have an opportunity of getting a good general and business education without leaving their homes.

As to Lakefield, the building is good and the grounds fair. There is a continuation class, but the teacher's time is not devoted to it exclusively. He has the Entrance class as well. Some changes ought to be made and the equipment increased. My colleague and myself intend having a conference with the trustees at their next meeting with a view to putting the school in a position to do more effective work. Here, as at Havelock, there should be a large continuation class. At Norwood a continuation class is unnecessary, as after passing the Entrance examinations pupils have the High School to attend without leaving the village. In the school here not a little in the way of equipment is needed. There is a willingness, I understand, to provide whatever is required. Doubtless that will be done before long. This school has had one great advantage over those of the two other villages. The assistants on its staff have been rarely changed for many years. At the Norwood Model School there were 30 students during the late session. Three others wrote for extensions. All passed the examinations, most of them with very considerable margins. Whether the Model School will be continued at Norwood or not is not known. It has done good work in the past. The schools of the county and neighbourhood could scarcely have been supplied with teachers without it. It appears that the Government intends to continue some of the Model Schools to assist in supplying teachers for the back country, and an effort is being made to have the one at Norwood so continued.

Perhaps the greatest drawback to our schools is the frequent change of teachers. For this I see no immediate remedy. Young women will, of course, get married when favourable opportunities offer, and young men will not stay in the profession because the salaries are too low.

I am,

Your Obedient Servant,
J. COYLE BROWN.

The report was referred to the committee on schools, and a report will be submitted to the Council before the close of the session.

SOME BOARD OF TRADE RECOMMENDATIONS

What The Brantford Board is Doing To Get New Industries

The Board of Trade of Brantford held its annual meeting on Tuesday night and formulated a policy regarding the securing of new industries. The Brantford Expositor sums up the recommendations briefly, as follows:

An excellent report was submitted at last night's meeting of the Board of Trade on the question of securing new industries. The recommendations made were in brief as follows:

1—To formulate a definite policy, as liberal as possible, relative to manufacturing establishments.

2—To secure adequate switching facilities for numerous industrial sites which are available, by negotation with radial and railway companies.

3—To secure options, good for a reasonable length of time, on all industrial sites.

4—To amalgamate the Railway and Manufactures Committees of the City Council.

5—To advertise Brantford's industrial advantages by a compact folder giving accurate information on taxation, population and other matters.

6—To secure in part the services of City Treasurer Bunnell as a permanent official in the capacity of industrial Commissioner.

Popular Cure for Croup

Anyone who has tested Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, as a cure for croup, will not hesitate to pronounce it an unqualified success. It is wonderfully prompt in relieving the cough, clearing the air passages and soothing the excited nerves. Many mothers who realize the suddenness with which croup comes on keep this great medicine promptly on hand for use in case of emergency.

A SUGGESTION TO THE COUNCIL

"Merchant" Says Lindsay is After The Woodward Biscuit Firm—Mistake In The Name

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Are there two biscuit firms wishing to locate here? While in conversation with a representative of the Woodward Biscuit Company yesterday, he intimated that his firm would like to come here. His statement was in accord with the publication in the Examiner on Tuesday, but added that Lindsay was anxious to get them and were offering inducements for them to locate there. I am inclined to think that your publication should have read Woodward instead of Woodville. I have handled the farmer's goods and their traveller says they are no one-horse concern either. I would suggest that the new council make an early start and secure this firm and keep ahead of Lindsay.

Yours truly,
"ANOTHER MERCHANT."

The name "Woodville" should have read "Woodward" in Tuesday's issue.

ANNUAL MEETING OF KNOX CHURCH

Congregation Pleased With Satisfactory Advances That Have Been Made

AN INCREASED MEMBERSHIP

The first annual meeting of the Knox Presbyterian church was held last night and was characterised by a large attendance and enthusiasm in the proceedings. All the reports show a substantial progress in every department with the church improved and the membership enlarged.

Rev. H J Keith, the pastor was present and opened the evening's business with prayer. Mr. Andrew McKenzie was appointed chairman and filled the position in a most acceptable manner. Mr. McKenzie referred to the advancement that had been made of the good work of Rev. Mr. Keith and mentioned that it was a pleasure for him to preside at such an important function.

Report of the Session

The report of the session for 1907 was read by Mr. J F. Morrison in the absence of Mr. Bennett who was absent through illness. It was as follows:—

It is with gratitude to the great head of the church that the session present this report for the year 1907, being the first, since Knox began to be an independent congregation.

During the three months' vacancy at the beginning of the regular services were maintained and acceptable preachers were heard by the congregation which became happily settled in April with Rev. H J Keith, M. A., B.D. as its pastor.

Marked improvements in attendance began at this time and from month to month a notable increase became evident.

The membership at the beginning of the year stood at seventy-eight after deducting fourteen names of members who had died or removed. During the year 82 were added to the roll, so that at the close of the year the total membership stood at one hundred and sixty. Present membership is 196.

The session recognizes the valuable assistance to the church services rendered by the choir and expresses its gratitude to the members as individuals who necessarily must sacrifice something to so diligently attend the weekly practices and church services. Before the close of the year Miss W. Anderson, who had presided at the organ for some four or five years resigned, and the leadership was put in the hands of Miss Robson, with Miss Sisson as organist. The session warmly appreciated the services rendered in the past by Miss Anderson and Mr. Duncan Campbell.

Owing to the removal of Mr. Wm. Shea, one of the elders, to the Northwest, and the continued growth of the congregation, the session requested the congregation to increase the number of elders by four, and the following gentlemen were duly elected and ordained: Messrs. Jonathan Smith, Richard Chiles, Robert Clifford and William T Carruthers.

The session notes with pleasure the organization of the Young People's Society and the Boys Club. The Sunday School under the Superintendence of Sheriff Hall has made rapid progress during the year and it is pleasing to learn that the Sheriff has been induced by the teachers to continue for another year.

Parents are urged to exercise a prayerful interest in the work of the school, especially the recitation work of the pupils. The average attendance at the mid-week meeting has been about forty. This could be doubled if the men would attend in the same proportion as the women.

The session look forward to largely increased contributions to the cause of missions during the coming year.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

J. W. BENNET,
Session Clerk.

The report was adopted on motion of Mr. Morrison and Mr. Geo. Smith.

Sunday School Report

The Sunday school report was read by Mr. Morrison in the absence of Sheriff Hall.

The report is as follows:—

The past year has been one of considerable progress and of much encouragement. The attendance of scholars has been constantly increasing, the order and attention remarkably good and the teachers have been faithful in their attendances and take great interest in their work.

The additional accommodation provided by the new gallery and class rooms has added greatly to the efficiency of the school, and much appreciated by the teachers, supplying, as it does a much felt need, especially in the primary department, the attendance in which is rapidly increasing.

The usual picnic was held at Stony Lake and was much enjoyed by the school.

A very considerable addition has been made to the library, which has now a large number of volumes.

The average attendance of scholars during the year was 107, as compared with 77 in 1906, the largest number present on any one occasion being 133.

The amount contributed by the scholars was $128.39, as against $87.37, for the previous year.

There has been considerable change in the teaching staff, which now consists of 15 teachers, besides 4 other officers.

The Home Mission Society's report showed a good year, with receipts of $116.96, and an industrious season has been carried through. Mr. Keith said that their next step would be to take up the foreign missions.

The Young People's Guild

The following is taken from Mr. D. Campbell's report of the Young People's Guild:

The Young People's Guild was organized on October 25th, when the following officers were elected:

Hon. Pres., Rev. Mr. Keith.
Pres., Mr. D. Campbell.
Vice-Presidents, Miss Menzies, Miss Carr, Mr. Carruthers and Mr. Wilkie.
Rec.-Sec., Miss J. Buyers.
Cor. Sec., Miss F. Thompson.
Treas., Mr. McCannon.

The Guild has done excellent work, and is now a strong organization, and and has done much in making strangers welcome, and in so doing, bringing them into connection with the church. We have much to be thankful for, and it is hoped that the young people will do all in their power to make the coming year the best in our history.

The financial report shows an expenditure of $4, and receipts of $7.65, leaving a balance of $3.65.

Boys' Club

Mr. Robert Thompson read the report of the Boys' Club, giving a most satisfactory account of their work, since organization.

In moving the adoption of the Boys' Club report, Mr. Morrison expressed his pleasure with the work done by the Boys' Club. It was a splendid idea, he said, and should be assisted by the whole congregation.

Mr. Smith, speaking of the club, said it was unsurpassed by any other in the city, and he thought the leader, Mr. Wilkie, deserved great credit for the earnestness of his work with the boys.

Mr. Duncan Campbell and the pastor, Rev. Mr. Keith, also spoke on the club, the latter especially urging that the congregation assist the boys in every way. The boy problem was an important one and was engaging universal attention. If the boys were brought up with a love for the church, when they reached manhood they would insure a strong, good congregation when the present elders had passed away. Assistance in every manner should be given the boys, Mr Keith said, and if it did cost a little it was a very cheap price for the saving of the souls of the young boys.

Ladies' Aid

Mrs. Pollock's report of the Ladies' Aid was comprehensive and encouraging. The annual meeting of the society was held on January 10, when the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

Hon. Pres.—Mrs. McPherson,
Pres.—Mrs. Smyth.
1st Vice-Pres.—Mrs. McKenzie.
2nd Vice-President—Miss Menzies.
Sec.—Mrs. Pollock.
Treas.—Mrs. Tussler.
Visiting Committee — Mrs. Morrison, Mrs. Scott, Mrs. Gillies, Mrs. Allen, Mrs. Keith, Miss Bennett, Mrs. Reufsch.

We trust that it may please God to bless our society through the year we have now entered upon as He did in that which has gone by.

The financial statement of the Ladies' Aid for 1907 follows:

Receipts	$121.54
Payments	117.49
Balance on hand	$4.05

AMY K. BENNETT,
Treasurer.

Board of Managers

Mr. J. W. Byers, secretary of the Board of Managers, read his report, the main features of which are given herewith.

This, the first report of the Board, is full of encouragement for the young congregation. It is with thankfulness that the Board presents a balance sheet showing the receipts to be $1,404.15, the payments being $1,390.05, leaving a surplus of $14.10 in the treasury. In 1906 the collections amounted to $554.24, and in 1907 the collections (not including donations) amounted to $1,168.88, an increase of $614.64 over the preceding year. Early in the year the Sunday school showed such marked increase in attendance that it was determined, at a congregational meeting, that a gallery be erected at the west side of the building for the accommodation of the infant and Bible classes. The lowest tender procurable was $510, which was accepted, and the work was carried to completion during the autumn. The report of the secretary-treasurer of the gallery fund shows a balance of $30, due the contractors, and, the work of subscribing going forward. Probably the most important event in connection with the church during the past year was the gift by St. Paul's congregation to Knox congregation of the church property absolutely free of encumbrance.

The following gentlemen were duly elected the first members of Knox Church to hold the property: Messrs. Jonathan Smith, Andrew McKenzie, W. T. Carruthers, Herbert McCannon, Robert Mulligan.

J. W. BYERS,
Secretary.

Treasurer's Report

Mr. Robt. Mulligan, treasurer, presented his report, showing a balance of $14.10.

Expenditures	$1,390.05
Receipts	$1,404.15
Balance	$14.10

General Business

In connection with new business, Mr. Morrison moved that the number of members on the Board of Managers be changed to nine instead of six, with four to constitute a quorum, and three to retire each year, and that the constitution be changed to make the provision suggested. General agreement was expressed in favour of the proposal. Rev. Mr. Keith also favoured the idea. Mr. Smith seconded the motion, which was carried.

New Officers

The auditors elected for the coming year are Messrs. Edward Carr and Walter Patten. Messrs. D. Campbell and G. H. Savigny, who were retiring from the Board of Managers, were reappointed for the ensuing year. The three new members chosen were Mr. Geo. Smith, Mr. Andrew McKenzie and Mr. H J McCannon.

Mr. Robt. Mulligan was elected treasurer for the year.

The business of the evening being concluded, the ladies served refreshments which everyone enjoyed.

BECOMES EDITOR OF MAGAZINE

Mr. G. B. VanBlaricom, Editor of The Review, Leaving for Toronto —Here Four Years

ON BUSY MAN'S MAGAZINE

On Monday morning, Mr. G. B. VanBlaricom, who has been editor of the Review for the past four years, leaves Peterborough for Toronto, where he assumes the editorship of the Busy Man's Magazine, a well-known and widely ccirculated Canadian publictaion, issued by the MacLean Publishing Company, of Toronto, who also publish several trade journals. Mr. VanBlaricom's many friends will regret to learn of his departure from Peterborough, but nevertheless they congratulate him on assuming such a responsible position as editor of the Busy Man's Magazine.

He has had fifteen years' experience in daily journalism, in Woodstock, Ottawa and Peterborough, which will, in addition to his natural ability, qualify him for the position he assumes.

During his residence in Peterborough Mr. VanBlaricom has identified himself actively with several organizations. He is a past-president of the Peterborough Press Club, president of the Young Men's Guild of St. Paul's church, as well as a member of other organizations, including the Young Conservative Club, of which he is an auditor; the Board of Trade, the Canadian Club, and the Y.M.C.A.

In fraternal circles he is a member of Peterborough Lodge, No. 155, A. F. and A. M., and Otonabee Lodge, No. 13, I. O. O. F.

The Busy Man's Magazine, under the direction of Mr. VanBlaricom, should continue to enjoy the wide circulation and popularity in Canada with which it is now favoured. The MacLean Publishing Company controls that creditable publication, the Dry Goods Review, of which Mr. M. J. Hutchinson, until recently city editor of the Examiner, is the editor.

AN ENJOYABLE SOCIAL EVENING WAS SPENT

Eko Camp Annual Dance Held Last Night —A Large Attendance

The annual dance of the Eko Club last night in the Foresters' Hall, Simcoe street, proved to be one of the most delightful functions of the present social season. Excellent music was provided by a Toronto orchestra, and the gathering, consisting of more than 200 persons, enjoyed the light fantastic for several hours. Dainty refreshments were served during the evening and the gathering dispersed greatly pleased with the programme provided. Mr. Leslie Hamsden was the honorary secretary of the committee in charge of the event.

NOMINATIONS WERE HELD

Messrs. T. E. Bradburn and J. H. Burnham to be Conservative Candidates

MEETING HELD LAST NIGHT

At a meeting in the old opera house last evening, of Conservative delegates of the various wards of the city, and of the municipalities of West Peterborough, Mr. Thomas Evans Bradburn was chosen to be the candidate for the Ontario Legislature, and Mr. J. Hampden Burnham, for the Dominion House, in the next elections. The meeting was rather largely attended.

Mr. James Kendry was offered the nomination for the Dominion House, without opposition, but owing to business engagements he declined to accept it.

There were three aspirants for the latter after Mr. Kendry dropped out. Four more were nominated, and three of these, Messrs. J. W. Garvin, Harry Phelan and J. H. Burnham, remained in the field. On the first ballot, Mr. Phelan was retired, and on the second, Mr. Burnham secured the nomination by a vote of 96 to 72.

Mr. Jas. Kendry occupied the chair, and on the platform with him were Mr. J. S. Carstairs, secretary of the Dominion Liberal Conservative Association for Ontario, and Mr. W. K. Snider, Provincial Organizer for the Liberal-Conservative Association of Ontario.

Messrs. J. G. M. Wilson, Jas. Edgar and E. A. Peck, were appointed scrutineers, and a committee on credentials.

Mr. Kendry then asked all the candidates to take their place on the platform, but Mr. A. P. Poussette pointed out that there might not be any present, and suggested that the nominations be proceeded with first, to find out whether there were any or not.

Mr. Kendry sanctioned this, and stated that nominations for the Legislature would be proceeded with first.

Here a lively tilt occurred between the chairman and Mr. Poussette as to whether the nominations for the Legislature should precede those of the Commons, and as to whether the chairman had the right to dictate in this matter or not. It was finally decided that a vote be taken of the delegates present, to determine which should precede. The chair was sustained in this.

The Nominations

Mr. W. H. Moore then nominated Thomas Evans Bradburn to contest the riding of West Peterborough for the Local House.

Mr. Jas. Ingram, reeve of Harvey, seconded the motion.

There were no other nominees, and Mr. Bradburn was declared the candidate for the Ontario Legislature.

Mr. Bradburn took the platform, and thanked the delegates for the honour conferred on him.

Dominion House

Mr. James Kendry was unanimously nominated, but he declined, saying that he had business engagements, on account of which he found it impossible at this stage to be the nominee.

At the last election he was nominated and was defeated, and he did not want to be defeated again. On account of his business engagements he therefore had to decline the nomination, and asked to be released.

Other nominations were then proceeded with and were as follows:

Lt.-Col. Miller was nominated by Messrs. J W Garvin and Jas. Lynch.

Mr. Harry Phelan was nominated by Mayor Rush and Mr. John Brown of North Monaghan.

Mr. J. Hampden Burnham was nominated by Messrs. R E Layfield and Wm. Gibbs.

Mr. J. W. Garvin was nominated by Messrs. John Nugent and John A. Davidson.

Lt.-Col. Miller retired, and the other three gentlemen ascended the step-ladder to the platform, where they were each given five minutes to address the meeting.

The usual resolutions of confidence in the party leaders were passed.

The scrutineers reported the following vote:—

J. W. Garvin	66
J. H. Burnham	69
Harry Phelan	34

As no candidate received a majority of votes another ballot had to be taken, Mr. Phelan retiring. The second resulted as follows:

J. H. Burnham	96
J. W. Garvin	72

After the candidate had briefly addressed the meeting, accepting the responsibility, the delegates dispersed with the usual cheers.

County Council Receive Request To Join Movement

Mr. W. S. Dodd And Ald. Gillespie Spoke At Yesterday's Session About Proposed Visit of British Dairymen

WILL MOST LIKELY ASSIST

The afternoon session of the County Council met with the warden and all the councillors present. The most important business was a communication from Mr. W. S. Dodd, of the C.P.R. On motion, he was asked to state his request, which was as follows, state his request, which is embodied in the subjoined letter:

W. S. Dodd, Esq.,
Peterborough, Ont.
Toronto, Dec. 26, 1907.

Dear Sir,—

I received the following letter from our general passenger agent, Mr. Stitt:—

"We have advice from our London office that some 60 to 100 members of the British Dairy Association contemplated coming over here in June or July next to visit the principal dairy farming districts of Eastern Canada. Will you kindly give me such information you can regarding the points it will be most desirable for them to visit in order to familiarise themselves with the operation of the butter and cheese industries, also what do you recommend should be done for them in the way of reduced rates and other facilities?

"Will you kindly let me have your recommendation for the proposed visit of the British Dairy Farmers' Association."

Yours truly,
Signed, M. H. BROWN,
G. F. A.

Probable Programme

In explaining his idea of what could be done, Mr. Dodd said he thought this delegation from the Old Country might be entertained for four or five days in this city. It would be an excellent advertisement and would also be of special benefit to this district. One day could be spent in visiting the cheese factories and dairy farms of the district, another might be spent in a trip on the Trent waterway, another in Peterborough, and so on. He mentioned the matter to the County Council as the county would come in for the main share of the benefit.

Ald. Geo. Gillespie referred to the importance of the event and said the city, the county, the Board of Trade and the Cheese Board could unite to make the proposed visit one of unusual importance. The assistance would be monetary, and the other arrangements could be made later.

On motion of Councillors Brazuit and Ingram, the matter was referred to the Finance Committee.

Music and Drama

BURNS—MOIR FIGHT

The programme to be given at the Grand opera house next Tuesday night promises to be of a very interesting character. Besides giving a complete production of the Burns-Moir battle for the heavyweight championship, the American Vitagraph Company will also present a fine programme of coloured moving pictures. This is the first time these have been shown in Canada, and are away above anything in the moving picture line that have ever been offered to the Canadian public. Many of the latest illustrated songs will also be included in the bill.

Suffragettes Out in Force at Opening of Parliament.

BRILLIANT STATE CEREMONY

King Edward Reads Speech From the Throne—Rode Through Streets With Queen Alexandra in Golden Chariot—Heavy Program For Coming Session—Jap Question and Fisheries Dispute Mentioned.

London, Jan. 30.—That most rare event of a London winter, a clear and sunny day, favored the royal procession to Westminster yesterday, where King Edward opened Parliament, with the same ceremonies that have been observed for centuries.

King Edward and Queen Alexandra rode from Buckingham Palace to the Houses of Parliament in a gilded coach of state, drawn by eight white horses. They were attended by the officials of their households in other state carriages and on horseback. The procession was brilliant and beautiful; only the lord mayor's show rivals this royal parade as a spectacle. St. James' Park and White Hall were unusually crowded, and the soldiers who guarded the way had their hands full in keeping the people back.

A thousand officials, including peers, members of the House of Commons, bishops and diplomats, all attired, wherever possible, in robes of state, filled the Chamber of the Lords when a fanfare of trumpets at two o'clock announced the entry of the state procession.

King Edward read the speech from the throne. Queen Alexandra was seated on a chair of state at his right, the Prince and Princess of Wales were on His Majesty's left, and he was surrounded by a group of state officers.

The menace of an outbreak on the part of the woman suffragists of England gave an unusual interest to the formal proceedings. While it was not anticipated that the women would disturb the King, they threatened to make things most interesting for the members of the House of Parliament, particularly if there was no mention of suffrage in the speech from the throne. Greater precautions could not have been taken if an anarchist uprising had been feared.

The only ladies admitted to the galleries of Parliament was those who members vouched for in writing as their wives or relatives, and the police who were on duty around Westminster and throughout the Houses of Parliament were instructed to keep special watch over all women.

Premier Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, whose health is still feeble, was the only Cabinet Minister absent when King Edward ascended the throne.

His Majesty in his speech referred to the visit of the German Emperor, which, he said, could not fail to confirm the friendly relations existing between the two powers; to the death of King Oscar of Sweden, and to the conclusion of the Russian agreement. Acting in the spirit of this agreement, in spite of the complications in Persia, the two Governments had maintained a policy of peace.

"My Government have joined with the Governments of France, Germany and Russia in a treaty for the preservation of the integrity of the Kingdom of Norway. The text of this treaty will be published in due course."

"Negotiations are being conducted with the Government of the United States for an agreement to refer to the international court of arbitration at The Hague, the questions pending between the two Governments which relate to the Newfoundland fisheries. It is hoped that by this friendly procedure a long-standing source of difficulty may be satisfactorily removed.

"The difficulty which had arisen respecting Japanese immigration into Canada have been settled on terms agreed upon between the respective Governments."

His Majesty made reference to the famine in India, and said the stricken people and the British officers there were facing the situation with courage and hope.

In the supplementary speech to the House of Commons, His Majesty announced the bills that are to be brought in. These are the Licensing and Education Acts of England and Wales, a bill regulating the hours of labor in the coal mines, a bill for the housing of the working classes, a bill to amend the system of the valuation of property for taxation in England and Wales, the Irish university bill, and the Irish land purchase bill, and the Scottish land bill which failed at the last session of Parliament.

When the royal procession was returning to Buckingham Palace three well-dressed women suffragists broke through the military cordon and made their way to within a few yards of the King's coach. They were waving strips of paper bearing the words: "Votes for women." These papers were immediately taken from their hands by the police. One of the women fainted, and the other two were removed by force.

Irish Members Active.

After a short adjournment the House of Commons resumed its sitting and proceeded to deal with the business of the session.

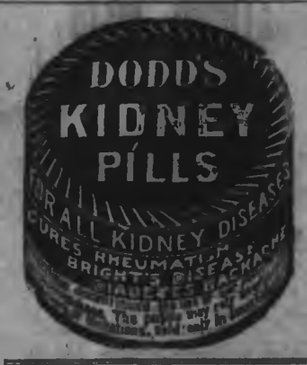
The Nationalists were given an early opportunity to show their activity. The presentation to the House of the notification from the judge who sentenced Laurence Ginnell, Nationalist member for the north division of Westmeath, to six months' imprisonment for contempt of court at a hearing in connection with the cattle driving trials, was received with cries of "Shame" from the Irish members, and brought John E. Redmond, the Irish leader, to his feet. Mr. Redmond moved the appointment of a committee to see if this case demanded further attention from the House. The Speaker, however, ruled the motion out of order.

A Stranger In the House.

Considerable sensation was caused in the House of Lords just prior to the arrival of His Majesty. A man who appeared to be a peer, being duly robed in scarlet and ermine, had his title challenged by the House officials. He had taken a seat on one of the front benches at an early hour. When he was challenged he produced documents and gave the name of Lord DeMorley, who claims to be a peer of the realm.

The officials seemingly were not satisfied, for he was escorted from the House.

The claims of Lord Curzon of Kedleston to be a peer to sit and vote on the part of Ireland in the House of Lords was admitted, and he took the oath and his seat in the House.



PREMIER PETERS DEAD.

Widespread Regret Felt Throughout Island Province.

Charlottetown, P. E. I., Jan. 30.—Premier Peters died here last night. He took ill six weeks ago, developing Bright's disease. Widespread regret is felt throughout the province, where the Premier was very popular on account of his genial, warm-hearted disposition.

His loss on the eve of the last session of the local Legislature preceding a general campaign will be felt by the Liberal party, which he led with signal ability. He has been Premier and Attorney-General since Dec. 20, 1901, and he won the general election by a big majority in 1904.

During his regime the Prohibition Act was put into operation, also a new Road Act, an important amendment to the Assessment Act, the Income Tax Act, and many other acts. Agriculture and education received his strong support, and arrangements were made with Sir William Macdonald whereby the Prince of Wales College was enlarged to give better facilities for the improvement of agriculture and education. He was a forceful debater, a good campaigner and an effective platform speaker.

MAJOR PYM'S EVIDENCE.

Ross Rifle Parts Not Entirely Made In Canada.

Ottawa, Jan. 30.—Major Pym, the Imperial officer who has been acting as inspector of small arms for the Militia Department, was examined by the public accounts committee yesterday. He denied that he had any feelings against the Ross Rifle Co. because he was an Englishman, or for any other reason. He had declined to sign certificates as to 75 per cent. of the cost of the rifles on which payments are advanced by the Government because he could not tell accurately what the labor and material had cost.

Major Pym said that no part of the Ross rifle was made entirely in Canada, but admitted that the British Government imported wood for its rifles, and it also imports its bayonets from abroad.

Will Marry Anyway.

Montreal, Jan. 30.—All efforts to get Archbishop Bruchesi to give a dispensation and allow a mixed marriage between a Catholic lady and a Protestant gentleman, both of whom are very prominent in Montreal society have failed, and a decision has been reached to go out to one of the neighboring dioceses in order that the ceremony may be performed by a priest. Under ordinary circumstances, a dispensation would also be required for this, but the lady's father is the owner of some property in the neighboring diocese and this gives him the right to have the marriage take place.

Eat Cats and Dogs.

Stockholm, Jan. 30.—Serious famine conditions are prevalent in the iron mining district of Northern Lapland. According to a despatch to Dagens Nyheter from Kiruna the inhabitants in the parish of Valpelmina have gone to the extreme of slaughtering dogs and cats for food to prevent starving to death.

BANKS AND FARMERS DISCUSSED

Mr. Pringle Argues For More Government Control.

MOVEMENT OF THE GRAIN

Mr. Foster Opens Discussion in the House of Commons — Motion For Returns—Banking System Severely Criticized—Postoffice Rate of Interest Should Be Higher—Hon. Mr. Fielding's Reply.

Ottawa, Jan. 30.—Canadian banks and Canada's banking law came in for an animated overhauling in the House yesterday. The discussion arose on a motion by Mr. Foster for the correspondence relating to the proposal of the Government last autumn to help the banks financially to facilitate the movement of the western grain crop. The introduction of the banking system as a topic of discussion was quite incidental. Mr. Sproule criticized the extreme conservatism of the chartered banks in the matter of accommodating the farming community. Dr. Barr not only enforced this contention, but attacked the banking system as unsatisfactory. George Taylor quoted official returns in disproof of the argument that the Canadian banks drained the country of its cash for investment abroad. Then came Mr. Pringle of Cornwall with a denunciation of the banks and the banking system of the country, a theme which he would doubtless elaborate when his resolution calling for amendments to the Banking Act comes up for consideration.

Mr. Foster, speaking to the motion for the return of correspondence, alluded to the abnormal crop conditions in the west and the trouble experienced in the marketing last year in the west of grain of the lower quality. He observed that at that time it was said the Government was asked to relieve the situation by temporary financial aid. It was a delicate matter for the Government to interfere in the carrying on of business affairs, and it was doubtful, moreover, whether much good really resulted from the temporary and artificial interference by the Government in matters of this kind. Evidently the Finance Minister had acted, but it was to be regretted he had not taken the House into his confidence in regard to his action and to the medium through which relief was granted. It had been said that prominent political friends of the Government were very active in soliciting this assistance, but it would be deplorable were any financial assistance for the general good to be given through the hands of favorites.

No Party Considerations.

Mr. Fielding had no fault to find with anything Mr. Foster had said, except in reference to possible political favoritism. In this connection he could assure the House there had been no party interest or party consideration in the matter in any shape or form. At a time of financial stringency he had felt it unwise to precipitate discussion of a question associated with the conditions of the banks; therefore, he had refrained from making explanations, and was beholden to honorable gentlemen opposite for their forbearance in this connection. However, a measure would be brought down shortly dealing with the subject, and full explanations would then be fully coming. Dr. Sproule took the opportunity to complain of the extreme vigor of the banks in dealing with the public. The banks, he said, which had been given large powers and privileges were not performing their functions in refusing accommodation at reasonable rates, and on reasonable security. Hence the usefulness of the private bank. The chartered banks were gathering up the people's savings throughout the country and forwarding them to Toronto and Montreal to be invested largely in loans on Wall street. At the time of the financial stringency last year the Canadian banks had $63,000,000 loaned on call in New York, but when it was needed the American banks could not get the cash. The Finance Minister had made a great mistake in reducing the rate of interest in the Postoffice Savings Banks from 3 1-2 to 3 per cent., yet Mr. Fielding had to borrow at 4 1-2 per cent. Mr. Fielding explained that Canadian overdrafts in London bore interest at Bank of England rates, but when the rate went up to 7 per cent. for a few days last year the Government arranged to pay a maximum of only 6 per cent. The rate was now 4 1-2 per cent.

Dr. Sproule criticized the extravagance of the Government and advocated amendments to the Bank Act.

Defended the Banks.

Mr. Schell of Glengarry defended the banks from the charge of hard-heartedness. Mr. Taylor declared that the people of the country had faith in the banks. They did not need to be spoonfed nor was it doing any good for the Finance Minister to pretend that he had come to the assistance of the banks to enable them to move the crops.

Mr. Taylor said that it was when the banks last year saw the extravagant rate at which the Government was spending money that they sent out the warning to "shorten sail." They knew hard times must result when Canada was buying abroad some fifty millions more than she was exporting.

This brought the Minister of Customs to his feet to explain that the returns showing the total exports and imports required analysis before a correct conclusion could be reached as to the actual showing. For instance, there should be deducted from the imports nine million dollars' worth of settlers' effects, which really represented so much wealth brought into the country. Mr. Paterson intimated that he didn't take much stock in the "balance of trade" showing.

"When the hon. Minister sat on the Opposition side of the House and there happened to be an adverse balance of trade, didn't he whoop her up?" asked Mr. Taylor.

Mr. Paterson couldn't recall just all he had said in Opposition, but he would say that the Liberals never attacked an adverse balance of trade without analyzing the returns.

Serve All Alike.

Dr. Barr of Dufferin gave some attention to the proposal of the Government to furnish seed grain to settlers in the Northwest, pointing out that it was the duty of the Government to see that all were served alike in proportion to their needs. He urged that the necessary grain be purchased in Manitoba when there was an abundance available, rather than purchase abroad after having been exported from Manitoba.

Mr. Pringle of Cornwall criticized the silence of the Government upon the negotiations of the Finance Minister with the banks in reference to assisting the grain movement in the west. He thought the Government should have increased the rate of interest in the Postoffice Savings Banks to 4 per cent.

Questions Answered.

A number of questions were answered in the House yesterday.

In reply to Claude Macdonell, the Minister of Militia said a board of officers to enquire into the pay of the militia met at Petawawa in August last. A large number of officers and men were heard, and other meetings would be held in militia centres.

To Mr. Lavergne, the Minister of Customs said the duties on French books amounted to 10 per cent. Under the French treaty this will be cut in two.

Sir Frederick Borden informed Dr. Barr that the Home Guards who did service in the Northwest Territories in 1885 did not have the right to scrip.

Mr. Oliver said, replying to Mr. Lavergne, that the Government had no knowledge that a Japanese syndicate intended acquiring land in Alberta to settle colonists there.

A Warning to Natal.

Pretoria, Jan. 30.—Gen. Smuts, the Colonial Secretary, in a speech on the Asiatic question, warned the Natal Government that if the continued immigration of Indians is permitted the rest of South Africa will have to take firm action and proffer advice to Natal in the strongest terms.

Otherwise, he said, the immigration of Asiatics would soon overrun the whole of South Africa.

Gave His Life For a Woman.

Montreal, Jan. 30.—Walter J. Scott, a G.T.R. brakeman, sacrificed his life to save that of a woman passenger.

A woman got off the train on the wrong side of the car. Scott knew that the Ottawa express was due, and jumped to the rescue, succeeding in throwing her to one side of the tracks but too late to make good his own escape.

Thrown From Horse.

Smith's Falls, Jan. 30.—Calvin Shaw, a resident of Newboro, met with serious, if not fatal injury a few days ago. He was riding through the fields near his home when his horse stumbled and threw him. He fell beneath it and sustained a fracture of the spine, from which it is thought he cannot recover.

I beg to acknowledge the receipt of cheque for $500.00 in full settlement of my loss by fire to Dwelling House at Garden Hill.

I appreciate the fair and liberal treatment which I have received from the Guardian Assurance Company, as well as from yourselves as Agents. It is a pleasure to do business with Agents who take a personal interest in your Insurance when a loss occurs.

Yours respectfully,

(Signed) M. E. FAIR

HAD A STAB-LIKE PAIN THROUGH THE HEART.

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS CURED HER AND SAVED HER LIFE.

There is no one, we imagine, who would deliberately to do injury to the heart, yet in the excitement and excesses of present-day living, the nervous system is done violence to, and the heart and nerves being so intimately bound up with one another, disorganization of the one means disease and disorder of the other.

When you find your heart the least bit out of rhyme, your nerves unhinged, don't wait until you are prostrated on a bed of sickness. Take Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. They'll put you in such condition you'll never know you have a heart, make your brain clear and active, your nerves strong, your blood rich and pure, and your whole being thrill with a new life.

Mrs. John G. Yeamen, Little Rocher, N.B., writes: "I was troubled with a stab-like pain through my heart. I tried many remedies but they seemed to do me more harm than good. I was advised by a friend to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and after using two boxes I was completely cured. I cannot praise them enough for the world of good they did me for I believe they saved my life."

Price 50 cents per box or 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Lakefield Falls An Easy Prey to The Night Hawks

Norwood the Victors by Score Of 6-2 Without Doherty—Lakefield Worked Hard—Winners Played The Combination

STRATHS BEAT KNOCKERS

The City League game last night, between Norwood and Lakefield, was Norwood all the way, the East Peterborough capital team winning easily by 6 goals to 2, leading at half time by 4—1. At that Norwood was without Doherty, their star rover, who was out of the game, owing to an injured arm. Lakefield showed very disappointing form, many of the crowd figuring that the Quinn-Crawford syndicate would about nail the big end of the score, but when time was called they skated off beaten and out of the running for the championship. The ice was very fast but the game failed to correspond, the play for the most part being listless and unsystematic. The teams bunched in going after the puck, making combination an impossibility, while the hard checking stopped to a great extent individual work. A fairly large crowd braved the Arctic weather, and shivered along the side while the two teams went at each other. It was not a good game from the view point of a spectator, and most of the fans were glad when it was over.

What little combination there was in sight, Norwood were guilty of the most of it. Their forward line broke away fast and at times they played clever combination of the two-man kind. Kempt and Scott got off together time after time. The winners made far better use of their opportunities around the nets and were aided by the weak goal keeping of Crawford for Lakefield, who was beaten by several easy shots from away out.

Lakefield, on the other hand, shot wretchedly, while their passing was wild and ill-timed. Often they would get away in a line, only to slam the puck wildly across the rink at an angle, and an opportunity would be thrown away. When they did heave them straight at Huycke, the Norwood goal keeper generally weeded them out with his hands or stick.

For Norwood Kempt was the star. With Doherty off he had even more work than usual, and he did it well. His long rushes were always dangerous, and when Lakefield had the puck he was back at their heels, sticking to Quinn very closely, and the wisdom of tactics was evident. Scott, at right wing, was an able second, carrying the puck very nicely along the boards and centring neatly. Hendren, a new recruit, was effective on the heart side of the rink, the first half, but tired before the game was over. Nicholl played well at point, and Huycke, in goal was a host in himself.

For Lakefield Quinn did the best work, although he was very closely checked by the green shirts, who rightly regarded him as the dangerous man. W. Crawford at left wing, played in better form than at any other time this season, and worked like a beaver all the way, as did Murdoff at cover, who broke up many Norwood rushes. C. Crawford was off-colour in the nets, and several long shots which beat him should have been headed off.

W. E. Wasson refereed and had no trouble in preserving law and order, although a number of penalties were handed out, nearly all to Norwood, who seemed very handy with their sticks in the tripping line.

The teams and summary were as follows:

Lakefield.		Norwood.

Lakefield, Quinn, Murduff. Total, 2.

The Last Game

On account of the lateness of the hour and the gradual dropping of the mercury, the game between the Stratheonas and Knockers was cut short. However, it was fast and worth while seeing, while it lasted. The Straths were travelling strong and won the contest by the score of 5 to 1, with the Knockers knocking at their heels every minute and playing a good game. The line ups of the teams were:

Knockers.		Stratheonas.

Masters L Bennett and Jno Spinks made a hit by composing the following parody on "Alice Where Art Thou Going," and singing it, to the local team at different parts of the game:—

Havelock what are you doing?
Why don't you loosen up?
You'll make a desperate showing
If you don't soon rush the puck.
Your sticks are made for rushing,
Why don't you play the game?
Play the game or change your name,
Madoc team will do the same.
Havelock what are you doing?

An Atrocious Murder.

Bayonne, N. J., Jan. 30.—With a rope around his neck and both hands tied behind his back with a strap, the body of a man was found hanging today from the limb of a tree in an isolated spot on West 39th street, near the Newark River. The body has not yet been identified. The manner in which his hands were tied makes it appear that he was the victim of a particularly atrocious murder. The man was about 45 years of age and apparently was a laborer.

Young Woman Disappears.

St. Catharines, Jan. 30.—Martha Thompson, a domestic employed at the home of Mrs. A. S. Woodruff, Ontario street, disappeared two weeks ago, and diligent search has failed to reveal her whereabouts. The girl was of a quiet nature and her mother is greatly distracted over the mystery of her disappearance.

"Don't Neglect a Cough or Cold."

It can have but one result. It leaves the throat or lungs, or both, affected. Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is the medicine you need. It is without an equal as a remedy for Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Sore Throat, Pain in the Chest, Asthma, Whooping Cough, Quinsy and all affections of the Throat and Lungs.

A single dose of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup will stop the cough, soothe the throat, and if the cough or cold has become settled on the lungs, the healing properties of the Norway Pine Tree will proclaim its great virtue by promptly eradicating the bad effects, and a persistent use of the remedy cannot fail to bring about a complete cure.

Do not be humbugged into buying so-called Norway Pine Syrups, but be sure and insist on having Dr. Wood's. It is put up in a yellow wrapper, three pine trees the trade mark, and price 25 cents.

CHRONIC BRONCHITIS

Mr. Wm. O'Hara, Souris, Man., writes: "Having suffered for a long time with a severe attack of Chronic Bronchitis, which I could not get cured, I eventually tried your Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup and I am glad to state it has given me a complete cure."

SMITH YOUTH ON A LONG VISIT

Delayed Three Days By Snow Drifts While Visiting His Lady-Love

The rather poor condition of the country roads following the recent storms are responsible for many miskept engagements. Here are two:

A young man from Smith township left his home on Sunday to visit a lady friend near Allandale, Otonabee. He expected to return on Sunday evening but he only got back yesterday. A shovel was his only companion home and it had to be used quite frequently.

The other case is reported from Douro where two wedding guests were delayed so long in the drifts that they missed the marriage.

NEW SOCIETY HAS BEEN FORMED

Knox Church Women Separate From St. Paul's

The annual meeting of the combined societies of St. Paul's and Knox church W. A. M. S. was held yesterday in Knox Church school house. The two churches decided to separate and another society known as the Knox church Women's Home Missionary Society was formed. The reports for the year were read and a general discussion on the past work and future plans was taken up.

The women will not only look after the interests of the Home Missions, but also the Foreign. After the general business the following officers were elected—

Mrs. McPherson—President
Mrs. H. J. Keith—Vice President
Mrs. A. McKenzie—2nd Vice President
Mrs. Carruthers—Secretary
Mrs. Allan—Treasurer.

ARNPRIOR OFFER AN INDUSTRY

Board of Trade Considers the Proposition—20 Years Exemption Asked

The following despatch from Arnprior, Ont., shows how the citizens of that town are looking after new industries:

"On behalf of a number of promoters, Mr. Angus McIntosh of Alexandria, appeared before the Board of Trade here last evening, and made a proposition to establish a foundry machine shop to be operated by a company recently organized in Alexandria with $100,000 capital, known as the Malleable Iron Foundry and Machine Company. A shop would be erected, he said, of concrete or cement construction. At least 50 hands would be employed at first, and others added as the business increased.

"The town on the other hand is asked to give twenty years exemption and to guarantee bonds for two-thirds of the amount invested, and provide a convenient site which the company would purchase.

The matter was referred to the council of the board who will present the facts to the meeting of the town council at its first meeting on Feb. 3rd."

MANY SUPPORT THE RELIEF FUND

Donations of Groceries Are Now Being Received

Since last Monday subscriptions to the weekly distribution fund have been coming in to the city relief officer, Mr. Finch Millar. The amounts have ranged from one to one hundred dollars. Two contributions were received to-day of an altogether different nature. Mr. Chas. Brown gave a large donation of meal and rolled oats and St. Paul's church sent a basket heavily laden with cake, cooked meats, pickles, etc. The total amount of money in the Dominion Bank which has been placed to the credit of the relief officer is $195. The cost for each weekly distribution averages between 25 and 30 dollars, and with the amount now in the bank, the fund now subscribed should last a few weeks. Besides the distribution of beef and potatoes next Saturday, a quantity of tea and sugar will also be distributed.

The New York Stock Market

(Furnished by J. R. Heintz & Co.)

New York, Jan. 30.—Moderate fractional declines were the only response at the opening to-day to the unfavourable over-night banking developments. Professionals were inclined to the bear side, but were opposed by pretty good support whenever they attempted to sell the market down. Later in the day as the bears found small success in their efforts to dislodge holdings, short covering was responsible for an upward tendency in which most issues acted well.

It remains to be seen how much real liquidation will be influenced by the unfavourable news that may be expected from time to time. In our opinion the news will be of such a character as to bring about increasingly large offerings of securities on the market. A great deal of attention is being directed to the probable result of the President's message to-morrow and to the drastic terms of which we referred to yesterday.

The market is very likely to prove erratic for some time, but we consider that purchases made on the drive should result in good profits. We would not sell the market short except in the case of a marked advance. Stocks are in good hands, and in our opinion these interests will work for a higher level of prices in the near future.

ATTENDED CONFERENCE IN TORONTO

Rev. H. J. Keith Has Returned—Splendid Conference Held

Rev. H. J. Keith, pastor of Knox Church, Peterborough, has returned from Toronto where he has been attending a conference of the representatives of the various Presbyteries of Ontario.

There were two meetings held, the first for the convenors of Presbyteries and Sunday schools. A discussion took place on the work of Sunday schools and the methods of promoting such work. The second meeting was composed of representatives of the International Adult Bible Class. This meeting was presided over by Mr. E. B. Pearse of Chicago, and among those present was Mr. Hodgson, founder of the Barraca Bible Class, which has now 250,000 members. The at this meeting was on the methods of conducting Bible class work, and several addresses were delivered on the subject.

MEETING OF ST. JOHN'S BROTHERHOOD

St. John's Chapter Will Hold Another "Fellowship Tea"

The regular meeting of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, of St. John's church was held last night in the guild room. The meeting was an open one, and besides a full attendance of the members a large number of strangers were present. The donors of the last fellowship tea agreed to furnish another one on Sunday, March 1, the last tea having been such a success. After the general business the meeting took a social form, during which an excellent programme was rendered.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE VIEWS

Mr. R. J. Todd, The Local Reader Gives Some Interesting Information On Subject

ABOUT REV. MR. ALLAN

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—In last Tuesday's issue of the Examiner appeared an article "Christian Science on the Defence." In connection with this letter I feel that I should say a few words, in behalf of Christian Science Church as well as the Presbyterian which we respect so highly for the good it has done and is still doing. First I wish to say the appeal for fair treatment is not from a member of our church, although we appreciate the kindness very much, and endorse what the writer says about the teaching of Christian Science. We were informed that our esteemed Bro. Pogue at St. Paul's, had indulged in condemnation, we did not intend referring to it. He no doubt thought he was doing God's service.

We try to think of our brethren as being honest, and hold our peace, when being denounced.

However, this case seems like a verifications of our Master's words, "if these were to hold their peace the very stones would cry out." Secondly, I am pleased to know, that our ministers of the (so-called) orthodox faith, are not all of the narrow-minded type; some of them, at least, have been made free, "by the law of the spirit of life in Christ Jesus." Paul. As a proof that some are being set free from the bondage of creeds and dogmas, I will repeat the following very agreeable experience. After reading the announcements of the celebrated Scotch evangelist, Rev. Andrew Allan, of Glasgow holding services in St. Andrew's church, here, I went to hear him, praying as best I knew how, that God would use him and speak through him, to this people. I am glad to say I found in him, what many others have expressed who heard him, a man full of the spirit of truth and love; with a Divine message for his fellow man.

He was told that I had attended the meeting. He called on me, I know not why, it may have been to win me from this dreaded heresy. However, in his private life, as in the pulpit he showed the spirit of Christ within the heart and life. He at once set to work to question me concerning our doctrine and the results in the individual life. Suffice it to say after spending nearly two half days investigating, examining our "Tenets" reading our text book "Science and Health with Key to the Scripture, by Mary B G Eddy," and went over our lesson sermon for last Sunday, subject "Truth," what was his concluding remarks? / Even the following, in substance he said, (and you could easily see and feel with a heart overflowing with Divine love, and sympathy for his brother man): "Bro. Todd what I have got from you is of God, no one need say it is of the devil, and wherever I go I shall meet and accept Christian Scientists as a friend and co-worker in the great cause of the evangelization of the world." I do not mean in any sense to intimate that Rev. Allan accepted Christian Science as his religion, but recognized it as of God and a helper in his great mission work. And while his mission here has been a blessing to myself and I believe to others, I trust that he has not lost anything by coming to Peterborough, but that he may become a greater power for good in the church with which he is identified.

In conclusion I wish to tender our thanks to your correspondent for his sympathy, and kind expression. And to those who do not see eye-to-eye with us, that our text book says: "It ecclesiastical sects or medical schools turn a deaf ear to the teachings of Christian Science, then part from these opponents as did Abraham when he parted from Lot, and say in thy heart: "Let there be no strife, I pray thee, between me and thee, and between my herdsmen and they herdsmen, for we are brethren." Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures, by Mary B G Eddy," page 444.

Thanking you in advance,

Yours sincerely,
R. J. TODD.

Popular Cure for Croup

Anyone who has tested Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, as a cure for croup, will not hesitate to pronounce it an unqualified success. It is wonderfully prompt in relieving the cough, clearing the air passages and soothing the excited nerves. Many mothers who realize the suddenness with which croup comes on keep this great medicine promptly on hand for use in case of emergency.

Annual Meeting of St. Andrew's Church—Reports Of Societies Presented and Officers Elected

HAD A SUCCESSFUL YEAR

The annual meeting of St. Andrew's church was held last night in the school house. There was a large attendance of the congregation and the evening was taken up in the reading of reports and election of officers. The meeting was a very successful one and all the societies and the church's finances were in a flourishing condition. The past board has been very successful in its endeavours and the financial report was highly commented upon.

The meeting opened with prayer by the pastor, Rev. J. G. Potter, who occupied the chair, and the reports of the different societies and the election of officers followed.

Session Report

The session desires on behalf of the congregation to express its gratitude to God for His continued guidance and blessing during the year that has passed. The work in the various departments of church life have been maintained in a most efficient manner, and with the various phases of the church's activities recognized, St. Andrew's church can feel that it is seeking to keep pace with the growing needs of the community and of the world-wide need for the gospel. The communion services have been well attended, and the prayer meetings, while not engaging the attention of our people as they should, have been the source of spiritual strength and blessing to the church. We cannot commend too highly the faithful work of our Sunday school teachers and officers, and would commend this department of our church life to the practical consideration of the people.

There are 563 communicants on the roll, 57 having been added during the year. Twenty-eight have been added by certificate, and 29 more by profession of faith. The session is unanimously in favour of increasing the seating capacity of the church. The excellent services of Mr. Freeland as choirmaster were also recognized.

The session and relief fund receipts amounted to $21.20 and the expenditures to $15.40, leaving a balance of $5.80.

Managers' Report

The following report was read by Mr. T. C. Elliott:

By the report which has been placed in your hands you will see that by careful management we were able to repair the organ at considerable expense and to provide for all the needs of the church and yet to report a surplus over all expenses.

We desire to thank the people for their unvarying courtesy and for their helpful co-operation by which alone we were able to report so successfully.

We beg to recommend to the people that they make a special effort to provide for the ordinary expenses of the church by the ordinary revenues, so that the entire receipts from the property could be set aside for the mission and other benevolent enterprises of the church.

Last July we received from the Nicholls Estate the sum of three thousand dollars, to be used for permanent improvements only.

We made careful inquiry regarding the cost of a gallery; plans have been prepared and the cost thereof calculated. We found that it would cost about $5,000.

We thought it wise not to ask the congregation to spend the $3,000 and incur an additional debt of $2,000 at this time.

Financial Statement

The financial statement showed the total receipts to be $3,537.30 and the expenditures $3,490.27, leaving a surplus of $47.03. The property account showed a net revenue of $601.35. The balance at credit in the Dominion Bank for permanent improvements totalled $3,637.80. The mission statement for 1907 showed a receipt of $1,002.68 and an expenditure of $773.50, leaving a balance in the bank of $228.68.

Ladies' Aid

Mrs. Harper read the report of the Ladies' Aid. The past year had been one of the most successful in the history of the society. The receipts for the year were $274.30 and the expenditures $268.48, leaving a balance of $5.82.

W.F.M.A. Report

This report was presented by Miss Edna B. Sills, secretary of the society. The society has taken up an energetic study of the progress of the gospel in the foreign field. There is a total membership of 42 with an average attendance of 30. The subscription list to "The Tidings" has increased from 150 to 200. The treasurer's report showed a balance of $146.

Mission Band

Miss E. Smith in presenting this report referred to the good work being done by the society. Regular meetings were held on the second Tuesday of each month. The average attendance was 15. The society provides clothing for an Indian girl each year. The band has a substantial balance in the bank.

Christian Endeavour Report

This report was read by Miss E. Mathieson and showed an average attendance of 28. The members have re-organized during the year and have held regular meetings since. The Missionary Committee raised during the year $37.67 for missions, and the treasurer's report showed a balance on hand of $4.61.

Young Men's Guild

Mr. T. Donaldson presented this report. The meetings have been held regularly on the third Tuesday of each month, except July and August, and the attendance was [illegible]. Interesting programmes were arranged for each meeting. During coming months the "History of Presbyterianism," will be taken up.

Junior Guild Report

Rev. Mr. Potter read the report, which showed that the boys were meeting with excellent success. The work was conducted through different committees, devotional, social, educational and athletic. The Guild has paid the sum of $20.00 to the Ladies' Aid Society.

Daughters of Erin

This report was read by Miss Martin and it showed that their endeavours were being made to furnish a room at Pointe Aux Trembles at a cost of $35.00.

Sunday School Report

Mr. F. Kerr presented this very encouraging report. The average attendance in the school was 167 and in the Bible class 15. The receipts were $342.26 and expenditures were $269.41, leaving a balance in the treasury of $72.85. The work of the Sabbath school is conducted in four departments, namely, Bible class, senior school, primary and kindergarten.

Board of Managers

Messrs. Bruce, Fowler, Hunter, T. C. Elliott, F. Pakenham and J. C. Anderson of the old Board resigned and Messrs. Geo. Evans and Geo. Mather remained. The new members elected were Messrs. J. B. Ferguson, J. A. and Alderman George Gillespie for a term of three years, and Mr. Thos. Petrie for a term on one year.

Rev. J. G. Potter and Mr. John McClellan were re-appointed to the Nicholls Hospital Board.

Mr. W. Fowler was re-elected representative to the Charity Board.

The matter of the proposed gallery was taken up for discussion and a number of the members present were of the opinion that the church at present was not in need of a gallery, as the downstairs was not filled. A motion to leave the matter in the hands of the new Board and a congregational meeting to be called at the proper time, met with the unanimous approval of the congregation.

It was recommended that the people make a special effort to provide for the ordinary expenses of the church by the ordinary revenues so that the entire receipts from the Mrs. Nicholls property could be set aside for the mission and other benevolent enterprises of the church.

A vote of thanks to the ladies was moved by Mr. Fowler and Mr. Petrie. It was proposed by Miss King, seconded by Mr. McFarlane that a vote of thanks be tendered to the last Board.

After the business of the evening refreshments were served by the ladies and the meeting closed with the doxology.

Woman's Home Missionary Society

The Elizabeth Bell Auxiliary W. H. M. S., held frequent meetings during the year. For 1908 it has been decided to meet in conjunction with the Congregational Monthly Missionary prayer meeting on the last Wednesday of every month at eight o'clock. The total receipts during the year were $29.25, including a donation from the Ladies' Aid Society. Mrs. T. C. Elliott was made a life member of the society.

President—Mrs. George Kerr.
Secretary—Mrs. George Laing.

HOW TO PROLONG LIFE

Advice of Our Beloved Poet, Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes

If there is one desire most strongly implanted in the human breast than another, as we reach maturer years, that desire is to prolong life. Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes when asked how to live long, replied, "Get a fatal disease and then take care of yourself."

We want to say to the people of Peterborough who are reaching maturer years, if you feel you are not as strong as you used to be you need not get a fatal disease to prolong life, but keep the digestive organs in good condition and the bodily tissues from wasting by taking our delicious cod liver and iron preparation, Vinol.

Vinol is not a patent medicine, but a delicious modern cod liver preparation without oil, made by a scientific, extractive and concentrating process from fresh cods' livers, combining with peptonate-of-iron all the medicinal, healing, body-building elements of cod liver oil, but no oil.

Mr. Joseph Banks of Decatur, Ill., in his seventy-eighth year says that owing to Vinol he feels stronger and younger than he has for many years.
